DRUG HAUL — An unidentified California Highway Patrolman crouches amid clothing, satchels and suitcases — including one in the foreground filled with a quantity of material believed to be marijuana and peyote buttons — found in a car driven by a San Francisco man involved in a one-car accident on Highway 101 today.

Two Sacks Of Narcotics Found In Wrecked Auto

A car that smashed into a divider strip on Highway 101 south of Hetherton Street in San Rafael in a smoky collision at 3 a.m. today was later found to be filled with two sackfuls of suspected peyote buttons, several pounds of marijuana and a variety of pills, according to the California Highway Patrol.

The driver of the car, 23-year-old Danny Lee Downs of San Francisco, was reported in fair condition today in Marin General Hospital with multiple cuts and possible head injuries, according to hospital spokesmen.

Downs was booked in absentia into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs and marijuana for sale. No bail was set.

California Highway Patrolmen Michael D. Walls said Downs apparently fell asleep at the wheel before his car smashed into the highway divider just south of the San Rafael viaduct. Officers pulled the unconscious man out of the car after extinguishing a fire that had enveloped the vehicle's engine, he said.

The car was towed to a San Rafael service station where it was searched after officers saw what appeared to be loose marijuana littering the floorboards. Officers discovered two sacks containing a large quantity of a dried substance believed to be peyote, a pile of loose marijuana and "all different types of capsules, pills and tablets," Walls reported.

Walls said he does not know the street value of the confiscated material.

Breakthrough Promises Safe Treatment For Heroin Addicts

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — A major breakthrough that could lead to a safe chemical treatment for heroin and cocaine addiction has been discovered by two researchers at Johns Hopkins University, the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) said Monday.

A professor and a graduate student have for the first time identified the areas of the brain where opite drugs "attach" themselves to produce their "high," or other mental effects such as killing pain, NIMH said.

The discovery will permit rapid testing of "narcotic antagonist" compounds that can occupy the "receptor sites" and block the effects of heroin or coacine without causing harmful effects, according to the federal scientists. Methadone, currently the most common heroin ubstitute, is toxic and at least as addictive as heroin, most experts believe, although it does not generally cause euphoria in experienced users.

The findings by Dr. Solomon H. Snyder and Ms. Candace B. Pert followed a year of research supported by NIMH and were revealed in a news conference at Johns Hopkins.

Dr. William E. Bunney, Jr., Director of NIMH's Division of Narcotic Addiction and Drug Abuse, called the discovery "a significant step toward understanding how opiates may work in man. These findings in laboratory work will help speed progress on many fronts toward better understanding and clinical treatment of addiction," he added.

The two scientists mixed radioactive drugs with animal brain tissue, then checked how the narcotics bound themselves to the receptors by measuring the radioactivity.

As a result, tests for relatively harmless drugs that can displace the opiates and prevent euphoria and addiction can now be done cheaply and quickly in a test tube, rather than going through the current laborious process with living animals, Dr. Solomon said.

"For the first time, we may learn what causes man to react to opiates," Solomon said. "How it actually effects the brain and how it can be successfully counteracted."

The number of receptors varies greatly among different regions of the brain, but they are particularly abundant in one particular area, the corpus striatum, the researchers said.

The studies could also lead to the discovery of pain-killing drugs that are as effective as opiates such as morphine — but without their addictive qualities, NIMH said.

Now that the sites have been found, more research will be required to determine exactly what molecule is the receptor, according to Ms. Pert.

"It's like the system is a big house and the receptor is one brick in the house," she said. "We don't know what brick it is, but we know we are at the right house."

68 Die In Mid-Air Collision Of Planes

Spanish Airliners Hit In Sky, One Crashes

NANTES, France (UPI) — A Spanish Iberia DC9 jetliner with 68 persons aboard collided in flight with another Spanish airliner high over western France today and crashed in a ball of flames, killing all aboard the DC9, airline authorities said.

The second plane, a Spantax charter Coronado jet flying from Madrid to London made a safe emergency landing at a military field at Cognac, France, and all aboard escaped.

Police and airline authorities said the DC9 jet, headed from Palma de Mallorca, Balearic Islands, to London with 60 adult passengers and one boy plus a crew of seven exploded after the collision and crashed south of Nantes in western France.

"There were no survivors," said Iberia Airline officials in Paris and police authorities here.

French air traffic controllers have been on strike for weeks at the Paris airports and military personnel have been handling airline traffic.

Police said they could offer no explanation how two airliners apparently flying in the same direction hit each other.

It was the second plane crash incident of the day involving three Spanish airline planes.

Earlier today, a twin-engined Caravelle of the Spanish Aviaco line crashed into the sea off the Atlantic island of Madeira with three crewmen but no passengers aboard.

French police reported the collision between the Iberia and Spantax plane occurred in clear weather with excellent visibility and in a region not especially noted for air turbulence.

The Iberia jet was on a scheduled flight from Las Palmas to London, the Spantax Coronado on a charter flight from Madrid to London. The two flight paths are identical between northern Spain and London, aviation sources said in Madrid.

Iberia said in a communique two days ago its operations had been heavily affected by the strike of French air controllers in the past days. Numerous flights were canceled and others rerouted, Iberia said.

Spantax lost a Corvair 990 Coronado in Spain's worst air disaster three months ago. A total of 155 persons was killed when the jet reportedly flipped over in strong crosswinds as it took off from the Santa Cruz, Canary Island, airport and nose-dived into the ground.

Spantax is a family business run by a father and two sons, all of them former pilots.

34 More POWs Reach Philippines

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — A group of 34 prisoners of war — including 30 Americans and the only known female POW to survive the Vietnam war — flew to freedom today, marking the halfway point in the attempt to get all Americans out of Communist prisons by the end of the month.

In one of the most emotional welcomings since Operation Homecoming began last month, the families of two Filipino POWs who had been captured while working for the Voice of America swarmed over the men, hugging and kissing them.

In addition to the Filipinos, the latest group consisted of 27 U.S. sevicemen, three American civilians and two West Germans, including nurse Monika Schwinn, the only known female held by the Communists. They had been held by the Viet Cong but were taken to Hanoi for their release.

The U.S. prisoners released today, plus the 106 who arrived at Clark Air Base in the Philippines Sunday, brought to 299 the number of Americans released so far. Under the cease-fire agreement of Jan. 27, all must be released within 60 days of the signing. Another 292 POWs were still being held by the Communists.

Miss Schwinn, carrying a gift as she got off the ambulance plane, wore a serious expression as she was greeted by the officials but broke into a smile when she boarded a bus for the military hospital.

Army Capt. Stephen Leopold, 28, whose parents live in Milwaukee, Wis., was the first man off the hospital plane today. Looking pale, thin and slightly stooped, Leopold walked deliberately to the microphone at the bottom of the ramp.

The captain, captured in a firefight in the Central Highland's province of Kontum May 9, 1968, spoke, his voice breaking and charged with emotion.

"On behalf of the men aboard this plane, I wish to thank the people of the United States and the government of the United States for securing our release today," said Leopold, who was captured May 9, 1968.

"I was told on the plane that I might make a short speech. The first thing I thought of was to add up the years of captivity that the men in this group had served. I stopped counting at 150. It's over that. A 150 years for 34 people is a long time. But there is no sorrow in this group today, none whatsoever.

"I think right now this is the happiest group of men in the U.S. or anywhere else in the world."

The crowd of 300 gave its loudest cheers to Miss Schwinn and Sgt. Bill Baird, 23, whose father lives in Wooster, Ohio. Baird appeared at the plane door on wooden crutches and painfully worked his way down to the bottom of the ramp, aided by two Air Force attendants. Slumped over his

POW Delay Seen In New Red Walkout

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist delegates, angered by a deadlock on the exchange of Vietnamese prisoners, walked out of a Joint Military Commission (JMC) meeting today and a North Vietnamese official warned the action could delay the next release of American POWs.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates left before the meeting was adjourned because they said they felt the week-old problem has "paralyzed" the four-power commission. Communist spokesmen said the Viet Cong would boycott future meetings until some settlement is reached on the number of Vietnamese prisoners to be set free.

"The present situation has paralyzed the operation of the JMC and is a threat to all future facets of the work of the JMC," North Vietnamese spokesman Lt. Col. Bui Tin told UPI. "We will live up to the promises we have made but we also demand that the other side live up to its promises."

Asked if the deadlock threatened the next release of Americans scheduled for about March 13, Tin replied, "The attitude of the RVN (South Vietnam) interfered with the work of the JMC and of course it will have an

Terrorist Execution Promised

KHARTOUM (UPI) — Sudanese officials told American diplomats today that the Black September Palestinian guerillas who murdered two American and one Belgian diplomat in the Saudi Arabian Embassy on Friday face execution for their deeds.

American sources said Sudanese officials who were at Khartoum airport to see the bodies of the two Americans flown back to the United States with their families approached U.S. diplomats and told them, "They will be executed."

The State Department said the bodies of Ambassador Cleo A. Noel, 54, and deputy chief of mission George Curtis Moore, 47, would arrive at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington late today and that they would be buried in Arlington National Cemetery. Both were World War II veterans.

The wives of the two men, holding back their tears, went down the long line of diplomats and embassy staff shaking hands and saying goodbye.

Mrs. Moore stopped to embrace each of the four U.S. Marine guards in dress blue uniforms who guarded the coffins.

The eight guerrillas beat, kicked and then killed with bursts of machinegun fire the two Americans and the Belgian charge d'Affaires, Guy Eid, after shooting their way into the Saudi Arabian Embassy Thursday night and taking five hostages.

Bus Drivers Approve New Pact

Golden Gate Transit bus drivers have approved a new contract that should assure labor peace at least until its expiration at the end of March next year.

Drivers voted 193-13 to approve the contract, with 38 ballots not returned for today's tally, reported William E. Riker, industrial relations adviser for the Golden Gate Bridge District.

The contract will go before bridge directors for their ratification at 10 a.m. on Friday in toll plaza offices.

District officials had negotiated for six months with the Amalgamated Transit Union on the contract, which will raise the base pay rate from the present $5.30 an hour to $5.50 by next January. The contract also makes some changes in working conditions and fringe benefits.

Its cost still is being computed, Riker said.

Drivers turned down a previous contract offer in January that would have given them a 12-cent pay hike. They then authorized their union negotiators to call a strike if negotiations failed again.

LOST FOR NIGHT

Blizzard Traps 2 Marin Boys

By MARY LEYDECKER

Two young skiers from Lucas Valley with no previous survival training survived a night in a Sierra blizzard by using the only materials they had — skis and pine boughs — to build a shelter.

"We were mostly hungry," 11-year-old Gary Goodman said, when he and his friend Peter Rosenberg, 10, were found yesterday morning by a ski patrol member about a mile from Mount Reba ski lodge.

Gray told the story of his and his friend's misadventure as he rested in pajamas today in his home at 4 Mount Diablo Court.

He and Peter were among some 400 yousgers who went on a one-day outing Saturday to Bear Valley. Sunny skies had been predicted, but instead it begn to snow midday.

The two boys, at Bear Valley for the first time, met in the lodge and decided to take a lift up a hill, Gary said, but when they got to the top, it was snowing heavily and they agreed to take another trail down.

"We had gone pretty far and after a while, we knew we were getting lost," Gary said. They continued downhill, though, "getting more lost in a forest."

Gary said he figured it was about 2:30 p.m. when he and Peter started down the hill, and as the storm grew worse and it began getting dark, the boys decided to set up a shelter for the night.

"We had four skis and we put them up against a tree," he said. Then the youngsters piled branches on top of the skis.

"It was pretty cold," even with the shelter, Gary said, and "we couldn't sleep at all." The shelter "didn't work too good after it started raining."

"We just kept talking about what we'd do," during the night, he said.

"We tried to keep each other warm," but in the early morning, the boys bundled their skis together and started to walk in what Peter thought was the direction of the lodge.

"I thought it was the other way, but went the way Peter said," Gary added.

After it became light, the boys "started yelling, 'help,' but no one heard us," he continued.

After a helicopter, "which didn't see us, I guess," went overhead, the boys stamped "help" in the snow with their boots.

San Rafael Man Drowns On China Camp Outing

A 35-year-old San Rafael man drowned yesterday while on an outing at China Camp with his wife, Marin County sheriff's deputies reported today.

The body of Gale Merlin Porter, of 100 Bay Vista Way, Apt. 18, was found face-down in the water shortly after 4 p.m., by Frank Fielder, also of San Rafael. Porter was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital at 4:48 p.m.

Porter's wife, Irene, said her husband had been taking a walk, and she was unaware anything was wrong until she saw a crowd gathered around her husband's body.

The funeral is pending at Keaton's Mortuary.

DRUG HAUL — An unidentified California Highway Patrolman crouches amid clothing, satchels and suitcases — including one in the foreground filled with a quantity of material believed to be marijuana and peyote buttons — found in a car driven by a San Francisco man involved in a one-car accident on Highway 101 today.

Two Sacks Of Narcotics Found In Wrecked Auto

A car that smashed into a divider strip on Highway 101 south of Hetherton Street in San Rafael in a smoky collision at 3 a.m. today was later found to be filled with two sackfuls of suspected peyote buttons, several pounds of marijuana and a variety of pills, according to the California Highway Patrol.

The driver of the car, 23-year-old Danny Lee Downs of San Francisco, was reported in fair condition today in Marin General Hospital with multiple cuts and possible head injuries, according to hospital spokesmen.

Downs was booked in absentia into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs and marijuana for sale. No bail was set.

California Highway Patrolmen Michael D. Walls said Downs apparently fell asleep at the wheel before his car smashed into the highway divider just south of the San Rafael viaduct. Officers pulled the unconscious man out of the car after extinguishing a fire that had enveloped the vehicle's engine, he said.

The car was towed to a San Rafael service station where it was searched after officers saw what appeared to be loose marijuana littering the floorboards. Officers discovered two sacks containing a large quantity of a dried substance believed to be peyote, a pile of loose marijuana and "all different types of capsules, pills and tablets," Walls reported.

Walls said he does not know the street value of the confiscated material.

Breakthrough Promises Safe Treatment For Heroin Addicts

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — A major breakthrough that could lead to a safe chemical treatment for heroin and cocaine addiction has been discovered by two researchers at Johns Hopkins University, the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) said Monday.

A professor and a graduate student have for the first time identified the areas of the brain where opite drugs "attach" themselves to produce their "high," or other mental effects such as killing pain, NIMH said.

The discovery will permit rapid testing of "narcotic antagonist" compounds that can occupy the "receptor sites" and block the effects of heroin or coacine without causing harmful effects, according to the federal scientists. Methadone, currently the most common heroin ubstitute, is toxic and at least as addictive as heroin, most experts believe, although it does not generally cause euphoria in experienced users.

The findings by Dr. Solomon H. Snyder and Ms. Candace B. Pert followed a year of research supported by NIMH and were revealed in a news conference at Johns Hopkins.

Dr. William E. Bunney, Jr., Director of NIMH's Division of Narcotic Addiction and Drug Abuse, called the discovery "a significant step toward understanding how opiates may work in man. These findings in laboratory work will help speed progress on many fronts toward better understanding and clinical treatment of addiction," he added.

The two scientists mixed radioactive drugs with animal brain tissue, then checked how the narcotics bound themselves to the receptors by measuring the radioactivity.

As a result, tests for relatively harmless drugs that can displace the opiates and prevent euphoria and addiction can now be done cheaply and quickly in a test tube, rather than going through the current laborious process with living animals, Dr. Solomon said.

"For the first time, we may learn what causes man to react to opiates," Solomon said. "How it actually effects the brain and how it can be successfully counteracted."

The number of receptors varies greatly among different regions of the brain, but they are particularly abundant in one particular area, the corpus striatum, the researchers said.

The studies could also lead to the discovery of pain-killing drugs that are as effective as opiates such as morphine — but without their addictive qualities, NIMH said.

Now that the sites have been found, more research will be required to determine exactly what molecule is the receptor, according to Ms. Pert.

"It's like the system is a big house and the receptor is one brick in the house," she said. "We don't know what brick it is, but we know we are at the right house."

68 Die In Mid-Air Collision Of Planes

Spanish Airliners Hit In Sky, One Crashes

NANTES, France (UPI) — A Spanish Iberia DC9 jetliner with 68 persons aboard collided in flight with another Spanish airliner high over western France today and crashed in a ball of flames, killing all aboard the DC9, airline authorities said.

The second plane, a Spantax charter Coronado jet flying from Madrid to London made a safe emergency landing at a military field at Cognac, France, and all aboard escaped.

Police and airline authorities said the DC9 jet, headed from Palma de Mallorca, Balearic Islands, to London with 60 adult passengers and one boy plus a crew of seven exploded after the collision and crashed south of Nantes in western France.

"There were no survivors," said Iberia Airline officials in Paris and police authorities here.

French air traffic controllers have been on strike for weeks at the Paris airports and military personnel have been handling airline traffic.

Police said they could offer no explanation how two airliners apparently flying in the same direction hit each other.

It was the second plane crash incident of the day involving three Spanish airline planes.

Earlier today, a twin-engined Caravelle of the Spanish Aviaco line crashed into the sea off the Atlantic island of Madeira with three crewmen but no passengers aboard.

French police reported the collision between the Iberia and Spantax plane occurred in clear weather with excellent visibility and in a region not especially noted for air turbulence.

The Iberia jet was on a scheduled flight from Las Palmas to London, the Spantax Coronado on a charter flight from Madrid to London. The two flight paths are identical between northern Spain and London, aviation sources said in Madrid.

Iberia said in a communique two days ago its operations had been heavily affected by the strike of French air controllers in the past days. Numerous flights were canceled and others rerouted, Iberia said.

Spantax lost a Corvair 990 Coronado in Spain's worst air disaster three months ago. A total of 155 persons was killed when the jet reportedly flipped over in strong crosswinds as it took off from the Santa Cruz, Canary Island, airport and nose-dived into the ground.

Spantax is a family business run by a father and two sons, all of them former pilots.

34 More POWs Reach Philippines

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — A group of 34 prisoners of war — including 30 Americans and the only known female POW to survive the Vietnam war — flew to freedom today, marking the halfway point in the attempt to get all Americans out of Communist prisons by the end of the month.

In one of the most emotional welcomings since Operation Homecoming began last month, the families of two Filipino POWs who had been captured while working for the Voice of America swarmed over the men, hugging and kissing them.

In addition to the Filipinos, the latest group consisted of 27 U.S. sevicemen, three American civilians and two West Germans, including nurse Monika Schwinn, the only known female held by the Communists. They had been held by the Viet Cong but were taken to Hanoi for their release.

The U.S. prisoners released today, plus the 106 who arrived at Clark Air Base in the Philippines Sunday, brought to 299 the number of Americans released so far. Under the cease-fire agreement of Jan. 27, all must be released within 60 days of the signing. Another 292 POWs were still being held by the Communists.

Miss Schwinn, carrying a gift as she got off the ambulance plane, wore a serious expression as she was greeted by the officials but broke into a smile when she boarded a bus for the military hospital.

Army Capt. Stephen Leopold, 28, whose parents live in Milwaukee, Wis., was the first man off the hospital plane today. Looking pale, thin and slightly stooped, Leopold walked deliberately to the microphone at the bottom of the ramp.

The captain, captured in a firefight in the Central Highland's province of Kontum May 9, 1968, spoke, his voice breaking and charged with emotion.

"On behalf of the men aboard this plane, I wish to thank the people of the United States and the government of the United States for securing our release today," said Leopold, who was captured May 9, 1968.

"I was told on the plane that I might make a short speech. The first thing I thought of was to add up the years of captivity that the men in this group had served. I stopped counting at 150. It's over that. A 150 years for 34 people is a long time. But there is no sorrow in this group today, none whatsoever.

"I think right now this is the happiest group of men in the U.S. or anywhere else in the world."

The crowd of 300 gave its loudest cheers to Miss Schwinn and Sgt. Bill Baird, 23, whose father lives in Wooster, Ohio. Baird appeared at the plane door on wooden crutches and painfully worked his way down to the bottom of the ramp, aided by two Air Force attendants. Slumped over his

POW Delay Seen In New Red Walkout

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist delegates, angered by a deadlock on the exchange of Vietnamese prisoners, walked out of a Joint Military Commission (JMC) meeting today and a North Vietnamese official warned the action could delay the next release of American POWs.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates left before the meeting was adjourned because they said they felt the week-old problem has "paralyzed" the four-power commission. Communist spokesmen said the Viet Cong would boycott future meetings until some settlement is reached on the number of Vietnamese prisoners to be set free.

"The present situation has paralyzed the operation of the JMC and is a threat to all future facets of the work of the JMC," North Vietnamese spokesman Lt. Col. Bui Tin told UPI. "We will live up to the promises we have made but we also demand that the other side live up to its promises."

Asked if the deadlock threatened the next release of Americans scheduled for about March 13, Tin replied, "The attitude of the RVN (South Vietnam) interfered with the work of the JMC and of course it will have an

Terrorist Execution Promised

KHARTOUM (UPI) — Sudanese officials told American diplomats today that the Black September Palestinian guerillas who murdered two American and one Belgian diplomat in the Saudi Arabian Embassy on Friday face execution for their deeds.

American sources said Sudanese officials who were at Khartoum airport to see the bodies of the two Americans flown back to the United States with their families approached U.S. diplomats and told them, "They will be executed."

The State Department said the bodies of Ambassador Cleo A. Noel, 54, and deputy chief of mission George Curtis Moore, 47, would arrive at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington late today and that they would be buried in Arlington National Cemetery. Both were World War II veterans.

The wives of the two men, holding back their tears, went down the long line of diplomats and embassy staff shaking hands and saying goodbye.

Mrs. Moore stopped to embrace each of the four U.S. Marine guards in dress blue uniforms who guarded the coffins.

The eight guerrillas beat, kicked and then killed with bursts of machinegun fire the two Americans and the Belgian charge d'Affaires, Guy Eid, after shooting their way into the Saudi Arabian Embassy Thursday night and taking five hostages.

Bus Drivers Approve New Pact

Golden Gate Transit bus drivers have approved a new contract that should assure labor peace at least until its expiration at the end of March next year.

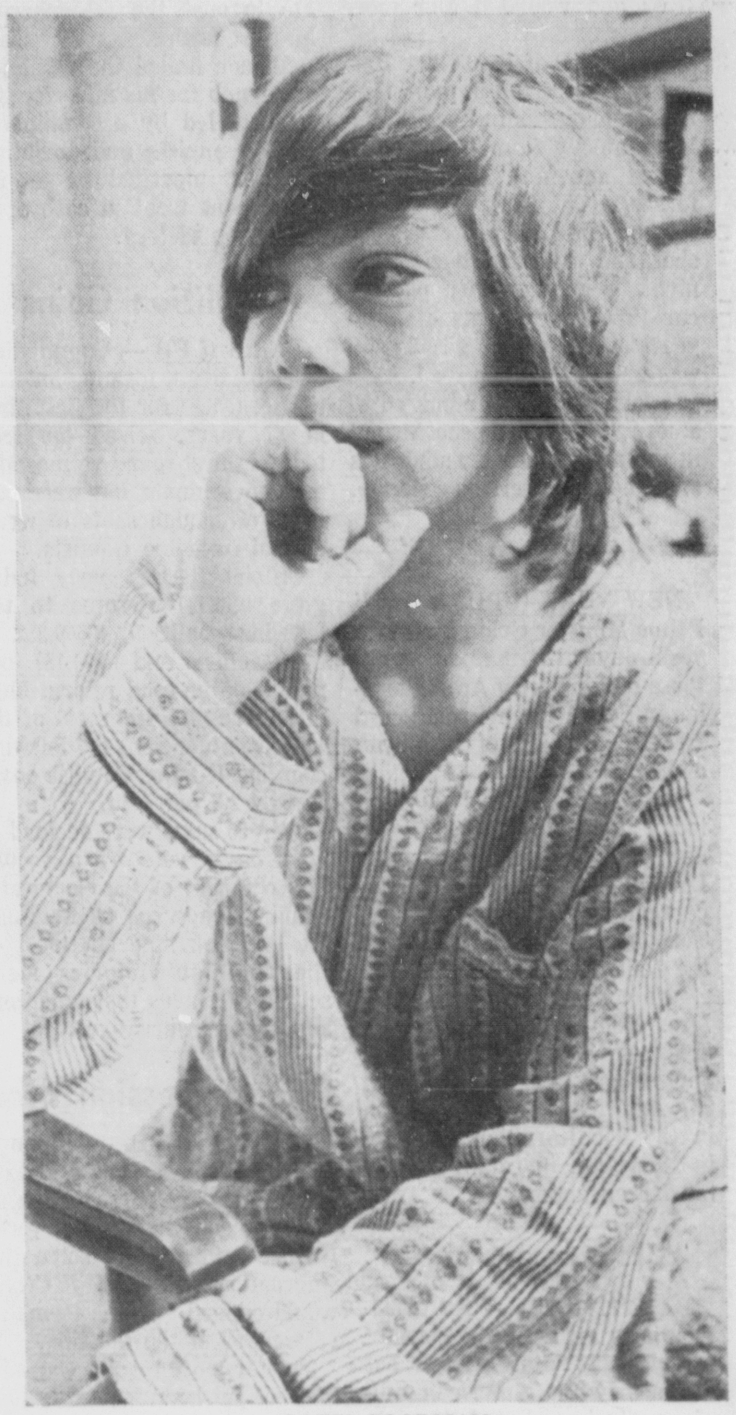
Drivers voted 193-13 to approve the contract, with 38 ballots not returned for today's tally, reported William E. Riker, industrial relations adviser for the Golden Gate Bridge District.

The contract will go before bridge directors for their ratification at 10 a.m. on Friday in toll plaza offices.

District officials had negotiated for six months with the Amalgamated Transit Union on the contract, which will raise the base pay rate from the present $5.30 an hour to $5.50 by next January. The contract also makes some changes in working conditions and fringe benefits.

Its cost still is being computed, Riker said.

Drivers turned down a previous contract offer in January that would have given them a 12-cent pay hike. They then authorized their union negotiators to call a strike if negotiations failed again.



GARY GOODMAN
"Pretty scary" night in blizzard

LOST FOR NIGHT

Blizzard Traps 2 Marin Boys

By MARY LEYDECKER

Two young skiers from Lucas Valley with no previous survival training survived a night in a Sierra blizzard by using the only materials they had — skis and pine boughs — to build a shelter.

"We were mostly hungry," 11-year-old Gary Goodman said, when he and his friend Peter Rosenberg, 10, were found yesterday morning by a ski patrol member about a mile from Mount Reba ski lodge.

Gray told the story of his and his friend's misadventure as he rested in pajamas today in his home at 4 Mount Diablo Court.

He and Peter were among some 400 younsgers who went on a one-day outing Saturday to Bear Valley. Sunny skies had been predicted, but instead it begn to snow midday.

The two boys, at Bear Valley for the first time, met in the lodge and decided to take a lift up a hill, Gary said, but when they got to the top, it was snowing heavily and they agreed to take another trail down.

"We had gone pretty far and after a while, we knew we were getting lost," Gary said. They continued downhill, though, "getting more lost in a forest."

Gary said he figured it was about 2:30 p.m. when he and Peter started down the hill, and as the storm grew worse and it began getting dark, the boys decided to set up a shelter for the night.

"We had four skis and we put them up against a tree," he said. Then the youngsters piled branches on top of the skis.

"It was pretty cold," even with the shelter, Gary said, and "we couldn't sleep at all." The shelter "didn't work too good after it started raining."

"We just kept talking about what we'd do," during the night, he said.

"We tried to keep each other warm," but in the early morning, the boys bundled their skis together and started to walk in what Peter thought was the direction of the lodge.

"I thought it was the other way, but went the way Peter said," Gary added.

After it became light, the boys "started yelling, 'help,' but no one heard us," he continued.

After a helicopter, "which didn't see us, I guess," went overhead, the boys stamped "help" in the snow with their boots.

In the meantime, they had

San Rafael Man Drowns On China Camp Outing

A 35-year-old San Rafael man drowned yesterday while on an outing at China Camp with his wife, Marin County sheriff's deputies reported today.

The body of Gale Merlin Porter, of 100 Bay Vista Way, Apt. 18, was found face-down in the water shortly after 4 p.m., by Frank Fielder, also of San Rafael. Porter was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital at 4:48 p.m.

Porter's wife, Irene, said her husband had been taking a walk, and she was unaware anything was wrong until she saw a crowd gathered around her husband's body.

The funeral is pending at Keaton's Mortuary.

Soldier Dies

BELFAST (UPI) — A 19-year-old British soldier beaten and shot when a mob attacked an army patrol died early today, the latest victim of a weekend of violence that claimed five lives and wounded four more persons.

The death of Pvt. Gary Barlow raised the toll in more than three-and-one-half years of violence among Roman Catholics, Protestants and the security forces to 740 dead.

Two other teen-agers were shot and wounded during the night. A gunman in a passing car fired four bullets at a 14-year-old Protestant girl as she was walking along a road. A 16-year-old youth was admitted to a hospital with a gunshot wound in the abdomen and authorities said he was in serious conditon.

'No Connection'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said yesterday that the killings of three diplomats by Arab guerillas in Sudan had no relation to Israel's downing of a Libyan airliner.

Mrs. Meir was in New York today to address the United Jewish appeal in the evening. Last night, she attended a reception at the home of Yosef Tekoah, Israeli ambassador to the United Nations.

"No connection whatsoever," Mrs. Meir said when asked if she believed that the Black September group had murdered two Americans and one Belgian in the Saudi-Arabian embassy in Khartoum in retaliation for the Israeli action.

All Safe In Blast

BEIRUT (UPI) — An explosion blew a hole in the stern of a cruise ship Saturday night but the nearly 250 American religious pilgrims aboard the sinking vessel escaped unharmed, officials said yesterday.

There was some panic among the passengers after the blast in Beirut Harbor, the officials said, but all were safely taken ashore and spent the night in three hotels.

They boarded a chartered flight yesterday for Cyprus, where the Middle East religious tour began. Some of the passengers arrived in Nicosia dressed only in pajamas and overcoats. They declined to talk to reporters.

Opposition Gains

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Opposition parties gained in a critical election for President Salvador Allende yesterday, but failed to pick up enough seats in the Chamber of Deputies and Senate to oust the self-described Marxist leader.

Allende hailed the results as a triumph for his minority government led by a combination of Communists and Socialists. He was imperiled by an impeachment treat in case of an opposition victory.

Coalition Gains

PARIS (UPI) — Communists and Socialists, forming an election coalition for the first time in 37 years, seized the lead today in first-round voting for a new government but were still short of enough seats to wrest control from the Gaulists.

Official figures early today gave 9,081,142 votes to the leftwing coalition, 8,569,332 to the Gaullists and 1,374,187 to a middle-of-the-road reform bloc.

With results from 446 of the 490 constituencies, the leftwing coalition led the Gaullist coalition by 2.3 per cent.

Only 55 seats were decided in yesterday's vote by a record 81.2 per cent of the electorate. Gaullists captured 44 seats and the left took nine but most of the Gaullist victories were scored in places that traditionally vote conservative.

Finance Session Eyed

OTTAWA (UPI) — Finance Minister John Turner said last night Canadian participation in an emergency meeting of world finance ministers to solve the International Monetary Crisis would depend "on the terms of reference" of the meeting.

Turner noted that Canada had not yet been invited to join the meeting of finance ministers of the European Common Market and other industrial nations to be held Friday in Paris.

Common market sources said the invitations would go out Monday to the "most important industrial nations." Officials said this meant Canada, the United States, Japan and Sweden — all members of the "group of 10" and probably also Switzerland.

Envoys Burials Due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The two American diplomats murdered in the Sudan will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The State Department said the bodies of Ambassador Cleo A. Noel and Deputy Chief of Mission George Curtis Moore were to arrive at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington late today.

President Nixon ordered one of the jets in the presidential fleet to the Sudan to bring the bodies back to the United States. The families of Noel and Moore accompanied the bodies on the flight.

The State Department said Noel, 54, and Moore, 47, would be buried at Arlington because both were veterans of World War II.

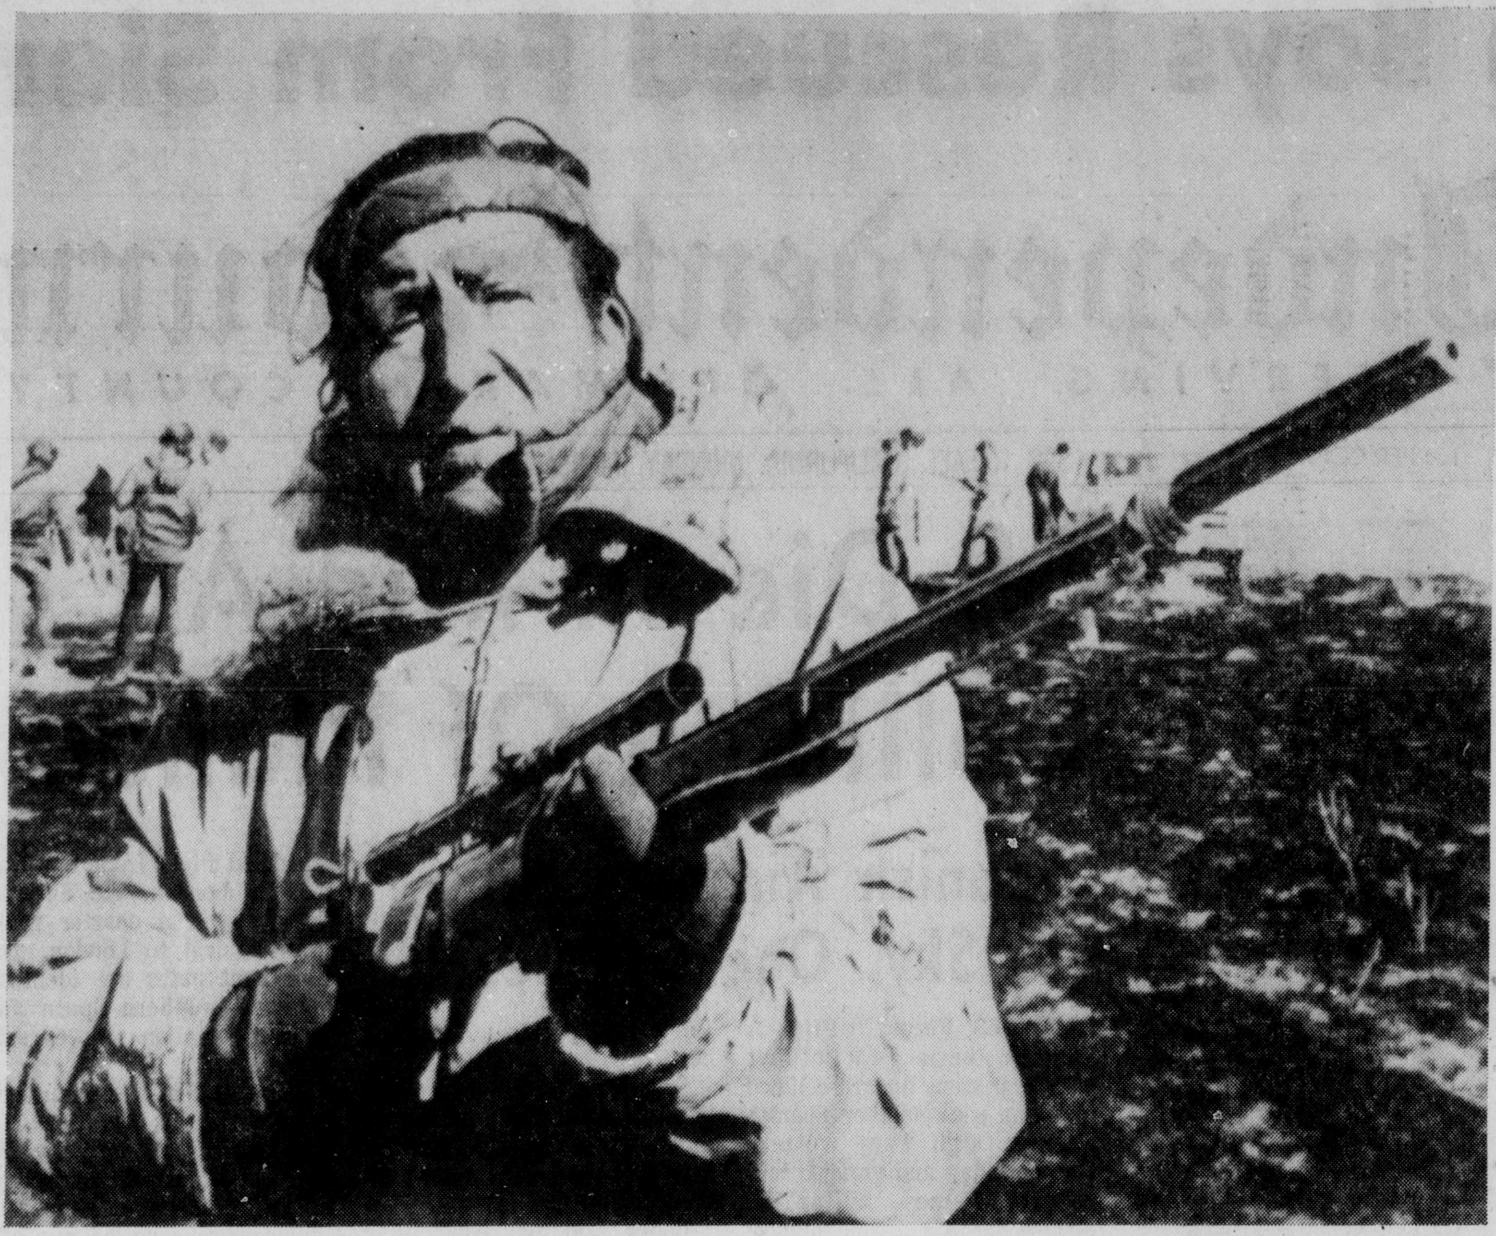
WASHINGTON (UPI) — John A. Scali, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and Denise St. Germain, a former employee of the Central Intelligence Agency, were married yesterday in a civil ceremony at Spring Valley, Md.



MAN AND RIFLE — Oscar Running Bear, a member of the American Indian Movement, strikes a classic pose as he stands with his rifle at Wounded Knee, S.D., on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation. Indians Reject Amnesty Offer

WOUNDED KNEE, S. D. (UPI) — Leaders of the American Indian Movement who last Tuesday seized this little hamlet to enforce their drive for federal investigations into an alleged national betrayal of Indians today turned down a government offer of terms to end their seizure.

Heavy snow fell in the area of Wounded Knee, where a force of about 200 Indians under AIM leadership holds the hamlet, and a force of federal marshals and others maintain strict watch at roads leading into the area.

The Department of Justice had said Sunday night that all Indians in the siege force could come out of Wounded Knee and leave, if they left their weapons and their names with federal authorities. Ralph Erickson, special assistant to the attorney general, said charges might be lodged against the AIM leaders after a federal grand jury investigation.

"That's history repeating itself," said Russel Means, one of the AIM leaders. "That's asking the FBI to convict us. This is the way they disarmed (chief) Big Foot 83 years ago in the Wounded Knee massacre."

He referred to the slayings of 200 or more Indians, many of them women and children, by U.S. Cavalry in an engagement at the Wounded Knee area, part of the Oglala Sioux reservation.

Means said that the AIM leadership will stick to a series of eight demands made public Sunday, including the ouster of Oglala tribal council president Dick Wilson and the bringing of a magistrate to Wounded Knee to hear charges against the Indians.

These stipulations were in addition to three principal demands which the AIM leadership voiced at time of the Wounded Knee seizure. These included Senate committee investigations of treaties between the United States and the Indians and an investigation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

The AIM legal force, including attorney William Kunstler, met today to discuss what they said were plans of action in case the federal government moved in against the besieging Indians.

In Wounded Knee, the atmosphere was noticeably more tense than in the past few days. Newsmen able to reach the hamlet found armed sentries turning back reporters in the area of the Sacred Heart Catholic church where many of the AIM force are staying.

Also in the morning meeting at which the rejection was disclosed were Roman Roubideaux, a Rapid City, S. D. attorney, a Sioux; John Echo Hawk and Roy Haber, attorneys from Boulder, Colo.

The thrust of their conversation was that the AIM will stay in the village until all their demands are met, in the belief that government forces will not come into the village shooting. They speculated, however, that federal leadership might try to use tear gas.

Some of the AIM group expressed concern that Wilson — whose leadership of the Oglala is challenged by members of the AIM—might "do something." Wilson at one point said his own followers, 800 strong, might move on Wounded Knee. He scoffed at the Sunday offer to "those knuckleheads" at Wounded Knee.

Director Arrives

TAIPEI (AP) — David M. Kennedy, U.S. ambassador-at-large, arrived here yesterday for talks with government officials and business leaders on trade between Formosa and the United States.

Union Militants Push General English Strike

LONDON (UPI) — Trade union militants today forced their leaders to consider a general strike to protest the four-month-old government wage freeze. It would be the first general strike in 46 years.

The union threat came as the wave of scattered protest strikes, hitting hardest at hospitals and homes heated by gas, went into its second week.

The militants, led by the mine workers, overturned a ruling by leaders of the Trade Union Congress (TUC), the country's overall grouping of labor unions, at a special meeting.

The TUC's general council had ruled the 1,000 delegates must merely vote "yes" or "no" on the council's 44-page union plan for beating inflation.

But Joe Gormley, president of the Mine Workers' Union and a leader of those agitating for an total general strike, succeeded in referring the document back to committee. The general council, surprised, adjourned the congress session for more than an hour to decide what to do.

Gormley and other militants believe the trade union movement is being too soft in battling the government's freeze on wages. But already the old, the ill and the lonely were being directly hit by unions' partial strikes.

Crucial Vote Set For Senate Seat

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The political balance of the state Senate could be decided Tuesday by a special primary election in a so-called "safe" Republican district here.

A GOP win would deadlock the parties at 20-20 in the chamber while an upset Democratic victory would give the Democrats a 21-19 advantage.

Assemblyman John Stull, R-Leucadia, has several advantages over his six opponents, including endorsements by President Nixon, Gov. Ronald Reagan and key county Republicans.

However, he would need more than half the vote in a district with a registration 49 per cent Republican and 43 per cent Democratic to win the seat in the primary.

If no candidate wins a majority, a runoff would be held April 3.

The special 38th district election was called to fill the vacancy left by Rep. Clair W. Burgener, R-Rancho Sante Fe, who left the Senate to become a congressman.

Besides Stull, the candidates are:

—Melvin Crain, 51, an El Cajon Democrat and political science professor. He was endorsed by M. Larry Lawrence, former Southern California Democratic chairman.

—Dr. Stuart M. Dingawall, 62, a La Mesa veterinarian in the American Independent Party.

—Leslie Ann Dork, 22, of San Diego, a parttime student listed as an independent. She was recognized with the socialist workers party, which is not recognized by the state.

—Ivan R. Huyser, 42, El Cajon, a high school social science teacher and Republican.

—Iris G. Sankey, 41, an Escondido housewife and Democrat endorsed by Rep. Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, California's only woman in Congress, the National Organization of Women and some county party leaders.

—Leonard R. Thomas, 37, a high school biology teacher and Democrat from San Diego.

Reynolds Says He Only Helped

NOGALES, Ariz. (UPI) — Movie stars Sarah Miles and Burt Reynolds said Sunday they did not engage in sex when they stayed in Reynolds' motel room the night Miss Miles' business agent died in her room.

Miss Miles argued that she had been beaten up so severely by David Whiting, 26, her business manager, that she would not have been an attractive sex partner. Whiting died in her room of an overdose of drugs.

Reynolds said he was merely coming to the aid of a woman in distress.

Reynolds and Miss Miles are waging a legal battle to avoid testifying at the inquest into Whiting's death. Their attorney has obtained a court order protecting them from subpoenas, on the grounds the hearing would make them "a spectacle." The order has been appealed to a higher court in Phoenix. A ruling is expected sometime this week.

Body Of Missing Fisherman Found

EMERYVILLE (AP) — The body of John F. Truschke, operational manager for Western Gillette Inc. who had been missing since he left on a fishing trip Feb. 17, has been found in the harbor here.

Coroner's deputies said it appeared that Truschke, 50, of Mountain View, fell from his 27-foot boat and drowned.

"No connection whatsoever," Mrs. Meir said when asked if she believed that the Black September group had murdered two Americans and one Belgian in the Saudi-Arabian embassy in Khartoum in retaliation for the Israeli action.

All Safe In Blast

BEIRUT (UPI) — An explosion blew a hole in the stern of a cruise ship Saturday night but the nearly 250 American religious pilgrims aboard the sinking vessel escaped unharmed, officials said yesterday.

There was some panic among the passengers after the blast in Beirut Harbor, the officials said, but all were safely taken ashore and spent the night in three hotels.

They boarded a chartered flight yesterday for Cyprus, where the Middle East religious tour began. Some of the passengers arrived in Nicosia dressed only in pajamas and overcoats. They declined to talk to reporters.

Opposition Gains

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Opposition parties gained in a critical election for President Salvador Allende yesterday, but failed to pick up enough seats in the Chamber of Deputies and Senate to oust the self-described Marxist leader.

Allende hailed the results as a triumph for his minority government led by a combination of Communists and Socialists. He was imperiled by an impeachment treat in case of an opposition victory.

Coalition Gains

PARIS (UPI) — Communists and Socialists, forming an election coalition for the first time in 37 years, seized the lead today in first-round voting for a new government but were still short of enough seats to wrest control from the Gaulists.

Official figures early today gave 9,081,142 votes to the leftwing coalition, 8,569,332 to the Gaullists and 1,374,187 to a middle-of-the-road reform bloc.

With results from 446 of the 490 constituencies, the leftwing coalition led the Gaullist coalition by 2.3 per cent.

Only 55 seats were decided in yesterday's vote by a record 81.2 per cent of the electorate. Gaullists captured 44 seats and the left took nine but most of the Gaullist victories were scored in places that traditionally vote conservative.

Finance Session Eyed

OTTAWA (UPI) — Finance Minister John Turner said last night Canadian participation in an emergency meeting of world finance ministers to solve the International Monetary Crisis would depend "on the terms of reference" of the meeting.

Turner noted that Canada had not yet been invited to join the meeting of finance ministers of the European Common Market and other industrial nations to be held Friday in Paris.

Common market sources said the invitations would go out Monday to the "most important industrial nations." Officials said this meant Canada, the United States, Japan and Sweden — all members of the "group of 10" and probably also Switzerland.

Envoys Burials Due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The two American diplomats murdered in the Sudan will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

The State Department said the bodies of Ambassador Cleo A. Noel and Deputy Chief of Mission George Curtis Moore were to arrive at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington late today.

President Nixon ordered one of the jets in the presidential fleet to the Sudan to bring the bodies back to the United States. The families of Noel and Moore accompanied the bodies on the flight.

The State Department said Noel, 54, and Moore, 47, would be buried at Arlington because both were veterans of World War II.

Indians Reject Amnesty Offer

WOUNDED KNEE, S. D. (UPI) — Leaders of the American Indian Movement who last Tuesday seized this little hamlet to enforce their drive for federal investigations into an alleged national betrayal of Indians today turned down a government offer of terms to end their seizure.

Heavy snow fell in the area of Wounded Knee, where a force of about 200 Indians under AIM leadership holds the hamlet, and a force of federal marshals and others maintain strict watch at roads leading into the area.

The Department of Justice had said Sunday night that all Indians in the siege force could come out of Wounded Knee and leave, if they left their weapons and their names with federal authorities. Ralph Erickson, special assistant to the attorney general, said charges might be lodged against the AIM leaders after a federal grand jury investigation.

"That's history repeating itself," said Russel Means, one of the AIM leaders. "That's asking the FBI to convict us. This is the way they disarmed (chief) Big Foot 83 years ago in the Wounded Knee massacre."

He referred to the slayings of 200 or more Indians, many of them women and children, by U.S. Cavalry in an engagement at the Wounded Knee area, part of the Oglala Sioux reservation.

Means said that the AIM leadership will stick to a series of eight demands made public Sunday, including the ouster of Oglala tribal council president Dick Wilson and the bringing of a magistrate to Wounded Knee to hear charges against the Indians.

These stipulations were in addition to three principal demands which the AIM leadership voiced at time of the Wounded Knee seizure. These included Senate committee investigations of treaties between the United States and the Indians and an investigation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

The AIM legal force, including attorney William Kunstler, met today to discuss what they said were plans of action in case the federal government moved in against the besieging Indians.

In Wounded Knee, the atmosphere was noticeably more tense than in the past few days. Newsmen able to reach the hamlet found armed sentries turning back reporters in the area of the Sacred Heart Catholic church where many of the AIM force are staying.

Also in the morning meeting at which the rejection was disclosed were Roman Roubideaux, a Rapid City, S. D. attorney, a Sioux; John Echo Hawk and Roy Haber, attorneys from Boulder, Colo.

The thrust of their conversation was that the AIM will stay in the village until all their demands are met, in the belief that government forces will not come into the village shooting. They speculated, however, that federal leadership might try to use tear gas.

Some of the AIM group expressed concern that Wilson — whose leadership of the Oglala is challenged by members of the AIM—might "do something." Wilson at one point said his own followers, 800 strong, might move on Wounded Knee. He scoffed at the Sunday offer to "those knuckleheads" at Wounded Knee.

Director Arrives

TAIPEI (AP) — David M. Kennedy, U.S. ambassador-at-large, arrived here yesterday for talks with government officials and business leaders on trade between Formosa and the United States.

Union Militants Push General English Strike

LONDON (UPI) — Trade union militants today forced their leaders to consider a general strike to protest the four-month-old government wage freeze. It would be the first general strike in 46 years.

The union threat came as the wave of scattered protest strikes, hitting hardest at hospitals and homes heated by gas, went into its second week.

The militants, led by the mine workers, overturned a ruling by leaders of the Trade Union Congress (TUC), the country's overall grouping of labor unions, at a special meeting.

The TUC's general council had ruled the 1,000 delegates must merely vote "yes" or "no" on the council's 44-page union plan for beating inflation.

But Joe Gormley, president of the Mine Workers' Union and a leader of those agitating for an total general strike, succeeded in referring the document back to committee. The general council, surprised, adjourned the congress session for more than an hour to decide what to do.

Gormley and other militants believe the trade union movement is being too soft in battling the government's freeze on wages. But already the old, the ill and the lonely were being directly hit by unions' partial strikes.

Crucial Vote Set For Senate Seat

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The political balance of the state Senate could be decided Tuesday by a special primary election in a so-called "safe" Republican district here.

A GOP win would deadlock the parties at 20-20 in the chamber while an upset Democratic victory would give the Democrats a 21-19 advantage.

Assemblyman John Stull, R-Leucadia, has several advantages over his six opponents, including endorsements by President Nixon, Gov. Ronald Reagan and key county Republicans.

However, he would need more than half the vote in a district with a registration 49 per cent Republican and 43 per cent Democratic to win the seat in the primary.

If no candidate wins a majority, a runoff would be held April 3.

The special 38th district election was called to fill the vacancy left by Rep. Clair W. Burgener, R-Rancho Sante Fe, who left the Senate to become a congressman.

Besides Stull, the candidates are:

—Melvin Crain, 51, an El Cajon Democrat and political science professor. He was endorsed by M. Larry Lawrence, former Southern California Democratic chairman.

—Dr. Stuart M. Dingawall, 62, a La Mesa veterinarian in the American Independent Party.

—Leslie Ann Dork, 22, of San Diego, a parttime student listed as an independent. She was recognized with the socialist workers party, which is not recognized by the state.

—Ivan R. Huyser, 42, El Cajon, a high school social science teacher and Republican.

—Iris G. Sankey, 41, an Escondido housewife and Democrat endorsed by Rep. Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, California's only woman in Congress, the National Organization of Women and some county party leaders.

—Leonard R. Thomas, 37, a high school biology teacher and Democrat from San Diego.

Reynolds Says He Only Helped

NOGALES, Ariz. (UPI) — Movie stars Sarah Miles and Burt Reynolds said Sunday they did not engage in sex when they stayed in Reynolds' motel room the night Miss Miles' business agent died in her room.

Miss Miles argued that she had been beaten up so severely by David Whiting, 26, her business manager, that she would not have been an attractive sex partner. Whiting died in her room of an overdose of drugs.

Reynolds said he was merely coming to the aid of a woman in distress.

Reynolds and Miss Miles are waging a legal battle to avoid testifying at the inquest into Whiting's death. Their attorney has obtained a court order protecting them from subpoenas, on the grounds the hearing would make them "a spectacle." The order has been appealed to a higher court in Phoenix. A ruling is expected sometime this week.

Body Of Missing Fisherman Found

EMERYVILLE (AP) — The body of John F. Truschke, operational manager for Western Gillette Inc. who had been missing since he left on a fishing trip Feb. 17, has been found in the harbor here.

Coroner's deputies said it appeared that Truschke, 50, of Mountain View, fell from his 27-foot boat and drowned.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Soldier Dies

BELFAST (UPI) — A 19-year-old British soldier beaten and shot when a mob attacked an army patrol died early today, the latest victim of a weekend of violence that claimed five lives and wounded four more persons.

The death of Pvt. Gary Barlow raised the toll in more than three-and-one-half years of violence among Roman Catholics, Protestants and the security forces to 740 dead.

Two other teen-agers were shot and wounded during the night. A gunman in a passing car fired four bullets at a 14-year-old Protestant girl as she was walking along a road. A 16-year-old youth was admitted to a hospital with a gunshot wound in the abdomen and authorities said he was in serious conditon.

'No Connection'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said yesterday that the killings of three diplomats by Arab guerillas in Sudan had no relation to Israel's downing of a Libyan airliner.

Mrs. Meir was in New York today to address the United Jewish appeal in the evening. Last night, she attended a reception at the home of Yosef Tekoah, Israeli ambassador to the United Nations.

"No connection whatsoever," Mrs. Meir said when asked if she believed that the Black September group had murdered two Americans and one Belgian in the Saudi-Arabian embassy in Khartoum in retaliation for the Israeli action.

Shearing's Life With A Guide Dog

ALUMNI'S RETURN — Blind jazz pianist George Shearing is taken on tour of Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael by Anne Hopkins, public relations director. Shearing and his guide dog Lee were graduated from the school 10 years ago, and the pianist returned Saturday as a guest for ceremonies in which 10 blind men and women and their dogs were graduated.
(Independent-Journal photo)

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Blind jazz pianist George Shearing smiled warmly as he recalled his life and times with Lee, an old friend and road companion now aging and in failing health.

The friendship began in San Rafael 10 years ago when Lee, then a frisky young Golden retriever, and Shearing, admittedly anxious about the notion of getting around in the world with a dog for eyes, started their month of training together at Guide Dogs for the Blind.

Shearing returned to the San Rafael school Saturday as a special guest in ceremonies in which 10 blind men and women and their guide dogs were graduated. Noticeably absent was Lee.

"Lee is better than 11 years old now," Shearing explained. "I left him at home in North Hollywood where he can be close to his vet. He has kidney problems now, as Golden Retrievers sometimes do in their older years."

But Lee has led a full life, hitting the international road as the constant companion of a famed jazz musician. He has slept in some of the world's finest hotels, hobnobbed with jazz greats and symphony conductors and curled up on the thick carpets of some of the poshest cabarets and restaurants in the land.

"I took Lee to Japan with me in 1963," Shearing recalled. "Of course, when we are on the road we try to be as neat as we can and feed him canned food that we keep in a plastic bag. Every day in the hotel restaurant the waiter would ask, 'Food for dog?' No, nothing for the dog, I would answer. Well, after the third or fourth day the waiter came up to me looking very puzzled and asked, 'Excuse, Mr. Shearing, san, but when do dog eat?'

The pianist laughlingly recalled another day when Lee was not so easily denied.

"I was at a cocktail party and walked across the room with Lee. Well, as people will be people, dogs will be dogs. I was told later that while strolling across the room Lee took a swipe at someone's martini."

While in San Francisco, Shearing and Lee stay at the Bohemian Club, which Lee knows as well as his own backyard.

"I always stay in the same room. Even after we have been away months and months Lee leads me right to the door. It's incredible."

Shearing, soft-spoken and charming, bristles when he talks about those hotels and restaurants that steadfastly refuse to allow animals, even guide dogs.

He also is critical, as was singer Jose Feliciano who visited the school a few weeks ago, of international quarantine laws that make it impractical for a blind performer to take his guide dog on European tours. By the time the animal is released from quarantine, it is time to move on to the next country.

Because he sees his blindness as "a nuisance" rather than a handicap, Shearing believes in using any method to overcome that nuisance to achieve self-sufficiency and to avoid the patronizing attitude the sighted person sometimes expresses toward the blind.

Blind since birth, Shearing at 54 said he plans to get another guide dog when Lee dies.

"After the marvelous time I have had with Lee," he said, "there is only one place I will go for another dog, and that is right here."

Business Aid Group Wins A Contract

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A $124,000 contract to provide management and technical assistance to small businesses in Marin and several other Bay Area counties has been awarded to Opportunity Through Ownership (OPTO), of San Francisco, it was announced Saturday.

The California Job Development Corporation Law Executive Board issued the 12-month contract as a part of its small business assistance program.

OPTO will work with the Oakland Small Business Development Center and the Golden State Business League of Oakland in offering small businessmen help in applying for loans and in improving their management and accounting techniques.

Firms with annual incomes of less than $250,000 per year or which employ 15 persons or less may apply. Applicants must also show their willingness to employ persons who are eligible for public assistance. More information is available from the three agencies involved in the program.

Average Child Views 80,000 TV Commercials By Age Of 16

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An American child who is a "moderate" viewer of television sees 5,000 commercials a year—80,000 commercials by the time he reaches 16.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., gave the figures and added that a large proportion of the commercials deal with food products—predominantly breakfast and snack foods.

McGovern cited surveys by the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare which "indicate a disturbing decline in some very important parts of the traditional American diet."

"This decline is accompanied by a striking increase in the consumption of an array of nontraditional snack kinds of foods," McGovern said.

McGovern called his Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs into session today for three days of hearings designed to try to determine what effect commercials have upon children's diets.

Nutritionists and preventive dentistry experts were scheduled as the first witnesses, but food producers and advertisers were conspicuously absent.

In a statement Sunday, McGovern said Kellogg, General Mills and General Foods, as well as the advertising agencies of Leo Bernet, Dancer, Fitzgerald, and Sample and Benton Bowles had refused an invitation to appear.

He said they refused on the basis that to appear would conflict with their interest in a pending complaint filed against them by the Federal Trade Commission.

"The FTC complaint focusing on questions of restraint of trade and monopoly power bears only the most indirect relationship to the basis kinds of nutrition education, health and diet questions which are the subject of this committee's investigation," McGovern said.

"I cannot, therefore, accept the refusal of the companies and the advertising agencies to appear before this committee. I believe they have a duty and responsibility to come forward and provide the committee with the best information and testimony possible."

McGovern said he would convene an executive session of the committee to decide what further steps it can take so the hearing can proceed as planned.

Shearing's Life With A Guide Dog

ALUMNI'S RETURN — Blind jazz pianist George Shearing is taken on tour of Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael by Anne Hopkins, public relations director. Shearing and his guide dog Lee were graduated from the school 10 years ago, and the pianist returned Saturday as a guest for ceremonies in which 10 blind men and women and their dogs were graduated.

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Blind jazz pianist George Shearing smiled warmly as he recalled his life and times with Lee, an old friend and road companion now aging and in failing health.

The friendship began in San Rafael 10 years ago when Lee, then a frisky young Golden retriever, and Shearing, admittedly anxious about the notion of getting around in the world with a dog for eyes, started their month of training together at Guide Dogs for the Blind.

Shearing returned to the San Rafael school Saturday as a special guest in ceremonies in which 10 blind men and women and their guide dogs were graduated. Noticeably absent was Lee.

"Lee is better than 11 years old now," Shearing explained. "I left him at home in North Hollywood where he can be close to his vet. He has kidney problems now, as Golden Retrievers sometimes do in their older years."

But Lee has led a full life, hitting the international road as the constant companion of a famed jazz musician. He has slept in some of the world's finest hotels, hobnobbed with jazz greats and symphony conductors and curled up on the thick carpets of some of the poshest cabarets and restaurants in the land.

"I took Lee to Japan with me in 1963," Shearing recalled. "Of course, when we are on the road we try to be as neat as we can and feed him canned food that we keep in a plastic bag. Every day in the hotel restaurant the waiter would ask, 'Food for dog?' No, nothing for the dog, I would answer. Well, after the third or fourth day the waiter came up to me looking very puzzled and asked, 'Excuse, Mr. Shearing, san, but when do dog eat?'

The pianist laughlingly recalled another day when Lee was not so easily denied.

"I was at a cocktail party and walked across the room with Lee. Well, as people will be people, dogs will be dogs. I was told later that while strolling across the room Lee took a swipe at someone's martini."

While in San Francisco, Shearing and Lee stay at the Bohemian Club, which Lee knows as well as his own backyard.

"I always stay in the same room. Even after we have been away months and months Lee leads me right to the door. It's incredible."

Shearing, soft-spoken and charming, bristles when he talks about those hotels and restaurants that steadfastly refuse to allow animals, even guide dogs.

He also is critical, as was singer Jose Feliciano who visited the school a few weeks ago, of international quarantine laws that make it impractical for a blind performer to take his guide dog on European tours. By the time the animal is released from quarantine, it is time to move on to the next country.

Because he sees his blindness as "a nuisance" rather than a handicap, Shearing believes in using any method to overcome that nuisance to achieve self-sufficiency and to avoid the patronizing attitude the sighted person sometimes expresses toward the blind.

Blind since birth, Shearing at 54 said he plans to get another guide dog when Lee dies.

"After the marvelous time I have had with Lee," he said, "there is only one place I will go for another dog, and that is right here."

Business Aid Group Wins A Contract

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A $124,000 contract to provide management and technical assistance to small businesses in Marin and several other Bay Area counties has been awarded to Opportunity Through Ownership (OPTO), of San Francisco, it was announced Saturday.

The California Job Development Corporation Law Executive Board issued the 12-month contract as a part of its small business assistance program.

OPTO will work with the Oakland Small Business Development Center and the Golden State Business League of Oakland in offering small businessmen help in applying for loans and in improving their management and accounting techniques.

Firms with annual incomes of less than $250,000 per year or which employ 15 persons or less may apply. Applicants must also show their willingness to employ persons who are eligible for public assistance. More information is available from the three agencies involved in the program.

Water Board May Declare Shortage

The North Marin County Water District board will hold a public hearing on whether to declare a threatened water shortage at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district office, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Dist. Mgr. John O. Nelson has recommended that the board declare a water shortage because the district has a problem delivering sufficient water during July, the peak month of use.

The district has an ample supply of Russian River water, but there is a bottleneck in the delivery system, Nelson reported.

If a shortage is declared, the board will then consider whether to place restrictions on new connections and postpone granting main extensions.

Nelson has recommended restricting connections with a meter size larger than one inch and postponing extensions until the district can determine if the water supply will be augmented, about May 1.

One of the proposals for augmenting the supply is to use Stafford Lake as a "peaking plant," holding water there and releasing it during peak use periods.

The board also will considered scheduling a $4.1 million general obligation bond election June 12," to finance construction of a new delivery line from Cotati to the Russian River.

SKIERS

stacked their skis against a tree, planning to build another shelter if they had to spend another night on the mountain. "But we kept yelling and this guy found us," he said. That was at 9:30 a.m.

The rescuer was Pierre David, a member of the ski patrol, who along with about 100 other volunteers had searched since dawn in a rescue operation directed by the Alpine County Sheriff's Department.

"He took turns carrying us on his back until a snowmobile came," Gary said.

Back at the lodge the boys were examined by a doctor who said it was "remarkable" they had not suffered even frostbite. "We were tired but we could walk," Gary said. "Mostly we were hungry."

This was remedied with a hearty breakfast at the lodge, where Gary and Peter were reunited with their worried fathers — Michael Goodman and Richard Rosenberg — who had driven up to Bear Valley before dawn.

The parents had been notified about 6 p.m. Saturday that the boys were missing, Goodman said. They were told a search had been called off for the night because of the storm, so the men decided to wait until 2 a.m. Sunday to drive to the mountains.

There they found a "fantastic" rescue operation, Goodman said. In addition to ski patrol members, top skiers in the area for a competition joined in the search, he said.

A Pacific Gas and Electric Co. helicopter was volunteered, as was one belonging to American Broadcasting Co., in the area for the planned competition.

"We were very fortunate," Goodman said.

"Was his experience scary," Gary was asked. "Yeah," he replied quietly.

But it didn't dim his enthusiasm for skiing. "I'm going back — but not next weekend," he concluded.

POWs

crutches, he managed smiles for his welcomers and delivered salutes and handshakes to those greeting him.

As with those who returned Sunday, today's returnees looked thin and pale but appeared in good health. Those who returned Sunday spent their first day of freedom telephoning their families, undergoing medical examinations and plowing into mountains of American food.

Some of the POWs were expected to be back in the United States by midweek.

Air Force Lt. Col. John A. Dramesi, 40, of Blackwood, N.J., grinned when he walked off the plane Sunday and then pulled out of his pocket a handkerchief on which he had made an American flag. The crowd cheered when he waved it.

Via the long-distance telephone, the POWs got reacquainted with their families. Air Force Col. Norman C. Gaddis of Winston-Salem, N.C., found out for the first time he was a grandfather.

"I feel just like the song, 'The Happiest Girl in the Whole U.S.A.,'" said Mary Baugh of Piqua, Ohio, after talking to her husband, Marine Maj. William J. Baugh. "Only I'm the happiest girl in the whole world."

Air Force Capt. Thomas J. Barrett of Lombard, Ill., who himself was released from a POW camp last month, watched the return of the latest group Sunday and said "tears started rolling down my cheeks."

As with the earlier group, one of the first things the POWs got reacquainted with was American food. One man ate a six-egg omelet, while others devoured plates of ice cream and glass after glass of milk.

Chinese Paintings Will Be Displayed

Classical Chinese paintings by Alison Stilwell Cameron will be on exhibit March 11 through April 6 at the Dominican College Library in San Rafael.

Mrs. ameron will be honored at a reception Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the library. She is the daughter of the late Gen. Joseph W. (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell.

Hearing Set On General Plan Change

The Corte Madera Town Council will hold a public hearing on interim modifications to the town's general plan tongiht at 7:30 at the town hall.

The modifications would pave the way for Corte Madera's redevelopment project in support of the proposed Ernest W. Hahn regional shopping center.

Town planning consultants Sedway Cooke had originally proposed modifications which included provision for high density housing on the bay lands, a rapid transit route on the railway right of way and extension of San Clemente Drive.

However, tonight, the steering committee of the citizens' committee which is working on revising the general plan, will oppose any modifications unless residential uses, the San Clemente extension, and the transit route are banned, and unless much of the acreage in the town's 446 acre redevelopment project (except the shopping center) is acquired or dedicated for public open space.

Modifications to the town's general plan must be made, since a redevelopment project must conform to such a plan.

Branson School Arts Program Set For Friday

Students from Katharine Branson School and Mount Tamalpais School will present a fine arts program Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Branson School in Ross.

Susan McClees, musical director of the schools, will direct the program which will include the glee club, and drama improvisations.

Performers will include Beth Brumbaugh and Kristin Russell of Mill Valley; Dorothy Garrison of Kentfield, Laura-Jean Clark, Ellen Frank, Terry and Tim Kenney; Rebecca Westberg of Belvedere; Alix Barbey and Jennifer Ponting of Larkspur; Jeff Claxton of Ross; Randy Poclrus of Corte Madera; and John Duncan of Sausalito.

Angel Island To Be Course Topic

Angel Island will be the subject of a weekend field course offered by University of California Extension March 16 - 18.

Biologist John Olmsted and John Kipping, a naturalist at the Strybing Arboretum in San Francisco, will conduct the course, focusing on the island's plants and animals, marine and shore life, Indian history before the Spanish settlement and flora and fauna.

The course will open March 16 at the University Extension Center in San Francisco and will continue with full-day sessions March 17 and 18 on the island.

Riccardi Coffee

A coffee for Gloria Riccardi, candidate for Kentfield School District board in the April 17 election, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the home of Kenneth Corsiglia, 74 Berens Drive, Kentfield.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, March 5, the 64th day of 1973 with 301 to follow. The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

American lithographer James Ives of the Currier and Ives team, was born March 5, 1806.

On this day in history:

In 1770, British colonial troops killed five civilians in the so-called "Boston Massacre."

In 1953, the Soviet Union announced that Premier Josef Stalin had died at the age of 73.

In 1966, a British airliner crashed into Japan's Mount Fuji, killing 124 persons aboard.

In 1968, an Air France jetliner hit a mountain top in Guadeloupe, killing 62.

A thought for the day: Soviet communist dictator Josef Stalin said, "In the USSR, work is the duty of every able-bodied citizen, according to the principle: He who does not work, neither shall he eat."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

influence on the prisoner release. The cause of that rests entirely on the RVN and the U.S."

The JMC, composed of U.S., Viet Cong and North and South Vietnamese officials, is charged with arranging details for all prisoner of war releases.

A deadlock developed within the JMC a week ago over terms for the release of Vietnamese prisoners. The Communist delegations are demanding the release of one quarter of the POWs that are held by the South Vietnamese but said the Saigon government agreed to release a number far less than that.

Capt. Phuong Nam, press officer for the Viet Cong, said the Communists walked out of today's two-hour JMC meeting "in order to express their objections" to the impasse.

A U.S. spokesman said the United States at a JMC meeting today made it clear Washington expects the POW releases to continue on schedule. He said repatriation could continue while certain disagreements are ironed out by the peacekeeping body.

An American spokesman said the Communists did not formally state they were walking out "and we can't possibly analyze their intentions."

Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, chief U.S. delegate to the JMC, denied Communist charges that the United States was conniving with South Vietnam to cause the current impasse. A U.S. spokesman said Woodward termed the reference to U.S. connivance "a false statement which he wished to label for what it is."

Woodward, according to the spokesman, said the American position was threefold: agreement on the return of POWs should be adhered to, POWs should be released at the agreed intervals in increments of 25 per cent and the releases should be completed by March 28 in accordance with the cease-fire signed Jan. 27 in Paris.

Arrest In Malicious Destruction

Corte Madera police arrested John Perry Motta Jr., 43, of 65 Canal Street, apartment 2, on Saturday on a warrant and two counts of suspicion of malicious destruction of property, according to records of the Marin County Sheriff's Department.

Motta was released on $500 bail to appear Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Corte Madera police also arrested Paul Fredrick Mehrten, 23, of 918 C Street, San Rafael early today. He was booked into Marin County Jail at 6:50 a.m. on suspicion of burglary and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

The Corte Madera Police department which suppresses reports of some crimes in the community said it had no information available on circumstances of the arrest.

OBITUARIES

Norma Thayer Raggio

Funeral for Norma Thayer Raggio, born and reared in San Rafael and the last surviving child of 19th Century lumberman Clarence Allen Thayer, will be held tomorrow.

Mrs. Raggio, widow of stockbroker John Raggio, died Friday at her San Francisco home following a lengthy illness. She was 76.

Her late brothers and sisters were Raymond Thayer and Mrs. Gertrude Alexander, both of San Rafael; Mrs. Mabel Sisson and Mrs. Dora Chappel, both of Palo Alto.

Her father came to California in 1888 and was a partner in E. K. Wood Lumber Company, which had lumbering operations from San Francisco north to Oregon.

She attended the Anna Head School in Berkeley and in 1921 was graduated from the University of California there. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

She is survived by three children, Mrs. Vincent Mullins, John Thayer Raggio and Mrs. Martha Beaver, all of San Francisco. She also leaves six grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at St. Mary the Virgin Episcopal Church, Union and Steiner streets, San Francisco. Donations are requested to the Visiting Nurses Association or to a favorite charity. Interment will be private.

MRS. MARALL

Mass of the Resurrection for Anita L. Marall, longtime San Rafael resident, will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael.

Mrs. Marall died Saturday in her sleep at home after a long illness. She was 73.

Mrs. Marall, a native of San Rafael and a lifelong resident of the city, was a former teacher at Short School.

Her husband, Al R. Marall, who survives, was assistant manager of the San Rafael branch of the Bank of America for many years before retiring in 1962. The family home is at 131 Tamal Vista Drive.

She was a member of Catholic Social Services, the Retired Teachers Association and a past president and secretary of the San Rafael Improvement Club.

She is also survived by a sister, Margaret Sinnott of San Rafael.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

MRS. SCHULTE

Private family funeral for Barbara A. Schulte of Kentfield, was held today in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Schulte, 55, of 147 Goodhill Road, Kentfield, died Friday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

She was born in Oakland and lived all her life in the Bay Area, the past 22 years in Marin County.

She was a registered nurse working in San Francisco, and did volunteer work at Marin General Hospital.

She was a member of Marin General Hospital Founder Auxiliary, North Gate Group Marin Art and Garden Center and California Nurses Association.

She is survived by a daughter, Marianna Hoy of Texas; son Frederic L. Schulte of Mill Valley; a sister, Jean Bigelow of Piedmont and one grandchild.

Burial was at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Memorial contributions to Stanford University Library or University of California Cancer Institute would be preferred by the family.

SANTOS J. LOPEZ

Odd Fellows funeral for Santos J. Lopez, of 439 Manzanita Drive, Corte Madera, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Daphne Funerals Marin.

He collapsed at his home Saturday, apparently of a heart attack and was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital. He was 74.

A native of San Francisco, he lived there until moving to Marin County 28 years ago. He was a retired elevator operator, working 20 years for Hobart Estate Building.

He was a member of Lodge 399 International Order of Odd Fellows.

He is survived by his wife, Bertha.

Inurnment will be Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato.

CLARA NELSON

Clara Morf Nelson, mother of George R. Nelson of San Rafael, died yesterday at her home in San Francisco after a long illness. She was 80.

Mrs. Nelson was born in Chicago. She was a retired interior decorator, moving to California 12 years ago.

In addition to her son, he is survived by a daughter, Lois G. Nelson of San Francisco and five grandchildren.

Private graveside funeral will be tomorrow at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. Memorial service will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at Calvary Presbyterian Church in San Francisco.

HARRY A. SMITH

Funeral was today for Harry A. Smith, 89, a retired sail maker and resident of Marin County for 20 years.

Smith died Saturday in a local convalescent home following a short illness. Before he was taken ill a few weeks ago, he was a resident of Aldersly Danish Retirement Home in San Rafael.

He was born in San Francisco, his father the owner of several sailing ships in San Francisco Bay. Smith became a sail maker and worked for several San Francisco firms for 50 years.

He and his wife, Agnes, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last year. They both lived at Aldersly since 1969, where she still resides. Before that, they lived at 10 Park Street in San Rafael.

Smith was a member of the Goldenaires, a local senior citizens' group, and the Master Mariners of San Francisco.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Audrey Connolly of Calistoga, Napa County, and Robert Harry Smith of San Anselmo.

Inurnment at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

ESTHER M. FITZMORRIS

Esther M. Fitzmorris, long time San Rafael resident, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Fitzmorris was born in San Francisco 78 years ago and moved to Marin County with her parents when 2 years old.

She lived at 32 Martens Boulevard.

She was a member of the Gennessee Council Pocahontas, Lagan Institute Young Ladies Institute and Carpenter's Auxiliary Woodman of the World, San Rafael.

She is survived by a daughter, Thelma J. Fitzmorris of San Rafael and a grandson.

Mass of the Resurrection for the repose of her soul will be celebrated at 10:45 a.m. tomorrow at the Mission Chapel, San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

LUCY CASINI

A memorial service for Lucy Judd Casini, a 12-year resident of Kentfield, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin Church in San Rafael.

Mrs. Casini died Friday at her home, 15 Tamal Vista Lane. She is survived by her husband, Armand Casini and two sons, David Victor and Frederick Benjamin Casini of the home; a brother, James B. Shepardson of Scotts Valley, Santa Cruz County, and a sister, Mary Frances Odbert of new New Jersey.

She was a member of the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin, the American Association of University Women and the League of Women Voters of Marin.

She was born in North Carolina, and was graduated from the Stanford University nursing school. She was a registered nurse. She was 54.

Bill J. Thomas, Marin County coroner's deputy, reported that Mrs. Casini's death apparently was due to self-inflicted knife wounds. Thomas said she was holding a kitchen knife when her body was found by her son David in a wooded area behind their home. There was no note nor indication of motive, Thomas said.

Friends may call from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rfael. Inurnment will be private.

Cutbacks In Children's Centers Due

The Marin County Board of Education will be asked to approve sending reduction-in-force letters to 11 children's center permit teachers at its meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the county schools office.

Federal cutbacks in funds for children's centers are anticipated in fiscal 1973-74; the county schools office operates a development center for handicapped children at Forest Meadows, and children's centers at Manzanita School, San Rafael, College of Marin, Pilgrim Park and Novato.

Under state law, teachers must be notified of a possible lay-off by March 15, and a final notice has to be given by May 15. County schools sources said decisions on whether the children's centers will be affected by federal cutbacks will have been made by May 15.

Water Board May Declare Shortage

The North Marin County Water District board will hold a public hearing on whether to declare a threatened water shortage at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district office, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Dist. Mgr. John O. Nelson has recommended that the board declare a water shortage because the district has a problem delivering sufficient water during July, the peak month of use.

The district has an ample supply of Russian River water, but there is a bottleneck in the delivery system, Nelson reported.

If a shortage is declared, the board will then consider whether to place restrictions on new connections and postpone granting main extensions.

Nelson has recommended restricting connections with a meter size larger than one inch and postponing extensions until the district can determine if the water supply will be augmented, about May 1.

One of the proposals for augmenting the supply is to use Stafford Lake as a "peaking plant," holding water there and releasing it during peak use periods.

The board also will considered scheduling a $4.1 million general obligation bond election June 12," to finance construction of a new delivery line from Cotati to the Russian River.

stacked their skis against a tree, planning to build another shelter if they had to spend another night on the mountain. "But we kept yelling and this guy found us," he said. That was at 9:30 a.m.

The rescuer was Pierre David, a member of the ski patrol, who along with about 100 other volunteers had searched since dawn in a rescue operation directed by the Alpine County Sheriff's Department.

"He took turns carrying us on his back until a snowmobile came," Gary said.

Back at the lodge the boys were examined by a doctor who said it was "remarkable" they had not suffered even frostbite. "We were tired but we could walk," Gary said. "Mostly we were hungry."

This was remedied with a hearty breakfast at the lodge, where Gary and Peter were reunited with their worried fathers — Michael Goodman and Richard Rosenberg — who had driven up to Bear Valley before dawn.

The parents had been notified about 6 p.m. Saturday that the boys were missing, Goodman said. They were told a search had been called off for the night because of the storm, so the men decided to wait until 2 a.m. Sunday to drive to the mountains.

There they found a "fantastic" rescue operation, Goodman said. In addition to ski patrol members, top skiers in the area for a competition joined in the search, he said.

A Pacific Gas and Electric Co. helicopter was volunteered, as was one belonging to American Broadcasting Co., in the area for the planned competition.

"We were very fortunate," Goodman said.

"Was his experience scary," Gary was asked. "Yeah," he replied quietly.

But it didn't dim his enthusiasm for skiing. "I'm going back — but not next weekend," he concluded.

POWs

crutches, he managed smiles for his welcomers and delivered salutes and handshakes to those greeting him.

As with those who returned Sunday, today's returnees looked thin and pale but appeared in good health. Those who returned Sunday spent their first day of freedom telephoning their families, undergoing medical examinations and plowing into mountains of American food.

Some of the POWs were expected to be back in the United States by midweek.

Air Force Lt. Col. John A. Dramesi, 40, of Blackwood, N.J., grinned when he walked off the plane Sunday and then pulled out of his pocket a handkerchief on which he had made an American flag. The crowd cheered when he waved it.

Via the long-distance telephone, the POWs got reacquainted with their families. Air Force Col. Norman C. Gaddis of Winston-Salem, N.C., found out for the first time he was a grandfather.

"I feel just like the song, 'The Happiest Girl in the Whole U.S.A.,'" said Mary Baugh of Piqua, Ohio, after talking to her husband, Marine Maj. William J. Baugh. "Only I'm the happiest girl in the whole world."

Air Force Capt. Thomas J. Barrett of Lombard, Ill., who himself was released from a POW camp last month, watched the return of the latest group Sunday and said "tears started rolling down my cheeks."

As with the earlier group, one of the first things the POWs got reacquainted with was American food. One man ate a six-egg omelet, while others devoured plates of ice cream and glass after glass of milk.

Chinese Paintings Will Be Displayed

Classical Chinese paintings by Alison Stilwell Cameron will be on exhibit March 11 through April 6 at the Dominican College Library in San Rafael.

Mrs. ameron will be honored at a reception Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the library. She is the daughter of the late Gen. Joseph W. (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell.

Hearing Set On General Plan Change

The Corte Madera Town Council will hold a public hearing on interim modifications to the town's general plan tongiht at 7:30 at the town hall.

The modifications would pave the way for Corte Madera's redevelopment project in support of the proposed Ernest W. Hahn regional shopping center.

Town planning consultants Sedway Cooke had originally proposed modifications which included provision for high density housing on the bay lands, a rapid transit route on the railway right of way and extension of San Clemente Drive.

However, tonight, the steering committee of the citizens' committee which is working on revising the general plan, will oppose any modifications unless residential uses, the San Clemente extension, and the transit route are banned, and unless much of the acreage in the town's 446 acre redevelopment project (except the shopping center) is acquired or dedicated for public open space.

Modifications to the town's general plan must be made, since a redevelopment project must conform to such a plan.

Branson School Arts Program Set For Friday

Students from Katharine Branson School and Mount Tamalpais School will present a fine arts program Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Branson School in Ross.

Susan McClees, musical director of the schools, will direct the program which will include the glee club, and drama improvisations.

Performers will include Beth Brumbaugh and Kristin Russell of Mill Valley; Dorothy Garrison of Kentfield, Laura-Jean Clark, Ellen Frank, Terry and Tim Kenney; Rebecca Westberg of Belvedere; Alix Barbey and Jennifer Ponting of Larkspur; Jeff Claxton of Ross; Randy Poclrus of Corte Madera; and John Duncan of Sausalito.

Angel Island To Be Course Topic

Angel Island will be the subject of a weekend field course offered by University of California Extension March 16 - 18.

Biologist John Olmsted and John Kipping, a naturalist at the Strybing Arboretum in San Francisco, will conduct the course, focusing on the island's plants and animals, marine and shore life, Indian history before the Spanish settlement and flora and fauna.

The course will open March 16 at the University Extension Center in San Francisco and will continue with full-day sessions March 17 and 18 on the island.

Riccardi Coffee

A coffee for Gloria Riccardi, candidate for Kentfield School District board in the April 17 election, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the home of Kenneth Corsiglia, 74 Berens Drive, Kentfield.

Today is Monday, March 5, the 64th day of 1973 with 301 to follow. The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

American lithographer James Ives of the Currier and Ives team, was born March 5, 1806.

On this day in history:

In 1770, British colonial troops killed five civilians in the so-called "Boston Massacre."

In 1953, the Soviet Union announced that Premier Josef Stalin had died at the age of 73.

In 1966, a British airliner crashed into Japan's Mount Fuji, killing 124 persons aboard.

In 1968, an Air France jetliner hit a mountain top in Guadeloupe, killing 62.

A thought for the day: Soviet communist dictator Josef Stalin said, "In the USSR, work is the duty of every able-bodied citizen, according to the principle: He who does not work, neither shall he eat."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

influence on the prisoner release. The cause of that rests entirely on the RVN and the U.S."

The JMC, composed of U.S., Viet Cong and North and South Vietnamese officials, is charged with arranging details for all prisoner of war releases.

A deadlock developed within the JMC a week ago over terms for the release of Vietnamese prisoners. The Communist delegations are demanding the release of one quarter of the POWs that are held by the South Vietnamese but said the Saigon government agreed to release a number far less than that.

Capt. Phuong Nam, press officer for the Viet Cong, said the Communists walked out of today's two-hour JMC meeting "in order to express their objections" to the impasse.

A U.S. spokesman said the United States at a JMC meeting today made it clear Washington expects the POW releases to continue on schedule. He said repatriation could continue while certain disagreements are ironed out by the peacekeeping body.

An American spokesman said the Communists did not formally state they were walking out "and we can't possibly analyze their intentions."

Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, chief U.S. delegate to the JMC, denied Communist charges that the United States was conniving with South Vietnam to cause the current impasse. A U.S. spokesman said Woodward termed the reference to U.S. connivance "a false statement which he wished to label for what it is."

Woodward, according to the spokesman, said the American position was threefold: agreement on the return of POWs should be adhered to, POWs should be released at the agreed intervals in increments of 25 per cent and the releases should be completed by March 28 in accordance with the cease-fire signed Jan. 27 in Paris.

Arrest In Malicious Destruction

Corte Madera police arrested John Perry Motta Jr., 43, of 65 Canal Street, apartment 2, on Saturday on a warrant and two counts of suspicion of malicious destruction of property, according to records of the Marin County Sheriff's Department.

Motta was released on $500 bail to appear Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Corte Madera police also arrested Paul Fredrick Mehrten, 23, of 918 C Street, San Rafael early today. He was booked into Marin County Jail at 6:50 a.m. on suspicion of burglary and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

The Corte Madera Police department which suppresses reports of some crimes in the community said it had no information available on circumstances of the arrest.

OBITUARIES

Norma Thayer Raggio

Funeral for Norma Thayer Raggio, born and reared in San Rafael and the last surviving child of 19th Century lumberman Clarence Allen Thayer, will be held tomorrow.

Mrs. Raggio, widow of stockbroker John Raggio, died Friday at her San Francisco home following a lengthy illness. She was 76.

Her late brothers and sisters were Raymond Thayer and Mrs. Gertrude Alexander, both of San Rafael; Mrs. Mabel Sisson and Mrs. Dora Chappel, both of Palo Alto.

Her father came to California in 1888 and was a partner in E. K. Wood Lumber Company, which had lumbering operations from San Francisco north to Oregon.

She attended the Anna Head School in Berkeley and in 1921 was graduated from the University of California there. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

She is survived by three children, Mrs. Vincent Mullins, John Thayer Raggio and Mrs. Martha Beaver, all of San Francisco. She also leaves six grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at St. Mary the Virgin Episcopal Church, Union and Steiner streets, San Francisco. Donations are requested to the Visiting Nurses Association or to a favorite charity. Interment will be private.

MRS. MARALL

Mass of the Resurrection for Anita L. Marall, longtime San Rafael resident, will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael.

Mrs. Marall died Saturday in her sleep at home after a long illness. She was 73.

Mrs. Marall, a native of San Rafael and a lifelong resident of the city, was a former teacher at Short School.

Her husband, Al R. Marall, who survives, was assistant manager of the San Rafael branch of the Bank of America for many years before retiring in 1962. The family home is at 131 Tamal Vista Drive.

She was a member of Catholic Social Services, the Retired Teachers Association and a past president and secretary of the San Rafael Improvement Club.

She is also survived by a sister, Margaret Sinnott of San Rafael.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

MRS. SCHULTE

Private family funeral for Barbara A. Schulte of Kentfield, was held today in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Schulte, 55, of 147 Goodhill Road, Kentfield, died Friday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

She was born in Oakland and lived all her life in the Bay Area, the past 22 years in Marin County.

She was a registered nurse working in San Francisco, and did volunteer work at Marin General Hospital.

She was a member of Marin General Hospital Founder Auxiliary, North Gate Group Marin Art and Garden Center and California Nurses Association.

She is survived by a daughter, Marianna Hoy of Texas; son Frederic L. Schulte of Mill Valley; a sister, Jean Bigelow of Piedmont and one grandchild.

Burial was at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Memorial contributions to Stanford University Library or University of California Cancer Institute would be preferred by the family.

SANTOS J. LOPEZ

Odd Fellows funeral for Santos J. Lopez, of 439 Manzanita Drive, Corte Madera, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Daphne Funerals Marin.

He collapsed at his home Saturday, apparently of a heart attack and was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital. He was 74.

A native of San Francisco, he lived there until moving to Marin County 28 years ago. He was a retired elevator operator, working 20 years for Hobart Estate Building.

He was a member of Lodge 399 International Order of Odd Fellows.

He is survived by his wife, Bertha.

Inurnment will be Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato.

CLARA NELSON

Clara Morf Nelson, mother of George R. Nelson of San Rafael, died yesterday at her home in San Francisco after a long illness. She was 80.

Mrs. Nelson was born in Chicago. She was a retired interior decorator, moving to California 12 years ago.

In addition to her son, he is survived by a daughter, Lois G. Nelson of San Francisco and five grandchildren.

Private graveside funeral will be tomorrow at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. Memorial service will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at Calvary Presbyterian Church in San Francisco.

HARRY A. SMITH

Funeral was today for Harry A. Smith, 89, a retired sail maker and resident of Marin County for 20 years.

Smith died Saturday in a local convalescent home following a short illness. Before he was taken ill a few weeks ago, he was a resident of Aldersly Danish Retirement Home in San Rafael.

He was born in San Francisco, his father the owner of several sailing ships in San Francisco Bay. Smith became a sail maker and worked for several San Francisco firms for 50 years.

He and his wife, Agnes, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last year. They both lived at Aldersly since 1969, where she still resides. Before that, they lived at 10 Park Street in San Rafael.

Smith was a member of the Goldenaires, a local senior citizens' group, and the Master Mariners of San Francisco.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Audrey Connolly of Calistoga, Napa County, and Robert Harry Smith of San Anselmo.

Inurnment at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

ESTHER M. FITZMORRIS

Esther M. Fitzmorris, long time San Rafael resident, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Fitzmorris was born in San Francisco 78 years ago and moved to Marin County with her parents when 2 years old.

She lived at 32 Martens Boulevard.

She was a member of the Gennessee Council Pocahontas, Lagan Institute Young Ladies Institute and Carpenter's Auxiliary Woodman of the World, San Rafael.

She is survived by a daughter, Thelma J. Fitzmorris of San Rafael and a grandson.

Mass of the Resurrection for the repose of her soul will be celebrated at 10:45 a.m. tomorrow at the Mission Chapel, San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

LUCY CASINI

A memorial service for Lucy Judd Casini, a 12-year resident of Kentfield, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin Church in San Rafael.

Mrs. Casini died Friday at her home, 15 Tamal Vista Lane. She is survived by her husband, Armand Casini and two sons, David Victor and Frederick Benjamin Casini of the home; a brother, James B. Shepardson of Scotts Valley, Santa Cruz County, and a sister, Mary Frances Odbert of new New Jersey.

She was a member of the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin, the American Association of University Women and the League of Women Voters of Marin.

She was born in North Carolina, and was graduated from the Stanford University nursing school. She was a registered nurse. She was 54.

Bill J. Thomas, Marin County coroner's deputy, reported that Mrs. Casini's death apparently was due to self-inflicted knife wounds. Thomas said she was holding a kitchen knife when her body was found by her son David in a wooded area behind their home. There was no note nor indication of motive, Thomas said.

Friends may call from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rfael. Inurnment will be private.

Cutbacks In Children's Centers Due

The Marin County Board of Education will be asked to approve sending reduction-in-force letters to 11 children's center permit teachers at its meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the county schools office.

Federal cutbacks in funds for children's centers are anticipated in fiscal 1973-74; the county schools office operates a development center for handicapped children at Forest Meadows, and children's centers at Manzanita School, San Rafael, College of Marin, Pilgrim Park and Novato.

Under state law, teachers must be notified of a possible lay-off by March 15, and a final notice has to be given by May 15. County schools sources said decisions on whether the children's centers will be affected by federal cutbacks will have been made by May 15.

Sonic Booms Are Expected

Sonic booms may be heard in Marin and Southern Sonoma late tonight and early tomorrow as well as late tomorrow and early Wednesday, the Air Force warned today.

Water Board May Declare Shortage

The North Marin County Water District board will hold a public hearing on whether to declare a threatened water shortage at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district office, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Dist. Mgr. John O. Nelson has recommended that the board declare a water shortage because the district has a problem delivering sufficient water during July, the peak month of use.

The district has an ample supply of Russian River water, but there is a bottleneck in the delivery system, Nelson reported.

If a shortage is declared, the board will then consider whether to place restrictions on new connections and postpone granting main extensions.

Nelson has recommended restricting connections with a meter size larger than one inch and postponing extensions until the district can determine if the water supply will be augmented, about May 1.

One of the proposals for augmenting the supply is to use Stafford Lake as a "peaking plant," holding water there and releasing it during peak use periods.

The board also will considered scheduling a $4.1 million general obligation bond election June 12," to finance construction of a new delivery line from Cotati to the Russian River.

stacked their skis against a tree, planning to build another shelter if they had to spend another night on the mountain. "But we kept yelling and this guy found us," he said. That was at 9:30 a.m.

The rescuer was Pierre David, a member of the ski patrol, who along with about 100 other volunteers had searched since dawn in a rescue operation directed by the Alpine County Sheriff's Department.

"He took turns carrying us on his back until a snowmobile came," Gary said.

Back at the lodge the boys were examined by a doctor who said it was "remarkable" they had not suffered even frostbite. "We were tired but we could walk," Gary said. "Mostly we were hungry."

This was remedied with a hearty breakfast at the lodge, where Gary and Peter were reunited with their worried fathers — Michael Goodman and Richard Rosenberg — who had driven up to Bear Valley before dawn.

The parents had been notified about 6 p.m. Saturday that the boys were missing, Goodman said. They were told a search had been called off for the night because of the storm, so the men decided to wait until 2 a.m. Sunday to drive to the mountains.

There they found a "fantastic" rescue operation, Goodman said. In addition to ski patrol members, top skiers in the area for a competition joined in the search, he said.

A Pacific Gas and Electric Co. helicopter was volunteered, as was one belonging to American Broadcasting Co., in the area for the planned competition.

"We were very fortunate," Goodman said.

"Was his experience scary," Gary was asked. "Yeah," he replied quietly.

But it didn't dim his enthusiasm for skiing. "I'm going back — but not next weekend," he concluded.

POWs

crutches, he managed smiles for his welcomers and delivered salutes and handshakes to those greeting him.

As with those who returned Sunday, today's returnees looked thin and pale but appeared in good health. Those who returned Sunday spent their first day of freedom telephoning their families, undergoing medical examinations and plowing into mountains of American food.

Some of the POWs were expected to be back in the United States by midweek.

Air Force Lt. Col. John A. Dramesi, 40, of Blackwood, N.J., grinned when he walked off the plane Sunday and then pulled out of his pocket a handkerchief on which he had made an American flag. The crowd cheered when he waved it.

Via the long-distance telephone, the POWs got reacquainted with their families. Air Force Col. Norman C. Gaddis of Winston-Salem, N.C., found out for the first time he was a grandfather.

"I feel just like the song, 'The Happiest Girl in the Whole U.S.A.,'" said Mary Baugh of Piqua, Ohio, after talking to her husband, Marine Maj. William J. Baugh. "Only I'm the happiest girl in the whole world."

Air Force Capt. Thomas J. Barrett of Lombard, Ill., who himself was released from a POW camp last month, watched the return of the latest group Sunday and said "tears started rolling down my cheeks."

As with the earlier group, one of the first things the POWs got reacquainted with was American food. One man ate a six-egg omelet, while others devoured plates of ice cream and glass after glass of milk.

Chinese Paintings Will Be Displayed

Classical Chinese paintings by Alison Stilwell Cameron will be on exhibit March 11 through April 6 at the Dominican College Library in San Rafael.

Mrs. ameron will be honored at a reception Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the library. She is the daughter of the late Gen. Joseph W. (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell.

Hearing Set On General Plan Change

The Corte Madera Town Council will hold a public hearing on interim modifications to the town's general plan tongiht at 7:30 at the town hall.

The modifications would pave the way for Corte Madera's redevelopment project in support of the proposed Ernest W. Hahn regional shopping center.

Town planning consultants Sedway Cooke had originally proposed modifications which included provision for high density housing on the bay lands, a rapid transit route on the railway right of way and extension of San Clemente Drive.

However, tonight, the steering committee of the citizens' committee which is working on revising the general plan, will oppose any modifications unless residential uses, the San Clemente extension, and the transit route are banned, and unless much of the acreage in the town's 446 acre redevelopment project (except the shopping center) is acquired or dedicated for public open space.

Modifications to the town's general plan must be made, since a redevelopment project must conform to such a plan.

Branson School Arts Program Set For Friday

Students from Katharine Branson School and Mount Tamalpais School will present a fine arts program Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Branson School in Ross.

Susan McClees, musical director of the schools, will direct the program which will include the glee club, and drama improvisations.

Performers will include Beth Brumbaugh and Kristin Russell of Mill Valley; Dorothy Garrison of Kentfield, Laura-Jean Clark, Ellen Frank, Terry and Tim Kenney; Rebecca Westberg of Belvedere; Alix Barbey and Jennifer Ponting of Larkspur; Jeff Claxton of Ross; Randy Poclrus of Corte Madera; and John Duncan of Sausalito.

Angel Island To Be Course Topic

Angel Island will be the subject of a weekend field course offered by University of California Extension March 16 - 18.

Biologist John Olmsted and John Kipping, a naturalist at the Strybing Arboretum in San Francisco, will conduct the course, focusing on the island's plants and animals, marine and shore life, Indian history before the Spanish settlement and flora and fauna.

The course will open March 16 at the University Extension Center in San Francisco and will continue with full-day sessions March 17 and 18 on the island.

Riccardi Coffee

A coffee for Gloria Riccardi, candidate for Kentfield School District board in the April 17 election, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the home of Kenneth Corsiglia, 74 Berens Drive, Kentfield.

San Rafael air quality Saturday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.

Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, clean air.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

influence on the prisoner release. The cause of that rests entirely on the RVN and the U.S."

The JMC, composed of U.S., Viet Cong and North and South Vietnamese officials, is charged with arranging details for all prisoner of war releases.

A deadlock developed within the JMC a week ago over terms for the release of Vietnamese prisoners. The Communist delegations are demanding the release of one quarter of the POWs that are held by the South Vietnamese but said the Saigon government agreed to release a number far less than that.

Capt. Phuong Nam, press officer for the Viet Cong, said the Communists walked out of today's two-hour JMC meeting "in order to express their objections" to the impasse.

A U.S. spokesman said the United States at a JMC meeting today made it clear Washington expects the POW releases to continue on schedule. He said repatriation could continue while certain disagreements are ironed out by the peacekeeping body.

An American spokesman said the Communists did not formally state they were walking out "and we can't possibly analyze their intentions."

Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, chief U.S. delegate to the JMC, denied Communist charges that the United States was conniving with South Vietnam to cause the current impasse. A U.S. spokesman said Woodward termed the reference to U.S. connivance "a false statement which he wished to label for what it is."

Woodward, according to the spokesman, said the American position was threefold: agreement on the return of POWs should be adhered to, POWs should be released at the agreed intervals in increments of 25 per cent and the releases should be completed by March 28 in accordance with the cease-fire signed Jan. 27 in Paris.

Arrest In Malicious Destruction

Corte Madera police arrested John Perry Motta Jr., 43, of 65 Canal Street, apartment 2, on Saturday on a warrant and two counts of suspicion of malicious destruction of property, according to records of the Marin County Sheriff's Department.

Motta was released on $500 bail to appear Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Corte Madera police also arrested Paul Fredrick Mehrten, 23, of 918 C Street, San Rafael early today. He was booked into Marin County Jail at 6:50 a.m. on suspicion of burglary and was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

The Corte Madera Police department which suppresses reports of some crimes in the community said it had no information available on circumstances of the arrest.

OBITUARIES

Norma Thayer Raggio

Funeral for Norma Thayer Raggio, born and reared in San Rafael and the last surviving child of 19th Century lumberman Clarence Allen Thayer, will be held tomorrow.

Mrs. Raggio, widow of stockbroker John Raggio, died Friday at her San Francisco home following a lengthy illness. She was 76.

Her late brothers and sisters were Raymond Thayer and Mrs. Gertrude Alexander, both of San Rafael; Mrs. Mabel Sisson and Mrs. Dora Chappel, both of Palo Alto.

Her father came to California in 1888 and was a partner in E. K. Wood Lumber Company, which had lumbering operations from San Francisco north to Oregon.

She attended the Anna Head School in Berkeley and in 1921 was graduated from the University of California there. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

She is survived by three children, Mrs. Vincent Mullins, John Thayer Raggio and Mrs. Martha Beaver, all of San Francisco. She also leaves six grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at St. Mary the Virgin Episcopal Church, Union and Steiner streets, San Francisco. Donations are requested to the Visiting Nurses Association or to a favorite charity. Interment will be private.

MRS. MARALL

Mass of the Resurrection for Anita L. Marall, longtime San Rafael resident, will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael.

Mrs. Marall died Saturday in her sleep at home after a long illness. She was 73.

Mrs. Marall, a native of San Rafael and a lifelong resident of the city, was a former teacher at Short School.

Her husband, Al R. Marall, who survives, was assistant manager of the San Rafael branch of the Bank of America for many years before retiring in 1962. The family home is at 131 Tamal Vista Drive.

She was a member of Catholic Social Services, the Retired Teachers Association and a past president and secretary of the San Rafael Improvement Club.

She is also survived by a sister, Margaret Sinnott of San Rafael.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

MRS. SCHULTE

Private family funeral for Barbara A. Schulte of Kentfield, was held today in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Schulte, 55, of 147 Goodhill Road, Kentfield, died Friday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

She was born in Oakland and lived all her life in the Bay Area, the past 22 years in Marin County.

She was a registered nurse working in San Francisco, and did volunteer work at Marin General Hospital.

She was a member of Marin General Hospital Founder Auxiliary, North Gate Group Marin Art and Garden Center and California Nurses Association.

She is survived by a daughter, Marianna Hoy of Texas; son Frederic L. Schulte of Mill Valley; a sister, Jean Bigelow of Piedmont and one grandchild.

Burial was at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Memorial contributions to Stanford University Library or University of California Cancer Institute would be preferred by the family.

SANTOS J. LOPEZ

Odd Fellows funeral for Santos J. Lopez, of 439 Manzanita Drive, Corte Madera, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Daphne Funerals Marin.

He collapsed at his home Saturday, apparently of a heart attack and was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital. He was 74.

A native of San Francisco, he lived there until moving to Marin County 28 years ago. He was a retired elevator operator, working 20 years for Hobart Estate Building.

He was a member of Lodge 399 International Order of Odd Fellows.

He is survived by his wife, Bertha.

Inurnment will be Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato.

CLARA NELSON

Clara Morf Nelson, mother of George R. Nelson of San Rafael, died yesterday at her home in San Francisco after a long illness. She was 80.

Mrs. Nelson was born in Chicago. She was a retired interior decorator, moving to California 12 years ago.

In addition to her son, he is survived by a daughter, Lois G. Nelson of San Francisco and five grandchildren.

Private graveside funeral will be tomorrow at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. Memorial service will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at Calvary Presbyterian Church in San Francisco.

HARRY A. SMITH

Funeral was today for Harry A. Smith, 89, a retired sail maker and resident of Marin County for 20 years.

Smith died Saturday in a local convalescent home following a short illness. Before he was taken ill a few weeks ago, he was a resident of Aldersly Danish Retirement Home in San Rafael.

He was born in San Francisco, his father the owner of several sailing ships in San Francisco Bay. Smith became a sail maker and worked for several San Francisco firms for 50 years.

He and his wife, Agnes, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last year. They both lived at Aldersly since 1969, where she still resides. Before that, they lived at 10 Park Street in San Rafael.

Smith was a member of the Goldenaires, a local senior citizens' group, and the Master Mariners of San Francisco.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Audrey Connolly of Calistoga, Napa County, and Robert Harry Smith of San Anselmo.

Inurnment at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

ESTHER M. FITZMORRIS

Esther M. Fitzmorris, long time San Rafael resident, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Fitzmorris was born in San Francisco 78 years ago and moved to Marin County with her parents when 2 years old.

She lived at 32 Martens Boulevard.

She was a member of the Gennessee Council Pocahontas, Lagan Institute Young Ladies Institute and Carpenter's Auxiliary Woodman of the World, San Rafael.

She is survived by a daughter, Thelma J. Fitzmorris of San Rafael and a grandson.

Mass of the Resurrection for the repose of her soul will be celebrated at 10:45 a.m. tomorrow at the Mission Chapel, San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

LUCY CASINI

A memorial service for Lucy Judd Casini, a 12-year resident of Kentfield, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin Church in San Rafael.

Mrs. Casini died Friday at her home, 15 Tamal Vista Lane. She is survived by her husband, Armand Casini and two sons, David Victor and Frederick Benjamin Casini of the home; a brother, James B. Shepardson of Scotts Valley, Santa Cruz County, and a sister, Mary Frances Odbert of new New Jersey.

She was a member of the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin, the American Association of University Women and the League of Women Voters of Marin.

She was born in North Carolina, and was graduated from the Stanford University nursing school. She was a registered nurse. She was 54.

Bill J. Thomas, Marin County coroner's deputy, reported that Mrs. Casini's death apparently was due to self-inflicted knife wounds. Thomas said she was holding a kitchen knife when her body was found by her son David in a wooded area behind their home. There was no note nor indication of motive, Thomas said.

Friends may call from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rfael. Inurnment will be private.

Cutbacks In Children's Centers Due

The Marin County Board of Education will be asked to approve sending reduction-in-force letters to 11 children's center permit teachers at its meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the county schools office.

Federal cutbacks in funds for children's centers are anticipated in fiscal 1973-74; the county schools office operates a development center for handicapped children at Forest Meadows, and children's centers at Manzanita School, San Rafael, College of Marin, Pilgrim Park and Novato.

Under state law, teachers must be notified of a possible lay-off by March 15, and a final notice has to be given by May 15. County schools sources said decisions on whether the children's centers will be affected by federal cutbacks will have been made by May 15.

Sonic Booms Are Expected

Sonic booms may be heard in Marin and Southern Sonoma late tonight and early tomorrow as well as late tomorrow and early Wednesday, the Air Force warned today.

BOTTLENECK FACES LARKSPUR FERRY TERMINAL

Up to 4,000 commuters are supposed to squeeze through this two-lane railroad underpass on East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard when the ferry terminal opens a year from June. The state Division of Highways reports plans to widen it to four lanes will not be considered until fiscal 1978-79. Extensive residential and commercial development also is planned on the peninsula long before the state expects to act. (Independent-Journal photo by Alfred M. Arn)

Money Markets Are Closed

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The European Common Market ordered its money markets closed for one week starting today to give its nine members, Japan and the United States time to work out an overall solution to the latest world monetary crisis.

It called for a meeting with the United States and other rich Western nations Friday.

The Market's week-long closure was the first such step since World War II, although the money markets have been closed for shorter periods during monetary crisis. The action symbolized the seriousness of the latest money crisis.

In Tokyo, banking officials said Japan was likely to keep its foreign exchange closed until the powerful European markets reopen.

The Market decision came Sunday at a 5-hour emergency meeting after a week marked by another round of heavy selling of unwanted dollars by speculators who are afraid the dollar cannot maintain its value overseas despite a 10 per cent devaluation Feb. 13.

As they announced the closing of money markets, Market finance ministers said they also asked the United States and the rest of the non-Communist world's richest Western countries to meet Friday in Paris to discuss the second monetary crisis of the year.

"We expect some cooperation from the United States," said French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

There was no official reaction from Washington on the latest developments in the crisis.

The Market ministers said they would meet again Thursday, to make plans for the Friday meeting, then will meet again next Sunday —"to draw conclusions," as one minister put it.

Other nations asked to join in the Paris talks include the so-called "Group of 10," the world's richest Western nations, among them Canada, Sweden, Japan and Switzerland.

In Ottawa, Finance Minister John Turner said his country probably will attend but that a decision must await details of what ministers will discuss.

In Tokyo, informed sources said Japan would attend.

Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), attended the Sunday meeting as representative of an organization created nearly 30 years ago to make sure the world money system works effectively.

This system was endangered again last Thursday when speculators dumped $2.7 billion unwanted dollars in West Germany alone and forced most major money markets to close Friday. The Paris market opened briefly, but closed after speculators unloaded another $300 to $350 million.

The closing of markets this week means that all currencies are temporarily "floating," that is they no longer have fixed prices but are bought and sold for whatever speculators, banks, businessmen and individuals think they are worth.

The Japanese yen, Canadian dollar, Italian lira, British pound and the Swiss franc already were floating and many financial experts said all major moneys might soon float in an attempt to reduce the world dollar panic.

Rained-Out Walkathon Is Resumed

The 1,200 Marin "Happiness Walk" hikers whose planned 20-mile march was cut short by Saturday's unexpected rainstorm, began hiking again today — to collect from sponsors who had pledged mileage donations to the United Cerebral Palsy Association.

Because of the rules, the association gave the hikers five miles credit for each mile walked in the rain. The preplanned rainy-day route was about four miles. Each hiker who completed the walkathon was given a colorful United Cerebral Palsy Association patch declaring "I did it."

Association spokesmen said the hikers' sponsors pledged to donate more than $10,000 to the Marin drive. Similar hikes were held in four other Bay Area counties.

Art Display

Drawings and abstractions by Jeanne Baumgarten of Mill Valley will be on display from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. through March 16 at the Mill Valley Library.

Burned Woman Said 'Critical'

A 72-year-old Lagunitas woman was reported in critical condition today as a result of burns suffered Saturday when her nightgown caught fire as she cooked breakfast.

Katleen Masson of 100 Corona Avenue suffered second and third degree burns over about one third of her body, according to a spokesman for St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco.

Mrs. Masson was taken first to Marin General Hospital in an ambulance summoned by a neighbor, then transferred to St. Francis Hospital for intensive care in the burn unit there.

Proposed Budget To Be Studied

A proposed budget for 1973-74 will be presented at the Lagunitas School District board meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at San Geronimo Valley School.

The board also will hear a projection of class sizes for the next school year.

A district-sponsored candidates night in the April 17 board election will be considered for March 14 at Lagunitas School.

Labor Rips Nixon Wages Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock said today the administration's decision to retain the 5.5 per cent wage guidelines was an "exact contradiction" of what President Nixon's Labor-Management Advisory Committee recommended.

AFL-CIO President George Meany warned that organized labor has "a stick in the closet" if Nixon's Phase III economic program is not applied equally.

Woodcock said the advisory committee on which he, Meany and three other union officials serve had agreed unanimously that no specific guidelines be set for wages during Phase III. The White House ignored the committee's recommendation, he charged.

The White House declined to get involved in controversy over the issue.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said today that the administration would be flexible in enforcing the 5.5 per cent wage guidelines, and added:

"I'm not going to get into anything to contribute to any confrontation with Mr. Meany or any other person. We feel Phase III is a strong program and is going to work."

Speaking at a joint legislative conference sponsored by the UAW and the International Association of Machinists, Woodcock reiterated his demand that Congress refuse to extend Nixon's wage-price control authority beyond its April 30 expiration.

He said that the five labor and five management members of the advisory committee had agreed to abandon any specific numerical figure for wage increases under Phase III, and to have instead "a statement of purpose and policy."

Woodcock said the committee had understood that John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council — who conducted the committee meetings — would announce Feb. 26 that the panel had agreed to abandon specific wage guidelines.

But, he added, Dunlop and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz instead announced that the 5.5 per cent guideline of Phase II would be retained in Phase III, but would be applied more flexibly.

Meany, the head of 14 million union members, said Sunday he wanted to cooperate with President Nixon "in order to keep the prices down."

But he complained of "galloping inflation" and food prices that were "absolutely running wild."

"The only thing we have got under control is the workers' wages, and we think this is eminently and very definitely unfair," Meany said.

Meany criticized statements by Nixon that it would not be wise to continue controls on rents and by Treasury Secretary George Shultz that it would not be good to control farm prices.

"The President is saying (to) the landlord, we can't touch him because he will go on strike if we touch him, and George Shultz is saying, the farmer, we can't touch him, he will go on strike—he won't plant.

"So the point is ... that there is a stick in the closet for labor," Meany said.

His reference was to a statement Nixon made earlier this year that he had a big stick in his closet that he would use if inflation got out of line.

Meany was interviewed on NBC's Meet the Press.

Cheaper Eating? Chicken Has It Over Cost Of Beef Rib Roast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A typical serving from a beef rib roast can cost about three times as much as a serving of chicken providing the same amount of protein.

The Agriculture Department makes the point in offering a handy guide to cheaper eating, a service for consumers up in arms about soaring meat prices.

The guide, which appears in the current issue of the department's Family Economics Review, says there is little economy in substituting "cheap" meats like frankfurters and bologna if equivalent amounts of protein are wanted.

Protein-cost fiures in the guide are all based on food prices in August, 1972, and prices for the foods covered in the survey have risen considerably since then. But Mrs. Betty Peterkin, a home economist who prepared the guide, said the relationship between different protein sources probably has not changed greatly at the higher price levels.

The guide shows that with round steak selling at $1.51 a pound last August, a small serving furnishing 20 grams of protein (one-third of the recommended daily amount for a 20-year-old man) would have cost 33 cents a portion. Frankfurters, selling at an average of 91 cents a pound last August, also would have cost 33 cents for a 20 gram serving.

A three-ounce serving of cooked, lean meat from beef, pork, poultry or fish will provide slightly over 20 grams of protein. For some processed products, however, protein content per pound is lower and consumers would have to eat more than three ounces to get 20 grams of protein.

The August costs for 20 grams of protein for various foods included dry beans, 6 cents; peanut butter, 15 cents; chicken, 15 cents; beef liver, 19 cents; hamburger, 19 cents; American process cheese, 21 cents; whole ham, 22 cents; beef rib roats, 44 cents; pork sausage, 45 cents; bologna, 46 cents; sliced bacon, 52 cents.

Another table, rating different cuts of meat, poultry and fish in terms of the cost of a 3-ounce serving at August, 1972, prices showed:

Hamburger, 20 cents; chicken, 20 cents; frozen ocean perch fillet, 22 cents; canned ham, 31 cents; whole ham, 22 cents; beef chuck roast (bone in), 51 cents; pork loin roast, 46 cents; pork chops (center), 58 cents; sirloin steak, 68 cents; loin lamb chops, 94 cents; porterhouse steak, 97 cents.

BOTTLENECK FACES LARKSPUR FERRY TERMINAL

Up to 4,000 commuters are supposed to squeeze through this two-lane railroad underpass on East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard when the ferry terminal opens a year from June. Labor Rips Nixon Wages Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock said today the administration's decision to retain the 5.5 per cent wage guidelines was an "exact contradiction" of what President Nixon's Labor-Management Advisory Committee recommended.

AFL-CIO President George Meany warned that organized labor has "a stick in the closet" if Nixon's Phase III economic program is not applied equally.

Woodcock said the advisory committee on which he, Meany and three other union officials serve had agreed unanimously that no specific guidelines be set for wages during Phase III. The White House ignored the committee's recommendation, he charged.

The White House declined to get involved in controversy over the issue.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said today that the administration would be flexible in enforcing the 5.5 per cent wage guidelines, and added:

"I'm not going to get into anything to contribute to any confrontation with Mr. Meany or any other person. We feel Phase III is a strong program and is going to work."

Speaking at a joint legislative conference sponsored by the UAW and the International Association of Machinists, Woodcock reiterated his demand that Congress refuse to extend Nixon's wage-price control authority beyond its April 30 expiration.

He said that the five labor and five management members of the advisory committee had agreed to abandon any specific numerical figure for wage increases under Phase III, and to have instead "a statement of purpose and policy."

Woodcock said the committee had understood that John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council — who conducted the committee meetings — would announce Feb. 26 that the panel had agreed to abandon specific wage guidelines.

But, he added, Dunlop and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz instead announced that the 5.5 per cent guideline of Phase II would be retained in Phase III, but would be applied more flexibly.

Meany, the head of 14 million union members, said Sunday he wanted to cooperate with President Nixon "in order to keep the prices down."

But he complained of "galloping inflation" and food prices that were "absolutely running wild."

"The only thing we have got under control is the workers' wages, and we think this is eminently and very definitely unfair," Meany said.

Meany criticized statements by Nixon that it would not be wise to continue controls on rents and by Treasury Secretary George Shultz that it would not be good to control farm prices.

"The President is saying (to) the landlord, we can't touch him because he will go on strike if we touch him, and George Shultz is saying, the farmer, we can't touch him, he will go on strike—he won't plant.

"So the point is ... that there is a stick in the closet for labor," Meany said.

His reference was to a statement Nixon made earlier this year that he had a big stick in his closet that he would use if inflation got out of line.

Meany was interviewed on NBC's Meet the Press.

Cheaper Eating? Chicken Has It Over Cost Of Beef Rib Roast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A typical serving from a beef rib roast can cost about three times as much as a serving of chicken providing the same amount of protein.

The Agriculture Department makes the point in offering a handy guide to cheaper eating, a service for consumers up in arms about soaring meat prices.

The guide, which appears in the current issue of the department's Family Economics Review, says there is little economy in substituting "cheap" meats like frankfurters and bologna if equivalent amounts of protein are wanted.

Protein-cost fiures in the guide are all based on food prices in August, 1972, and prices for the foods covered in the survey have risen considerably since then. But Mrs. Betty Peterkin, a home economist who prepared the guide, said the relationship between different protein sources probably has not changed greatly at the higher price levels.

The guide shows that with round steak selling at $1.51 a pound last August, a small serving furnishing 20 grams of protein (one-third of the recommended daily amount for a 20-year-old man) would have cost 33 cents a portion. Frankfurters, selling at an average of 91 cents a pound last August, also would have cost 33 cents for a 20 gram serving.

Money Markets Are Closed

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The European Common Market ordered its money markets closed for one week starting today to give its nine members, Japan and the United States time to work out an overall solution to the latest world monetary crisis.

It called for a meeting with the United States and other rich Western nations Friday.

The Market's week-long closure was the first such step since World War II, although the money markets have been closed for shorter periods during monetary crisis. The action symbolized the seriousness of the latest money crisis.

In Tokyo, banking officials said Japan was likely to keep its foreign exchange closed until the powerful European markets reopen.

The Market decision came Sunday at a 5-hour emergency meeting after a week marked by another round of heavy selling of unwanted dollars by speculators who are afraid the dollar cannot maintain its value overseas despite a 10 per cent devaluation Feb. 13.

As they announced the closing of money markets, Market finance ministers said they also asked the United States and the rest of the non-Communist world's richest Western countries to meet Friday in Paris to discuss the second monetary crisis of the year.

"We expect some cooperation from the United States," said French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

There was no official reaction from Washington on the latest developments in the crisis.

The Market ministers said they would meet again Thursday, to make plans for the Friday meeting, then will meet again next Sunday —"to draw conclusions," as one minister put it.

Other nations asked to join in the Paris talks include the so-called "Group of 10," the world's richest Western nations, among them Canada, Sweden, Japan and Switzerland.

In Ottawa, Finance Minister John Turner said his country probably will attend but that a decision must await details of what ministers will discuss.

In Tokyo, informed sources said Japan would attend.

Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), attended the Sunday meeting as representative of an organization created nearly 30 years ago to make sure the world money system works effectively.

This system was endangered again last Thursday when speculators dumped $2.7 billion unwanted dollars in West Germany alone and forced most major money markets to close Friday. The Paris market opened briefly, but closed after speculators unloaded another $300 to $350 million.

The closing of markets this week means that all currencies are temporarily "floating," that is they no longer have fixed prices but are bought and sold for whatever speculators, banks, businessmen and individuals think they are worth.

The Japanese yen, Canadian dollar, Italian lira, British pound and the Swiss franc already were floating and many financial experts said all major moneys might soon float in an attempt to reduce the world dollar panic.

Rained-Out Walkathon Is Resumed

The 1,200 Marin "Happiness Walk" hikers whose planned 20-mile march was cut short by Saturday's unexpected rainstorm, began hiking again today — to collect from sponsors who had pledged mileage donations to the United Cerebral Palsy Association.

Because of the rules, the association gave the hikers five miles credit for each mile walked in the rain. The preplanned rainy-day route was about four miles. Each hiker who completed the walkathon was given a colorful United Cerebral Palsy Association patch declaring "I did it."

Association spokesmen said the hikers' sponsors pledged to donate more than $10,000 to the Marin drive. Similar hikes were held in four other Bay Area counties.

Art Display

Drawings and abstractions by Jeanne Baumgarten of Mill Valley will be on display from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. through March 16 at the Mill Valley Library.

Burned Woman Said 'Critical'

A 72-year-old Lagunitas woman was reported in critical condition today as a result of burns suffered Saturday when her nightgown caught fire as she cooked breakfast.

Katleen Masson of 100 Corona Avenue suffered second and third degree burns over about one third of her body, according to a spokesman for St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco.

Mrs. Masson was taken first to Marin General Hospital in an ambulance summoned by a neighbor, then transferred to St. Francis Hospital for intensive care in the burn unit there.

Proposed Budget To Be Studied

A proposed budget for 1973-74 will be presented at the Lagunitas School District board meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at San Geronimo Valley School.

The board also will hear a projection of class sizes for the next school year.

A district-sponsored candidates night in the April 17 board election will be considered for March 14 at Lagunitas School.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Are Public Schools Required To Teach?

"When students fail to learn, are those responsible for their learning — schools, teachers, and publishers and purchasers of educational materials — legally responsible for student failure?"

That question was raised in an article in the Education issue of Saturday Review last October by writers Gary Saretsky and James Mechlenburger.

THE WRITERS went on to hypothecate a situation which might result in suit against a school district for failing its contractual obligation. They suggested that pupils in an imaginary George Washington School showed by tests given when they entered first grade that they were of normal intelligence, but four years later on standardized tests fell far below national norms.

The parents of these children, they suggested, might file suit, arguing "that compulsory attendance is a denial of liberty without due process; that since the purpose of schools is to cause learning and that since learning at George Washington is inadequate, the state and its agents have insufficient cause to continue to require attendance at that school . . .

"They contend that their payment of tax dollars and their giving of children to the school for several years involve an implied warranty from the school authorities that adequate learning will result. Since adequate learning has not taken place, they contend, school authorites are in breach of their implied contract."

ALL THIS, of course, was hypothetical. But the authors went farther. They made a survey of some scholars and practitioners in school law and constitutional law, and reported that "all concurred that cases such as those suggested in this article can be anticipated."

They reported also that Stuart Sandow, a research fellow at Syracuse University's Educational Policy Research Center, had in 1970 hypothecated a successful suit for fraud against a school district on the basis that a youth's high school diploma had no value. Sandow sent his imaginary case description to 200 lawyers, legislators, state education officers and school and university authorities.

"Eighty per cent of Sandow's respondents foresaw the case arising and succeeding within five years," reported Saretsky and Mechlenburger. "Moreover, 80 per cent saw it resulting in an improvement in the quality of education."

INTERESTINGLY, shortly after this article appeared, the Youth Law Center in San Francisco sued San Francisco Unified School District in behalf of a Galileo High School graduate for one million dollars, claiming he had been graduated without learning to read and write. The youth, according to the suit, is of average I.Q. and educable. The suit has not yet been set for hearing by San Francisco Superior Court.

The hypothetical cases constructed by the Saturday Review writers and by Sandow, and the actual case filed by the Youth Law Center, are of interest in Marin and elsewhere, because they pose a very basic question:

Since parents are required by law to pay school taxes and to send their children to school, are not the schools supported by those taxes legally obligated to educate the children to certain standards?

But, if they are, what are those standards?

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Democrats Find 'Winner;' Heard Of Eldred G. Peck?

By EARL G. WATERS

The political surprise of the century is about to be unveiled. It is certain to throw the avowed candidates for governor into shock.

Disenchanted with the prospects for 1974 as represented by those who have tossed their hats into the ring, some prominent Democrats have been busy looking for a winner.

They have agreed upon Eldred G. Peck. If the name doesn't ring a bell, look him up in "Who's Who" under Gregory Peck.

THE DECISION to seek out Peck came after appraising the chances of Speaker Bob Moretti, Mayor Joseph Alioto, Secy. of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., Congressman Jerome Waldie, and State Senators George Moscone and James Mills.

Aided by secret polls, these party stalwarts, who in the past have been instrumental in raising funds and guiding campaigns, conclude the above are all losers. Moretti, in his efforts to emulate former Speaker Jesse Unruh, emerges with a fatal miniature "Big Daddy" image. Alioto, irreparably damaged by trials and lawsuits, is competing with the personable Moscone, and they succeed only in knocking each other out. The party stalwarts see Brown winning the nomination only to get thoroughly trounced in November.

On these assumptions they have decided to borrow a leaf from the Republican book of success. "Californians," they say, "have shown a penchant for electing actors. Let's give them a good one."

IN GREGORY PECK they certainly have that. Winner of the best actor Academy Award in 1962 for his role in "To Kill a Mocking Bird," he had four times previously been honored by nomination for the award.

But Peck, at age 56, is more than an actor. Born in La Jolla, scion of an established and well-to-do family, he has entree to society's "blue book." What makes him particularly attractive to his supporters is his untarnished image. While he has been a party loyal, he has been selective in lending himself to candidates and causes, thus maintaining a low visibility.

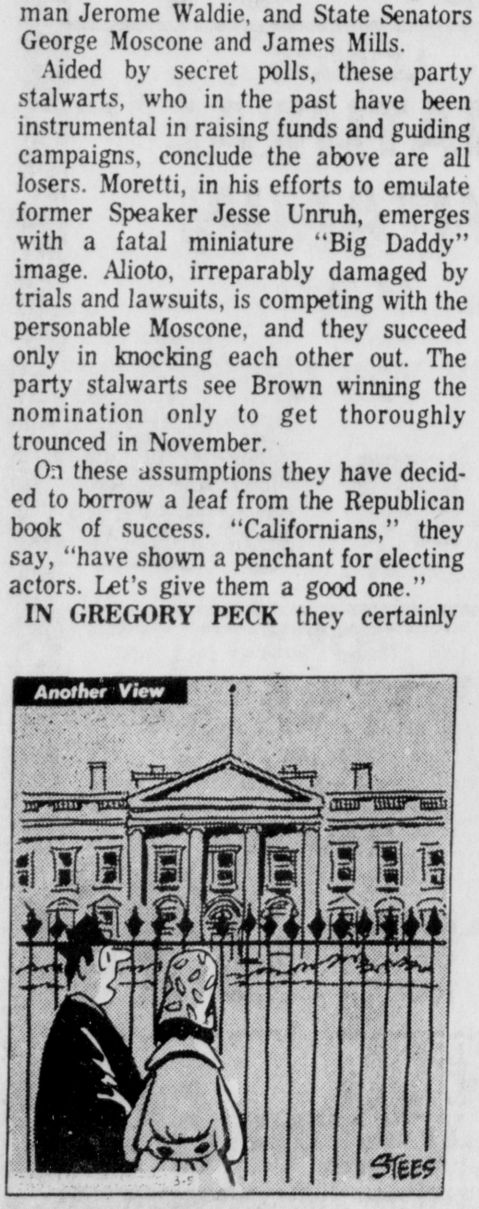
He is a moderate, with a keen sense of social responsibility as demonstrated by his service as National Cancer Society chairman in 1966 and his winning of the Medal of Freedom in 1969.

"This," say his would-be backers, "is the one man who can unite the Democratic party and lead it to victory. He is acceptable to labor, the minorities, the business community and the party regulars. And he does not represent a frightening specter to the Republicans."

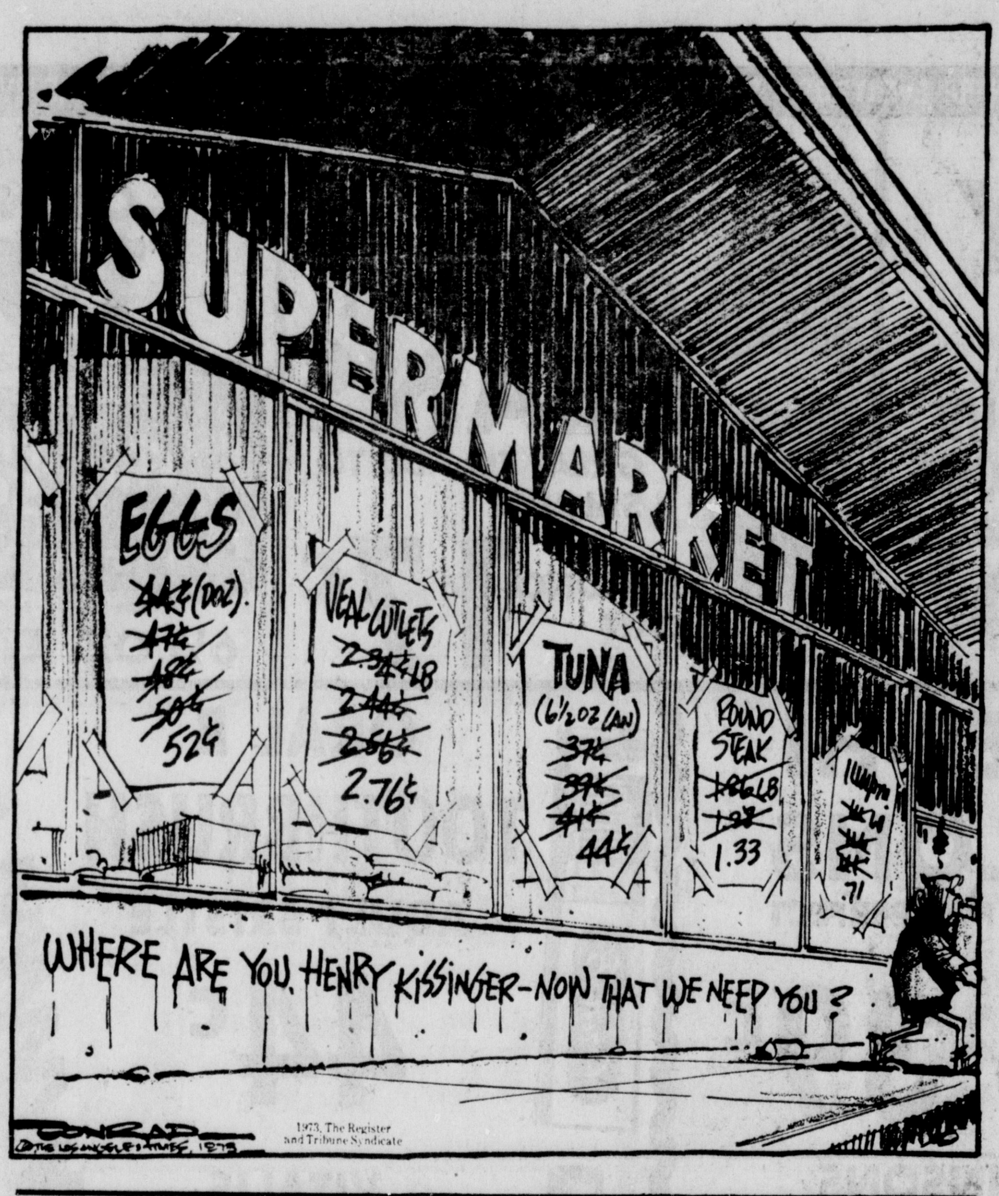
PECK'S PUBLIC and private conduct has been above reproach. Father of four sons and a daughter, he has led a quiet life devoted to art and music. He served as president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences from 1967 to 1970. A college athlete at U.C. until a back injury turned his interest to the theater, he is a picture of the clean American.

His movie roles have tended to further this image. Invariably he has portrayed the decent citizen willing to stand up for right. He has been criticized as an actor by some who say, instead of submerging to the character he portrays, the Peck personality takes over. The same things were said about Gary Cooper and Clark Gable and they, like Peck, were always among the top 10 money-making stars.

It is not known at this point whether Peck has agreed to enter the race or whether he has even been consulted. It is known he showed interest in running for office several years ago. Long-distance phones have been hot and heavy in the past few days between top state Democrats. Apparently they wanted to take readings and put together an iron-tight package to present to Peck. No comment from Peck himself was obtainable.



"All dark! Must be out on the town again."



1973, The Register and Tribune Syndicate

Kids Find The Law Is Not On Their Side

Ben Meyer stands convicted of maintaining an animal establishment without a permit — an offense against the peace an dignity of the People of the State of California. Ben let some kids in Bolinas use his pasture for grazing their horses and Joe Kelly, of the Marin County Sheriff's Office, busted him for it.

Gary Giacomini and Bob Roumiguiere don't think there's any way Ben can get the permit without spending a lot of moeny to conform to county regulations in Marin — money which Ben hasn't got.

So it looks like the kids are going to lose their horses. They haven't got much money either and thee's nowhere else for them to go.

I do not believe that the law was ever intended to be applied like this and I hope that a reconsideration might be made in this case and I wish that the law-enforcement apparatus of Marin County would turn its attention to more pressing matters.

But, then, if wishes were dollars even beggars would be kings.

ERIC W. GILLIAM

Pacheco School Closing Seen As 'First Step'

I wish to secure my right of freedom of speech through the medium you so graciously provide for all persons residing in the Novato area. My letter deals with an issue of great controversy now facing al residents of Novato, that of the closing of one of our schools.

I'm of the opinion, the real reason I was the only person asked to sit down and give up the floor, at the public hearing held Feb. 13, was because I was pointing out too many of the true faults which do exist in the recommended proposal presented to the public by the district board . . . If all the existing conditions were really taken into consideration in regards to closing one of our schools, namely Pacheco Elementary School, one would see that there is too much risk of a mistake involved in doing so.

The main reason given for closing Pacheco is that the enrollment has, in the past four school years, shown the greatest decrease in the southern area of the district. This is said to have mainly occurred because of the possible closing of Hamilton Air Force Base. Keeping this in mind let us consider the following:

1. During the four school years taken into study, the fact exists on the district records, that two years ago, the school year of 1970-71, there was not a decrease but rather an increase in enrollment in the southern area. It is very possible that this could occur again.

2. At present the southern area has 30 per cent of the elementary enrollment of the district to be educated in 30 per cent of the elementary schools. That sounds like a desirable situation no matter how you look at it.

3. On the matter of HAFB closing, has no consideration been given to the recent end of the war, which means all those servicemen returning are entitled to stateside duty tours . . .

4. The figures of the presented proposal have allotted class sizes in the sixth grades to be beyond the legal size and all other grades at near or maximum size.

5. The dangers involved in the proposal for children to walk to Lynwood School by walking over that blind hill curve, in a head on direction of approaching and departing walking and auto traffic of the jr. high students, is a fact that should be very much considered.

In addition to the above facts, is the fact that three apartment complexes and a housing development are being built in this area. I understand these are to be family units rather than the customary adults only apartments that are presently here. Correctly quoting the representative of the land planning office, these are planned for completion in the next six to 18 months . . .

It seems to me that closing Pacheco School is only the first step in a financial plan to build a beautiful educational center, full of wonderful education specialists, etc. Why place our children in need of these specialists by closing schools, crowding those which will remain open, thus downgrading the education of our children to such a point. For whose benefit is this?

Those 'Big Red Cars' Were Really Convenient

Having ridden the Big Red Cars of the Los Angeles transit system as a young woman, I must disagree with every point in your editorial indictment that they were "noisy, uncomfortable, dirty and generally unattractive."

My experience was in the late 1930s and early '40s. We lived in two different Los Angeles suburbs (San Marino and Pasadena) and in each place needed to walk either five or three blocks from our quiet homes to convenient, decent public transportation on its own right of way. It also did not pollute the air, since the cars were electric.

In the years since that time, America's love affair with the automobile brought about thousands of discriminatory laws and decisions in which public money and public decision gave every convenience to the automobile, leaving transit as the shabby and apologetic poor relation . . .

Is the automobile really "convenient"? Up to a point, yes, if you are willing to pour billions of dollars into bigger roads and bigger parking lots, and accept the dirty air, the pervasive noise, the environmental degradation of massive engineering projects.

The comparatively minor costs of making transit convenient or even possible are, however, spoken of in shocked tones. Even the nickels and dimes for placing benches at bus stops are hard to come by, let alone the convenience of transit rights of way or decent stations. And while roads and parking in new residential or commercial developments are planned as a matter of course, transit planning is conspicuous by its absence.

By HAROLD COFFIN

Everbybody likes frequent holidays but nobody was enthusiastic about the administration's idea of celebrating Meatless Day once every week.

Is this Phase IV of Dick's economic policy?

To discontinue buying products just because they're high-priced is not the American Way.

Mideast Settlement Now First On Nixon Foreign Affairs Agenda

Can Nixon break the Mideast stalemate? It is first on his agenda. It has been intractable so far for this reason: Each side wants impossible conditions before negotiating.

President Sadat says Egypt will not negotiate unless Israel withdraws from all occupied territory.

Prime Minister Meier says Israel will not withdraw from any of the occupied territory before negotiations.

Nixon hopes to induce a limited compromise by both sides to begin talks for a limited settlement. A Kissinger trip to Cairo and later to Israel is in the making.

DOES SHOOTING DOWN OF LIBYAN AIRLINER WRECK PEACE TALKS? It may have the opposite effect. Israel has lost a good deal of sympathy in world opinion. Many Americans are either pained or turned off by the trigger-quick attack on a commercial plane which had lost its way.

The Arabs have wisely exerted great restraint and thus let anti-Israeli opinion roll up.

U. S. military support for Israel is the main deterrent to renewed war. Egypt knows it couldn't win.

But Nixon wants to move beyond just forestalling war. He pressed Mrs. Meir for some sign of flexibility which would enable him to encourage Sadat to do the same.

GRAY WILL BE FBI DIRECTOR. One Democratic senator urges a full-scale committee investigation before confirmation of Gray, but announces in advance of its findings that he will vote against Gray.

Much of the opposition to Patrick Gray rests on the stated view that "he has been too close to Nixon." This is part of a double standard which many politicians still practice. The same Democratic senators who avow they oppose Gray "because he is too close to Nixon" had no objection to President Kennedy making his brother attorney general and putting him over the FBI.

WOMEN AND THE REPUBLICAN PARTY. The record of the Nixon administration in naming women to high levels of government is outstanding. More women have been appointed and more appointed to top jobs than during any preceding administration.

But women are not being welcomed by Republican Party leaders when it comes to nomination for elective office. There are now 14 women in the House of Representatives, 12 are Democrats, only two are Republicans.

REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL HOPEFULS ARE GATHERING — IN NUMBER AS WELL AS ZEAL. There are already five potential candidates whose aides are visibly working in their behalf and are themselves keeping a fairly low profile.

These are, in alphabetical order: Vice President Spiro Agnew, former Gov. John Connally, Gov. Ronald Reagan, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Sen. Charles Percy. Others ill emerge, possibly former Defense Secy. Melvin Laird, Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee and, conceivably, Robert Finch, who polled more votes for lieutenant governor in California than Governor Reagan polled in his first election.

This is what Nixon has been looking for —a real contest for the 1976 nomination.

WHERE ARE THE STUDENT RADICALS NOW? In both the United States and Western Europe, they have gone to work to earn their living or have joined the Establishment or slipped underground to await developments.

The leaders of Students for a Democratic Society (who were mostly nonstudents for a nondemocratic society) and the Weatherman are hardly visible today. The urge to violence has either left the leadership, or the willingness of youth to condone violence has left the campus.

Most seem to feel that their goals were right but their tactics wrong. The last three SDS presidents have disappeared underground.

The student revolutionary movement is also quiescent in Japan, Germany, France and Britain.

Synthesizing History Latest Scheme To Despoil Landscape

WASHINGTON — A sad fact of our day is that when a certain class of businessman sees a piece of America just lying there the way God made it, he cannot appreciate it for what it is. He sees it instead in dollar terms, for the money it might make if it were scalped, bulldozed, paved, built on, developed, sewerized and otherwise defaced.

When he sees a mountain valley, he sees a ski resort, with roads, hotels, treeless slopes, parking lots, restaurants and nightclubs. When he sees an open field, he sees a dense concentration of town houses, selling at perhaps $50,000 per. When he sees a salt marsh where fish breed and birds feed, he sees a dredged and filled marina, with associated condominium developments.

Most outrageously, but completely understandably, he is attracted strongly to the most beautiful parts of our country, especially those whose very beauty already draws many travelers. Thus, in recent years, he has laid greedy siege to a series of our national shrines.

I HAVE WRITTEN about the junky tourist traps that already line the road bisecting the Gettysburg battlefield, and the ambition of one entrepreneur to cap it off with a modernistic 307-foot observation tower, complete with restaurant and entrance fee, of course, which would dominate the horizon there. You will be cheered to know that at latest check, the gentleman was proceeding with his project despite the public outcry.

About 100 miles east, the outspent citizens of Tredyffrin Township outside Philadelphia have been fighting a determined battle to prevent large-scale private developers' encroachment on Valley Forge Park. Despite their vigor and appeals for help from the President, the operative fact in the struggle has been that the developer can and does employ a battalion of lawyers to confront them at every turn.

Barely 40 miles southwest of Gettysburg, Maryland housing developers have kept up constant pressure to build on and around the Antietam battlefield, where Lee and McClellan met on the bloodiest day of the Civil War.

And at the moment, the third battle of Manassas is under way just 30 miles from the White House. This time the contestants are not Beauregard and Jackson, McDowell and Pope, but the unorganized citizens of Prince William County, Va., vs. the well-known Marriott Corp.

MARRIOTT, WHICH IS already into the hotel, restaurant, airline catering and private-security businesses, has been trying for many months — in response to no discernible public demand whatever — to bless the national capital area with its own version of Disneyland.

This dream is to be entitled "Great America," and to peddle history, patriotism and other commendable commodities. Just why the capital area needs more fabricated history and patriotism implanted in Virginia soil just south of the site of two major Civil War battles, and within a quick drive of the greatest concentration of historical Americana extant, is not clear to the average citizen without a financial stake in the project.

Seven out of eight supervisors of Prince William County, which includes Manassas, endorsed the development there before the public knew it had even been proposed. But it is not yet too late for the operation to be shunted elsewhere. Despite the supervisors' initial approval, formal rezoning has yet to be granted. And the State of Virginia has given the acquiescing supervisors reason to think their decision over.

A tough bureaucrat named Noman M. Cole Jr., chairman of the State Water Control Board, has informed the supervisors that if they grant approval and the development overloads the area's sewage treatment, each of them may be liable to a fine of up to $25,000 a day and up to a year in jail.

His firmness does not guarantee that the third battle of Manassas (or Bull Run, if you prefer) will turn out happily. But there is no question that he is giving the invaders some serious second thoughts. And there is at least the prospect that among local citizens his name will join those of earlier generals who made the neighborhood famous. We can wish his likes were available at Valley Forge, Gettysburg, Antietam and the other green places that are on the developers' long list of objectives.

Are Public Schools Required To Teach?

"When students fail to learn, are those responsible for their learning — schools, teachers, and publishers and purchasers of educational materials — legally responsible for student failure?"

That question was raised in an article in the Education issue of Saturday Review last October by writers Gary Saretsky and James Mechlenburger.

THE WRITERS went on to hypothecate a situation which might result in suit against a school district for failing its contractual obligation. They suggested that pupils in an imaginary George Washington School showed by tests given when they entered first grade that they were of normal intelligence, but four years later on standardized tests fell far below national norms.

The parents of these children, they suggested, might file suit, arguing "that compulsory attendance is a denial of liberty without due process; that since the purpose of schools is to cause learning and that since learning at George Washington is inadequate, the state and its agents have insufficient cause to continue to require attendance at that school . . .

"They contend that their payment of tax dollars and their giving of children to the school for several years involve an implied warranty from the school authorities that adequate learning will result. Since adequate learning has not taken place, they contend, school authorites are in breach of their implied contract."

ALL THIS, of course, was hypothetical. But the authors went farther. They made a survey of some scholars and practitioners in school law and constitutional law, and reported that "all concurred that cases such as those suggested in this article can be anticipated."

They reported also that Stuart Sandow, a research fellow at Syracuse University's Educational Policy Research Center, had in 1970 hypothecated a successful suit for fraud against a school district on the basis that a youth's high school diploma had no value. Sandow sent his imaginary case description to 200 lawyers, legislators, state education officers and school and university authorities.

"Eighty per cent of Sandow's respondents foresaw the case arising and succeeding within five years," reported Saretsky and Mechlenburger. "Moreover, 80 per cent saw it resulting in an improvement in the quality of education."

INTERESTINGLY, shortly after this article appeared, the Youth Law Center in San Francisco sued San Francisco Unified School District in behalf of a Galileo High School graduate for one million dollars, claiming he had been graduated without learning to read and write. The youth, according to the suit, is of average I.Q. and educable. The suit has not yet been set for hearing by San Francisco Superior Court.

The hypothetical cases constructed by the Saturday Review writers and by Sandow, and the actual case filed by the Youth Law Center, are of interest in Marin and elsewhere, because they pose a very basic question:

Since parents are required by law to pay school taxes and to send their children to school, are not the schools supported by those taxes legally obligated to educate the children to certain standards?

But, if they are, what are those standards?

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Democrats Find 'Winner;' Heard Of Eldred G. Peck?

By EARL G. WATERS

The political surprise of the century is about to be unveiled. It is certain to throw the avowed candidates for governor into shock.

Disenchanted with the prospects for 1974 as represented by those who have tossed their hats into the ring, some prominent Democrats have been busy looking for a winner.

They have agreed upon Eldred G. Peck. If the name doesn't ring a bell, look him up in "Who's Who" under Gregory Peck.

THE DECISION to seek out Peck came after appraising the chances of Speaker Bob Moretti, Mayor Joseph Alioto, Secy. of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., Congressman Jerome Waldie, and State Senators George Moscone and James Mills.

Aided by secret polls, these party stalwarts, who in the past have been instrumental in raising funds and guiding campaigns, conclude the above are all losers. Moretti, in his efforts to emulate former Speaker Jesse Unruh, emerges with a fatal miniature "Big Daddy" image. Alioto, irreparably damaged by trials and lawsuits, is competing with the personable Moscone, and they succeed only in knocking each other out. The party stalwarts see Brown winning the nomination only to get thoroughly trounced in November.

On these assumptions they have decided to borrow a leaf from the Republican book of success. "Californians," they say, "have shown a penchant for electing actors. Let's give them a good one."

IN GREGORY PECK they certainly have that. Winner of the best actor Academy Award in 1962 for his role in "To Kill a Mocking Bird," he had four times previously been honored by nomination for the award.

But Peck, at age 56, is more than an actor. Born in La Jolla, scion of an established and well-to-do family, he has entree to society's "blue book." What makes him particularly attractive to his supporters is his untarnished image. While he has been a party loyal, he has been selective in lending himself to candidates and causes, thus maintaining a low visibility.

He is a moderate, with a keen sense of social responsibility as demonstrated by his service as National Cancer Society chairman in 1966 and his winning of the Medal of Freedom in 1969.

"This," say his would-be backers, "is the one man who can unite the Democratic party and lead it to victory. He is acceptable to labor, the minorities, the business community and the party regulars. And he does not represent a frightening specter to the Republicans."

PECK'S PUBLIC and private conduct has been above reproach. Father of four sons and a daughter, he has led a quiet life devoted to art and music. He served as president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences from 1967 to 1970. A college athlete at U.C. until a back injury turned his interest to the theater, he is a picture of the clean American.

His movie roles have tended to further this image. Invariably he has portrayed the decent citizen willing to stand up for right. He has been criticized as an actor by some who say, instead of submerging to the character he portrays, the Peck personality takes over. The same things were said about Gary Cooper and Clark Gable and they, like Peck, were always among the top 10 money-making stars.

It is not known at this point whether Peck has agreed to enter the race or whether he has even been consulted. It is known he showed interest in running for office several years ago. Long-distance phones have been hot and heavy in the past few days between top state Democrats. Apparently they wanted to take readings and put together an iron-tight package to present to Peck. No comment from Peck himself was obtainable.

Kids Find The Law Is Not On Their Side

Ben Meyer stands convicted of maintaining an animal establishment without a permit — an offense against the peace an dignity of the People of the State of California. Ben let some kids in Bolinas use his pasture for grazing their horses and Joe Kelly, of the Marin County Sheriff's Office, busted him for it.

Gary Giacomini and Bob Roumiguiere don't think there's any way Ben can get the permit without spending a lot of moeny to conform to county regulations in Marin — money which Ben hasn't got.

So it looks like the kids are going to lose their horses. They haven't got much money either and thee's nowhere else for them to go.

I do not believe that the law was ever intended to be applied like this and I hope that a reconsideration might be made in this case and I wish that the law-enforcement apparatus of Marin County would turn its attention to more pressing matters.

But, then, if wishes were dollars even beggars would be kings.

Pacheco School Closing Seen As 'First Step'

I wish to secure my right of freedom of speech through the medium you so graciously provide for all persons residing in the Novato area. My letter deals with an issue of great controversy now facing al residents of Novato, that of the closing of one of our schools.

I'm of the opinion, the real reason I was the only person asked to sit down and give up the floor, at the public hearing held Feb. 13, was because I was pointing out too many of the true faults which do exist in the recommended proposal presented to the public by the district board . . . If all the existing conditions were really taken into consideration in regards to closing one of our schools, namely Pacheco Elementary School, one would see that there is too much risk of a mistake involved in doing so.

The main reason given for closing Pacheco is that the enrollment has, in the past four school years, shown the greatest decrease in the southern area of the district. This is said to have mainly occurred because of the possible closing of Hamilton Air Force Base. Keeping this in mind let us consider the following:

1. During the four school years taken into study, the fact exists on the district records, that two years ago, the school year of 1970-71, there was not a decrease but rather an increase in enrollment in the southern area. It is very possible that this could occur again.

2. At present the southern area has 30 per cent of the elementary enrollment of the district to be educated in 30 per cent of the elementary schools. That sounds like a desirable situation no matter how you look at it.

3. On the matter of HAFB closing, has no consideration been given to the recent end of the war, which means all those servicemen returning are entitled to stateside duty tours . . .

4. The figures of the presented proposal have allotted class sizes in the sixth grades to be beyond the legal size and all other grades at near or maximum size.

5. The dangers involved in the proposal for children to walk to Lynwood School by walking over that blind hill curve, in a head on direction of approaching and departing walking and auto traffic of the jr. high students, is a fact that should be very much considered.

In addition to the above facts, is the fact that three apartment complexes and a housing development are being built in this area. I understand these are to be family units rather than the customary adults only apartments that are presently here. Correctly quoting the representative of the land planning office, these are planned for completion in the next six to 18 months . . .

It seems to me that closing Pacheco School is only the first step in a financial plan to build a beautiful educational center, full of wonderful education specialists, etc. Why place our children in need of these specialists by closing schools, crowding those which will remain open, thus downgrading the education of our children to such a point. For whose benefit is this?

Pass It Along In Whispers: The Lady Planted Petunias

You ask what a nice old lady like me is doing in a place like this?

To explain, we must go back a few years. I suppose it all started way back in 1974 when I got arrested on an illegal petunia possession rap.

You see, the year before, in 1973, one of the little cities we used to have in Calopolis — Tiburon, I think it was called — passed an ordinance that anyone building a new home should submit their "planting plans" to the city. The Tiburon City Council was collectively worried that expensive homes there weren't being "tastefully landscaped."

LET ME WHISPER here, my dear, so the guards don't overhear: Before then, believe it or not, homeowners were allowed to grow whatever they liked in their own gardens. Honestly! Sunflowers, tomatoes, even crabgrass — but of course you wouldn't know what that was.

Well, before you could say "environmental impact" all the other cities had passed similar laws; none wanted to be outdone by little Tiburon.

So when my husband and I built our new home in 1974 we had to take our preliminary planting plan to the board of design review (that was in the days when homes were of differing designs). We weren't sure what we would plant in that garden, but we had to have that piece of paper approved.

We drew a few rose beds, a lawn, some flower borders and a couple of fruit trees.

IT WAS REJECTED. "Not tasteful," pronounced the board. "Not expensive enough," muttered one member.

Our yard, they announced, looking up the controlled growth (organic variety) regulations, was zoned for junipers, weedfree lawns, no more than two shade trees, non-deciduous, and low-maintenance oleanders, camellias and one specimen magnolia.

We squawked and appealed, but to no avail. Conform, or no building permit. So we drew a conforming plan and the house was built.

But the old green thumb instinct triumphed, and one dark night I sowed a packet of petunia seeds.

No sooner had those purple petals unfurled than the Tasteful Landscaping Enforcement Brigade arrived with their nonconforming plant elimination equipment. I'll always remember the horror on their faces when they spotted the squash and cucumbers sprawling untidily up a fence; the unbridled revulsion when they discovered a compost heap.

OF COURSE I MIGHT have escaped with a heavy fine and compulsory razing of the house, but a detailed inspection by the brigade revealed so many infringements: Three dandelions in the lawn, four clumps of grass on the front path, and a whole family of aphis sucking at the magnolia.

The judge was kind when I appeared in court.

He cited the original Tiburon ordinance, which claimed its purpose was to "prevent the impairment or depreciations of land values and development" through "unsightly, undesirable or obnoxious appearance."

Even then I might have escaped being sent here to the Federal Department of Thought Correction, San Quentin branch, if I hadn't yelled out, that sunny day in 1974:

"George Orwell — you were 10 years out in your timing!"

Educational Goals Questionnaire Mailed

A questionnaire on educational goals has been mailed to Redwood High School parents in an effort to find out what they want the school to do in onal leader Donald Kreps said copies of the survey also were mailed to 500 residents in Redwood's attendance area, selected at random.

The survey was compiled by the Redwood Task Force, which has been working for the last two years to set educational goals for the Larkspur high school.

Kreps said that once the 5,500 completed forms were received, they would be tabulated and the results used to see what parents, students, staff and community members think are the most important goals, and whether the school is succeeding or failing to achieve them.

Goals listed range from basic skills in math and English to reducing class size to scholarships and financial aid.

Flood Control Review Slated

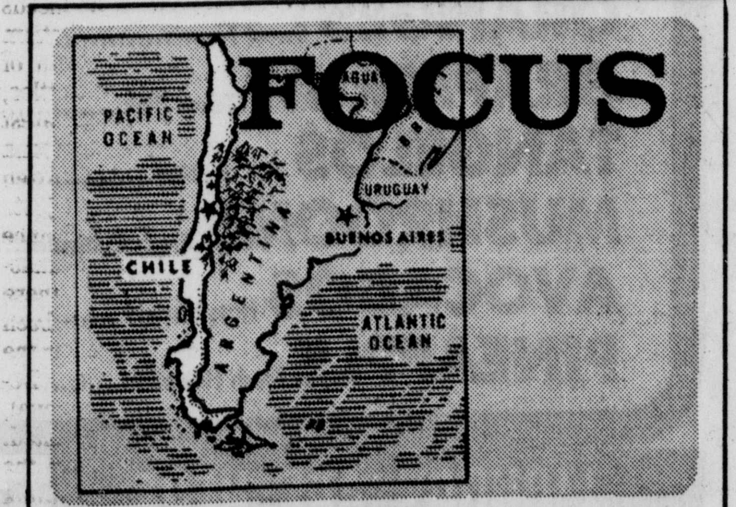
Legal problems on the Ross Valley Flood control project will be reviewed at the Ross Town Council meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at town hall.

Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson directed the council and Marin County Flood Control district to resolve the issue of how much the district should do about flooding in Ross.

The council will also hear a wine and beer license request from Nikita Van Beek for the French Dinner Restaurant, 9 Poplar Avenue.

Special Session

The Nicasio School district board will meet in special session at 7 p.m. today at Nicasio School to consider reducing the teaching staff.



Chile

Chile, which held congressional elections yesterday, is a long, narrow country with a tremendous range of geography and climate. Bordered on the west by the breathtaking Andes mountain chain, parts of Chile, with their virgin forests and glacial lakes, have earned for it the name, "Switzerland of South America." The northern portion of Chile contains some of the most formidable desert in the world. Because of the extreme climates in the north and south, most of the people live in the central part of the country. The name Chile is derived either from a Quechua Indian word for snow, or from an Aymara Indian word "Chilli," meaning "place where the earth ends."

DO YOU KNOW — What is the capital of Chile?

Spreading Infection In Academe: Anti-Intellectual Intellectualism

A year or so ago in a famous bit of breast-beating, the president of the Modern Language Association declared to assembled colleagues that the teaching of literature in American colleges had lost its justification. Literature, he confessed, was nothing but "a diversion and a spectacle," operating at an unforgivable distance from "practical activity."

If only this rather embarrassing self-accusation of uselessness were unique! Alas, the number of college students keeps going up, the confidence in college education keeps going down. One by one, this course and that, this field and that are judged to be "irrelevant," until by now the whole concept of a "liberal education" is seriously doubted.

IN HIS ESSAY "Mind in the Modern World," Lionel Trilling sadly takes for granted that the teaching of history suffers from a "deteriorating status," that philosophy has become a "technical subject for specialists," that, in fact, a college education is pretty universally regarded as "a rite of social passage," a diploma-ticket to upward mobility.

Anti-intellectualism, if you want to call it that, has always been a part of American tradition. What obviously alarms and disheartens Mr. Trilling is the specter of the anti-intellectual intellectual: the academic who adds his own self-doubt to the doubts of everybody else; the man of the mind who shares preeminently in the "falling off in mind's vital confidence in itself" and joins his detractors "to impugn and devalue the very concept of mind." The atheist in the pulpit.

An interview with George Steiner in the February issue of Psychology Today tends to illustrate what might be called the Unquiet Thinker syndrome. Mr. Steiner sits atop a distinguished career. He is a fellow at Cambridge, the author of "The Death of Tragedy," "Tolstoy or Dostoevsky," and several studies in linguistics. Yet he cannot talk five minutes without voicing his sense of guilt that he is only an intellectual, and a humanist at that.

He virtually apologizes for his aesthetic sensitivity: "We are trained to worry more about the cry in the poem than the cry in the streets" — as if art and life were not related.

He hastens to concede that "the act of reading is profoundly selfish. You are enclosed in the world of your passions. Every other human being is an enemy. . .To read is to exclude other human beings."

Could the most Philistine nonreader be harsher?

Rather wistfully Mr. Steiner muses: "I do wish that all of us had learned one manual skill." Adding a little naively: "Human beings who can use their hands well often have a margin of tolerance about fanatical ideas."

IDEAS — FANATICAL or otherwise — are so tiresomely evasive, so hard to pin down: buytterflies in the mirror. How one longs to lay one's hands on things, to substitute exact numbers for inexact words, to reduce all judgments to the precision scales of instruments. Mr. Steiner, the Unquiet Thinker, is voicing a distress almost all of us share.

But the question remains: Is he being a realist —a man of the future — as one might as first assume? Or is there a curious nostalgia at work here?

Are the Unquiet Thinkers disappointed romantics who expected too much of themselves and their disciplines? Faith in a "liberal education" has, at times past, approached the absolute proportions of a panacea. Now we are paying the price in overreaction.

The mood seems to have polarized. One puts one's trust either in the men in white coats or the men in black capes: the scientists in their labs or the mystics with their astrology charts, Satan cults, and cure-all yoga exercises.

The poor "humanist" with his Apocalyptic talk about "reason" and "moderation" is left looking silly in the abandoned middle.

THE POINT MAY BE that to expect too much of reason is unreasonable. But to despair of it prematurely is unreasonable, too. The general, unspecialized thinker — quiet or unquiet — must go on, succeeding partially (when he is inspired) and failing partially (when he is too ambitious).

And above all, he must not allow others —or himself — to make him feel "useless" or "irrelevant." With all the usual risks of looking absurd, must think about literature —or history, or philosophy —with "something like a sense of intellectual honor," in Mr. Trilling's words, "and out of the faith that in the practical life, which includes the moral life, some good must follow from even the relative success of the endeavor."

Reductions To Be Discussed

The Fairfax School District board will consider reducing its teaching staff at its meeting tomorrow at 7:45 p.m. at White Hill School.

Two weeks ago the board heard that dwindling enrollment may require elimination of two teaching posts. The board also will consider a plan to establish an employment seniority list.

The board will consider appointing a district citizen's advisory committee on special education programs.

Three Drivers Sentenced For Drinking Violations

Three persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court on drunken driving charges.

A motorist is legally drunk if he has had five weak drinks in an hour or eight over four hours.

Sentenced last Monday by Judge Peter Allen Smith were:

Harold Thomas Rogers, 52, of 12 Alexander Avenue, Sausalito, arrested Jan. 26 on Bridgeway, Sausalito, given 15 days in jail, suspended to a $250 fine, two years' probation and attendance at driving while intoxicated school.

Larry Robert Hampton, 33, of 80 Purrington Road, Petaluma, arrested Jan. 27 on Highway 101, given 15 days in jail, suspended to a $250 fine or 10 hours work for the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department and two years' probation.

Robert Raymond Powell, 22, of the aircraft carrier Coral Sea, arrested Feb. 16 on Highway 101, given 15 days in jail, suspended to a $240 fine and two years' probation.

Educational Goals Questionnaire Mailed

A questionnaire on educational goals has been mailed to Redwood High School parents in an effort to find out what they want the school to do in onal leader Donald Kreps said copies of the survey also were mailed to 500 residents in Redwood's attendance area, selected at random.

The survey was compiled by the Redwood Task Force, which has been working for the last two years to set educational goals for the Larkspur high school.

Kreps said that once the 5,500 completed forms were received, they would be tabulated and the results used to see what parents, students, staff and community members think are the most important goals, and whether the school is succeeding or failing to achieve them.

Goals listed range from basic skills in math and English to reducing class size to scholarships and financial aid.

Are Public Schools Required To Teach?

"When students fail to learn, are those responsible for their learning — schools, teachers, and publishers and purchasers of educational materials — legally responsible for student failure?"

That question was raised in an article in the Education issue of Saturday Review last October by writers Gary Saretsky and James Mechlenburger.

THE WRITERS went on to hypothecate a situation which might result in suit against a school district for failing its contractual obligation. They suggested that pupils in an imaginary George Washington School showed by tests given when they entered first grade that they were of normal intelligence, but four years later on standardized tests fell far below national norms.

The parents of these children, they suggested, might file suit, arguing "that compulsory attendance is a denial of liberty without due process; that since the purpose of schools is to cause learning and that since learning at George Washington is inadequate, the state and its agents have insufficient cause to continue to require attendance at that school . . .

"They contend that their payment of tax dollars and their giving of children to the school for several years involve an implied warranty from the school authorities that adequate learning will result. Since adequate learning has not taken place, they contend, school authorites are in breach of their implied contract."

ALL THIS, of course, was hypothetical. But the authors went farther. They made a survey of some scholars and practitioners in school law and constitutional law, and reported that "all concurred that cases such as those suggested in this article can be anticipated."

They reported also that Stuart Sandow, a research fellow at Syracuse University's Educational Policy Research Center, had in 1970 hypothecated a successful suit for fraud against a school district on the basis that a youth's high school diploma had no value. Sandow sent his imaginary case description to 200 lawyers, legislators, state education officers and school and university authorities.

"Eighty per cent of Sandow's respondents foresaw the case arising and succeeding within five years," reported Saretsky and Mechlenburger. "Moreover, 80 per cent saw it resulting in an improvement in the quality of education."

INTERESTINGLY, shortly after this article appeared, the Youth Law Center in San Francisco sued San Francisco Unified School District in behalf of a Galileo High School graduate for one million dollars, claiming he had been graduated without learning to read and write. The youth, according to the suit, is of average I.Q. and educable. The suit has not yet been set for hearing by San Francisco Superior Court.

The hypothetical cases constructed by the Saturday Review writers and by Sandow, and the actual case filed by the Youth Law Center, are of interest in Marin and elsewhere, because they pose a very basic question:

Since parents are required by law to pay school taxes and to send their children to school, are not the schools supported by those taxes legally obligated to educate the children to certain standards?

But, if they are, what are those standards?

Democrats Find 'Winner;' Heard Of Eldred G. Peck?

By EARL G. WATERS

The political surprise of the century is about to be unveiled. It is certain to throw the avowed candidates for governor into shock.

Disenchanted with the prospects for 1974 as represented by those who have tossed their hats into the ring, some prominent Democrats have been busy looking for a winner.

They have agreed upon Eldred G. Peck. If the name doesn't ring a bell, look him up in "Who's Who" under Gregory Peck.

THE DECISION to seek out Peck came after appraising the chances of Speaker Bob Moretti, Mayor Joseph Alioto, Secy. of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., Congressman Jerome Waldie, and State Senators George Moscone and James Mills.

Aided by secret polls, these party stalwarts, who in the past have been instrumental in raising funds and guiding campaigns, conclude the above are all losers. Moretti, in his efforts to emulate former Speaker Jesse Unruh, emerges with a fatal miniature "Big Daddy" image. Alioto, irreparably damaged by trials and lawsuits, is competing with the personable Moscone, and they succeed only in knocking each other out. The party stalwarts see Brown winning the nomination only to get thoroughly trounced in November.

On these assumptions they have decided to borrow a leaf from the Republican book of success. "Californians," they say, "have shown a penchant for electing actors. Let's give them a good one."

IN GREGORY PECK they certainly have that. Winner of the best actor Academy Award in 1962 for his role in "To Kill a Mocking Bird," he had four times previously been honored by nomination for the award.

But Peck, at age 56, is more than an actor. Born in La Jolla, scion of an established and well-to-do family, he has entree to society's "blue book." What makes him particularly attractive to his supporters is his untarnished image. While he has been a party loyal, he has been selective in lending himself to candidates and causes, thus maintaining a low visibility.

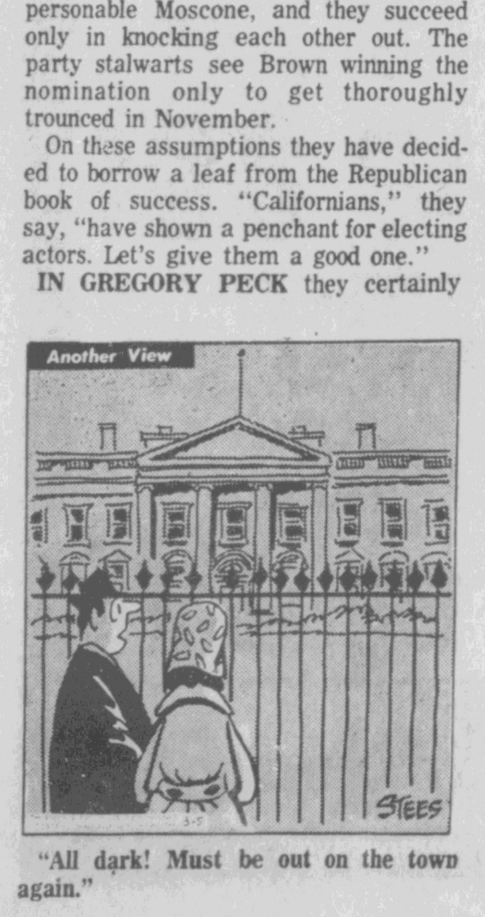
He is a moderate, with a keen sense of social responsibility as demonstrated by his service as National Cancer Society chairman in 1966 and his winning of the Medal of Freedom in 1969.

"This," say his would-be backers, "is the one man who can unite the Democratic party and lead it to victory. He is acceptable to labor, the minorities, the business community and the party regulars. And he does not represent a frightening specter to the Republicans."

PECK'S PUBLIC and private conduct has been above reproach. Father of four sons and a daughter, he has led a quiet life devoted to art and music. He served as president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences from 1967 to 1970. A college athlete at U.C. until a back injury turned his interest to the theater, he is a picture of the clean American.

His movie roles have tended to further this image. Invariably he has portrayed the decent citizen willing to stand up for right. He has been criticized as an actor by some who say, instead of submerging to the character he portrays, the Peck personality takes over. The same things were said about Gary Cooper and Clark Gable and they, like Peck, were always among the top 10 money-making stars.

It is not known at this point whether Peck has agreed to enter the race or whether he has even been consulted. It is known he showed interest in running for office several years ago. Long-distance phones have been hot and heavy in the past few days between top state Democrats. Apparently they wanted to take readings and put together an iron-tight package to present to Peck. No comment from Peck himself was obtainable.



"All dark! Must be out on the town again."

Kids Find The Law Is Not On Their Side

Ben Meyer stands convicted of maintaining an animal establishment without a permit — an offense against the peace an dignity of the People of the State of California. Ben let some kids in Bolinas use his pasture for grazing their horses and Joe Kelly, of the Marin County Sheriff's Office, busted him for it.

Gary Giacomini and Bob Roumiguiere don't think there's any way Ben can get the permit without spending a lot of moeny to conform to county regulations in Marin — money which Ben hasn't got.

So it looks like the kids are going to lose their horses. They haven't got much money either and thee's nowhere else for them to go.

I do not believe that the law was ever intended to be applied like this and I hope that a reconsideration might be made in this case and I wish that the law-enforcement apparatus of Marin County would turn its attention to more pressing matters.

But, then, if wishes were dollars even beggars would be kings.

Pacheco School Closing Seen As 'First Step'

I wish to secure my right of freedom of speech through the medium you so graciously provide for all persons residing in the Novato area. My letter deals with an issue of great controversy now facing al residents of Novato, that of the closing of one of our schools.

I'm of the opinion, the real reason I was the only person asked to sit down and give up the floor, at the public hearing held Feb. 13, was because I was pointing out too many of the true faults which do exist in the recommended proposal presented to the public by the district board . . . If all the existing conditions were really taken into consideration in regards to closing one of our schools, namely Pacheco Elementary School, one would see that there is too much risk of a mistake involved in doing so.

The main reason given for closing Pacheco is that the enrollment has, in the past four school years, shown the greatest decrease in the southern area of the district. This is said to have mainly occurred because of the possible closing of Hamilton Air Force Base. Keeping this in mind let us consider the following:

1. During the four school years taken into study, the fact exists on the district records, that two years ago, the school year of 1970-71, there was not a decrease but rather an increase in enrollment in the southern area. It is very possible that this could occur again.

2. At present the southern area has 30 per cent of the elementary enrollment of the district to be educated in 30 per cent of the elementary schools. That sounds like a desirable situation no matter how you look at it.

3. On the matter of HAFB closing, has no consideration been given to the recent end of the war, which means all those servicemen returning are entitled to stateside duty tours . . .

4. The figures of the presented proposal have allotted class sizes in the sixth grades to be beyond the legal size and all other grades at near or maximum size.

5. The dangers involved in the proposal for children to walk to Lynwood School by walking over that blind hill curve, in a head on direction of approaching and departing walking and auto traffic of the jr. high students, is a fact that should be very much considered.

In addition to the above facts, is the fact that three apartment complexes and a housing development are being built in this area. I understand these are to be family units rather than the customary adults only apartments that are presently here. Correctly quoting the representative of the land planning office, these are planned for completion in the next six to 18 months . . .

It seems to me that closing Pacheco School is only the first step in a financial plan to build a beautiful educational center, full of wonderful education specialists, etc. Why place our children in need of these specialists by closing schools, crowding those which will remain open, thus downgrading the education of our children to such a point. For whose benefit is this?

TODAY'S WORLD

Those 'Big Red Cars' Were Really Convenient

Having ridden the Big Red Cars of the Los Angeles transit system as a young woman, I must disagree with every point in your editorial indictment that they were "noisy, uncomfortable, dirty and generally unattractive."

My experience was in the late 1930s and early '40s. We lived in two different Los Angeles suburbs (San Marino and Pasadena) and in each place needed to walk either five or three blocks from our quiet homes to convenient, decent public transportation on its own right of way. It also did not pollute the air, since the cars were electric.

In the years since that time, America's love affair with the automobile brought about thousands of discriminatory laws and decisions in which public money and public decision gave every convenience to the automobile, leaving transit as the shabby and apologetic poor relation . . .

Is the automobile really "convenient"? Up to a point, yes, if you are willing to pour billions of dollars into bigger roads and bigger parking lots, and accept the dirty air, the pervasive noise, the environmental degradation of massive engineering projects.

The comparatively minor costs of making transit convenient or even possible are, however, spoken of in shocked tones. Even the nickels and dimes for placing benches at bus stops are hard to come by, let alone the convenience of transit rights of way or decent stations. And while roads and parking in new residential or commercial developments are planned as a matter of course, transit planning is conspicuous by its absence.

Mideast Settlement Now First On Nixon Foreign Affairs Agenda

Can Nixon break the Mideast stalemate? It is first on his agenda. It has been intractable so far for this reason: Each side wants impossible conditions before negotiating.

President Sadat says Egypt will not negotiate unless Israel withdraws from all occupied territory.

Prime Minister Meier says Israel will not withdraw from any of the occupied territory before negotiations.

Nixon hopes to induce a limited compromise by both sides to begin talks for a limited settlement. A Kissinger trip to Cairo and later to Israel is in the making.

DOES SHOOTING DOWN OF LIBYAN AIRLINER WRECK PEACE TALKS? It may have the opposite effect. Israel has lost a good deal of sympathy in world opinion. Many Americans are either pained or turned off by the trigger-quick attack on a commercial plane which had lost its way.

The Arabs have wisely exerted great restraint and thus let anti-Israeli opinion roll up.

U. S. military support for Israel is the main deterrent to renewed war. Egypt knows it couldn't win.

But Nixon wants to move beyond just forestalling war. He pressed Mrs. Meir for some sign of flexibility which would enable him to encourage Sadat to do the same.

GRAY WILL BE FBI DIRECTOR. One Democratic senator urges a full-scale committee investigation before confirmation of Gray, but announces in advance of its findings that he will vote against Gray.

Much of the opposition to Patrick Gray rests on the stated view that "he has been too close to Nixon." This is part of a double standard which many politicians still practice. The same Democratic senators who avow they oppose Gray "because he is too close to Nixon" had no objection to President Kennedy making his brother attorney general and putting him over the FBI.

WOMEN AND THE REPUBLICAN PARTY. The record of the Nixon administration in naming women to high levels of government is outstanding. More women have been appointed and more appointed to top jobs than during any preceding administration.

But women are not being welcomed by Republican Party leaders when it comes to nomination for elective office. There are now 14 women in the House of Representatives, 12 are Democrats, only two are Republicans.

REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL HOPEFULS ARE GATHERING — IN NUMBER AS WELL AS ZEAL. There are already five potential candidates whose aides are visibly working in their behalf and are themselves keeping a fairly low profile.

These are, in alphabetical order: Vice President Spiro Agnew, former Gov. John Connally, Gov. Ronald Reagan, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Sen. Charles Percy. Others ill emerge, possibly former Defense Secy. Melvin Laird, Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee and, conceivably, Robert Finch, who polled more votes for lieutenant governor in California than Governor Reagan polled in his first election.

This is what Nixon has been looking for —a real contest for the 1976 nomination.

WHERE ARE THE STUDENT RADICALS NOW? In both the United States and Western Europe, they have gone to work to earn their living or have joined the Establishment or slipped underground to await developments.

The leaders of Students for a Democratic Society (who were mostly nonstudents for a nondemocratic society) and the Weatherman are hardly visible today. The urge to violence has either left the leadership, or the willingness of youth to condone violence has left the campus.

Most seem to feel that their goals were right but their tactics wrong. The last three SDS presidents have disappeared underground.

The student revolutionary movement is also quiescent in Japan, Germany, France and Britain.

Synthesizing History Latest Scheme To Despoil Landscape

WASHINGTON — A sad fact of our day is that when a certain class of businessman sees a piece of America just lying there the way God made it, he cannot appreciate it for what it is. He sees it instead in dollar terms, for the money it might make if it were scalped, bulldozed, paved, built on, developed, sewerized and otherwise defaced.

When he sees a mountain valley, he sees a ski resort, with roads, hotels, treeless slopes, parking lots, restaurants and nightclubs. When he sees an open field, he sees a dense concentration of town houses, selling at perhaps $50,000 per. When he sees a salt marsh where fish breed and birds feed, he sees a dredged and filled marina, with associated condominium developments.

Most outrageously, but completely understandably, he is attracted strongly to the most beautiful parts of our country, especially those whose very beauty already draws many travelers. Thus, in recent years, he has laid greedy siege to a series of our national shrines.

I HAVE WRITTEN about the junky tourist traps that already line the road bisecting the Gettysburg battlefield, and the ambition of one entrepreneur to cap it off with a modernistic 307-foot observation tower, complete with restaurant and entrance fee, of course, which would dominate the horizon there. You will be cheered to know that at latest check, the gentleman was proceeding with his project despite the public outcry.

About 100 miles east, the outspent citizens of Tredyffrin Township outside Philadelphia have been fighting a determined battle to prevent large-scale private developers' encroachment on Valley Forge Park. Despite their vigor and appeals for help from the President, the operative fact in the struggle has been that the developer can and does employ a battalion of lawyers to confront them at every turn.

Barely 40 miles southwest of Gettysburg, Maryland housing developers have kept up constant pressure to build on and around the Antietam battlefield, where Lee and McClellan met on the bloodiest day of the Civil War.

And at the moment, the third battle of Manassas is under way just 30 miles from the White House. This time the contestants are not Beauregard and Jackson, McDowell and Pope, but the unorganized citizens of Prince William County, Va., vs. the well-known Marriott Corp.

MARRIOTT, WHICH IS already into the hotel, restaurant, airline catering and private-security businesses, has been trying for many months — in response to no discernible public demand whatever — to bless the national capital area with its own version of Disneyland.

This dream is to be entitled "Great America," and to peddle history, patriotism and other commendable commodities. Just why the capital area needs more fabricated history and patriotism implanted in Virginia soil just south of the site of two major Civil War battles, and within a quick drive of the greatest concentration of historical Americana extant, is not clear to the average citizen without a financial stake in the project.

Seven out of eight supervisors of Prince William County, which includes Manassas, endorsed the development there before the public knew it had even been proposed. But it is not yet too late for the operation to be shunted elsewhere. Despite the supervisors' initial approval, formal rezoning has yet to be granted. And the State of Virginia has given the acquiescing supervisors reason to think their decision over.

A tough bureaucrat named Noman M. Cole Jr., chairman of the State Water Control Board, has informed the supervisors that if they grant approval and the development overloads the area's sewage treatment, each of them may be liable to a fine of up to $25,000 a day and up to a year in jail.

His firmness does not guarantee that the third battle of Manassas (or Bull Run, if you prefer) will turn out happily. But there is no question that he is giving the invaders some serious second thoughts. And there is at least the prospect that among local citizens his name will join those of earlier generals who made the neighborhood famous. We can wish his likes were available at Valley Forge, Gettysburg, Antietam and the other green places that are on the developers' long list of objectives.

ARCHITECT THURSTON HATCHER
He conserves Miami's trees

Trees In Miami Get New Lease On Life

By JOHN FOX
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

MIAMI, Fla. — When he was growing up, Thurston Hatcher loved trees. For him, they represented peace and security and beauty. Now he is an architect —one of the better known architects in south Florida — and trees are an integral part of each of his architectural creations.

Over the years Hatcher became aware that trees are not only beautiful and useful, but vital. Trees —lots and lots of trees — are necessary to our environment if we are to replace life-giving oxygen.

But a while ago Hatcher watched trees in increasing numbers falling to the bulldozer; he saw the lovely subtropical beauty of Miami and its environs being systematically reduced to a concrete and asphalt desert. So Hatcher summoned his fellow architects, members of the Florida South chapter of the American Institute of Architects (AIA).

They met to determine what might be done to halt the depredation. The result was the Greater Miami Tree Conservation Bank, dedicated to the protection of valuable trees and their removal to public highways, parks, and recreation centers.

Now functioning efficiently in its second year, the Tree Bank has chalked up a number of significant accomplishments. It backed legislation that resulted in the passage of a City of Miami ordinance which forbids the destruction of any tree over a certain height and girth.

It enlisted the aid of garden clubs, parent-teachers associations, Boy Scout, Girl Scout, and 4-H groups in projects to gather tree seeds and plant them in containers.

The Tree Bank has induced the Dade County Parks Department (Miami is located in Dade County) to accept seedlings resulting from these plantings and care for them at municipal nurseries until they attain a size for safe transplanting.

And in conjunction with the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association it launched a successful campaign to have Florida's third-Friday-in-January observance of Arbor Day changed to the last Friday in April, to coincide with the observance of Arbor Day in 22 other states.

(Arbor Day is dedicated to encouraging Americans to plant trees. It had its beginning in 1872 when a group of foresighted conservationists became alarmed at the disappearance of the nation's forests and wooded plots.)

Among the more ore unsightly of the operations to come under the censure of the Miami Tree Bank are the older, privately owned auto parking lots. New ones in south Florida are legally required to landscape, but the old ones, for the most part, are devoid of greenery.

In line with the beautification goal of the Tree Bank, sponsoring architects offer to redesign such lots free of charge. They coordinate a maximum usable space with ornamental planting that includes a generous use of shade trees.

Any citizen in Miami who finds it desirable or necessary to remove a tree need simply contact the Tree Bank. The latter then dispatches an expert appraiser who evaluates the tree on the basis of what it would cost were it to be purchased from a commercial nursery.

When the tree is removed by the Tree Bank for replanting in a public area, the owner is given a receipt for the value of the tree as a contribution to a nonprofit organization. The Tree Bank is in the process of completing technicalities which will permit such contributions to be tax-deductible.

Not a few of the efforts of Thurston Hatcher and his fellow tree-bankers are directed toward educating people to the value of trees. Hatcher quotes David G. Leach, president of the American Horticultural Society: "About 78 trees are needed to absorb the carbon dioxide and produce the oxygen needed to maintain the balance in the atmosphere for every single person in the United States.

"Twenty trees are required to offset the effect of a car driven 60 miles in one day. More than 100,000 trees are needed to cancel the atmospheric pollution of just one jet traveling each day round trip between New York and Los Angeles."

MISSISSIPPI MAYOR — Fayette, Miss., Mayor Charles Evers, shown talking to one of the city's officers, disagrees with critics who say his antigun ordinances are not working and cites statistics to prove his point.

Argument Rages On Antigun Law

By JOHN DILLIN
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

(EDITOR'S NOTE — U.S. Sen. John C. Stennis (D) of Mississippi was the most recent prominent American to be wounded (Jan. 30) by a cheap handgun. In the senator's home state, Mayor Charles Evers of Fayette has been trying to prove that tough new laws can reduce the number of such gun-related crimes.)

FAYETTE, Miss. — "Do you think Mayor Evers's antigun laws are working?" a young white woman was asked here the other day. "Do you think fewer people carry guns?"

"No," was her quick reply, and to prove her point she unsnapped her purse and whipped out a chrome-plated, .32-caliber revolver that she says she carries with her everywhere.

Despite such skepticism and defiance, however, Mayor Charles Evers insists that Fayette — population, 2,000 — is enjoying a far lower crime rate as a result of antigun ordinances he pushed through the City Council here after becoming mayor in 1969.

The laws, which have resulted in surprise raids on nightclubs and restaurants and which allow anyone to be searched, have been condemned in Mississippi as a violation of individual rights. The mayor, whose younger brother Medgar Evers was gunned down in 1963 in Jackson, Miss., disagrees and cites Fayette's record:

Before 1969, Fayette recorded a gun-related crime every week to 10 days. Shootings in night spots were especially frequent. In contrast, according to Fayette police, there were only five gun-related crimes in Fayette in 1972.

No one was killed by a gun in Fayette last year, police say.

The total crime rate is down approximately 75 per cent from 1968 to 1972, according to police.

Over 75 guns, including 45 handguns, have been confiscated.

There has not been a holdup in the city limits involving a gun since Mayor Evers took office.

The laws, though, have caused howls. They forbid anyone to drive around Fayette with hunting rifles. They allow seizure of any weapon being illegally carried.

Two weeks ago, police pulled their most recent surprise raids, searching everyone in the city's restaurants and night spots. They bagged two pistols and three long knives. Possession can cost anyone $200 or more and 30 days in jail.

"People howl, but who cares," said Mayor Evers in an interview at a motel he owns here. "If a person doesn't have a gun, what does he care about somebody being searched?

"No one wants to be sitting in a place eating when some 'nut' jumps up shooting and kills him or injures him for life because he's gotten too much liquor in him.

"Our job is to protect. Some say it's harassment. But it's not. You're not authorized to carry a gun in this town. Period. We're not living in old Western days when everyone strapped on a gun. If so, let everybody put a gun on."

The mayor notes that he ran on an antigun platform and the City Council moved to adopt strong antigun measures within days after he took office.

"I guess it's a personal thing with me," the mayor says. "I lost my brother, and I lost five other dear friends, all because America wasn't strict enough. and then just the other day, Senator Stennis was shot. It's just plain unnecessary.

"The American government should realize that we are supposed to be the land of the free, not the land of fear. And you can't be free when everybody is walking around with a gun."

ARCHITECT THURSTON HATCHER
He conserves Miami's trees

Trees In Miami Get New Lease On Life

By JOHN FOX
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

MIAMI, Fla. — When he was growing up, Thurston Hatcher loved trees. For him, they represented peace and security and beauty. Now he is an architect —one of the better known architects in south Florida — and trees are an integral part of each of his architectural creations.

Over the years Hatcher became aware that trees are not only beautiful and useful, but vital. Trees —lots and lots of trees — are necessary to our environment if we are to replace life-giving oxygen.

But a while ago Hatcher watched trees in increasing numbers falling to the bulldozer; he saw the lovely subtropical beauty of Miami and its environs being systematically reduced to a concrete and asphalt desert. So Hatcher summoned his fellow architects, members of the Florida South chapter of the American Institute of Architects (AIA).

They met to determine what might be done to halt the depredation. The result was the Greater Miami Tree Conservation Bank, dedicated to the protection of valuable trees and their removal to public highways, parks, and recreation centers.

Now functioning efficiently in its second year, the Tree Bank has chalked up a number of significant accomplishments. It backed legislation that resulted in the passage of a City of Miami ordinance which forbids the destruction of any tree over a certain height and girth.

It enlisted the aid of garden clubs, parent-teachers associations, Boy Scout, Girl Scout, and 4-H groups in projects to gather tree seeds and plant them in containers.

The Tree Bank has induced the Dade County Parks Department (Miami is located in Dade County) to accept seedlings resulting from these plantings and care for them at municipal nurseries until they attain a size for safe transplanting.

And in conjunction with the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association it launched a successful campaign to have Florida's third-Friday-in-January observance of Arbor Day changed to the last Friday in April, to coincide with the observance of Arbor Day in 22 other states.

(Arbor Day is dedicated to encouraging Americans to plant trees. It had its beginning in 1872 when a group of foresighted conservationists became alarmed at the disappearance of the nation's forests and wooded plots.)

Among the more ore unsightly of the operations to come under the censure of the Miami Tree Bank are the older, privately owned auto parking lots. New ones in south Florida are legally required to landscape, but the old ones, for the most part, are devoid of greenery.

In line with the beautification goal of the Tree Bank, sponsoring architects offer to redesign such lots free of charge. They coordinate a maximum usable space with ornamental planting that includes a generous use of shade trees.

Any citizen in Miami who finds it desirable or necessary to remove a tree need simply contact the Tree Bank. The latter then dispatches an expert appraiser who evaluates the tree on the basis of what it would cost were it to be purchased from a commercial nursery.

When the tree is removed by the Tree Bank for replanting in a public area, the owner is given a receipt for the value of the tree as a contribution to a nonprofit organization. The Tree Bank is in the process of completing technicalities which will permit such contributions to be tax-deductible.

Not a few of the efforts of Thurston Hatcher and his fellow tree-bankers are directed toward educating people to the value of trees. Hatcher quotes David G. Leach, president of the American Horticultural Society: "About 78 trees are needed to absorb the carbon dioxide and produce the oxygen needed to maintain the balance in the atmosphere for every single person in the United States.

"Twenty trees are required to offset the effect of a car driven 60 miles in one day. More than 100,000 trees are needed to cancel the atmospheric pollution of just one jet traveling each day round trip between New York and Los Angeles."

MISSISSIPPI MAYOR — Fayette, Miss., Mayor Charles Evers, shown talking to one of the city's officers, disagrees with critics who say his antigun ordinances are not working and cites statistics to prove his point.

Argument Rages On Antigun Law

By JOHN DILLIN
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

(EDITOR'S NOTE — U.S. Sen. John C. Stennis (D) of Mississippi was the most recent prominent American to be wounded (Jan. 30) by a cheap handgun. In the senator's home state, Mayor Charles Evers of Fayette has been trying to prove that tough new laws can reduce the number of such gun-related crimes.)

FAYETTE, Miss. — "Do you think Mayor Evers's antigun laws are working?" a young white woman was asked here the other day. "Do you think fewer people carry guns?"

"No," was her quick reply, and to prove her point she unsnapped her purse and whipped out a chrome-plated, .32-caliber revolver that she says she carries with her everywhere.

Despite such skepticism and defiance, however, Mayor Charles Evers insists that Fayette — population, 2,000 — is enjoying a far lower crime rate as a result of antigun ordinances he pushed through the City Council here after becoming mayor in 1969.

The laws, which have resulted in surprise raids on nightclubs and restaurants and which allow anyone to be searched, have been condemned in Mississippi as a violation of individual rights. The mayor, whose younger brother Medgar Evers was gunned down in 1963 in Jackson, Miss., disagrees and cites Fayette's record:

Before 1969, Fayette recorded a gun-related crime every week to 10 days. Shootings in night spots were especially frequent. In contrast, according to Fayette police, there were only five gun-related crimes in Fayette in 1972.

No one was killed by a gun in Fayette last year, police say.

The total crime rate is down approximately 75 per cent from 1968 to 1972, according to police.

Over 75 guns, including 45 handguns, have been confiscated.

There has not been a holdup in the city limits involving a gun since Mayor Evers took office.

The laws, though, have caused howls. They forbid anyone to drive around Fayette with hunting rifles. They allow seizure of any weapon being illegally carried.

Two weeks ago, police pulled their most recent surprise raids, searching everyone in the city's restaurants and night spots. They bagged two pistols and three long knives. Possession can cost anyone $200 or more and 30 days in jail.

"People howl, but who cares," said Mayor Evers in an interview at a motel he owns here. "If a person doesn't have a gun, what does he care about somebody being searched?

"No one wants to be sitting in a place eating when some 'nut' jumps up shooting and kills him or injures him for life because he's gotten too much liquor in him.

"Our job is to protect. Some say it's harassment. But it's not. You're not authorized to carry a gun in this town. Period. We're not living in old Western days when everyone strapped on a gun. If so, let everybody put a gun on."

The mayor notes that he ran on an antigun platform and the City Council moved to adopt strong antigun measures within days after he took office.

"I guess it's a personal thing with me," the mayor says. "I lost my brother, and I lost five other dear friends, all because America wasn't strict enough, and then just the other day, Senator Stennis was shot. It's just plain unnecessary.

"The American government should realize that we are supposed to be the land of the free, not the land of fear. And you can't be free when everybody is walking around with a gun."

Pass It Along In Whispers: The Lady Planted Petunias

You ask what a nice old lady like me is doing in a place like this?

To explain, we must go back a few years. I suppose it all started way back in 1974 when I got arrested on an illegal petunia possession rap.

You see, the year before, in 1973, one of the little cities we used to have in Calopolis — Tiburon, I think it was called — passed an ordinance that anyone building a new home should submit their "planting plans" to the city. The Tiburon City Council was collectively worried that expensive homes there weren't being "tastefully landscaped."

LET ME WHISPER here, my dear, so the guards don't overhear: Before then, believe it or not, homeowners were allowed to grow whatever they liked in their own gardens. Honestly! Sunflowers, tomatoes, even crabgrass — but of course you wouldn't know what that was.

Well, before you could say "environmental impact" all the other cities had passed similar laws; none wanted to be outdone by little Tiburon.

So when my husband and I built our new home in 1974 we had to take our preliminary planting plan to the board of design review (that was in the days when homes were of differing designs). We weren't sure what we would plant in that garden, but we had to have that piece of paper approved.

We drew a few rose beds, a lawn, some flower borders and a couple of fruit trees.

IT WAS REJECTED. "Not tasteful," pronounced the board. "Not expensive enough," muttered one member.

Our yard, they announced, looking up the controlled growth (organic variety) regulations, was zoned for junipers, weedfree lawns, no more than two shade trees, non-deciduous, and low-maintenance oleanders, camellias and one specimen magnolia.

We squawked and appealed, but to no avail. Conform, or no building permit. So we drew a conforming plan and the house was built.

But the old green thumb instinct triumphed, and one dark night I sowed a packet of petunia seeds.

No sooner had those purple petals unfurled than the Tasteful Landscaping Enforcement Brigade arrived with their nonconforming plant elimination equipment. I'll always remember the horror on their faces when they spotted the squash and cucumbers sprawling untidily up a fence; the unbridled revulsion when they discovered a compost heap.

OF COURSE I MIGHT have escaped with a heavy fine and compulsory razing of the house, but a detailed inspection by the brigade revealed so many infringements: Three dandelions in the lawn, four clumps of grass on the front path, and a whole family of aphis sucking at the magnolia.

The judge was kind when I appeared in court.

He cited the original Tiburon ordinance, which claimed its purpose was to "prevent the impairment or depreciations of land values and development" through "unsightly, undesirable or obnoxious appearance."

Even then I might have escaped being sent here to the Federal Department of Thought Correction, San Quentin branch, if I hadn't yelled out, that sunny day in 1974:

"George Orwell — you were 10 years out in your timing!"

Educational Goals Questionnaire Mailed

A questionnaire on educational goals has been mailed to Redwood High School parents in an effort to find out what they want the school to do in onal leader Donald Kreps said copies of the survey also were mailed to 500 residents in Redwood's attendance area, selected at random.

The survey was compiled by the Redwood Task Force, which has been working for the last two years to set educational goals for the Larkspur high school.

Kreps said that once the 5,500 completed forms were received, they would be tabulated and the results used to see what parents, students, staff and community members think are the most important goals, and whether the school is succeeding or failing to achieve them.

Goals listed range from basic skills in math and English to reducing class size to scholarships and financial aid.

Flood Control Review Slated

Legal problems on the Ross Valley Flood control project will be reviewed at the Ross Town Council meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at town hall.

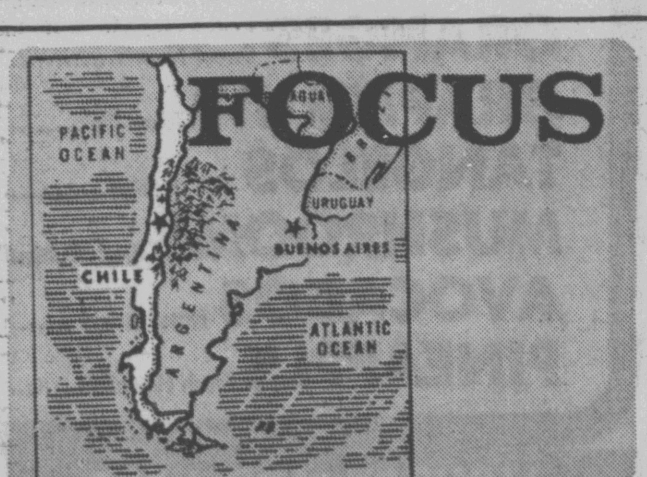
Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson directed the council and Marin County Flood Control district to resolve the issue of how much the district should do about flooding in Ross.

The council will also hear a wine and beer license request from Nikita Van Beek for the French Dinner Restaurant, 9 Poplar Avenue.

Special Session

The Nicasio School district board will meet in special session at 7 p.m. today at Nicasio School to consider reducing the teaching staff.

FOCUS



Chile

Chile, which held congressional elections yesterday, is a long, narrow country with a tremendous range of geography and climate. Bordered on the west by the breathtaking Andes mountain chain, parts of Chile, with their virgin forests and glacial lakes, have earned for it the name, "Switzerland of South America." The northern portion of Chile contains some of the most formidable desert in the world. Because of the extreme climates in the north and south, most of the people live in the central part of the country. The name Chile is derived either from a Quechua Indian word for snow, or from an Aymara Indian word "Chilli," meaning "place where the earth ends."

DO YOU KNOW — What is the capital of Chile?

MELVIN MADDOCKS

Spreading Infection In Academe: Anti-Intellectual Intellectualism

A year or so ago in a famous bit of breast-beating, the president of the Modern Language Association declared to assembled colleagues that the teaching of literature in American colleges had lost its justification. Literature, he confessed, was nothing but "a diversion and a spectacle," operating at an unforgivable distance from "practical activity."

If only this rather embarrassing self-accusation of uselessness were unique! Alas, the number of college students keeps going up, the confidence in college education keeps going down. One by one, this course and that, this field and that are judged to be "irrelevant," until by now the whole concept of a "liberal education" is seriously doubted.

IN HIS ESSAY "Mind in the Modern World," Lionel Trilling sadly takes for granted that the teaching of history suffers from a "deteriorating status," that philosophy has become a "technical subject for specialists," that, in fact, a college education is pretty universally regarded as "a rite of social passage," a diploma-ticket to upward mobility.

Anti-intellectualism, if you want to call it that, has always been a part of American tradition. What obviously alarms and disheartens Mr. Trilling is the specter of the anti-intellectual intellectual: the academic who adds his own self-doubt to the doubts of everybody else; the man of the mind who shares preeminently in the "falling off in mind's vital confidence in itself" and joins his detractors "to impugn and devalue the very concept of mind." The atheist in the pulpit.

An interview with George Steiner in the February issue of Psychology Today tends to illustrate what might be called the Unquiet Thinker syndrome. Mr. Steiner sits atop a distinguished career. He is a fellow at Cambridge, the author of "The Death of Tragedy," "Tolstoy or Dostoevsky," and several studies in linguistics. Yet he cannot talk five minutes without voicing his sense of guilt that he is only an intellectual, and a humanist at that.

He virtually apologizes for his aesthetic sensitivity: "We are trained to worry more about the cry in the poem than the cry in the streets" — as if art and life were not related.

He hastens to concede that "the act of reading is profoundly selfish. You are enclosed in the world of your passions. Every other human being is an enemy. . .To read is to exclude other human beings."

Could the most Philistine nonreader be harsher?

Rather wistfully Mr. Steiner muses: "I do wish that all of us had learned one manual skill." Adding a little naively: "Human beings who can use their hands well often have a margin of tolerance about fanatical ideas."

IDEAS — FANATICAL or otherwise — are so tiresomely evasive, so hard to pin down: buytterflies in the mirror. How one longs to lay one's hands on things, to substitute exact numbers for inexact words, to reduce all judgments to the precision scales of instruments. Mr. Steiner, the Unquiet Thinker, is voicing a distress almost all of us share.

But the question remains: Is he being a realist —a man of the future — as one might as first assume? Or is there a curious nostalgia at work here?

Are the Unquiet Thinkers disappointed romantics who expected too much of themselves and their disciplines? Faith in a "liberal education" has, at times past, approached the absolute proportions of a panacea. Now we are paying the price in overreaction.

The mood seems to have polarized. One puts one's trust either in the men in white coats or the men in black capes: the scientists in their labs or the mystics with their astrology charts, Satan cults, and cure-all yoga exercises.

The poor "humanist" with his Apocalyptic talk about "reason" and "moderation" is left looking silly in the abandoned middle.

THE POINT MAY BE that to expect too much of reason is unreasonable. But to despair of it prematurely is unreasonable, too. The general, unspecialized thinker — quiet or unquiet — must go on, succeeding partially (when he is inspired) and failing partially (when he is too ambitious).

And above all, he must not allow others —or himself — to make him feel "useless" or "irrelevant." With all the usual risks of looking absurd, must think about literature —or history, or philosophy —with "something like a sense of intellectual honor," in Mr. Trilling's words, "and out of the faith that in the practical life, which includes the moral life, some good must follow from even the relative success of the endeavor."

Reductions To Be Discussed

The Fairfax School District board will consider reducing its teaching staff at its meeting tomorrow at 7:45 p.m. at White Hill School.

Two weeks ago the board heard that dwindling enrollment may require elimination of two teaching posts. The board also will consider a plan to establish an employment seniority list.

The board will consider appointing a district citizen's advisory committee on special education programs.

Three Drivers Sentenced For Drinking Violations

Three persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court on drunken driving charges.

A motorist is legally drunk if he has had five weak drinks in an hour or eight over four hours.

Sentenced last Monday by Judge Peter Allen Smith were:

Harold Thomas Rogers, 52, of 12 Alexander Avenue, Sausalito, arrested Jan. 26 on Bridgeway, Sausalito, given 15 days in jail, suspended to a $250 fine, two years' probation and attendance at driving while intoxicated school.

Larry Robert Hampton, 33, of 80 Purrington Road, Petaluma, arrested Jan. 27 on Highway 101, given 15 days in jail, suspended to a $250 fine or 10 hours work for the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department and two years' probation.

Robert Raymond Powell, 22, of the aircraft carrier Coral Sea, arrested Feb. 16 on Highway 101, given 15 days in jail, suspended to a $240 fine and two years' probation.

Pope Names 31 New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI created 31 new Roman Catholic cardinals today and imposed a limit on the number of them who can vote for his successor. Among the new cardinals were three Americans and a Czech named secretly by the Pope four years ago.

The 75-year-old leader of the world's 590 million Catholics read out the names of 32 cardinals during a consistory stripped of most of the splendor of such ceremonies in the past.

But one of the cardinals was a Romanian bishop who died two years ago—after the Pope chose him, but never publicly named him, in 1969.

At the same time he inducted the new cardinals, raising the membership of the College of Cardinals to an all-time high of 145, the Pope decreed that in the future papal elections only 120 cardinals may vote.

He already had ruled that no cardinal aged 80 or over could vote in papal elections.

Among the new cardinals were archbishops Timothy Manning of Los Angeles, Humberto S. Medeiros of Boston and Luis Aponte Martines of San Juan, the first Puerto Rican to wear the symbolic red hat.

The Pope's announcement of two more cardinals came as a surprise. He said he named' them "in pectore," or within his breast, since the last consistory. They were Stepan Trochta of Czechoslovakia and Julius Hossu of Romania. Hossu died in 1970.

The Pope said he hoped future pontiffs would follow his example in limiting the number of papal electors to 120.

He said he was increasing the number of cardinals to a record number and that he considered it timely to impose a limit on the number of them who will vote for the next pope.

"Thus," he said, "we decree that the number of cardinals entitled to participate in that election must not exceed 120."

Under the 1970 reform barring octagenarian cardinals from papal elections, a total of 116 cardinals are now eligible to vote for Paul's successor.

Of his appointment of Hossu as cardinal, the Pope said the bishop himself asked that his name not be made public in the 1969 consistory. Hossu opposed the separation of Rome and the Byzantine rite Romanian church and in his last years was detained in a monastery near Bucharest.

Of Trochta, observers noted that the Vatican and Prague recently agreed to the naming of four new bishops in Czechoslovakia—all of them publicly ordained in Czechoslovakia over the past two days.

Smiling broadly and in seemingly jovial spirits, the Pope welcomed each of the new cardinals present for the consistory with open arms. Each in turn knelt before the pontiff to receive the gift of a red skullcap and red biretta that is his sign of office.

It was the fourth consistory since Paul assumed the papacy in 1967, the first since 1969 and was the shortest as far as ceremonies went.

Pope Names 31 New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI created 31 new Roman Catholic cardinals today and imposed a limit on the number of them who can vote for his successor. Among the new cardinals were three Americans and a Czech named secretly by the Pope four years ago.

The 75-year-old leader of the world's 590 million Catholics read out the names of 32 cardinals during a consistory stripped of most of the splendor of such ceremonies in the past.

But one of the cardinals was a Romanian bishop who died two years ago—after the Pope chose him, but never publicly named him, in 1969.

At the same time he inducted the new cardinals, raising the membership of the College of Cardinals to an all-time high of 145, the Pope decreed that in the future papal elections only 120 cardinals may vote.

He already had ruled that no cardinal aged 80 or over could vote in papal elections.

Among the new cardinals were archbishops Timothy Manning of Los Angeles, Humberto S. Medeiros of Boston and Luis Aponte Martines of San Juan, the first Puerto Rican to wear the symbolic red hat.

The Pope's announcement of two more cardinals came as a surprise. He said he named them "in pectore," or within his breast, since the last consistory. They were Stepan Trochta of Czechoslovakia and Julius Hossu of Romania. Hossu died in 1970.

The Pope said he hoped future pontiffs would follow his example in limiting the number of papal electors to 120.

He said he was increasing the number of cardinals to a record number and that he considered it timely to impose a limit on the number of them who will vote for the next pope.

"Thus," he said, "we decree that the number of cardinals entitled to participate in that election must not exceed 120."

Under the 1970 reform barring octagenarian cardinals from papal elections, a total of 116 cardinals are now eligible to vote for Paul's successor.

Of his appointment of Hossu as cardinal, the Pope said the bishop himself asked that his name not be made public in the 1969 consistory. Hossu opposed the separation of Rome and the Byzantine rite Romanian church and in his last years was detained in a monastery near Bucharest.

Of Trochta, observers noted that the Vatican and Prague recently agreed to the naming of four new bishops in Czechoslovakia—all of them publicly ordained in Czechoslovakia over the past two days.

Smiling broadly and in seemingly jovial spirits, the Pope welcomed each of the new cardinals present for the consistory with open arms. Each in turn knelt before the pontiff to receive the gift of a red skullcap and red biretta that is his sign of office.

It was the fourth consistory since Paul assumed the papacy in 1967, the first since 1969 and was the shortest as far as ceremonies went.

ARCHITECT THURSTON HATCHER
He conserves Miami's trees

Trees In Miami Get New Lease On Life

By JOHN FOX
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

MIAMI, Fla. — When he was growing up, Thurston Hatcher loved trees. For him, they represented peace and security and beauty. Now he is an architect —one of the better known architects in south Florida — and trees are an integral part of each of his architectural creations.

Over the years Hatcher became aware that trees are not only beautiful and useful, but vital. Trees —lots and lots of trees — are necessary to our environment if we are to replace life-giving oxygen.

But a while ago Hatcher watched trees in increasing numbers falling to the bulldozer; he saw the lovely subtropical beauty of Miami and its environs being systematically reduced to a concrete and asphalt desert. So Hatcher summoned his fellow architects, members of the Florida South chapter of the American Institute of Architects (AIA).

They met to determine what might be done to halt the depredation. The result was the Greater Miami Tree Conservation Bank, dedicated to the protection of valuable trees and their removal to public highways, parks, and recreation centers.

Now functioning efficiently in its second year, the Tree Bank has chalked up a number of significant accomplishments. It backed legislation that resulted in the passage of a City of Miami ordinance which forbids the destruction of any tree over a certain height and girth.

It enlisted the aid of garden clubs, parent-teachers associations, Boy Scout, Girl Scout, and 4-H groups in projects together tree seeds and plant them in containers.

The Tree Bank has induced the Dade County Parks Department (Miami is located in Dade County) to accept seedlings resulting from these plantings and care for them at municipal nurseries until they attain a size for safe transplanting.

And in conjunction with the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association it launched a successful campaign to have Florida's third-Friday-in-January observance of Arbor Day changed to the last Friday in April, to coincide with the observance of Arbor Day in 22 other states.

(Arbor Day is dedicated to encouraging Americans to plant trees. It had its beginning in 1872 when a group of foresighted conservationists became alarmed at the disappearance of the nation's forests and wooded plots.)

Among the more ore unsightly of the operations to come under the censure of the Miami Tree Bank are the older, privately owned auto parking lots. New ones in south Florida are legally required to landscape, but the old ones, for the most part, are devoid of greenery.

In line with the beautification goal of the Tree Bank, sponsoring architects offer to redesign such lots free of charge. They coordinate a maximum usable space with ornamental planting that includes a generous use of shade trees.

Any citizen in Miami who finds it desirable or necessary to remove a tree need simply contact the Tree Bank. The latter then dispatches an expert appraiser who evaluates the tree on the basis of what it would cost were it to be purchased from a commercial nursery.

When the tree is removed by the Tree Bank for replanting in a public area, the owner is given a receipt for the value of the tree as a contribution to a nonprofit organization. The Tree Bank is in the process of completing technicalities which will permit such contributions to be tax-deductible.

Not a few of the efforts of Thurston Hatcher and his fellow tree-bankers are directed toward educating people to the value of trees. Hatcher quotes David G. Leach, president of the American Horticultural Society: "About 78 trees are needed to absorb the carbon dioxide and produce the oxygen needed to maintain the balance in the atmosphere for every single person in the United States.

"Twenty trees are required to offset the effect of a car driven 60 miles in one day. More than 100,000 trees are needed to cancel the atmospheric pollution of just one jet traveling each day round trip between New York and Los Angeles."

Adoption Ways Changing Greatly

By DAVID ANABLE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Pete and John have become "brothers."

For six years the boys lived in the same nonpermanent foster home, fast friends but not relatives. Then the inseparable pair's photo, published in a Detroit newspaper, caught the eye of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snell.

"When we saw the picture of the boys, we just felt they were intended for us," Mrs. Snell said. And so it was that Pete and John, both 9-year-olds, joined the Snell family which already included Carl, 2, and Sue, 4. Their story is told by Colette Taube Dywasuk in her book "Adoption—Is It For You?" (Harper & Row).

"In two months the boys were in our home and everything just fell into place," says Mrs. Snell of the adoption. "I don't understand it, but the love was there between all of us almost immediately."

The enduring cement of families is love. That has not changed. But the way in which some families come together through adoption is changing greatly.

Mrs. Dywasuk's book charts the revolution in adoption and offers "practical advice for today's adoptive parents."

UP INTO THE 1950s, she points out, the accepted wisdom was "perfect child for perfect family." Prospective adoptive parents had to fit rigid criteria —of infertility, finance, religion, etc. But in the 1960s, permissiveness (nine out of 10 adopted children are born out of wedlock) and a freeing for adoption of a greater variety of children left agencies with healthy babies to spare. The exacting strictures broke down. The primary aim became to help the children become members of families.

NOW THE wheel has turned again. Contraceptives, abortion, wider acceptance of single women retaining their offspring, all have cut the number of children available for adoption. At the same time more families are ready to open their homes to the child in need. And a national and state network has grown up designed to bring child and family together.

So rapid have been these changes that Mrs. Dywasuk can scarcely keep up. Her emphasis on the preeminent needs of black and racially mixed children already seems a little dated. In New England, the Midwest, and California the situation has moved on. Experts say that in those areas at least there are today few if any black or mixed-race children waiting for adoption. Agencies have actively and successfully sought out black and mixed parents; and a proportion of these children have gone to white families, too.

Adoption of healthy black, white, and mixed-race infants goes on. But the pool is drying up, and some of the urgency has ebbed.

WHAT CHILDREN still need homes?

The Petes and Johns of the less-than-secure foster-home world. The children over six years old, and those, too, who cling to each other because they are friends or brothers and sisters and need to find a home together.

Those with physical handicaps, minor and perhaps correctable, moderate and not expected to improve, severe and possibly fatal.

Those with emotional problems of varying degrees of intensity.

The mentally retarded.

Children entangled in foreign wars or tragedies — Korea, Vietnam, Bangladesh.

"There is no doubt that if the proper family could be reached, every child now available for adoption would be adopted," writes Mrs. Dywasuk. "Experience has shown that there are families who would be happy and thrilled to adopt not only the perfect, blue-eyed baby but also the older child, the handicapped child, the child who is racially different from them. The problem is finding these families and bringing them together with the right child."

Herself a journalist and the mother of four children, one of them adopted, Mrs. Dywasuk is a fervent advocate of adoption. She is not afraid to take a stand on related issues. For instance, abortion, for her, does not compare with adoption as a method of solving the problem of unwanted babies and of overpopulation. On heredity, she accepts current medical theory but disposes forthrightly of myths such as "criminal personalities, evil streaks, and bad blood. . ."

SHE BACKS adoptive parents in the struggles some of them have with friends and relatives. One adoptive father, Tom Wardell of Boston, says that he and his wife had been called "communists" by some relatives when they adopted two small Vietnamese girls. You'd be surprised, he said, how many people feel these kids are "the enemy."

MRS. DYWASUK stoutly defends interracial adoption against the arguments of some members of the black community who assert that black children will lose their sense of identity in white homes.

Her enthusiasm carries through the full range of adoption possibilities — white, black, interracial, international, the handicapped, the older child, the single parent. But her whirlwind of advocacy is backed by common sense, compassion, statistics and two useful appendices —a list of adoptive parents' organizations, and of references.

Her theme is the need of the child. He comes first, not the personal, political, or civil-rights motives of prospective parents. Her book echoes the words of Pam Larsen of Cambridge, Mass. This young white mother of three adopted boys — a black-American two-year-old, a black-white-Indian-American 10-month-old, and a Vietnamese-Mexican-American infant — says:

"I feel very strongly that every child is needed in and of himself. . .You have to love the child and not the cause."

Finding loving families for homeless children is largely the task of the agencies. Many are responding effectively.

BUT MRS. DYWASUK'S book leads the way. For many who might not write to an agency her warmth and wisdom may break the ice. The book was written, she explains, because she needed one herself and couldn't find one. "How true," murmurs a Massachusetts adoption worker.

As both advocate and adviser, Mrs. Dywasuk may not offer the cool, calculated reason that some may seek. But she has poured her heart into the pages. Her motives are clear.

"The supply of parental love is not limited," she writes. "Love doesn't diminish with each person loved. It grows."

MRS. PETER CHARLES
Museum board president

HAS RESPONSIBILITY

Museum Board President Seeks An Involved Life

By JOAN LISETOR

The Good Life — Anne Charles has it. A happy marriage, four beautiful children, lovely home on a woodsy hilltop in Kentfield, but Mrs. Charles isn't content with the life she sees so many women leading, women who make a "career out of going to the market, having their hair done and doing a little volunteer work."

An involved life is what Anne Charles enjoys. She was recently elected president of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science board of directors, the board's first woman president.

"I loved being the first woman on the board," Mrs. Charles said. "I used to want to be the exceptional woman but not anymore. I recognize that I have a responsibility to every woman in the community.

"I've hit the middlescent years, the 30s, maybe that accounts for the soul searching. Also I am married to a liberated male, who allows me to ask myself questions about my life and encourages me to seek new changes."

SEEKING FREEDOM and flexibility in his own life, Peter Charles has left a large corporation recently to go into a business on his own.

In addition to the museum, Anne Charles is an active member of the Junior League of San Francisco, performs with the Children's Theater Association, is on the United Bay Area Crusade budget panel reviewing day care centers and is on the advisory board to Women's Way, a service helping women to help themselves.

With four children under the age of 6 she said she is always minus 40 hours in the babysitting cooperative.

But the children go with her when she has work to do at the museum and don't even realize their mother is in a meeting. Paper work she does at night, often staying up until 2 a.m.

Her marriage is the result of a shipboard romance, "just like the movies," she said laughing. "We were on a student cruise to Europe. Peter was living in San Francisco and I promised to come out here after I graduated (from Marymont College in Tarrytown, N.Y.)" She is a native of Bethlehem, Pa.

The couple was married in Bethlehem and lived in San Francisco until moving to Marin in 1966.

"WHEN WE first moved here I didn't know anyone. I didn't know how to get involved, so after about six months a friend suggested I join the Ross Guild of the museum. I made friends and also a lot of Christmas ornaments for the Ski Swap. I went from president of the guild to director of guilds, and when I look back things are so different than the reasons I joined. I'm excited about the challenge (being president of the museum board) and the role the museum plays in the community and the impact it can have educating children to the area in which they live."

The museum's goal is to be a natural science center.

"The zoo concept is obsolete. We have animals because we are the wildlife refuge for Marin and care for animals until they are ready to be released, but we don't accept new, big animals," Mrs. Charles said.

Her "busy work" as a volunteer behind her, Anne Charles is selective about her time now, she said.

"Two or three years ago I wanted to be involved in everything," she said. "Now I realize volunteers should be professional in their work, and they have rights, which should be recognized. Some payment should be given to volunteers, but I'm not sure it is necessarily money. Academic credit would be okay. If I had gotten credit for my volunteer work I would probably have a Ph.D by now."

SHE WOULD like to have guild members see their connection with the community, she said, because there are some members who think their only responsibility is to raise money for the museum.

"Board members call them 'guild ladies.' I call them 'guild volunteers.' I don't think I'll ever get them to change, but maybe it isn't any more important than my insisting on being called Ms. Charles. What is important is I'm Anne Charles."

By people in the women's movement she would be thought a square, she said, and yet her friends think she is very independent.

"I don't have a marriage contract. I wouldn't have a marriage contract, but I'm not so sure I would repeat the vow about obeying," she said.

Parr Show Guests Are Announced

Garden writer Jack Kramer and artist David Kreitzer will be guests on "What's Happening" with Jorie Parr Wednesday at 9 a.m. on KTIM.

Kramer, who lives in San Rafael, has written several books on plant care and regularly contributes articles to Architectural Digest and House Beautiful.

A Fairfax resident, Kreitzer exhibits his paintings at the Maxwell Galleries in San Francisco and has illustrated covers for the Atlantic Monthly.

Adoption Ways Changing Greatly

By DAVID ANABLE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Pete and John have become "brothers."

For six years the boys lived in the same nonpermanent foster home, fast friends but not relatives. Then the inseparable pair's photo, published in a Detroit newspaper, caught the eye of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snell.

"When we saw the picture of the boys, we just felt they were intended for us," Mrs. Snell said. And so it was that Pete and John, both 9-year-olds, joined the Snell family which already included Carl, 2, and Sue, 4. Their story is told by Colette Taube Dywasuk in her book "Adoption—Is It For You?" (Harper & Row).

"In two months the boys were in our home and everything just fell into place," says Mrs. Snell of the adoption. "I don't understand it, but the love was there between all of us almost immediately."

The enduring cement of families is love. That has not changed. But the way in which some families come together through adoption is changing greatly.

Mrs. Dywasuk's book charts the revolution in adoption and offers "practical advice for today's adoptive parents."

UP INTO THE 1950s, she points out, the accepted wisdom was "perfect child for perfect family." MISSISSIPPI MAYOR — Fayette, Miss., Mayor Charles Evers, shown talking to one of the city's officers, disagrees with critics who say his antigun ordinances are not working and cites statistics to prove his point.
(Christian Science Monitor Photo)

Argument Rages On Antigun Law

By JOHN DILLIN
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

(EDITOR'S NOTE — U.S. Sen. John C. Stennis (D) of Mississippi was the most recent prominent American to be wounded (Jan. 30) by a cheap handgun. In the senator's home state, Mayor Charles Evers of Fayette has been trying to prove that tough new laws can reduce the number of such gun-related crimes.)

FAYETTE, Miss. — "Do you think Mayor Evers's antigun laws are working?" a young white woman was asked here the other day. "Do you think fewer people carry guns?"

"No," was her quick reply, and to prove her point she unsnapped her purse and whipped out a chrome-plated, .32-caliber revolver that she says she carries with her everywhere.

Despite such skepticism and defiance, however, Mayor Charles Evers insists that Fayette — population, 2,000 — is enjoying a far lower crime rate as a result of antigun ordinances he pushed through the City Council here after becoming mayor in 1969.

The laws, which have resulted in surprise raids on nightclubs and restaurants and which allow anyone to be searched, have been condemned in Mississippi as a violation of individual rights. The mayor, whose younger brother Medgar Evers was gunned down in 1963 in Jackson, Miss., disagrees and cites Fayette's record:

Before 1969, Fayette recorded a gun-related crime every week to 10 days. Shootings in night spots were especially frequent. In contrast, according to Fayette police, there were only five gun-related crimes in Fayette in 1972.

No one was killed by a gun in Fayette last year, police say.

The total crime rate is down approximately 75 per cent from 1968 to 1972, according to police.

Over 75 guns, including 45 handguns, have been confiscated.

There has not been a holdup in the city limits involving a gun since Mayor Evers took office.

The laws, though, have caused howls. They forbid anyone to drive around Fayette with hunting rifles. They allow seizure of any weapon being illegally carried.

Two weeks ago, police pulled their most recent surprise raids, searching everyone in the city's restaurants and night spots. They bagged two pistols and three long knives. Possession can cost anyone $200 or more and 30 days in jail.

"People howl, but who cares," said Mayor Evers in an interview at a motel he owns here. "If a person doesn't have a gun, what does he care about somebody being searched?

"No one wants to be sitting in a place eating when some 'nut' jumps up shooting and kills him or injures him for life because he's gotten too much liquor in him.

"Our job is to protect. Some say it's harassment. But it's not. You're not authorized to carry a gun in this town. Period. We're not living in old Western days when everyone strapped on a gun. If so, let everybody put a gun on."

The mayor notes that he ran on an antigun platform and the City Council moved to adopt strong antigun measures within days after he took office.

"I guess it's a personal thing with me," the mayor says. "I lost my brother, and I lost five other dear friends, all because America wasn't strict enough. and then just the other day, Senator Stennis was shot. It's just plain unnecessary.

"The American government should realize that we are supposed to be the land of the free, not the land of fear. And you can't be free when everybody is walking around with a gun."

Many Of Her Friends Divorced And It's Making Her Wonder

DEAR HELEN:

I tried your "probability test" (re "Is divorce catching?") on my Christmas card list, and discovered that well over half our friends have been divorced at least once. It's true: I'm more apt to think of divorce as a solution simply because I know so many people who have split — and survivied; who have even gone on to happier marriages.

Another thing I wonder about: What percentage of divorced persons remarry, and are their marriages better? — PONDERING BUT NOT REALLY TEMPTED

DEAR PON:

The U.S. Census Bureau reports that about four-fifths of all divorced men remarry, and about three-fourths of all divorced women try again. Many repeaters rate their second marriages better. On the other hand, some say that a second split isn't as traumatic as the first, and the third comes quite easily. Thus, even though the marriage is "better" it may be dissolved for lesser reasons. (Those "lesser" troubles are often children, his or hers.) — H.

P.S.: Keep on being "Not Really Tempted"! The vaguely dissatisfied person who gets a divorce because "all my friends have one" probably isn't capable of a real relationship, and should never have been married in the first place.

DEAR HELEN:

I've been with this guy, Pete, for five years. When we're together, everything is cool, but he's a musician and travels a lot. Then the trouble begins. He won't let me go with him because he says being on the road is rough, but he calls at crazy hours — even the middle of the night — to check on me. I can't be home all the time, and he suspects the worst. He starts with 20 questions and it ends up in a fight because he just won't believe me. I never pry about his activities.

I'm completely true, and he should know this. Besides, I figure what he does on tour is his own business, and think he should give me the same kind of trust. What's with a man like this? — JUST ABOUT HAD IT

DEAR JAHI:

Perhaps Pete suspects you because of his actions. When a musician on the road meets a girl on the make, ha may afterwards wonder, "Is my girl doing this, too?"

Maybe you can cure him by asking those "20 questions" first. I mean, put him on the defensive, get him off balance, and — well at least he'll learn how it feels to be third-degreed. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

The other day I heard it again! This time on a TV talk show, but I've noticed my men friends react this way, too.

The moderator said to the interviewee: "Hey man, you sure have a good looking wife!" And the guy answered, "Thank you." As if his wife's looks were something he'd accomplished! Or she was a possession that people compliment him for owning, like a dog or an imported car.

The husband should agree that his wife is attractive, but he shouldn't take credit. What do you think? — S.V.B.

DEAR S.:

Actually, I hadn't thought of it this way before, but you've made a good point. Husbands (and "thankful" wives, too), take note. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

A social worker tells me that one of the problems involved with unmarried teenagers keeping their babies is that they have a change of heart several years later (when being-a-mother palls) and turn them over to adoption agencies. By this time the children have been so hurt by neglect that they're in the "hard to adopt" category.

It's a growing concern among welfare workers, for the percentage of "returned" youngsters is high and increasing. This is a plea to unwed mothers: Be sure before you decide. Those sweet, cuddly babies grow into tremendous responsibilities. If you can't cope, don't try. — CONCERNED

Advice On Portrait —The Natural Look

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kenneth, one of America's top hairdressers, divulged a few secrets when he talked about the importance of the soft, contemporary look for engagement portrait sittings and through wedding day and honeymoon. The biggest secret? Look natural.

Kenneth advises brides to be prepared when they visit their professional photographers for engagement and wedding portraits. He told how, saying:

"Your appearance should reflect your basic self. If it doesn't, you'll feel tense, insecure and look it," says Kenneth, who has coiffed thousands of heads, including those of the most illustrious members of the jet set.

TO REFLECT your best basic self, this master of the beauty world suggests that your hair be trimmed rather close to the time you have scheduled your portrait. It should be set gently, no extremes in line and combed into your best everyday look. In addition, makeup should be equally natural. An extra sweep of mascara to make lashes appear longer is allowed.

If your look is casual, wear a turtleneck, blazer or whatever your favorite daytime choice would be. A minimum of jewelry or none is suggested. If you like a dressier look, you will find that the best photographic results are achieved with the simplest possible neckline, so that your face will be the focus of your portrait.

Kenneth feels that your best wedding day look is one your groom will recognize as the most familiar. He suggests that you take your headpiece to your favorite hair stylist soon after you receive it. You are aiming for an enhanced everyday look, not something new and complicated, as well as unrecognizable to those who know you.

YOUR STYLIST needs plenty of time to experiment with such fillips as braids or curls. Giving him this time, Kenneth points out, will guarantee that you will be presenting your favorite mirror image on the day of your bridal portrait. The same successful coiffure can be copied, step by step, on the big day itself.

A great favor to your hairstylist and to yourself is to go at a time when he can experiment with your headpiece, preferably not on your lunch hour on on the day before a holiday when the salon is packed.

If you're to be a wife who travels a lot, Kenneth advises having a blunt cut with sides a bit shorter than the back. That way, almost any stylist anywhere can transform your hair into curls or an evening look, if necessary.

You yourself can tie it back in all kinds of weather or even slip it beneath a new synthetic wig. These tips go for your honeymoon as well, when you may be exposed to the humidity of one of the romantic islands, ski winds or mountain dampness.

Be prepared. Buy a selection of coordinated ribbons. There are new barrettes, as well, to help with last-minute adjustments.

Cake Decorating Class Planned

Registrations are now being taken at the Novato Parks and Recreation department office in Novato for an advanced food and cake decorating class starting Wednesday.

The class will be taught by Betty Bruton and will include instruction on how to make and decorate panoramic Easter Eggs as well as creative spring and easter ideas.

The six-week-class open to anyone who has had previous experience in cake decorating, will be held every Wednesday, at the Novato Community House from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Richard Cavallero, Miss Wojciehoski Wed

Melissa Ann Wojciehoski of San Rafael and Ricahrd David Cavallero of Novato were married Saturday in the chapel at Hamilton Air Force Base. A reception at the Officers Club followed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Wojciehoski of Colorado Springs, Colo., and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. George Cavallero of Novato.

Maid of honor was Beverly Padgett of San Rafael, and the bride's sisters, Chris Wojciehoski of Colorado Springs and Cathy Marchant of Reedley, and the bridegroom's niece, Niki Cavallero of Novato, were the bridesmaids.

Thomas Tharsing of Novato was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by the bride's brothers, Gerald and Mike Wojciehoski of Colorado Springs, and Rick Connell of Cotati.

Following a wedding trip to Monterey the couple will live in San Rafael.

Melissa was graduated from St. Francis High School in Honolulu and Reedley College. She is employed by Dr. Harry Humphreys in San Rafael as a dental assistant.

Richard was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. He is employed by Sears in San Rafael as a salesman.

Pope Names 31 New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI created 31 new Roman Catholic cardinals today and imposed a limit on the number of them who can vote for his successor. Among the new cardinals were three Americans and a Czech named secretly by the Pope four years ago.

The 75-year-old leader of the world's 590 million Catholics read out the names of 32 cardinals during a consistory stripped of most of the splendor of such ceremonies in the past.

But one of the cardinals was a Romanian bishop who died two years ago—after the Pope chose him, but never publicly named him, in 1969.

At the same time he inducted the new cardinals, raising the membership of the College of Cardinals to an all-time high of 145, the Pope decreed that in the future papal elections only 120 cardinals may vote.

He already had ruled that no cardinal aged 80 or over could vote in papal elections.

Among the new cardinals were archbishops Timothy Manning of Los Angeles, Humberto S. Medeiros of Boston and Luis Aponte Martines of San Juan, the first Puerto Rican to wear the symbolic red hat.

The Pope's announcement of two more cardinals came as a surprise. He said he named' them "in pectore," or within his breast, since the last consistory. They were Stepan Trochta of Czechoslovakia and Julius Hossu of Romania. Hossu died in 1970.

The Pope said he hoped future pontiffs would follow his example in limiting the number of papal electors to 120.

He said he was increasing the number of cardinals to a record number and that he considered it timely to impose a limit on the number of them who will vote for the next pope.

"Thus," he said, "we decree that the number of cardinals entitled to participate in that election must not exceed 120."

Under the 1970 reform barring octagenarian cardinals from papal elections, a total of 116 cardinals are now eligible to vote for Paul's successor.

Of his appointment of Hossu as cardinal, the Pope said the bishop himself asked that his name not be made public in the 1969 consistory. Hossu opposed the separation of Rome and the Byzantine rite Romanian church and in his last years was detained in a monastery near Bucharest.

Of Trochta, observers noted that the Vatican and Prague recently agreed to the naming of four new bishops in Czechoslovakia—all of them publicly ordained in Czechoslovakia over the past two days.

Smiling broadly and in seemingly jovial spirits, the Pope welcomed each of the new cardinals present for the consistory with open arms. Each in turn knelt before the pontiff to receive the gift of a red skullcap and red biretta that is his sign of office.

It was the fourth consistory since Paul assumed the papacy in 1967, the first since 1969 and was the shortest as far as ceremonies went.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE
No. 65924

In the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Marin

In the Matter of the Application of SHARON ANNE BUCK for Change of Name.

WHEREAS SHARON ANNE BUCK, petitioner, has filed a petition with the Clerk of this Court for an order changing her name from SHARON ANNE BUCK to SHARON ANNE BERGERON,

IT IS ORDERED that all persons interested in the above-entitled matter appear before this Court at 9:00 A.M., on March 30, 1973, in the courtroom of Department No. 3, at the Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, County of Marin, California, and show cause, if any, why the petition for change of name should not be granted.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this order to show cause be published in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation printed in Marin County, California, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the date set for hearing on the petition.

Engagement Of Couple Is Announced

The engagement of Lisa Jean Faustine and Bernard Joseph Noel has been announced by Lisa's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Faustine of San Rafael.

Lisa is the sister of Lee Faustine of Petaluma and John Faustine of San Rafael. Mr. and Mrs. Harald Paulsen of San Rafael are her grandparents.

A graduate of Terra Linda High School, Lisa is employed at Sears in Northgate Mall and is the vocalist with the Lone Star Ramblers country and Western band.

Bernard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Noel of San Rafael and the brother of George Noel of Novato, Mary, Bernadette and Margaret Noel of San Rafael. He was graduated from Terra Linda High School and the College of Marin.

The couple has set a July 21 wedding.

Novatan Awarded Smith Scholarship

Emily Lawrence Dupras of Novato has been awarded a $1,250 scholarship to Smith College in Northampton, Mass.

The daughter of Col. and Mrs. Leo A. Dupras of Novato, Emily is a midyear graduate of San Marin High School. She has already begun her college studies at Smith.

Sonoma Student Wins French Study Honor

Sonoma State College student Debbie Lynn Jackson of San Rafael has won the Fulbright-Hays Teaching Assistantship in France for the coming academic year.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Jackson of San Rafael, Debbie is the first Sonoma State student to win the fellowship.

She was one of the 20 women selected from throughout the United States to receive the fellowship which has been forwarded to the office of National des Universitite et Ecoles Francaises.

Debbie is doing her practice teaching in France at the Mill Valley Middle School. She received a degree in French last June at Sonoma State and will receive her secondary teaching credential in June.

She studied French in high school and at the University of California at Santa Barbara. She spent her junior year in college at the Institute for American Universitites in Aix-en-Provence, France, and attended the University of California at Berkeley.

Debbie said that whilein France she plans to study 'more deeply, if possible, descriptive linguistics (phonetics) and historical linguistics of French.

Dr. Marvin N. Dillon, coordinator of internatinal education services, said Debbie was an exceptional candidate for this award. "We seldom encounter someone with this high degree of motivation accompanied by talent and maturity in the same generous quantities," she said.

Engagement Of Couple Is Announced

The engagement of Lisa Jean Faustine and Bernard Joseph Noel has been announced by Lisa's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Faustine of San Rafael.

Lisa is the sister of Lee Faustine of Petaluma and John Faustine of San Rafael. Mr. and Mrs. Harald Paulsen of San Rafael are her grandparents.

A graduate of Terra Linda High School, Lisa is employed at Sears in Northgate Mall and is the vocalist with the Lone Star Ramblers country and Western band.

Bernard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Noel of San Rafael and the brother of George Noel of Novato, Mary, Bernadette and Margaret Noel of San Rafael. He was graduated from Terra Linda High School and the College of Marin.

The couple has set a July 21 wedding.

Novatan Awarded Smith Scholarship

Emily Lawrence Dupras of Novato has been awarded a $1,250 scholarship to Smith College in Northampton, Mass.

The daughter of Col. and Mrs. Leo A. Dupras of Novato, Emily is a midyear graduate of San Marin High School. She has already begun her college studies at Smith.

Sonoma Student Wins French Study Honor

Sonoma State College student Debbie Lynn Jackson of San Rafael has won the Fulbright-Hays Teaching Assistantship in France for the coming academic year.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Jackson of San Rafael, Debbie is the first Sonoma State student to win the fellowship.

She was one of the 20 women selected from throughout the United States to receive the fellowship which has been forwarded to the office of National des Universitite et Ecoles Francaises.

Debbie is doing her practice teaching in France at the Mill Valley Middle School. She received a degree in French last June at Sonoma State and will receive her secondary teaching credential in June.

She studied French in high school and at the University of California at Santa Barbara. She spent her junior year in college at the Institute for American Universitites in Aix-en-Provence, France, and attended the University of California at Berkeley.

Debbie said that whilein France she plans to study 'more deeply, if possible, descriptive linguistics (phonetics) and historical linguistics of French.

Dr. Marvin N. Dillon, coordinator of internatinal education services, said Debbie was an exceptional candidate for this award. "We seldom encounter someone with this high degree of motivation accompanied by talent and maturity in the same generous quantities," she said.

Marin Women

MRS. PETER CHARLES
Museum board president

HAS RESPONSIBILITY

Museum Board President Seeks An Involved Life

By JOAN LISETOR

The Good Life — Anne Charles has it. A happy marriage, four beautiful children, lovely home on a woodsy hilltop in Kentfield, but Mrs. Charles isn't content with the life she sees so many women leading, women who make a "career out of going to the market, having their hair done and doing a little volunteer work."

An involved life is what Anne Charles enjoys. She was recently elected president of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science board of directors, the board's first woman president.

"I loved being the first woman on the board," Mrs. Charles said. "I used to want to be the exceptional woman but not anymore. I recognize that I have a responsibility to every woman in the community.

"I've hit the middlescent years, the 30s, maybe that accounts for the soul searching. Also I am married to a liberated male, who allows me to ask myself questions about my life and encourages me to seek new changes."

SEEKING FREEDOM and flexibility in his own life, Peter Charles has left a large corporation recently to go into a business on his own.

In addition to the museum, Anne Charles is an active member of the Junior League of San Francisco, performs with the Children's Theater Association, is on the United Bay Area Crusade budget panel reviewing day care centers and is on the advisory board to Women's Way, a service helping women to help themselves.

With four children under the age of 6 she said she is always minus 40 hours in the babysitting cooperative.

But the children go with her when she has work to do at the museum and don't even realize their mother is in a meeting. Paper work she does at night, often staying up until 2 a.m.

Her marriage is the result of a shipboard romance, "just like the movies," she said laughing. "We were on a student cruise to Europe. Peter was living in San Francisco and I promised to come out here after I graduated (from Marymont College in Tarrytown, N.Y.)" She is a native of Bethlehem, Pa.

The couple was married in Bethlehem and lived in San Francisco until moving to Marin in 1966.

"WHEN WE first moved here I didn't know anyone. I didn't know how to get involved, so after about six months a friend suggested I join the Ross Guild of the museum. I made friends and also a lot of Christmas ornaments for the Ski Swap. I went from president of the guild to director of guilds, and when I look back things are so different than the reasons I joined. I'm excited about the challenge (being president of the museum board) and the role the museum plays in the community and the impact it can have educating children to the area in which they live."

The museum's goal is to be a natural science center.

"The zoo concept is obsolete. We have animals because we are the wildlife refuge for Marin and care for animals until they are ready to be released, but we don't accept new, big animals," Mrs. Charles said.

Her "busy work" as a volunteer behind her, Anne Charles is selective about her time now, she said.

"Two or three years ago I wanted to be involved in everything," she said. "Now I realize volunteers should be professional in their work, and they have rights, which should be recognized. Some payment should be given to volunteers, but I'm not sure it is necessarily money. Academic credit would be okay. If I had gotten credit for my volunteer work I would probably have a Ph.D by now."

SHE WOULD like to have guild members see their connection with the community, she said, because there are some members who think their only responsibility is to raise money for the museum.

"Board members call them 'guild ladies.' I call them 'guild volunteers.' I don't think I'll ever get them to change, but maybe it isn't any more important than my insisting on being called Ms. Charles. What is important is I'm Anne Charles."

By people in the women's movement she would be thought a square, she said, and yet her friends think she is very independent.

"I don't have a marriage contract. I wouldn't have a marriage contract, but I'm not so sure I would repeat the vow about obeying," she said.

Parr Show Guests Are Announced

Garden writer Jack Kramer and artist David Kreitzer will be guests on "What's Happening" with Jorie Parr Wednesday at 9 a.m. on KTIM.

Kramer, who lives in San Rafael, has written several books on plant care and regularly contributes articles to Architectural Digest and House Beautiful.

A Fairfax resident, Kreitzer exhibits his paintings at the Maxwell Galleries in San Francisco and has illustrated covers for the Atlantic Monthly.

Adoption Ways Changing Greatly

By DAVID ANABLE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Pete and John have become "brothers."

For six years the boys lived in the same nonpermanent foster home, fast friends but not relatives. Then the inseparable pair's photo, published in a Detroit newspaper, caught the eye of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snell.

"When we saw the picture of the boys, we just felt they were intended for us," Mrs. Snell said. And so it was that Pete and John, both 9-year-olds, joined the Snell family which already included Carl, 2, and Sue, 4. Their story is told by Colette Taube Dywasuk in her book "Adoption—Is It For You?" (Harper & Row).

"In two months the boys were in our home and everything just fell into place," says Mrs. Snell of the adoption. "I don't understand it, but the love was there between all of us almost immediately."

The enduring cement of families is love. That has not changed. But the way in which some families come together through adoption is changing greatly.

Mrs. Dywasuk's book charts the revolution in adoption and offers "practical advice for today's adoptive parents."

UP INTO THE 1950s, she points out, the accepted wisdom was "perfect child for perfect family." Prospective adoptive parents had to fit rigid criteria —of infertility, finance, religion, etc. But in the 1960s, permissiveness (nine out of 10 adopted children are born out of wedlock) and a freeing for adoption of a greater variety of children left agencies with healthy babies to spare. The exacting strictures broke down. The primary aim became to help the children become members of families.

NOW THE wheel has turned again. Contraceptives, abortion, wider acceptance of single women retaining their offspring, all have cut the number of children available for adoption. At the same time more families are ready to open their homes to the child in need. And a national and state network has grown up designed to bring child and family together.

So rapid have been these changes that Mrs. Dywasuk can scarcely keep up. Her emphasis on the preeminent needs of black and racially mixed children already seems a little dated. In New England, the Midwest, and California the situation has moved on. Experts say that in those areas at least there are today few if any black or mixed-race children waiting for adoption. Agencies have actively and successfully sought out black and mixed parents; and a proportion of these children have gone to white families, too.

Adoption of healthy black, white, and mixed-race infants goes on. But the pool is drying up, and some of the urgency has ebbed.

WHAT CHILDREN still need homes?

The Petes and Johns of the less-than-secure foster-home world. The children over six years old, and those, too, who cling to each other because they are friends or brothers and sisters and need to find a home together.

Those with physical handicaps, minor and perhaps correctable, moderate and not expected to improve, severe and possibly fatal.

Those with emotional problems of varying degrees of intensity.

The mentally retarded.

Children entangled in foreign wars or tragedies — Korea, Vietnam, Bangladesh.

"There is no doubt that if the proper family could be reached, every child now available for adoption would be adopted," writes Mrs. Dywasuk. "Experience has shown that there are families who would be happy and thrilled to adopt not only the perfect, blue-eyed baby but also the older child, the handicapped child, the child who is racially different from them. The problem is finding these families and bringing them together with the right child."

Herself a journalist and the mother of four children, one of them adopted, Mrs. Dywasuk is a fervent advocate of adoption. She is not afraid to take a stand on related issues. For instance, abortion, for her, does not compare with adoption as a method of solving the problem of unwanted babies and of overpopulation. On heredity, she accepts current medical theory but disposes forthrightly of myths such as "criminal personalities, evil streaks, and bad blood. . ."

SHE BACKS adoptive parents in the struggles some of them have with friends and relatives. One adoptive father, Tom Wardell of Boston, says that he and his wife had been called "communists" by some relatives when they adopted two small Vietnamese girls. You'd be surprised, he said, how many people feel these kids are "the enemy."

MRS. DYWASUK stoutly defends interracial adoption against the arguments of some members of the black community who assert that black children will lose their sense of identity in white homes.

Her enthusiasm carries through the full range of adoption possibilities — white, black, interracial, international, the handicapped, the older child, the single parent. But her whirlwind of advocacy is backed by common sense, compassion, statistics and two useful appendices —a list of adoptive parents' organizations, and of references.

Her theme is the need of the child. He comes first, not the personal, political, or civil-rights motives of prospective parents. Her book echoes the words of Pam Larsen of Cambridge, Mass. This young white mother of three adopted boys — a black-American two-year-old, a black-white-Indian-American 10-month-old, and a Vietnamese-Mexican-American infant — says:

"I feel very strongly that every child is needed in and of himself. . .You have to love the child and not the cause."

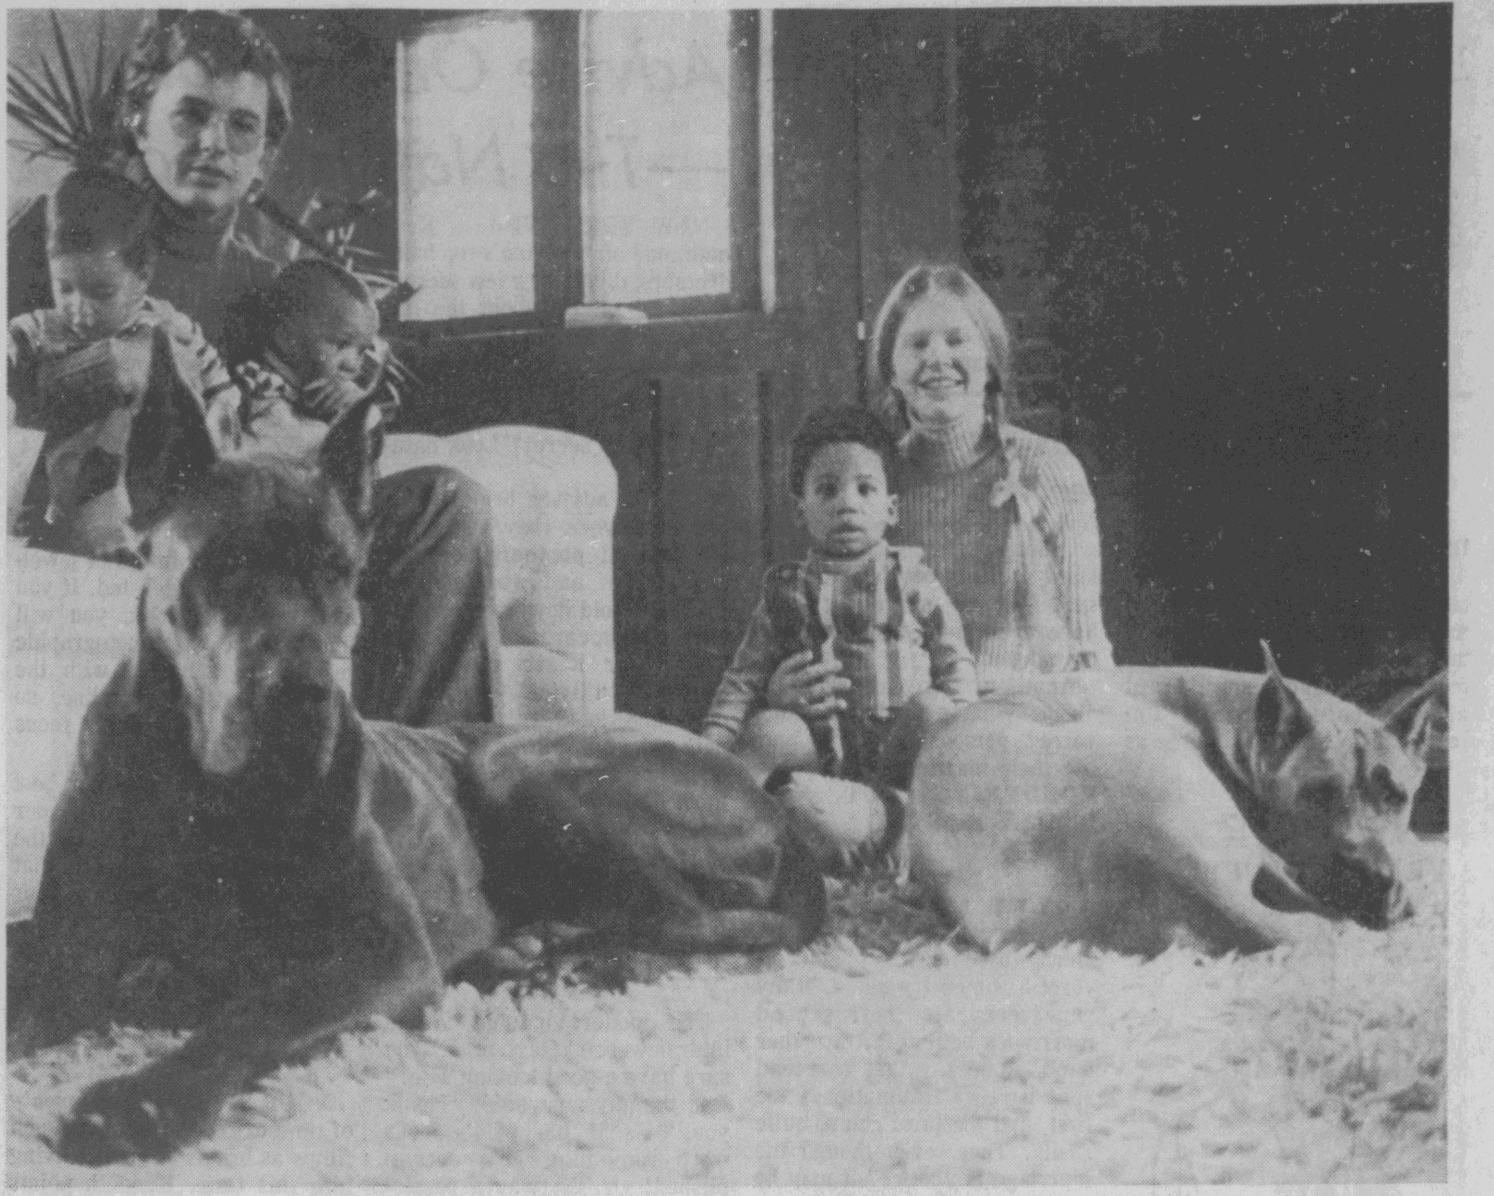
Finding loving families for homeless children is largely the task of the agencies. Many are responding effectively.

BUT MRS. DYWASUK'S book leads the way. For many who might not write to an agency her warmth and wisdom may break the ice. The book was written, she explains, because she needed one herself and couldn't find one. "How true," murmurs a Massachusetts adoption worker.

As both advocate and adviser, Mrs. Dywasuk may not offer the cool, calculated reason that some may seek. But she has poured her heart into the pages. Her motives are clear.

"The supply of parental love is not limited," she writes. "Love doesn't diminish with each person loved. It grows."

1973 The Christian Science Publishing Society



RICK AND Pam Larsen of Cambridge, Mass., have adopted three sons, Jens, Peik and Tage, all of mixed racial backgrounds. Other members of their growing family are two Great Danes, Fritchoff and Sonia. This family is illustrative of the new feelings among the adopted and those who adopt as explained in the accompanying article.

Resolution Against Marijuana

A resolution against the legalizing of marijuana in California was passed Thursday by the Sausalito Woman's Club at a general membership meeting.

Mmes. Walter C.Thompson, Sylvester McAtee and Brookner W. Brady proposed the resolution.

The action, according to Mrs. Alan Conner, club spokesman, was prompted by an item in the Sacramento Scene column by Rus Walton, which appeared in the Independent-Journal Feb. 23.

In his column, Walton took issue with a bill introduced by Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, and 11 other legislators to legalize the planting, cultivation, harvesting, processing, transportation, possession or use of marijuana, saying the language of the bill was identical with that of the initiative which was voted down by the people of the state in last November's election. California voters turned down the initiative by a two to one vote.

Accessories For The 'Bare Look'

Fashion accessory manufacturers are having a busy season dreaming up ways to decorate with scarves and accessories the "bare look" of the new dress styles.

Women are seeking to wear shawls or scarves as coverups against chill evenings.

More Expensive

Look for imported perfumes to become even more expensive after the U.S. dollar devaluation abroad, reports Women's Wear Daily. It will vary with the perfume, as many are imported in the bottle and many colognes are blended and bottled in the U.S.

Old Story —Love's Sweet Song

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Anna Cannon's mother was against her daughter's marriage so the hearbroken boyfriend sailed off to South America. William Cannon penetrated the hostile Amazon for 2,000 miles along its swamp-infested length.

Sound like the start of a Hollywood plastic love-story script?

No, it's the real thing, for from the steaming jungles of South America to the bitter cold of Alaska, William Cannon has proved a real love story. He and his wife Anna recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary.

Their romance started early in the centry in Portsmouth, England, where young Will met and fell in love with Anna. Both were apprentices — he in the ways of sailing ships and she in the art of tailoring. Unfortunately, her mother was opposed to marriage and so he sailed away.

Five years later, he returned to England, determined to claim his only love. The couple decided to begin a new life in America. They were married Dec. 3, 1912, in Montana. Later they moved to Anchorage where he worked as a boilermaker for the Alaska Railroad until his retirement in 1951.

Which again proves the adage: Love conquers all. (Los Angeles-Times Syndicate)

New Drugs Needed For Hypertension

To treat the patient with high blood pressure "quantitatively and satisfactorily," physicians are going to require "a whole panoply of drugs," said Dr. Irvine H. Page, heart specialist and researcher, at a recent symposium in Hershey, Pa., on the management of hypertension (high blood pressure).

It is not enough just to say, "Give him some pills. . . and get the pressure down," Dr. Page emphasized. "That is to deny the subtlety of medicine." He said he hoped that in the future the treatment for high blood pressure would become much more definitive, the mechanisms involved better understood and treatment patterned to fit the individual patient.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Babar, Celeste Costumes Rules Over Mardi Gras

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Carrillo of Tiburon reigned over the 20th annual Mardi Gras Ball held Saturday evening at the Sheraton Palace Hotel in San Francisco.

The dinner dance, attended by a large contingency from Marin County, differed from past balls since the king and queen were chosen by their costumes instead of being the persons raising the most money for the ball's charity, the Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

Dressed as the characters Babar and Celeste, the elephants from the children's story by Jean de Brunhoff, the Carillos were selected by a jury of former queens and reigned from a dais overlooking the elegant Palace Court transformed into a scene reminiscent of the Hapsburg Empire and the Palace at Schonbrunn under the reign of Emperor Franz Joseph and Empress Elizabeth.

Other Marinites who received awards for their costumes were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Gotti of Kentfield, dressed as a Grecian couple, who received second prize in the couple's division. Gotti was also a member of the men's fund raising committee, whose members presented a 5 by 12-foot check for $27,000 to the hospital.

Dressed as a London flu bug Mrs. George Howard of Fairfax won first prize in the single woman's contest. The award for the best group went to the 20 or so guests reenacting a scene from the film, "The Godfather."

Sponsors of the ball and members of the committee from the North Bay include Messrs. and Mmes. Dewey Donnell of Sonoma, G. F. Jewett Jr. of Ross, Dr. and Mrs. Jerome P. Mednick of San Rafael and Mmes. Richard T. Conlan of Mill Valley, John C. Fletcher of Larkspur, Sherman Leland Jr. of Novato, Seaver Page of Sausalito, James J. Reuter of Corte Madera, Paul Stanley of Sausalito and Samuel Thoron of Inverness.

TO CELEBRATE her 90th birthday Mrs. Ida Kraft of San Anselmo will be honored at a tea at her home on Thursday by friends, neighbors and relatives. Among the guests will be Mrs. Kraft's friends from Inverness, where she previously lived.

Then on Saturday a family reunion will bring relatives from various parts of the West and Midwest for a birthday dinner at the home of Mrs. Kraft's daughter, Mrs. Frank Spicer of San Anselmo. Four generations of the family will attend, including Mrs. Kraft's brother, Carl Wilkens of Tennessee, whom she has not seen for 20 years and has never been West.

Also attending is her cousin, Mrs. Dallas Clawson of Toledo, Ohio. Both Mrs. Clawson and Wilkens also celebrate early March birthdays, so the dinner honors will also be shared by them.

The Spicers' two daughters and grandchildren will attend from Seattle and Redding and Mrs. Kraft's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kraft of San Anselmo, will be joined by their two daughters and daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Kraft and her family originally moved to Marin from Oak Park, Ill., some 30 years ago.

New Cosmetics Labeling Will Aid The Shopper

The new cosmetics ingredients labeling requirements will aid the shopper to compare similar products, said Dr. Alfred Weissler, director of the division of colors and cosmetics for the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

"The value to consumers is in aiding their choice of a product," Dr. Weissler told Women's Wear Daily.

He assumes that the FDA will take on the technical aspects of the new ingredient labeling. It will increase FDA data to identify cosmetic hazards. Information gathered will be fed into the FDA computer data bank, and when a reaction to a product is reported, a readout can be obtained on ingredients in the offending product and compared with other products' ingredients, he explained. That way, the offending ingredient may be detected, he said.

Engagement Of Couple Is Told A Spring Rite

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Fischer of Fresno have announced the engagement of their daughter Cafi Marie to Terrell Cohen of San Rafael.

Cafi was graduated from Fresno High School and the University of California, Los Angeles. She is employed with the United States Food & Drug Administration.

Terrell is the son of Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. Chester Cohen of San Rafael. He was graduated from San Rafael High School and the University of California, Davis. He is presently in his second year at the U.C.L.A. School of Dentistry.

A spring wedding is planned by the couple.

Looser Style

Sweaters for summer are moving into a looser style with the same easy look that's influencing dress designs. The blouson look is apparent in a neat way, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Resolution Against Marijuana

A resolution against the legalizing of marijuana in California was passed Thursday by the Sausalito Woman's Club at a general membership meeting.

Mmes. Walter C.Thompson, Sylvester McAtee and Brookner W. Brady proposed the resolution.

The action, according to Mrs. Alan Conner, club spokesman, was prompted by an item in the Sacramento Scene column by Rus Walton, which appeared in the Independent-Journal Feb. 23.

In his column, Walton took issue with a bill introduced by Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, and 11 other legislators to legalize the planting, cultivation, harvesting, processing, transportation, possession or use of marijuana, saying the language of the bill was identical with that of the initiative which was voted down by the people of the state in last November's election. California voters turned down the initiative by a two to one vote.

Accessories For The 'Bare Look'

Fashion accessory manufacturers are having a busy season dreaming up ways to decorate with scarves and accessories the "bare look" of the new dress styles.

Women are seeking to wear shawls or scarves as coverups against chill evenings.

More Expensive

Look for imported perfumes to become even more expensive after the U.S. dollar devaluation abroad, reports Women's Wear Daily. It will vary with the perfume, as many are imported in the bottle and many colognes are blended and bottled in the U.S.

Old Story —Love's Sweet Song

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Anna Cannon's mother was against her daughter's marriage so the hearbroken boyfriend sailed off to South America. William Cannon penetrated the hostile Amazon for 2,000 miles along its swamp-infested length.

Sound like the start of a Hollywood plastic love-story script?

No, it's the real thing, for from the steaming jungles of South America to the bitter cold of Alaska, William Cannon has proved a real love story. He and his wife Anna recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary.

Their romance started early in the centry in Portsmouth, England, where young Will met and fell in love with Anna. Both were apprentices — he in the ways of sailing ships and she in the art of tailoring. Unfortunately, her mother was opposed to marriage and so he sailed away.

Five years later, he returned to England, determined to claim his only love. The couple decided to begin a new life in America. They were married Dec. 3, 1912, in Montana. Later they moved to Anchorage where he worked as a boilermaker for the Alaska Railroad until his retirement in 1951.

Which again proves the adage: Love conquers all. (Los Angeles-Times Syndicate)

New Drugs Needed For Hypertension

To treat the patient with high blood pressure "quantitatively and satisfactorily," physicians are going to require "a whole panoply of drugs," said Dr. Irvine H. Page, heart specialist and researcher, at a recent symposium in Hershey, Pa., on the management of hypertension (high blood pressure).

It is not enough just to say, "Give him some pills. . . and get the pressure down," Dr. Page emphasized. "That is to deny the subtlety of medicine." He said he hoped that in the future the treatment for high blood pressure would become much more definitive, the mechanisms involved better understood and treatment patterned to fit the individual patient.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Babar, Celeste Costumes Rules Over Mardi Gras

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Carrillo of Tiburon reigned over the 20th annual Mardi Gras Ball held Saturday evening at the Sheraton Palace Hotel in San Francisco.

The dinner dance, attended by a large contingency from Marin County, differed from past balls since the king and queen were chosen by their costumes instead of being the persons raising the most money for the ball's charity, the Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

Dressed as the characters Babar and Celeste, the elephants from the children's story by Jean de Brunhoff, the Carillos were selected by a jury of former queens and reigned from a dais overlooking the elegant Palace Court transformed into a scene reminiscent of the Hapsburg Empire and the Palace at Schonbrunn under the reign of Emperor Franz Joseph and Empress Elizabeth.

Other Marinites who received awards for their costumes were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Gotti of Kentfield, dressed as a Grecian couple, who received second prize in the couple's division. Gotti was also a member of the men's fund raising committee, whose members presented a 5 by 12-foot check for $27,000 to the hospital.

Dressed as a London flu bug Mrs. George Howard of Fairfax won first prize in the single woman's contest. The award for the best group went to the 20 or so guests reenacting a scene from the film, "The Godfather."

Sponsors of the ball and members of the committee from the North Bay include Messrs. and Mmes. Dewey Donnell of Sonoma, G. F. Jewett Jr. of Ross, Dr. and Mrs. Jerome P. Mednick of San Rafael and Mmes. Richard T. Conlan of Mill Valley, John C. Fletcher of Larkspur, Sherman Leland Jr. of Novato, Seaver Page of Sausalito, James J. Reuter of Corte Madera, Paul Stanley of Sausalito and Samuel Thoron of Inverness.

TO CELEBRATE her 90th birthday Mrs. Ida Kraft of San Anselmo will be honored at a tea at her home on Thursday by friends, neighbors and relatives. Among the guests will be Mrs. Kraft's friends from Inverness, where she previously lived.

Then on Saturday a family reunion will bring relatives from various parts of the West and Midwest for a birthday dinner at the home of Mrs. Kraft's daughter, Mrs. Frank Spicer of San Anselmo. Four generations of the family will attend, including Mrs. Kraft's brother, Carl Wilkens of Tennessee, whom she has not seen for 20 years and has never been West.

Also attending is her cousin, Mrs. Dallas Clawson of Toledo, Ohio. Both Mrs. Clawson and Wilkens also celebrate early March birthdays, so the dinner honors will also be shared by them.

The Spicers' two daughters and grandchildren will attend from Seattle and Redding and Mrs. Kraft's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kraft of San Anselmo, will be joined by their two daughters and daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Kraft and her family originally moved to Marin from Oak Park, Ill., some 30 years ago.

New Cosmetics Labeling Will Aid The Shopper

The new cosmetics ingredients labeling requirements will aid the shopper to compare similar products, said Dr. Alfred Weissler, director of the division of colors and cosmetics for the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

"The value to consumers is in aiding their choice of a product," Dr. Weissler told Women's Wear Daily.

He assumes that the FDA will take on the technical aspects of the new ingredient labeling. It will increase FDA data to identify cosmetic hazards. Information gathered will be fed into the FDA computer data bank, and when a reaction to a product is reported, a readout can be obtained on ingredients in the offending product and compared with other products' ingredients, he explained. That way, the offending ingredient may be detected, he said.

Engagement Of Couple Is Told A Spring Rite

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Fischer of Fresno have announced the engagement of their daughter Cafi Marie to Terrell Cohen of San Rafael.

Cafi was graduated from Fresno High School and the University of California, Los Angeles. She is employed with the United States Food & Drug Administration.

Terrell is the son of Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. Chester Cohen of San Rafael. He was graduated from San Rafael High School and the University of California, Davis. He is presently in his second year at the U.C.L.A. School of Dentistry.

A spring wedding is planned by the couple.

Looser Style

Sweaters for summer are moving into a looser style with the same easy look that's influencing dress designs. The blouson look is apparent in a neat way, reports Women's Wear Daily.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Many Of Her Friends Divorced And It's Making Her Wonder

DEAR HELEN:

I tried your "probability test" (re "Is divorce catching?") on my Christmas card list, and discovered that well over half our friends have been divorced at least once. It's true: I'm more apt to think of divorce as a solution simply because I know so many people who have split — and survivied; who have even gone on to happier marriages.

Another thing I wonder about: What percentage of divorced persons remarry, and are their marriages better? — PONDERING BUT NOT REALLY TEMPTED

DEAR PON:

The U.S. Census Bureau reports that about four-fifths of all divorced men remarry, and about three-fourths of all divorced women try again. Many repeaters rate their second marriages better. On the other hand, some say that a second split isn't as traumatic as the first, and the third comes quite easily. Thus, even though the marriage is "better" it may be dissolved for lesser reasons. (Those "lesser" troubles are often children, his or hers.) — H.

P.S.: Keep on being "Not Really Tempted"! The vaguely dissatisfied person who gets a divorce because "all my friends have one" probably isn't capable of a real relationship, and should never have been married in the first place.

DEAR HELEN:

I've been with this guy, Pete, for five years. When we're together, everything is cool, but he's a musician and travels a lot. Then the trouble begins. He won't let me go with him because he says being on the road is rough, but he calls at crazy hours — even the middle of the night — to check on me. I can't be home all the time, and he suspects the worst. He starts with 20 questions and it ends up in a fight because he just won't believe me. I never pry about his activities.

I'm completely true, and he should know this. Besides, I figure what he does on tour is his own business, and think he should give me the same kind of trust. What's with a man like this? — JUST ABOUT HAD IT

DEAR JAHI:

Perhaps Pete suspects you because of his actions. When a musician on the road meets a girl on the make, ha may afterwards wonder, "Is my girl doing this, too?"

Maybe you can cure him by asking those "20 questions" first. I mean, put him on the defensive, get him off balance, and — well at least he'll learn how it feels to be third-degreed. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

The other day I heard it again! This time on a TV talk show, but I've noticed my men friends react this way, too.

The moderator said to the interviewee: "Hey man, you sure have a good looking wife!" And the guy answered, "Thank you." As if his wife's looks were something he'd accomplished! Or she was a possession that people compliment him for owning, like a dog or an imported car.

The husband should agree that his wife is attractive, but he shouldn't take credit. What do you think? — S.V.B.

DEAR S.:

Actually, I hadn't thought of it this way before, but you've made a good point. Husbands (and "thankful" wives, too), take note. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

A social worker tells me that one of the problems involved with unmarried teenagers keeping their babies is that they have a change of heart several years later (when being-a-mother palls) and turn them over to adoption agencies. By this time the children have been so hurt by neglect that they're in the "hard to adopt" category.

It's a growing concern among welfare workers, for the percentage of "returned" youngsters is high and increasing. This is a plea to unwed mothers: Be sure before you decide. Those sweet, cuddly babies grow into tremendous responsibilities. If you can't cope, don't try. — CONCERNED

Advice On Portrait —The Natural Look

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kenneth, one of America's top hairdressers, divulged a few secrets when he talked about the importance of the soft, contemporary look for engagement portrait sittings and through wedding day and honeymoon. The biggest secret? Look natural.

Kenneth advises brides to be prepared when they visit their professional photographers for engagement and wedding portraits. He told how, saying:

"Your appearance should reflect your basic self. If it doesn't, you'll feel tense, insecure and look it," says Kenneth, who has coiffed thousands of heads, including those of the most illustrious members of the jet set.

TO REFLECT your best basic self, this master of the beauty world suggests that your hair be trimmed rather close to the time you have scheduled your portrait. It should be set gently, no extremes in line and combed into your best everyday look. In addition, makeup should be equally natural. An extra sweep of mascara to make lashes appear longer is allowed.

If your look is casual, wear a turtleneck, blazer or whatever your favorite daytime choice would be. A minimum of jewelry or none is suggested. If you like a dressier look, you will find that the best photographic results are achieved with the simplest possible neckline, so that your face will be the focus of your portrait.

Kenneth feels that your best wedding day look is one your groom will recognize as the most familiar. He suggests that you take your headpiece to your favorite hair stylist soon after you receive it. You are aiming for an enhanced everyday look, not something new and complicated, as well as unrecognizable to those who know you.

YOUR STYLIST needs plenty of time to experiment with such fillips as braids or curls. Giving him this time, Kenneth points out, will guarantee that you will be presenting your favorite mirror image on the day of your bridal portrait. The same successful coiffure can be copied, step by step, on the big day itself.

A great favor to your hairstylist and to yourself is to go at a time when he can experiment with your headpiece, preferably not on your lunch hour on on the day before a holiday when the salon is packed.

If you're to be a wife who travels a lot, Kenneth advises having a blunt cut with sides a bit shorter than the back. That way, almost any stylist anywhere can transform your hair into curls or an evening look, if necessary.

You yourself can tie it back in all kinds of weather or even slip it beneath a new synthetic wig. These tips go for your honeymoon as well, when you may be exposed to the humidity of one of the romantic islands, ski winds or mountain dampness.

Be prepared. Buy a selection of coordinated ribbons. There are new barrettes, as well, to help with last-minute adjustments.

Cake Decorating Class Planned

Registrations are now being taken at the Novato Parks and Recreation department office in Novato for an advanced food and cake decorating class starting Wednesday.

The class will be taught by Betty Bruton and will include instruction on how to make and decorate panoramic Easter Eggs as well as creative spring and easter ideas.

The six-week-class open to anyone who has had previous experience in cake decorating, will be held every Wednesday, at the Novato Community House from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Richard Cavallero, Miss Wojciehoski Wed

Melissa Ann Wojciehoski of San Rafael and Ricahrd David Cavallero of Novato were married Saturday in the chapel at Hamilton Air Force Base. A reception at the Officers Club followed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Wojciehoski of Colorado Springs, Colo., and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. George Cavallero of Novato.

Maid of honor was Beverly Padgett of San Rafael, and the bride's sisters, Chris Wojciehoski of Colorado Springs and Cathy Marchant of Reedley, and the bridegroom's niece, Niki Cavallero of Novato, were the bridesmaids.

Thomas Tharsing of Novato was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by the bride's brothers, Gerald and Mike Wojciehoski of Colorado Springs, and Rick Connell of Cotati.

Following a wedding trip to Monterey the couple will live in San Rafael.

Melissa was graduated from St. Francis High School in Honolulu and Reedley College. She is employed by Dr. Harry Humphreys in San Rafael as a dental assistant.

Richard was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. He is employed by Sears in San Rafael as a salesman.

ART REVIEW

Artist Responsive To Medium

By ADA GARFINKEL

Artist Tamara Hanley's artistic expression is strongly responsive to her medium.

One of this month's three featured artists at the Genesis Gallery in Mill Valley, Mrs. Hanley's extensive display includes hedonistic crayon drawings of portly nudes, intimate family scenes in pen-and-ink line drawings, a metaphysical memory-bank in an oil painting and several tightly enclosed black nd white etchings —one or two with the cataclysmic overtones of German expressionism.

Mrs. Hanley's forms are crisp and controlled. Their contours are plastic, flowing amiably into one another, such as in the pen-and-ink vignettes describing the tenseness of "Lady in Waiting," and the menage-a-deux in "My husband likes to read." And "My Kitchen" reveals the way an artist sees line and pattern — rhythm and movement in everything.

There is an air of decadence and despair in "Orgy of Black and White," with its abstracted, dismembered bodies hurtling pell-mell into an abyss. And in "Nuclear Family," there is a strange sense of the unexpected in the nude picnic scene of adults and children interspersed with cellular and swimming organisms.

Mrs. Hanley's exhibit sustains one's interest throughout her production.

Photographer Ernest Francken, formerly a staff photographer for the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., captures instantaneous movement in a sequence of 10 related images of a dancer.

In several of the shots, the image is partial when the dancers hands and arms are hidden from view. The contours thus become sculptural, and one recalls ancient Grecian statues. Yet one knows it will change, and change again as she moves and we move with her in the space of her activity.

In individual color photos, Francken's visits to old California towns have produced scenes such as the adobe brick "Depository" in Fiddletown, and an ancient church with a huge, weather-beaten viola mounted on its overhang, in Daffodil Hill.

Gordon Farnsworth is the third featured artist. His paintings are primarily of seascapes and landscapes. "Sea's Edge" creates a soft atmospheric mood, while "Montara Coast" has a freely conceived land contour whose activity is suggested by slashing diagonal strokes as it meets and merges with the near greens and distant blues of the water.

The changing monthly exhibits at this gallery afford other artist-members an opportunity to show new work. Topically au courant thinking is reflected in "Grandfather Recycled," an assemblage by Jay Joyce, and in another way in Chester Arnold's emotive papier-mache wall sculpture, "The Christ Passion."

And Joyce Livingston's black-and-white etching, "Night Thoughts" — a symbolic dream sequence montage — combines the bare branches of a tree seen against a huge white ovoid shape. In the distant background, tiny insects, beats and gnomes are fixed to a spidery lace network. Yet ll of the disparate elements are merged in union.

The exhibit will continue through March 31 and may be seen weekdays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The gallery is located at 2 Miller Avenue on the second floor.

Young Musicians Do Well In Concerto Concert Solos

By VERA M. OLMSTED

Eight young musicians were featured soloists with the College of Marin Community Orchestra, directed by John H. Myers, in last night's Concerto Concert at the college's Fine Arts Theatre.

The Concerto Concert, an annual event, provides valuable training for student musicians of varying abilities and different levels of development, and gives them the experience of performing one movement of a major work in front of a live audience.

The first half of the program was devoted to concertos written during the Baroque and late classic periods. Flutist Zoltan Kraynik began the program with Antonio Vivaldi's Flute Concerto in D Major, Op. 10 No. 3. Kraynik performed competently, articulating the ornamental passages well, but the work lacked overall dynamic variety.

Jean Hall was soloist in the first movement of the D Minor Harpsichord Concerto by J. S. Bach. Not having the score before her apparently caused her to lose her place, but she and the orchestra resumed playing and finished without difficulty.

The orchestra was expanded for the next work, and Robin Willat ably interpreted the first movement of Mozart's Flute Concerto No. 2 in D Major (K.314). Miss Willat projected outward with a full, bright tone, but tended to rush the fast passages. This was true of most of the musicians all evening.

The amusing Rondo from the Trumpet Concerto in E Flat Major by J. N. Hummel was given a lively performance by Jon Pankin.

Three concerto selections by English composers were presented after intermission. Kathe Kaeppel gave a good reading of the first movement of the Bassoon Concerto by Gordon Jacob (1947). Miss Kaeppel's tone, while not yet fully developed, was secure, but the orchestra (using only strings and percussion), had a shaky start.

The third movement of William Walton's Viola Concerto (1928-29), was given a highly-polished and assured performance by Stephen Levintow, playing the viola with very mature musicianship and a fine understanding of phrasing. This attractive work alternates between lyric passages and driving rhythms, and the orchestra's wind section played its prominent part well.

Mary True, cellist, delivered a powerful performance of the first movement of Edward Elgar's beautiful Cello Concerto in E Minor (1919). Miss True played with ease, showing a full-bodied tone, secure intonation, and varied expressiveness. The Elgar and Walton Concertos were the highlights of the evening and were enthusiastically received by the capacity audience.

The Rondo from Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 1 in C Major closed the program. John LoPiccolo was a bit heavy-handed in this gay and sprightly movement. He momentarily lost his place but quickly recovered and finished without further incident.

Myer's guided the soloists through their performances with skill and imperturbability and the orchestra played with a consistently high level of competence throughout the evening. All of the soloists deserve praise for the hard work they put in and their willingness to test themselves before an audience.

Disposal Site Approval Asked

The Marin County Public works department has requested the Army Corps of Engineers to approve a new disposal site for materials dredged from Gallinas Creek near Santa Venetia.

The new site adjacent to Las Gallinas sanitation plant was required when owners of land formerly used for disposing of spoils did not wish to continue the agreement with the county.

The new site will require construction of a new dike on the southside.

Objections to the plan may be submitted in triplicate to the Army Corps of Engineers, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco through March 17.

Holbrook's Twain Is Timeless

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — Mark Twain as Hal Holbrook or Hal Holbrook as Mark Twain.

Sounds rather confusing? Really it isn't.

It was just another grand evening of Holbrook's "Mark Twain Tonight!" before a full house Saturday night at the Masonic Auditorium.

The theatrical magic generated by Holbrook will be repeated in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building tomorrow at 8:30 p.m.

Holbrook began his evenings of Twain in 1959 on off-Broadway in New York. When he finally mounted the production on Broadway in 1966, honors poured forth — the Tony Award as the best actor of the year and a salute by the Drama Critics's Circle. In 1967, he brought the show to television with at least a 30-million audience. This tour marks another return of Twain to the Bay Area.

Holbrook is Twain all the way — from the shuffle of the elderly gentleman's feet to each savored puff on the ever present cigar.

Twain always made points with humor. It was the deadliest weapon he possessed and he used it whenever he thought his nation needed a polite scolding.

The actor varies the evening's program. Some of the material he used Saturday night will not likely be repeated in the Marin show. The program notes reveal that Holbrook has about 12 hours of material on hand and he chooses his material as he goes along.

Twain's remarks on war, the economy, politicians and life in general are just as contemporary today as in the 19th Century when he wrote and lectured. He remarks on war were roundly applauded by Saturday night's audience.

Also the audience responded with genuine bursts of laughter at a sampling of Twain's famous one-liners. "Man is the only animal that blushes. Or needs to." "I can give up smoking whenever I want to. I've done it a thousand times."

Holbrook is never better than when he lectures on Twain's experiences as a young newspaper reporter in San Francisco. Twain's remarks on opera, especially on Wagner, are priceless gems.

And to hear those wonderful yarns from "Huckleberry Finn" invoke nostalgia.

George Bernard Shaw called Mark Twain (Samuel Clements) America's Voltaire and rightly so. He earned a standing ovation Saturday night.

Orange Soil From Moon Not Volcanic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Apollo 17's astronauts made the startling discovery of orange soil on the rim of a moon crater, it was thought the deposit might be the result of volcanic activity.

However, detailed analyses performed in laboratories of the U.S. Geological Survey have disproven that theory. The tests show the soil is made of small orange glass beads, probably formed from lunar rock by ancient meteroid impact.

Dr. Edwin Roedder of the Geological Survey reported the findings Sunday.

"While this clears up one mystery," Roedder said, "it still leaves us with the fact that although volcanic lava samples have been returned, no Apollo mission has yet visited a lunar volcano."

Roedder said similar glass beads were found scattered among the samples returned by the Apollo 11 explorers. The orange beads were from 1-50th to 1-1000th of an inch in diameter.

"The deep orange color probably stems from the high titanium and iron contents," Roedder said. "Some of the beads have crystallized and hence are black."

Earlier reports from scientists at the State University of New York said the orangecolored deposits were 3.71 billion years old, far older than many scientists first thought.

Roedder said the search for "young" volcanic materials on the moon had been unsuccessful to this point.

Library Display

Paintings and collages by Edgar W. Frank of Kentfield are on display this month at the regional library in Corte Madera.

Japanese Violinist To Present Concert

TEIKO MAEHASHI
Marin appearance

Young Japanese violinist Teiko Maehashi will appear in concert at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building at 8:15 p.m. April 9, sponsored by the Marin Concert Association.

A native of Tokyo, Miss Maehashi began playing violin at age 5 and subsequently studied at the Leningrad Conservatory in Russia and New York's Juilliard School.

In 1968 she won first prize in the Oakland Young Artist competition and as a result appeared in 1969 with the Oakland Symphony. In 1971 and 1972, she made a round-the-world recital tour appearing with the Orchestra of the Opera of Monte Carlo, the Baltimore Symphony and the Vancouver Symphony.

She will appear with the Los Angeles Philharmonic this year.

Her repertoire includes selections by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Bruch, Haydn, Mendelssohn, Mozart, Paganini, Sibelius and others.

Unhappy Patrons Maced Over Demand For Refund

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thrillseeking motorcycle fans claiming stunts by daredevil Evel Knievel were too dull at a motorcycle show Saturday night got some excitement after all when the promoter of the show maced them during a dispute over a refund for tickets, police said.

The promoter, Ken Brown, 30, was arrested on harrassment and mace possession charges, and nine persons were treated at the first aid station of Nassau County Colisseum at East Meadow, N.Y.

About 75 persons among the audience of 2,700, all of whom paid $6 each to see the show, confronted Brown afterwards, told him the stunts weren't good enough and demanded their money back.

Police said two other men, James M. Draper, 20, of Wichita, Kan., and Seth Westring, 35, of Niles, Ill., both connected with the show, also were charged with possession of mace.

The Rondo from Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 1 in C Major closed the program. John LoPiccolo was a bit heavy-handed in this gay and sprightly movement. He momentarily lost his place but quickly recovered and finished without further incident.

Myer's guided the soloists through their performances with skill and imperturbability and the orchestra played with a consistently high level of competence throughout the evening. All of the soloists deserve praise for the hard work they put in and their willingness to test themselves before an audience.

Disposal Site Approval Asked

The Marin County Public works department has requested the Army Corps of Engineers to approve a new disposal site for materials dredged from Gallinas Creek near Santa Venetia.

The new site adjacent to Las Gallinas sanitation plant was required when owners of land formerly used for disposing of spoils did not wish to continue the agreement with the county.

The new site will require construction of a new dike on the southside.

Objections to the plan may be submitted in triplicate to the Army Corps of Engineers, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco through March 17.

Orange Soil From Moon Not Volcanic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Apollo 17's astronauts made the startling discovery of orange soil on the rim of a moon crater, it was thought the deposit might be the result of volcanic activity.

However, detailed analyses performed in laboratories of the U.S. Geological Survey have disproven that theory. The tests show the soil is made of small orange glass beads, probably formed from lunar rock by ancient meteroid impact.

Dr. Edwin Roedder of the Geological Survey reported the findings Sunday.

"While this clears up one mystery," Roedder said, "it still leaves us with the fact that although volcanic lava samples have been returned, no Apollo mission has yet visited a lunar volcano."

Roedder said similar glass beads were found scattered among the samples returned by the Apollo 11 explorers. The orange beads were from 1-50th to 1-1000th of an inch in diameter.

"The deep orange color probably stems from the high titanium and iron contents," Roedder said. "Some of the beads have crystallized and hence are black."

Earlier reports from scientists at the State University of New York said the orangecolored deposits were 3.71 billion years old, far older than many scientists first thought.

Roedder said the search for "young" volcanic materials on the moon had been unsuccessful to this point.

Japanese Violinist To Present Concert

TEIKO MAEHASHI
Marin appearance

Young Japanese violinist Teiko Maehashi will appear in concert at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building at 8:15 p.m. April 9, sponsored by the Marin Concert Association.

A native of Tokyo, Miss Maehashi began playing violin at age 5 and subsequently studied at the Leningrad Conservatory in Russia and New York's Juilliard School.

In 1968 she won first prize in the Oakland Young Artist competition and as a result appeared in 1969 with the Oakland Symphony. In 1971 and 1972, she made a round-the-world recital tour appearing with the Orchestra of the Opera of Monte Carlo, the Baltimore Symphony and the Vancouver Symphony.

She will appear with the Los Angeles Philharmonic this year.

Her repertoire includes selections by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Bruch, Haydn, Mendelssohn, Mozart, Paganini, Sibelius and others.

Unhappy Patrons Maced Over Demand For Refund

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thrillseeking motorcycle fans claiming stunts by daredevil Evel Knievel were too dull at a motorcycle show Saturday night got some excitement after all when the promoter of the show maced them during a dispute over a refund for tickets, police said.

The promoter, Ken Brown, 30, was arrested on harrassment and mace possession charges, and nine persons were treated at the first aid station of Nassau County Colisseum at East Meadow, N.Y.

About 75 persons among the audience of 2,700, all of whom paid $6 each to see the show, confronted Brown afterwards, told him the stunts weren't good enough and demanded their money back.

Police said two other men, James M. Draper, 20, of Wichita, Kan., and Seth Westring, 35, of Niles, Ill., both connected with the show, also were charged with possession of mace.

Engagement Of Couple Is Announced

The engagement of Lisa Jean Faustine and Bernard Joseph Noel has been announced by Lisa's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Faustine of San Rafael.

Lisa is the sister of Lee Faustine of Petaluma and John Faustine of San Rafael. Mr. and Mrs. Harald Paulsen of San Rafael are her grandparents.

A graduate of Terra Linda High School, Lisa is employed at Sears in Northgate Mall and is the vocalist with the Lone Star Ramblers country and Western band.

Bernard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Noel of San Rafael and the brother of George Noel of Novato, Mary, Bernadette and Margaret Noel of San Rafael. He was graduated from Terra Linda High School and the College of Marin.

The couple has set a July 21 wedding.

Novatan Awarded Smith Scholarship

Emily Lawrence Dupras of Novato has been awarded a $1,250 scholarship to Smith College in Northampton, Mass.

The daughter of Col. and Mrs. Leo A. Dupras of Novato, Emily is a midyear graduate of San Marin High School. She has already begun her college studies at Smith.

Sonoma Student Wins French Study Honor

Sonoma State College student Debbie Lynn Jackson of San Rafael has won the Fulbright-Hays Teaching Assistantship in France for the coming academic year.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Jackson of San Rafael, Debbie is the first Sonoma State student to win the fellowship.

She was one of the 20 women selected from throughout the United States to receive the fellowship which has been forwarded to the office of National des Universitite et Ecoles Francaises.

Debbie is doing her practice teaching in France at the Mill Valley Middle School. She received a degree in French last June at Sonoma State and will receive her secondary teaching credential in June.

She studied French in high school and at the University of California at Santa Barbara. She spent her junior year in college at the Institute for American Universitites in Aix-en-Provence, France, and attended the University of California at Berkeley.

Debbie said that whilein France she plans to study 'more deeply, if possible, descriptive linguistics (phonetics) and historical linguistics of French.

Dr. Marvin N. Dillon, coordinator of internatinal education services, said Debbie was an exceptional candidate for this award. "We seldom encounter someone with this high degree of motivation accompanied by talent and maturity in the same generous quantities," she said.

Nixon Says U.S. Huge 'Slumlord'

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — The U.S. government is becoming "a nationwide slumlord," President Nixon told a national radio audience Sunday while defending his decision to eliminate scores of urban renewal projects and suspend subsidized housing programs.

In the fifth installment of a serialized State of the Union report to the nation, Nixon said he wanted to turn community planning over to state and local officials.

The President said Congress would receive a written message on community development and "the quality of life in our cities and towns" later this week. He indicated that new legislation in these areas would be proposed but gave no hint when it would be sent to Capitol Hill or what it might contain.

In his speech, Nixon gave an optimistic assessment of urban America's general outlooc now, compared with a few years ago when "we constantly heard" that the nation's cities and towns were "on the brink of collapse."

Nixon claimed the nation's air is now cleaner, said the financial condition of most local governments has been shored up and cited a decrease in the crime rate.

"The hour of crisis has passed," he said.

"The ship of state is back on an even keel, and we can put behind us the fear of capsizing," he declared.

Nixon criticized social action programs of the 1960s. He said many were "extravagant, hastily planned measures, designed by centralized planners and costing billions of dollars—but producing few results."

He charged that seven urban development programs were "outmoded" and promised to halt them. He said four housing assistance programs were "ineffective" and said they would be suspended.

"We are determined to get a dollar's worth of service out of every dollar's worth of taxes," he said. "The high-cost, no-result boondoggling by the federal government must end."

Hongisto Plans To Sue State For San Quentin Prison Costs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sheriff Richard Hongisto says he is going to sue the state to compensate for being billed $723.75 a day to keep 75 city inmates at the San Quentin state prison.

"I have already instructed my attorney to sue the state of California, if possible, to make it either give us the money owed us for housing state prisoners, or cancel the San Quentin bill," he said Sunday.

San Quentin Prison must bill San Francisco for that city's jail inmates temporarily housed at the prison, a San Quentin spokesman explained today.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park countered that San Quentin's billing policy is directed by the state Department of Corrections in Sacramento. "The fee's always been charged — San Francisco paid it the last time they had prisoners here."

The sheriff added that he plans to continue keeping the 75 men in San Quentin until the threat of a possible strike by his deputies is resolved. Deputies have said they will strike unless safety grievances are settled.

Hongisto said he planned to sue for the "thousands of dollars" he said it costs to house and feed some 180 state inmates in San Francisco's two county jails.

The sheriff said there are 86 inmates who were sentenced in Superior Court to state prison terms but put on probation on condition they serve county jail time. In addition, he said there were about 100 inmates being temporarily held in city jails as parole violators.

"It costs us about $8 a day to house these prisoners and the money comes out of the sheriff's department budget," he said. "I've instructed my lawyer to either sue the governor, finance director, or whomever necessary," he said.

The sheriff transferred the 75 inmates to San Quentin after a fire-setting spree at the county jail at San Bruno Feb. 25.

Political Talk Set Tomorrow

Rep. George E. Brown Jr., 38th District will discuss current political developments in Washington, D.C., at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Olney Hall, College of Marin.

Although defeated for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate in 1970 by John Tunney, Brown carried Marin County and has since appeared here several times.

A panel of speakers, including representatives of Marin Democratic Forum, Americans for Democratic Action, Common Cause and Marin Alternative, will discuss local political activities following Brown's talk.

The free program is sponsored by a Marin steering committee that had been organized in behalf of Sen. George McGovern's bid for President.

Charges Will Be Filed In Wild Horse Massacre

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A blood-flecked corral in the Idaho mountains and seven slain horses are all that's left of a herd of 60 mustangs brutally captured and killed by ranchers, Velma "Wild Horse Annie" Johnston said Sunday.

The horses were driven to a remote corral in the Lehmi Mountains of central Idaho by a helicopter, then hauled away for use as dog food said Mrs. Johnston, a founding member of the national Wild Horse Advisory Board.

Nostrils of the horses were clipped with metal rings to subdue them, said Frantz Dantzler, Salt Lake City, Utah. It was "the most outrageous, premeditated incident of animal cruelty I have seen in 10 years," said Dantzler, who is director of the national Human Society's Intermountain Region.

Charges of cruelty to animals under Idaho law will be filed Tuesday against at least four ranchers, Dantzler said. Two federal laws and one state law were broken by the stockmen who rounded up and carted off the animals, he said.

Burton Bill Would Save Drug Costs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, has proposed a bill permitting pharmacists to substitute less expensive "generic" drugs for brand-name prescriptions.

Burton said Sunday the measure could save Californians more than $40 million annually by extending to regular customers the same substitution practices that now save the Medi-Cal program about $20 million a year.

Currently, a physician selects a particular drug—often a brand name—and the pharmacists must dispense exactly what the doctor ordered.

Under Burton's bill, the pharmacist could chose a less costly "generic" drug instead of the brand name if it was medically equivalent. However, the physician could insist on a particular company's product, if necessary.

"I do not believe it either wise or proper for the state to deny the private consumer access to a cost-saving device it employs in its own programs," Burton said.

Impact Report Up For Review

An environmental impact report on the controversial Canon Village and Tennis Club development will be heard Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Fairfax Design Review Board meeting at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Plans include 128 units on 88 acres along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Glen Drive. Planning Commission approval of a tentative map for the project was ordered by a Marin Superior Court judge last September after developers Robert D. Marshall and Denkmann and Co. filed suit, saying the city had illegally delayed approving the map.

New Bill Is Bad News For Brides

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — As approximately 1,400 bills become law on Wednesday, the Legislature suddenly is faced with delaying one that could dash the wedding plans of thousands of Spring brides.

The new law will require that before a woman is issued a marriage license by the county clerk, she must under go a blood test for susceptibility to German measles.

The hitch is that only a few laboratory clinics throughout the state are geared up to administer the test, and the state Department of Public Health hasn't yet completed development of licensing for rubella tests.

There is no way that both the clinics and state can be fully prepared to implement the new statute by Wednesday, the effective date of most bills passed by the 1972 Legislature.

Unless an "urgency" bill by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, is rushed through the Legislature and passed within two days, county clerks will be legally prohibited from issuing marriage licenses to female applicants who do not have a physician's certificate of rubella examination.

And, that prospect could mess up untold numbers of planned weddings.

But while attention focuses on the Beilenson measure, about 1,400 other bills enacted by the 1972 Legislature and signed by Reagan will become law on Wednesday with scarsely a ripple.

For example, it no longer will be illegal for a distressed motorist to walk along freeway shoulders in search of help, newly hired prison guards will start school, and the state will mount an attack on solid wastes.

Some of the new statutes are so technical they may change only a comma in an existing law. Others will have a direct impact on the lives of millions of Californians. Some have delayed dates for implementation.

Some already have become law as "urgency" statutes effective immediately on Reagan's signature. The 1972 session's biggest bill, the $1.1 billion property tax relief-school aid program, will become effective at scattered intervals later on.

The state Department of Education is preparing to implement in the next fall term an ambitious "early childhood education" program which paves the way for four-year-olds to start school in 1975 with their parents' consent.

The new law is aimed at tailoring instruction to reflect the needs of individual pupils in the first, second and third grades. Within the next six years, it is designed to reduce the current 30:1 student-teacher ratio to 10:1 by bringing into the classroom more parents, paraprofessionals, senior citizens as volunteers and even using older children to help teach younger ones.

On the consumer front, the state will start regulating repair dealers of major home appliances, such as dishwashers, refrigerators and air conditioners. The aim is to drive unscrupulous dealers out of business.

Approximately 2,500 home appliance repair dealers will be required to register with the state Bureau of Repair Services by July 1 and pay a $50 annual fee. Eight home appliance technicians will be hired to double as undercover agents.

Their tactics will include "bugging" an appliance with a "controlled malfunction," setting it up in a home and summoning a suspected consumer gouger to repair it. If he fails to repair it but claims to have done so and submits a bill, state agents will move in — an action that could result in criminal fraud charges.

In the environmental field, a new seven-member state board will devise a statewide plan to manage and dispose of solid waste in cooperation with local governments. The part-time board will be aided by a 25-member advisory council.

Rescue Work Is Continuing

BAILEY'S CROSSROADS, Va. (AP) — Search operations are continuing near the rubble of a partially collapsed apartment building where five construction workers died and nine others are missing.

Wrecking crews yesterday demolished a 24-story section of the structure so searchers would not be endangered, Fairfax County officials said.

Another 24-story section has slabs of concrete dangling above the ground held by twisted sections of steel reinforcing rods. Officials said those pieces of concrete would be removed before rescue workers could extend their search for the missing.

Coppola Adds Another Award

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Francis Ford Coppola, who directed "The Godfather," has won the Directors Guild of America's award for best movie direction of 1972.

In other awards presented Sturday night, Lamont Johnson was honored for best television direction for "That Certain Summer," and the D. W. Griffith Award for outstanding direction went to William Wellman, who directed "Wings," "A Star Is Born" and "The Oxbow Incident."

Nixon Says U.S. Huge 'Slumlord'

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — The U.S. government is becoming "a nationwide slumlord," President Nixon told a national radio audience Sunday while defending his decision to eliminate scores of urban renewal projects and suspend subsidized housing programs.

In the fifth installment of a serialized State of the Union report to the nation, Nixon said he wanted to turn community planning over to state and local officials.

The President said Congress would receive a written message on community development and "the quality of life in our cities and towns" later this week. He indicated that new legislation in these areas would be proposed but gave no hint when it would be sent to Capitol Hill or what it might contain.

In his speech, Nixon gave an optimistic assessment of urban America's general outlooc now, compared with a few years ago when "we constantly heard" that the nation's cities and towns were "on the brink of collapse."

Nixon claimed the nation's air is now cleaner, said the financial condition of most local governments has been shored up and cited a decrease in the crime rate.

"The hour of crisis has passed," he said.

"The ship of state is back on an even keel, and we can put behind us the fear of capsizing," he declared.

Nixon criticized social action programs of the 1960s. He said many were "extravagant, hastily planned measures, designed by centralized planners and costing billions of dollars—but producing few results."

He charged that seven urban development programs were "outmoded" and promised to halt them. He said four housing assistance programs were "ineffective" and said they would be suspended.

"We are determined to get a dollar's worth of service out of every dollar's worth of taxes," he said. "The high-cost, no-result boondoggling by the federal government must end."

Hongisto Plans To Sue State For San Quentin Prison Costs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sheriff Richard Hongisto says he is going to sue the state to compensate for being billed $723.75 a day to keep 75 city inmates at the San Quentin state prison.

"I have already instructed my attorney to sue the state of California, if possible, to make it either give us the money owed us for housing state prisoners, or cancel the San Quentin bill," he said Sunday.

San Quentin Prison must bill San Francisco for that city's jail inmates temporarily housed at the prison, a San Quentin spokesman explained today.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park countered that San Quentin's billing policy is directed by the state Department of Corrections in Sacramento. "The fee's always been charged — San Francisco paid it the last time they had prisoners here."

The sheriff added that he plans to continue keeping the 75 men in San Quentin until the threat of a possible strike by his deputies is resolved. Deputies have said they will strike unless safety grievances are settled.

Hongisto said he planned to sue for the "thousands of dollars" he said it costs to house and feed some 180 state inmates in San Francisco's two county jails.

The sheriff said there are 86 inmates who were sentenced in Superior Court to state prison terms but put on probation on condition they serve county jail time. In addition, he said there were about 100 inmates being temporarily held in city jails as parole violators.

"It costs us about $8 a day to house these prisoners and the money comes out of the sheriff's department budget," he said. "I've instructed my lawyer to either sue the governor, finance director, or whomever necessary," he said.

The sheriff transferred the 75 inmates to San Quentin after a fire-setting spree at the county jail at San Bruno Feb. 25.

Political Talk Set Tomorrow

Rep. George E. Brown Jr., 38th District will discuss current political developments in Washington, D.C., at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Olney Hall, College of Marin.

Although defeated for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate in 1970 by John Tunney, Brown carried Marin County and has since appeared here several times.

A panel of speakers, including representatives of Marin Democratic Forum, Americans for Democratic Action, Common Cause and Marin Alternative, will discuss local political activities following Brown's talk.

The free program is sponsored by a Marin steering committee that had been organized in behalf of Sen. George McGovern's bid for President.

Charges Will Be Filed In Wild Horse Massacre

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A blood-flecked corral in the Idaho mountains and seven slain horses are all that's left of a herd of 60 mustangs brutally captured and killed by ranchers, Velma "Wild Horse Annie" Johnston said Sunday.

The horses were driven to a remote corral in the Lehmi Mountains of central Idaho by a helicopter, then hauled away for use as dog food said Mrs. Johnston, a founding member of the national Wild Horse Advisory Board.

Nostrils of the horses were clipped with metal rings to subdue them, said Frantz Dantzler, Salt Lake City, Utah. It was "the most outrageous, premeditated incident of animal cruelty I have seen in 10 years," said Dantzler, who is director of the national Human Society's Intermountain Region.

Charges of cruelty to animals under Idaho law will be filed Tuesday against at least four ranchers, Dantzler said. Two federal laws and one state law were broken by the stockmen who rounded up and carted off the animals, he said.

Resolution Against Marijuana

A resolution against the legalizing of marijuana in California was passed Thursday by the Sausalito Woman's Club at a general membership meeting.

Mmes. Walter C.Thompson, Sylvester McAtee and Brookner W. Brady proposed the resolution.

The action, according to Mrs. Alan Conner, club spokesman, was prompted by an item in the Sacramento Scene column by Rus Walton, which appeared in the Independent-Journal Feb. 23.

In his column, Walton took issue with a bill introduced by Assemblyman Henry Waxman, D-Los Angeles, and 11 other legislators to legalize the planting, cultivation, harvesting, processing, transportation, possession or use of marijuana, saying the language of the bill was identical with that of the initiative which was voted down by the people of the state in last November's election. California voters turned down the initiative by a two to one vote.

Accessories For The 'Bare Look'

Fashion accessory manufacturers are having a busy season dreaming up ways to decorate with scarves and accessories the "bare look" of the new dress styles.

Women are seeking to wear shawls or scarves as coverups against chill evenings.

More Expensive

Look for imported perfumes to become even more expensive after the U.S. dollar devaluation abroad, reports Women's Wear Daily. It will vary with the perfume, as many are imported in the bottle and many colognes are blended and bottled in the U.S.

Old Story —Love's Sweet Song

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Anna Cannon's mother was against her daughter's marriage so the hearbroken boyfriend sailed off to South America. William Cannon penetrated the hostile Amazon for 2,000 miles along its swamp-infested length.

Sound like the start of a Hollywood plastic love-story script?

No, it's the real thing, for from the steaming jungles of South America to the bitter cold of Alaska, William Cannon has proved a real love story. He and his wife Anna recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary.

Their romance started early in the centry in Portsmouth, England, where young Will met and fell in love with Anna. Both were apprentices — he in the ways of sailing ships and she in the art of tailoring. Unfortunately, her mother was opposed to marriage and so he sailed away.

Five years later, he returned to England, determined to claim his only love. The couple decided to begin a new life in America. They were married Dec. 3, 1912, in Montana. Later they moved to Anchorage where he worked as a boilermaker for the Alaska Railroad until his retirement in 1951.

Which again proves the adage: Love conquers all. (Los Angeles-Times Syndicate)

New Drugs Needed For Hypertension

To treat the patient with high blood pressure "quantitatively and satisfactorily," physicians are going to require "a whole panoply of drugs," said Dr. Irvine H. Page, heart specialist and researcher, at a recent symposium in Hershey, Pa., on the management of hypertension (high blood pressure).

It is not enough just to say, "Give him some pills. . . and get the pressure down," Dr. Page emphasized. "That is to deny the subtlety of medicine." He said he hoped that in the future the treatment for high blood pressure would become much more definitive, the mechanisms involved better understood and treatment patterned to fit the individual patient.

Babar, Celeste Costumes Rules Over Mardi Gras

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Carrillo of Tiburon reigned over the 20th annual Mardi Gras Ball held Saturday evening at the Sheraton Palace Hotel in San Francisco.

The dinner dance, attended by a large contingency from Marin County, differed from past balls since the king and queen were chosen by their costumes instead of being the persons raising the most money for the ball's charity, the Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

Dressed as the characters Babar and Celeste, the elephants from the children's story by Jean de Brunhoff, the Carillos were selected by a jury of former queens and reigned from a dais overlooking the elegant Palace Court transformed into a scene reminiscent of the Hapsburg Empire and the Palace at Schonbrunn under the reign of Emperor Franz Joseph and Empress Elizabeth.

Other Marinites who received awards for their costumes were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Gotti of Kentfield, dressed as a Grecian couple, who received second prize in the couple's division. Gotti was also a member of the men's fund raising committee, whose members presented a 5 by 12-foot check for $27,000 to the hospital.

Dressed as a London flu bug Mrs. George Howard of Fairfax won first prize in the single woman's contest. The award for the best group went to the 20 or so guests reenacting a scene from the film, "The Godfather."

Sponsors of the ball and members of the committee from the North Bay include Messrs. and Mmes. Dewey Donnell of Sonoma, G. F. Jewett Jr. of Ross, Dr. and Mrs. Jerome P. Mednick of San Rafael and Mmes. Richard T. Conlan of Mill Valley, John C. Fletcher of Larkspur, Sherman Leland Jr. of Novato, Seaver Page of Sausalito, James J. Reuter of Corte Madera, Paul Stanley of Sausalito and Samuel Thoron of Inverness.

TO CELEBRATE her 90th birthday Mrs. Ida Kraft of San Anselmo will be honored at a tea at her home on Thursday by friends, neighbors and relatives. Among the guests will be Mrs. Kraft's friends from Inverness, where she previously lived.

Then on Saturday a family reunion will bring relatives from various parts of the West and Midwest for a birthday dinner at the home of Mrs. Kraft's daughter, Mrs. Frank Spicer of San Anselmo. Four generations of the family will attend, including Mrs. Kraft's brother, Carl Wilkens of Tennessee, whom she has not seen for 20 years and has never been West.

Also attending is her cousin, Mrs. Dallas Clawson of Toledo, Ohio. Both Mrs. Clawson and Wilkens also celebrate early March birthdays, so the dinner honors will also be shared by them.

The Spicers' two daughters and grandchildren will attend from Seattle and Redding and Mrs. Kraft's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kraft of San Anselmo, will be joined by their two daughters and daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Kraft and her family originally moved to Marin from Oak Park, Ill., some 30 years ago.

New Cosmetics Labeling Will Aid The Shopper

The new cosmetics ingredients labeling requirements will aid the shopper to compare similar products, said Dr. Alfred Weissler, director of the division of colors and cosmetics for the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

"The value to consumers is in aiding their choice of a product," Dr. Weissler told Women's Wear Daily.

He assumes that the FDA will take on the technical aspects of the new ingredient labeling. It will increase FDA data to identify cosmetic hazards. Information gathered will be fed into the FDA computer data bank, and when a reaction to a product is reported, a readout can be obtained on ingredients in the offending product and compared with other products' ingredients, he explained. That way, the offending ingredient may be detected, he said.

Engagement Of Couple Is Told A Spring Rite

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Fischer of Fresno have announced the engagement of their daughter Cafi Marie to Terrell Cohen of San Rafael.

Cafi was graduated from Fresno High School and the University of California, Los Angeles. She is employed with the United States Food & Drug Administration.

Terrell is the son of Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. Chester Cohen of San Rafael. He was graduated from San Rafael High School and the University of California, Davis. He is presently in his second year at the U.C.L.A. School of Dentistry.

A spring wedding is planned by the couple.

Looser Style

Sweaters for summer are moving into a looser style with the same easy look that's influencing dress designs. The blouson look is apparent in a neat way, reports Women's Wear Daily.

RESPITE IN PRISON VISITS

House At San Quentin A Haven

THE HOUSE — This unpretentious building outside the walls of San Quentin fills a very special need, a resting place for friends and relatives visting prisoners. Here, the sister, mother or sweetheart of an inmate may pause to freshen up before passing through the gates, or on the way home rest awhile, fix a sandwich, or see to the needs of children brought along. (Independent-Journal photos)

By REBECCA LARSEN

A mother with two toddlers wants to visit her husband in San Quentin. She can't afford a babysitter and the children get restless in the prison visiting room. What can she do with the tots during the visit?

A sister comes to visit her inmate brother at San Quentin via a tedious bus trip from Los Angeles. She arrives in San Rafael to dsicover it will cost another $2.80 in cabfare to the prison gates. And where will she spend the night once her visit is over?

A mother is concerned about her inmate son in San Quentin who seems to have mental problems and has been shuffled back and forth for several years between two prisons. Who's going to help her get the prison's attention to his problems?

For the past 15 months, people like these have been turning for help to a ticky-tacky, brightly painted cottage on the main road to the prison, the House at San Quentin.

Jane Schulman, one of two salaried workers at the House, estimates that more than 8,000 people have visited there since it opened in December 1971. She believes it's the only place of its kind serving a California prison and thinks it's one of the few prison hospitality houses in the country.

The four-room building offers a phone, bologna and cheese sandwiches, a free nursery, help with transportation and temporary housing and a chance to chat with friendly people. It's open 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. every day except Tuesday and Wednesday.

Founded by James Kilty, director of community service for Catholic Social Service of Marin, the House has a $16,000 annual budget funded by churches and several foundations.

Although several previous attempts to set up a hospitality house for prisoners families have failed, the House has caught on.

"This place means being able to relax when you come out of the prison," says one young woman from Richmond visiting her boyfriend. "When I get out of there I'm all tensed up, and the House is a release."

Even prison officials seem enthusiastic. Associate Warden James W. L. Park says: "We get a lot of static about prisons, but very few people actually do anything about them. The House is a case of someone actually buckling down and helping prisoners."

In spite of a dreary rain last Saturday a crowd of visitors came to San Quentin and the House. Inside the cottage, the overstuffed Salvation Army style chairs and couches are filled with women. In a playroom covered with murals of mountains and nature scenes, several children pull toys out of a box. Miss Schulman sits on a sagging sofa, hugging a little girl. In the kitchen, more children are making cocoa.

Miss Schulman, who has been with the House since it opened, confesses that the work can be as depressing as the prison walls a few yards down the road. "A lot of heavy stuff comes through that door," she says.

"Most of these women come from families with prison backgrounds themselves. Then they marry someone who ends up in prison. They have lots of kids, and they go on welfare.

"It really hurts to hear them talking about San Qunetin. In the best of circumstances, a prison is a cold and loveless place. It's hard for them to see their men in a place like that week after week, year after year."

Miss Schulman, who lives in Mill Valley and is a student at the College of Marin, used to work in draft counseling. Her co-worker, Richard Jarrette, worked previously in group therapy with a Los Angeles psychiatrist.

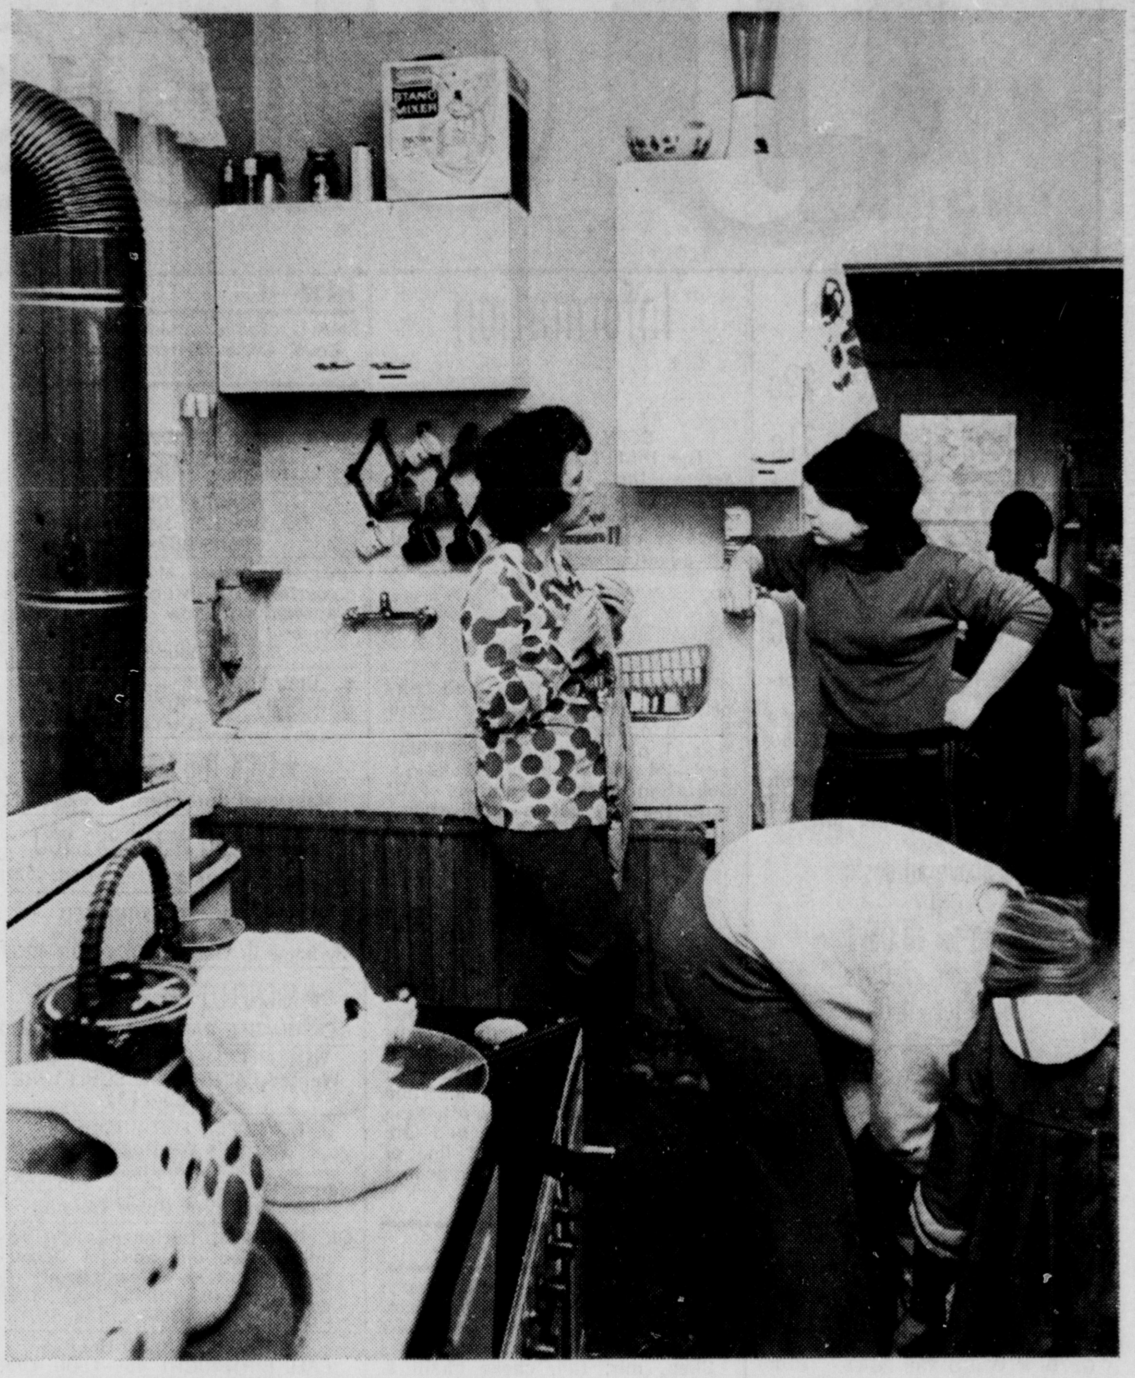
There are 23 volunteers helping out at the House, but Miss Schulman says there is always room for more. She also wants to find more people who are willing to take in an inmate's relative or freind for the night.

Perhaps no one gives a more ringing endorsement of the House than one young mother in the kitchen Saturday with her daughters, aged 3 and 4. "My visits to my boyfriend would be impossible if this place wasn't here," she says. "If they didn't give me a ride from Richmond, I'd have to hitchhike across the Richmond Bridge.

"I don't feel like they're just doing a job here, they're really into what they're doing. A lot of times I'd like to express my gratitude, but I just don't know how to put it into words."

Another woman who had just driven up from Los Angeles comments: "In some projects like this the people who run them act like they're better than you. But here they're real nice."

For some people, the House is like a second home.



BUSY CORNER — Volunteer Rae Ellen Mercer (left) discusses the state of the commissary with Jane Schulman, one of two full-time workers at the House at San Quentin. Seeing that such things as coffee and sandwich makings are always available to the constant stream of visitors is just one of the behind-the-scenes activities that make the prison hospitality house the warm and friendly place it is.

Marinites Score In Bridge Play

Several bridge players from the Marin County chapter of the American Contract Bridge League scored in the major events of the annual duplicate tournament held at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium during the weekend.

Stephen Kanzee, who lives in Berkeley but is a member of the Marin unit, took a first in section and second overall in the tough two-session Open Pairs championships Saturday. He was paired with Richard Lessler of El Cerrito.

Ruth Bertauche of San Rafael was a member of a four-man team headed by Ron Von Der Porten of San Francisco, which took second in Sunday's two-session team-of-four championship.

An all-Marin team composed of Cleo Mueller, Maryann Rettig, Frances Berryman and Betty Otis tied for fourth through seventh place in the team-of-four championship.

Marybelle Dupuis and Sandy Anixter of Belvedere copped first in section and first overall in the Open Pairs Consolation event. Stephen Case of Fairfax, paired with two different partners, won two first-overalls in the side games.

Marinites Score In Bridge Play

Several bridge players from the Marin County chapter of the American Contract Bridge League scored in the major events of the annual duplicate tournament held at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium during the weekend.

Stephen Kanzee, who lives in Berkeley but is a member of the Marin unit, took a first in section and second overall in the tough two-session Open Pairs championships Saturday. He was paired with Richard Lessler of El Cerrito.

Ruth Bertauche of San Rafael was a member of a four-man team headed by Ron Von Der Porten of San Francisco, which took second in Sunday's two-session team-of-four championship.

An all-Marin team composed of Cleo Mueller, Maryann Rettig, Frances Berryman and Betty Otis tied for fourth through seventh place in the team-of-four championship.

Marybelle Dupuis and Sandy Anixter of Belvedere copped first in section and first overall in the Open Pairs Consolation event. Stephen Case of Fairfax, paired with two different partners, won two first-overalls in the side games.

Other Marin Players who placed first, second or third during the Saturday and Sunday sessions are as follows:

OPEN PAIRS QUALIFYING

Betty Halloran and Madeline Martinovich — section first; Bert Vandegrift and Carol Giudice — section second; Betty Marggraf and Wat Takeshita, section third.

ART REVIEW

Artist Responsive To Medium

By ADA GARFINKEL

Artist Tamara Hanley's artistic expression is strongly responsive to her medium.

One of this month's three featured artists at the Genesis Gallery in Mill Valley, Mrs. Hanley's extensive display includes hedonistic crayon drawings of portly nudes, intimate family scenes in pen-and-ink line drawings, a metaphysical memory-bank in an oil painting and several tightly enclosed black nd white etchings —one or two with the cataclysmic overtones of German expressionism.

Mrs. Hanley's forms are crisp and controlled. Their contours are plastic, flowing amiably into one another, such as in the pen-and-ink vignettes describing the tenseness of "Lady in Waiting," and the menage-a-deux in "My husband likes to read." And "My Kitchen" reveals the way an artist sees line and pattern — rhythm and movement in everything.

There is an air of decadence and despair in "Orgy of Black and White," with its abstracted, dismembered bodies hurtling pell-mell into an abyss. And in "Nuclear Family," there is a strange sense of the unexpected in the nude picnic scene of adults and children interspersed with cellular and swimming organisms.

Mrs. Hanley's exhibit sustains one's interest throughout her production.

Photographer Ernest Francken, formerly a staff photographer for the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., captures instantaneous movement in a sequence of 10 related images of a dancer.

In several of the shots, the image is partial when the dancers hands and arms are hidden from view. The contours thus become sculptural, and one recalls ancient Grecian statues. Yet one knows it will change, and change again as she moves and we move with her in the space of her activity.

In individual color photos, Francken's visits to old California towns have produced scenes such as the adobe brick "Depository" in Fiddletown, and an ancient church with a huge, weather-beaten viola mounted on its overhang, in Daffodil Hill.

Gordon Farnsworth is the third featured artist. His paintings are primarily of seascapes and landscapes. "Sea's Edge" creates a soft atmospheric mood, while "Montara Coast" has a freely conceived land contour whose activity is suggested by slashing diagonal strokes as it meets and merges with the near greens and distant blues of the water.

The changing monthly exhibits at this gallery afford other artist-members an opportunity to show new work. Topically au courant thinking is reflected in "Grandfather Recycled," an assemblage by Jay Joyce, and in another way in Chester Arnold's emotive papier-mache wall sculpture, "The Christ Passion."

And Joyce Livingston's black-and-white etching, "Night Thoughts" — a symbolic dream sequence montage — combines the bare branches of a tree seen against a huge white ovoid shape. In the distant background, tiny insects, beats and gnomes are fixed to a spidery lace network. Yet ll of the disparate elements are merged in union.

The exhibit will continue through March 31 and may be seen weekdays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The gallery is located at 2 Miller Avenue on the second floor.

MUSIC REVIEW

Young Musicians Do Well In Concerto Concert Solos

By VERA M. OLMSTED

Eight young musicians were featured soloists with the College of Marin Community Orchestra, directed by John H. Myers, in last night's Concerto Concert at the college's Fine Arts Theatre.

The Concerto Concert; an annual event, provides valuable training for student musicians of varying abilities and different levels of development, and gives them the experience of performing one movement of a major work in front of a live audience.

The first half of the program was devoted to concertos written during the Baroque and late classic periods. Flutist Zoltan Kraynik began the program with Antonio Vivaldi's Flute Concerto in D Major, Op. 10 No. 3. Kraynik performed competently, articulating the ornamental passages well, but the work lacked overall dynamic variety.

Jean Hall was soloist in the first movement of the D Minor Harpsichord Concerto by J. S. Bach. Not having the score before her apparently caused her to lose her place, but she and the orchestra resumed playing and finished without difficulty.

The orchestra was expanded for the next work, and Robin Willat ably interpreted the first movement of Mozart's Flute Concerto No. 2 in D Major (K.314). Miss Willat projected outward with a full, bright tone, but tended to rush the fast passages. This was true of most of the musicians all evening.

The amusing Rondo from the Trumpet Concerto in E Flat Major by J. N. Hummel was given a lively performance by Jon Pankin.

Three concerto selections by English composers were presented after intermission. Kathe Kaeppel gave a good reading of the first movement of the Bassoon Concerto by Gordon Jacob (1947). Miss Kaeppel's tone, while not yet fully developed, was secure, but the orchestra (using only strings and percussion), had a shaky start.

The third movement of William Walton's Viola Concerto (1928-29), was given a highly-polished and assured performance by Stephen Levintow, playing the viola with very mature musicianship and a fine understanding of phrasing. This attractive work alternates between lyric passages and driving rhythms, and the orchestra's wind section played its prominent part well.

Mary True, cellist, delivered a powerful performance of the first movement of Edward Elgar's beautiful Cello Concerto in E Minor (1919). Miss True played with ease, showing a full-bodied tone, secure intonation, and varied expressiveness. The Elgar and Walton Concertos were the highlights of the evening and were enthusiastically received by the capacity audience.

The Rondo from Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 1 in C Major closed the program. John LoPiccolo was a bit heavy-handed in this gay and sprightly movement. He momentarily lost his place but quickly recovered and finished without further incident.

Myer's guided the soloists through their performances with skill and imperturbability and the orchestra played with a consistently high level of competence throughout the evening. All of the soloists deserve praise for the hard work they put in and their willingness to test themselves before an audience.

Disposal Site Approval Asked

The Marin County Public works department has requested the Army Corps of Engineers to approve a new disposal site for materials dredged from Gallinas Creek near Santa Venetia.

The new site adjacent to Las Gallinas sanitation plant was required when owners of land formerly used for disposing of spoils did not wish to continue the agreement with the county.

The new site will require construction of a new dike on the southside.

Objections to the plan may be submitted in triplicate to the Army Corps of Engineers, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco through March 17.

DRAMA REVIEW

Holbrook's Twain Is Timeless

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — Mark Twain as Hal Holbrook or Hal Holbrook as Mark Twain.

Sounds rather confusing? Really it isn't.

It was just another grand evening of Holbrook's "Mark Twain Tonight!" before a full house Saturday night at the Masonic Auditorium.

The theatrical magic generated by Holbrook will be repeated in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building tomorrow at 8:30 p.m.

Holbrook began his evenings of Twain in 1959 on off-Broadway in New York. When he finally mounted the production on Broadway in 1966, honors poured forth — the Tony Award as the best actor of the year and a salute by the Drama Critics's Circle. In 1967, he brought the show to television with at least a 30-million audience. This tour marks another return of Twain to the Bay Area.

Holbrook is Twain all the way — from the shuffle of the elderly gentleman's feet to each savored puff on the ever present cigar.

Twain always made points with humor. It was the deadliest weapon he possessed and he used it whenever he thought his nation needed a polite scolding.

The actor varies the evening's program. Some of the material he used Saturday night will not likely be repeated in the Marin show. The program notes reveal that Holbrook has about 12 hours of material on hand and he chooses his material as he goes along.

Twain's remarks on war, the economy, politicians and life in general are just as contemporary today as in the 19th Century when he wrote and lectured. He remarks on war were roundly applauded by Saturday night's audience.

Also the audience responded with genuine bursts of laughter at a sampling of Twain's famous one-liners. "Man is the only animal that blushes. Or needs to." "I can give up smoking whenever I want to. I've done it a thousand times."

Holbrook is never better than when he lectures on Twain's experiences as a young newspaper reporter in San Francisco. Twain's remarks on opera, especially on Wagner, are priceless gems.

And to hear those wonderful yarns from "Huckleberry Finn" invoke nostalgia.

George Bernard Shaw called Mark Twain (Samuel Clements) America's Voltaire and rightly so. He earned a standing ovation Saturday night.

Orange Soil From Moon Not Volcanic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Apollo 17's astronauts made the startling discovery of orange soil on the rim of a moon crater, it was thought the deposit might be the result of volcanic activity.

However, detailed analyses performed in laboratories of the U.S. Geological Survey have disproven that theory. The tests show the soil is made of small orange glass beads, probably formed from lunar rock by ancient meteroid impact.

Dr. Edwin Roedder of the Geological Survey reported the findings Sunday.

"While this clears up one mystery," Roedder said, "it still leaves us with the fact that although volcanic lava samples have been returned, no Apollo mission has yet visited a lunar volcano."

Roedder said similar glass beads were found scattered among the samples returned by the Apollo 11 explorers. The orange beads were from 1-50th to 1-1000th of an inch in diameter.

"The deep orange color probably stems from the high titanium and iron contents," Roedder said. "Some of the beads have crystallized and hence are black."

Earlier reports from scientists at the State University of New York said the orangecolored deposits were 3.71 billion years old, far older than many scientists first thought.

Roedder said the search for "young" volcanic materials on the moon had been unsuccessful to this point.

Japanese Violinist To Present Concert

TEIKO MAEHASHI
Marin appearance

Young Japanese violinist Teiko Maehashi will appear in concert at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building at 8:15 p.m. April 9, sponsored by the Marin Concert Association.

A native of Tokyo, Miss Maehashi began playing violin at age 5 and subsequently studied at the Leningrad Conservatory in Russia and New York's Juilliard School.

In 1968 she won first prize in the Oakland Young Artist competition and as a result appeared in 1969 with the Oakland Symphony. In 1971 and 1972, she made a round-the-world recital tour appearing with the Orchestra of the Opera of Monte Carlo, the Baltimore Symphony and the Vancouver Symphony.

She will appear with the Los Angeles Philharmonic this year.

Her repertoire includes selections by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Bruch, Haydn, Mendelssohn, Mozart, Paganini, Sibelius and others.

Unhappy Patrons Maced Over Demand For Refund

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thrillseeking motorcycle fans claiming stunts by daredevil Evel Knievel were too dull at a motorcycle show Saturday night got some excitement after all when the promoter of the show maced them during a dispute over a refund for tickets, police said.

The promoter, Ken Brown, 30, was arrested on harrassment and mace possession charges, and nine persons were treated at the first aid station of Nassau County Colisseum at East Meadow, N.Y.

About 75 persons among the audience of 2,700, all of whom paid $6 each to see the show, confronted Brown afterwards, told him the stunts weren't good enough and demanded their money back.

Police said two other men, James M. Draper, 20, of Wichita, Kan., and Seth Westring, 35, of Niles, Ill., both connected with the show, also were charged with possession of mace.

Nixon Says U.S. Huge 'Slumlord'

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — The U.S. government is becoming "a nationwide slumlord," President Nixon told a national radio audience Sunday while defending his decision to eliminate scores of urban renewal projects and suspend subsidized housing programs.

In the fifth installment of a serialized State of the Union report to the nation, Nixon said he wanted to turn community planning over to state and local officials.

The President said Congress would receive a written message on community development and "the quality of life in our cities and towns" later this week. He indicated that new legislation in these areas would be proposed but gave no hint when it would be sent to Capitol Hill or what it might contain.

In his speech, Nixon gave an optimistic assessment of urban America's general outlooc now, compared with a few years ago when "we constantly heard" that the nation's cities and towns were "on the brink of collapse."

Nixon claimed the nation's air is now cleaner, said the financial condition of most local governments has been shored up and cited a decrease in the crime rate.

"The hour of crisis has passed," he said.

"The ship of state is back on an even keel, and we can put behind us the fear of capsizing," he declared.

Nixon criticized social action programs of the 1960s. He said many were "extravagant, hastily planned measures, designed by centralized planners and costing billions of dollars—but producing few results."

He charged that seven urban development programs were "outmoded" and promised to halt them. He said four housing assistance programs were "ineffective" and said they would be suspended.

"We are determined to get a dollar's worth of service out of every dollar's worth of taxes," he said. "The high-cost, no-result boondoggling by the federal government must end."

Burton Bill Would Save Drug Costs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, has proposed a bill permitting pharmacists to substitute less expensive "generic" drugs for brand-name prescriptions.

Burton said Sunday the measure could save Californians more than $40 million annually by extending to regular customers the same substitution practices that now save the Medi-Cal program about $20 million a year.

Currently, a physician selects a particular drug—often a brand name—and the pharmacists must dispense exactly what the doctor ordered.

Under Burton's bill, the pharmacist could chose a less costly "generic" drug instead of the brand name if it was medically equivalent. However, the physician could insist on a particular company's product, if necessary.

"I do not believe it either wise or proper for the state to deny the private consumer access to a cost-saving device it employs in its own programs," Burton said.

New Bill Is Bad News For Brides

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — As approximately 1,400 bills become law on Wednesday, the Legislature suddenly is faced with delaying one that could dash the wedding plans of thousands of Spring brides.

The new law will require that before a woman is issued a marriage license by the county clerk, she must under go a blood test for susceptibility to German measles.

The hitch is that only a few laboratory clinics throughout the state are geared up to administer the test, and the state Department of Public Health hasn't yet completed development of licensing for rubella tests.

There is no way that both the clinics and state can be fully prepared to implement the new statute by Wednesday, the effective date of most bills passed by the 1972 Legislature.

Unless an "urgency" bill by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, is rushed through the Legislature and passed within two days, county clerks will be legally prohibited from issuing marriage licenses to female applicants who do not have a physician's certificate of rubella examination.

And, that prospect could mess up untold numbers of planned weddings.

But while attention focuses on the Beilenson measure, about 1,400 other bills enacted by the 1972 Legislature and signed by Reagan will become law on Wednesday with scarsely a ripple.

For example, it no longer will be illegal for a distressed motorist to walk along freeway shoulders in search of help, newly hired prison guards will start school, and the state will mount an attack on solid wastes.

Some of the new statutes are so technical they may change only a comma in an existing law. Others will have a direct impact on the lives of millions of Californians. Some have delayed dates for implementation.

Some already have become law as "urgency" statutes effective immediately on Reagan's signature. The 1972 session's biggest bill, the $1.1 billion property tax relief-school aid program, will become effective at scattered intervals later on.

The state Department of Education is preparing to implement in the next fall term an ambitious "early childhood education" program which paves the way for four-year-olds to start school in 1975 with their parents' consent.

The new law is aimed at tailoring instruction to reflect the needs of individual pupils in the first, second and third grades. Within the next six years, it is designed to reduce the current 30:1 student-teacher ratio to 10:1 by bringing into the classroom more parents, paraprofessionals, senior citizens as volunteers and even using older children to help teach younger ones.

On the consumer front, the state will start regulating repair dealers of major home appliances, such as dishwashers, refrigerators and air conditioners. The aim is to drive unscrupulous dealers out of business.

Approximately 2,500 home appliance repair dealers will be required to register with the state Bureau of Repair Services by July 1 and pay a $50 annual fee. Eight home appliance technicians will be hired to double as undercover agents.

Their tactics will include "bugging" an appliance with a "controlled malfunction," setting it up in a home and summoning a suspected consumer gouger to repair it. If he fails to repair it but claims to have done so and submits a bill, state agents will move in — an action that could result in criminal fraud charges.

In the environmental field, a new seven-member state board will devise a statewide plan to manage and dispose of solid waste in cooperation with local governments. The part-time board will be aided by a 25-member advisory council.

Rescue Work Is Continuing

BAILEY'S CROSSROADS, Va. (AP) — Search operations are continuing near the rubble of a partially collapsed apartment building where five construction workers died and nine others are missing.

Wrecking crews yesterday demolished a 24-story section of the structure so searchers would not be endangered, Fairfax County officials said.

Another 24-story section has slabs of concrete dangling above the ground held by twisted sections of steel reinforcing rods. Officials said those pieces of concrete would be removed before rescue workers could extend their search for the missing.

Coppola Adds Another Award

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Francis Ford Coppola, who directed "The Godfather," has won the Directors Guild of America's award for best movie direction of 1972.

In other awards presented Sturday night, Lamont Johnson was honored for best television direction for "That Certain Summer," and the D. W. Griffith Award for outstanding direction went to William Wellman, who directed "Wings," "A Star Is Born" and "The Oxbow Incident."

Hongisto Plans To Sue State For San Quentin Prison Costs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sheriff Richard Hongisto says he is going to sue the state to compensate for being billed $723.75 a day to keep 75 city inmates at the San Quentin state prison.

"I have already instructed my attorney to sue the state of California, if possible, to make it either give us the money owed us for housing state prisoners, or cancel the San Quentin bill," he said Sunday.

San Quentin Prison must bill San Francisco for that city's jail inmates temporarily housed at the prison, a San Quentin spokesman explained today.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park countered that San Quentin's billing policy is directed by the state Department of Corrections in Sacramento. "The fee's always been charged — San Francisco paid it the last time they had prisoners here."

The sheriff added that he plans to continue keeping the 75 men in San Quentin until the threat of a possible strike by his deputies is resolved. Deputies have said they will strike unless safety grievances are settled.

Hongisto said he planned to sue for the "thousands of dollars" he said it costs to house and feed some 180 state inmates in San Francisco's two county jails.

The sheriff said there are 86 inmates who were sentenced in Superior Court to state prison terms but put on probation on condition they serve county jail time. In addition, he said there were about 100 inmates being temporarily held in city jails as parole violators.

"It costs us about $8 a day to house these prisoners and the money comes out of the sheriff's department budget," he said. "I've instructed my lawyer to either sue the governor, finance director, or whomever necessary," he said.

The sheriff transferred the 75 inmates to San Quentin after a fire-setting spree at the county jail at San Bruno Feb. 25.

Political Talk Set Tomorrow

Rep. George E. Brown Jr., 38th District will discuss current political developments in Washington, D.C., at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Olney Hall, College of Marin.

Although defeated for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate in 1970 by John Tunney, Brown carried Marin County and has since appeared here several times.

A panel of speakers, including representatives of Marin Democratic Forum, Americans for Democratic Action, Common Cause and Marin Alternative, will discuss local political activities following Brown's talk.

The free program is sponsored by a Marin steering committee that had been organized in behalf of Sen. George McGovern's bid for President.

Impact Report Up For Review

An environmental impact report on the controversial Canon Village and Tennis Club development will be heard Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Fairfax Design Review Board meeting at the Fairfax Women's Club.

Plans include 128 units on 88 acres along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Glen Drive. Planning Commission approval of a tentative map for the project was ordered by a Marin Superior Court judge last September after developers Robert D. Marshall and Denkmann and Co. filed suit, saying the city had illegally delayed approving the map.

Charges Will Be Filed In Wild Horse Massacre

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A blood-flecked corral in the Idaho mountains and seven slain horses are all that's left of a herd of 60 mustangs brutally captured and killed by ranchers, Velma "Wild Horse Annie" Johnston said Sunday.

The horses were driven to a remote corral in the Lehmi Mountains of central Idaho by a helicopter, then hauled away for use as dog food said Mrs. Johnston, a founding member of the national Wild Horse Advisory Board.

Nostrils of the horses were clipped with metal rings to subdue them, said Frantz Dantzler, Salt Lake City, Utah. It was "the most outrageous, premeditated incident of animal cruelty I have seen in 10 years," said Dantzler, who is director of the national Human Society's Intermountain Region.

Charges of cruelty to animals under Idaho law will be filed Tuesday against at least four ranchers, Dantzler said. Two federal laws and one state law were broken by the stockmen who rounded up and carted off the animals, he said.

RESPITE IN PRISON VISITS

House At San Quentin A Haven

THE HOUSE — This unpretentious building outside the walls of San Quentin fills a very special need, a resting place for friends and relatives visting prisoners. Here, the sister, mother or sweetheart of an inmate may pause to freshen up before passing through the gates, or on the way home rest awhile, fix a sandwich, or see to the needs of children brought along. (Independent-Journal photos)

By REBECCA LARSEN

A mother with two toddlers wants to visit her husband in San Quentin. She can't afford a babysitter and the children get restless in the prison visiting room. What can she do with the tots during the visit?

A sister comes to visit her inmate brother at San Quentin via a tedious bus trip from Los Angeles. She arrives in San Rafael to dsicover it will cost another $2.80 in cabfare to the prison gates. And where will she spend the night once her visit is over?

A mother is concerned about her inmate son in San Quentin who seems to have mental problems and has been shuffled back and forth for several years between two prisons. Who's going to help her get the prison's attention to his problems?

For the past 15 months, people like these have been turning for help to a ticky-tacky, brightly painted cottage on the main road to the prison, the House at San Quentin.

Jane Schulman, one of two salaried workers at the House, estimates that more than 8,000 people have visited there since it opened in December 1971. She believes it's the only place of its kind serving a California prison and thinks it's one of the few prison hospitality houses in the country.

The four-room building offers a phone, bologna and cheese sandwiches, a free nursery, help with transportation and temporary housing and a chance to chat with friendly people. It's open 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. every day except Tuesday and Wednesday.

Founded by James Kilty, director of community service for Catholic Social Service of Marin, the House has a $16,000 annual budget funded by churches and several foundations.

Although several previous attempts to set up a hospitality house for prisoners families have failed, the House has caught on.

"This place means being able to relax when you come out of the prison," says one young woman from Richmond visiting her boyfriend. "When I get out of there I'm all tensed up, and the House is a release."

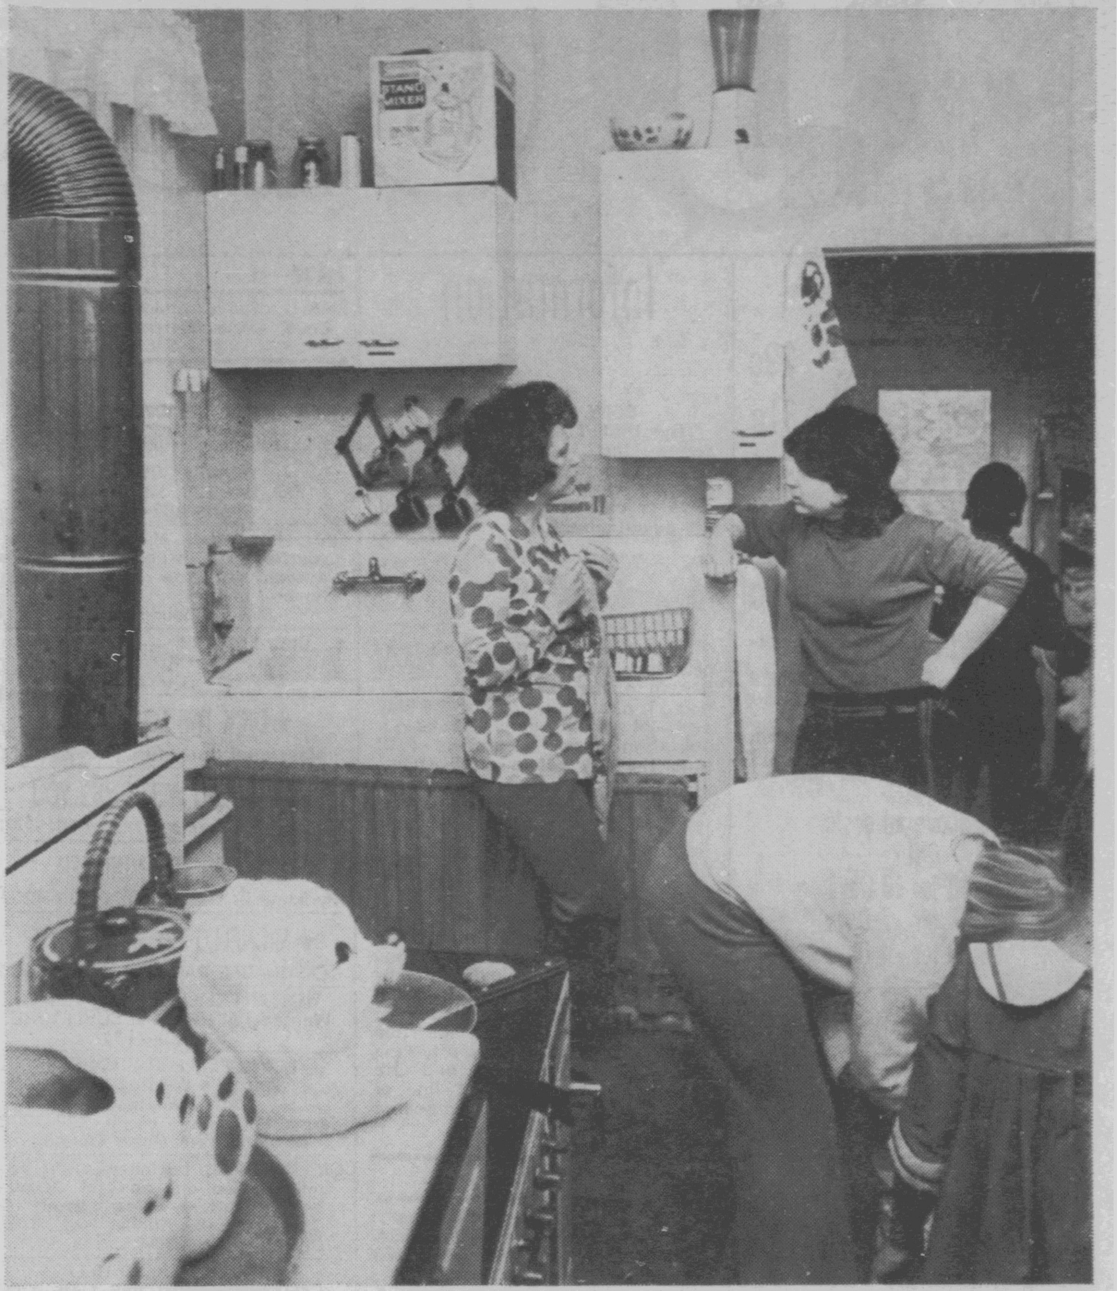
Even prison officials seem enthusiastic. Associate Warden James W. L. Park says: "We get a lot of static about prisons, but very few people actually do anything about them. The House is a case of someone actually buckling down and helping prisoners."

In spite of a dreary rain last Saturday a crowd of visitors came to San Quentin and the House. Inside the cottage, the overstuffed Salvation Army style chairs and couches are filled with women. In a playroom covered with murals of mountains and nature scenes, several children pull toys out of a box. Miss Schulman sits on a sagging sofa, hugging a little girl. In the kitchen, more children are making cocoa.

Miss Schulman, who has been with the House since it opened, confesses that the work can be as depressing as the prison walls a few yards down the road. "A lot of heavy stuff comes through that door," she says.

"Most of these women come from families with prison backgrounds themselves. Then they marry someone who ends up in prison. They have lots of kids, and they go on welfare.

"It really hurts to hear them talking about San Qunetin. In the best of circumstances, a prison is a cold and loveless place. It's hard for them to see their men in a place like that week after week, year after year."



BUSY CORNER — Volunteer Rae Ellen Mercer (left) discusses the state of the commissary with Jane Schulman, one of two full-time workers at the House at San Quentin. Seeing that such things as coffee and sandwich makings are always available to the constant stream of visitors is just one of the behind-the-scenes activities that make the prison hospitality house the warm and friendly place it is.

Miss Schulman, who lives in Mill Valley and is a student at the College of Marin, used to work in draft counseling. Her co-worker, Richard Jarrette, worked previously in group therapy with a Los Angeles psychiatrist.

There are 23 volunteers helping out at the House, but Miss Schulman says there is always room for more. She also wants to find more people who are willing to take in an inmate's relative or freind for the night.

Perhaps no one gives a more ringing endorsement of the House than one young mother in the kitchen Saturday with her daughters, aged 3 and 4. "My visits to my boyfriend would be impossible if this place wasn't here," she says. "If they didn't give me a ride from Richmond, I'd have to hitchhike across the Richmond Bridge.

"I don't feel like they're just doing a job here, they're really into what they're doing. A lot of times I'd like to express my gratitude, but I just don't know how to put it into words."

Another woman who had just driven up from Los Angeles comments: "In some projects like this the people who run them act like they're better than you. But here they're real nice."

For some people, the House is like a second home.

Marinites Score In Bridge Play

Several bridge players from the Marin County chapter of the American Contract Bridge League scored in the major events of the annual duplicate tournament held at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium during the weekend.

Stephen Kanzee, who lives in Berkeley but is a member of the Marin unit, took a first in section and second overall in the tough two-session Open Pairs championships Saturday. He was paired with Richard Lessler of El Cerrito.

Ruth Bertauche of San Rafael was a member of a four-man team headed by Ron Von Der Porten of San Francisco, which took second in Sunday's two-session team-of-four championship.

An all-Marin team composed of Cleo Mueller, Maryann Rettig, Frances Berryman and Betty Otis tied for fourth through seventh place in the team-of-four championship.

Marybelle Dupuis and Sandy Anixter of Belvedere copped first in section and first overall in the Open Pairs Consolation event. Stephen Case of Fairfax, paired with two different partners, won two first-overalls in the side games.

Other Marin Players who placed first, second or third during the Saturday and Sunday sessions are as follows:

U.S. Government Says. . . ALFA ROMEO IS BEST!

The national highway traffic safety administration has just released a report confirming the Alfa Romeo as the car with the best brakes sold in America.

The comparisons were based on test figures reported on the number of feet it took to stop a fully loaded car traveling at 60 m.p.h.

"The best performance - 146 feet - was registered by the Alfa Romeo 2000 Berlina (sedan) followed by the Alfa Romeo GT Veloce and Spider Veloce which stopped in 148 feet."

U.S. Government Says. . . ALFA ROMEO IS BEST!

The national highway traffic safety administration has just released a report confirming the Alfa Romeo as the car with the best brakes sold in America.

The comparisons were based on test figures reported on the number of feet it took to stop a fully loaded car traveling at 60 m.p.h.

"The best performance - 146 feet - was registered by the Alfa Romeo 2000 Berlina (sedan) followed by the Alfa Romeo GT Veloce and Spider Veloce which stopped in 148 feet."

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

Application of PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY for authority to revise its gas service tariff to offset the effect of increases in the price of gas from California sources and Pacific Gas Transmission Company (Gas)

APPLICATION NO. 53866

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY hereby gives notice that in Application No. 53866, filed with the California Public Utilities Commission on February 28, 1973, it has requested authorization to revise its gas service tariff to offset the effect of anticipated inceases in the price of gas from California sources and in the price of gas from Pacific Gas Transmission Company caused by increases in the price of Canadian gas.

PG&E proposes to increase its gas rates on July 1, 1973, to offset these anticipated increases in the cost of gas, which become effective on that date.

The proposed PG&E offset rate increase amounts to 5.0% for general service customers (including domestic customers), 6.4% for firm industrial customers, 7.8% for resale customers, and 10.1% for interruptible customers (9.5% for regular interruptible customers and 10.9% for PG&E's steam electric plants).

A copy of the application and related exhibits may be examined at the offices of the California Public Utilities Commission, State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco, California 94102; at Pacific Gas and Electric Company, 77 Beale Street (Room 3107), San Francisco, California 94106; and c/o the Division Managers in PG&E's Division Headquarters in Eureka, Red Bluff, Chico, Marysville, Sacramento, Auburn, San Rafael, San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, Salinas, Fresno, and Stockton.

This notice is given in accordance with Rule 24 of the revised Rules of Practice and Procedure of the California Public Utilities Commission.

Dated: February 28, 1973.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

Application of PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY for authority to revise its gas service tariff to offset the effect of increases in the price of gas from California sources and Pacific Gas Transmission Company (Gas)

APPLICATION
NO. 53866

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY hereby gives notice that in Application No. 53866, filed with the California Public Utilities Commission on February 28, 1973, it has requested authorization to revise its gas service tariff to offset the effect of anticipated inceases in the price of gas from California sources and in the price of gas from Pacific Gas Transmission Company caused by increases in the price of Canadian gas.

PG&E proposes to increase its gas rates on July 1, 1973, to offset these anticipated increases in the cost of gas, which become effective on that date.

The proposed PG&E offset rate increase amounts to 5.0% for general service customers (including domestic customers), 6.4% for firm industrial customers, 7.8% for resale customers, and 10.1% for interruptible customers (9.5% for regular interruptible customers and 10.9% for PG&E's steam electric plants).

A copy of the application and related exhibits may be examined at the offices of the California Public Utilities Commission, State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco, California 94102; at Pacific Gas and Electric Company, 77 Beale Street (Room 3107), San Francisco, California 94106; and c/o the Division Managers in PG&E's Division Headquarters in Eureka, Red Bluff, Chico, Marysville, Sacramento, Auburn, San Rafael, San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, Salinas, Fresno, and Stockton.

This notice is given in accordance with Rule 24 of the revised Rules of Practice and Procedure of the California Public Utilities Commission.

Dated: February 28, 1973.

U.S. Government Says. . . ALFA ROMEO IS BEST!

The national highway traffic safety administration has just released a report confirming the Alfa Romeo as the car with the best brakes sold in America.

The comparisons were based on test figures reported on the number of feet it took to stop a fully loaded car traveling at 60 m.p.h.

"The best performance - 146 feet - was registered by the Alfa Romeo 2000 Berlina (sedan) followed by the Alfa Romeo GT Veloce and Spider Veloce which stopped in 148 feet."

Ammunition Ship Vesuvius Returns

CONCORD, Calif. (UPI) — The USS Vesuvius, oldest ammunition ship in the U.S. Navy, has arrived home from Vietnam after the longest foreign tour of any American warship since World War II.

While in the war zone, the "Mighty V" supplied 27,000 tons of ammunition to 383 ships.

The 234 crewmen aboard the 10,000-ton Vesuvius, which was ordered to Vietnam a year ago, got a rousing welcome from families and friends on the pier at the Naval Weapons Station.

Ft. Wayne Man Finds Way To Relieve Burning Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues For Hours

In Many Cases Medication Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief from Pain, Itching in Such Tissues.

Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Mr. Jack Prebola of this city states: "Preparation H does my itching good and it sure stopped the itch for hours."

(Note: Doctors have proved Preparation H® in many cases gives relief for hours from pain and itching in hemorrhoidal tissues. It also actually helps shrink painful swelling of such tissues caused by inflammation and infection.

There's no other formula like doctor-tested Preparation H. And no prescription is needed.)

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KTVU (2), 8 p.m. — "Conquista," a special in color, is an imaginative story of what might have happened when the American Indian first encountered the horse. Richard Boone sets the scenes for this silent film.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 8 p.m. — "This Golden Land" is an unusual story of a Jewish immigrant family on the Kansas Frontier, an episode on "Gunsmoke," with guest stars Paul Stevens and Victor French.

Fairground Projects Will Be Considered

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9:45 a.m. at the Civic Center, will consider a recommendation that the county proceed with $426,000 worth of fairgrounds improvements.

The recommendation, from Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Michael Wornum, calls for $150,000 in landscaping around the edge of the Civic Center lagoon; $110,000 for restrooms; $100,000 for a "food dispensing module" and $30,000 for water and sewer lines.

The remainder would go for smaller items such as lighting, drinking fountains, fencing and electrical work.

According to the supervisors, $354,000 in county funds and $72,000 of state funds are available in this year's budget.

The improvements, if approved, would have no effect on the county administrator's recommendation that more than $1 million be pumped into the site over the next five years.

That recommendation is contained in the proposed capital improvement program, to be considered next week by supervisors.

The supervisors' agenda also includes:

HELIPORT — A recommendation from the county aviation commission that the board ask the Golden Gate Bridge District to allow a heliport on its Larkspur ferry terminal site.

DEATH — A recommendation from the county parks and recreation commission for special state legislation making Marin County the beneficiary of the will of the late George J. Charpentier of Black Point, who left the state between $500,000 and $1 million.

SCHENK — Will postpone a hearing on a controversial proposal from landowner Max Schenk to build townhouse dwellings on his property near San Anselmo's Sorich Park. The delay is caused by the lack of an environmental impact report.

APPEALS — A proposal that appeals of some planning matters end at the planning commission level and not be appealable to the board of supervisors.

Wooden Indian Reported Stolen

A 200-pound wooden Indian was stolen Friday from in front of Filipello Antiques, 820 B Street, San Rafael, police reported.

The hand-carved figure, with full headdress, was valued at $240.

Plea Made To Check Forgery

A 43-year-old man, said to have assumed another man's identity, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to writing forged checks under his pseudonuym and to felony grand theft.

Preliminary hearing for Joseph Kaufman of no known address was set for tomorrow.

According to San Rafael police, Kaufman found identification belongong to a Dennis Hoffman, opened an account at a Bank of America branch and cashed $750 to $1,000 in checks against the account.

He is also charged with passing forged checks in San Mateo County and Los Angeles, where he ultimately was arrested, police said.

Ammunition Ship Vesuvius Returns

CONCORD, Calif. (UPI) — The USS Vesuvius, oldest ammunition ship in the U.S. Navy, has arrived home from Vietnam after the longest foreign tour of any American warship since World War II.

While in the war zone, the "Mighty V" supplied 27,000 tons of ammunition to 383 ships.

The 234 crewmen aboard the 10,000-ton Vesuvius, which was ordered to Vietnam a year ago, got a rousing welcome from families and friends on the pier at the Naval Weapons Station.

Ft. Wayne Man Finds Way To Relieve Burning Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues For Hours

In Many Cases Medication Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief from Pain, Itching in Such Tissues.

Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Mr. Jack Prebola of this city states: "Preparation H does my itching good and it sure stopped the itch for hours."

(Note: Doctors have proved Preparation H® in many cases gives relief for hours from pain and itching in hemorrhoidal tissues. It also actually helps shrink painful swelling of such tissues caused by inflammation and infection.

There's no other formula like doctor-tested Preparation H. And no prescription is needed.)

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KTVU (2), 8 p.m. — "Conquista," a special in color, is an imaginative story of what might have happened when the American Indian first encountered the horse. Richard Boone sets the scenes for this silent film.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 8 p.m. — "This Golden Land" is an unusual story of a Jewish immigrant family on the Kansas Frontier, an episode on "Gunsmoke," with guest stars Paul Stevens and Victor French.

KQED (9), 8:05 p.m. — "Winesburg, Ohio," an adaptation of Sherwood Anderson's book about the lives of the inhabitants of a small town, stars Jean Peters, William Windom, Albert Salmi and Joseph Bottoms.

Fairground Projects Will Be Considered

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9:45 a.m. at the Civic Center, will consider a recommendation that the county proceed with $426,000 worth of fairgrounds improvements.

The recommendation, from Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Michael Wornum, calls for $150,000 in landscaping around the edge of the Civic Center lagoon; $110,000 for restrooms; $100,000 for a "food dispensing module" and $30,000 for water and sewer lines.

The remainder would go for smaller items such as lighting, drinking fountains, fencing and electrical work.

According to the supervisors, $354,000 in county funds and $72,000 of state funds are available in this year's budget.

The improvements, if approved, would have no effect on the county administrator's recommendation that more than $1 million be pumped into the site over the next five years.

That recommendation is contained in the proposed capital improvement program, to be considered next week by supervisors.

The supervisors' agenda also includes:

HELIPORT — A recommendation from the county aviation commission that the board ask the Golden Gate Bridge District to allow a heliport on its Larkspur ferry terminal site.

DEATH — A recommendation from the county parks and recreation commission for special state legislation making Marin County the beneficiary of the will of the late George J. Charpentier of Black Point, who left the state between $500,000 and $1 million.

SCHENK — Will postpone a hearing on a controversial proposal from landowner Max Schenk to build townhouse dwellings on his property near San Anselmo's Sorich Park. The delay is caused by the lack of an environmental impact report.

APPEALS — A proposal that appeals of some planning matters end at the planning commission level and not be appealable to the board of supervisors.

Plea Made To Check Forgery

A 43-year-old man, said to have assumed another man's identity, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to writing forged checks under his pseudonuym and to felony grand theft.

Preliminary hearing for Joseph Kaufman of no known address was set for tomorrow.

According to San Rafael police, Kaufman found identification belongong to a Dennis Hoffman, opened an account at a Bank of America branch and cashed $750 to $1,000 in checks against the account.

He is also charged with passing forged checks in San Mateo County and Los Angeles, where he ultimately was arrested, police said.

Wooden Indian Reported Stolen

A 200-pound wooden Indian was stolen Friday from in front of Filipello Antiques, 820 B Street, San Rafael, police reported.

The hand-carved figure, with full headdress, was valued at $240.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

First Round Play Is Decisive In This Three No-Trump Action

If you have studied anthropology carefully you know that one of the great differences between Western man and the higher apes is that only man chortles at the bridge table. (Man behind the Iron Curtain must be excluded from our little study because the Soviet authorities have officially pronounced bridge "socially harmful.")

A LOW SPADE

West opened the deuce of spades, dummy put up the queen, and East covered with the king. South chortled as he took this trick with the ace of spades, but the opponents laughed last.

South led the king of diamonds at the second trick, but West took the ace of diamonds immediately. South could never get back to his hand for any diamond tricks, and the defenders had no trouble in getting five tricks away from the dummy.

Down one, in spite of the three spade tricks.

KEEP ACE

The correct play is to refuse the first trick. South needs his ace of spades to make sure of getting four diamond tricks.

If East is allowed to win the first spade, he will probably return another spade. Dummy wins the second spade and leads the queen of diamonds. South overtakes with the king of diamonds and is in position to continue the suit until West takes the ace.

REST OF PLAY

After the ace of diamonds has been knocked out, South can get back to his hand with the ace of spades to take the rest of the diamonds. He thus makes four diamonds, two spades, one heart and two clubs — a safe and sane nine tricks.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Thanks for the memory. Can you match today's birthday notables with their work?

1. Rex Harrison, long-time English film and stage actor, is 65 today. He was Hollywood's best actor in 1964, winning an Academy Award in "My Fair Lady", after appearing in movies since 1929. Did he star in any of these films: (A) "Robin Hood"; (B) "Anna and the King"; (C) "Glenn Miller Story."

2. Samantha Eggar, 34 today, is a dark-haired daughter of a British army brigadier-general, who opposed her acting career as "unladylike." After 11 years in a convent, she nevertheless got her break on the BBC, appeared with Rex iHarrison in "Dr. Doolittle," and was seen on TV last fall in: (A) "Robin Hood; (B) "Anna and the King"; (C) "Glenn Miller Story."

3. Joe Yukl, jazz musician, played for years with the bands of the Dorsey brothers, Jimmy and Tommy. Now 64, this New Yorker gave up one-night stands for steadier work in Hollywood studios. You heard him playing the trombone for Jimmy Stewart on the sound track for: (A) "Robin Hood"; (B) "Anna and the King"; (C) "Glenn Miller Story".

4. Howard Pyle, leading American book and magazine illustrator in his time, was born on this day in Wilmington, Del. During his 58 years he achieved prominence as the illustrator of books by Woodrow Wilson and Oliver Wendell Holmes. But his most popular work was a book he wrote and illustrated about: (A) "Robin Hood"; (B) "Anna and the King"; (C) "Glenn Miller Story."

ANSWERS

1. B (King); 2. B (Anna); 3. C (Glenn Miller); 4. A (Robin Hood).

Coffee Wednesday

A coffee for Eileen Bach-y-Rita, candidate for the Mill Valley School District board, will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Gerald Berman residence, 10 Starboard Court, Strawberry.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

Application of PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY for authority to revise its gas service tariff to offset the effect of increases in the price of gas from California sources and Pacific Gas Transmission Company (Gas)

APPLICATION NO. 53866

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY hereby gives notice that in Application No. 53866, filed with the California Public Utilities Commission on February 28, 1973, it has requested authorization to revise its gas service tariff to offset the effect of anticipated inceases in the price of gas from California sources and in the price of gas from Pacific Gas Transmission Company caused by increases in the price of Canadian gas.

PG&E proposes to increase its gas rates on July 1, 1973, to offset these anticipated increases in the cost of gas, which become effective on that date.

The proposed PG&E offset rate increase amounts to 5.0% for general service customers (including domestic customers), 6.4% for firm industrial customers, 7.8% for resale customers, and 10.1% for interruptible customers (9.5% for regular interruptible customers and 10.9% for PG&E's steam electric plants).

Public Notice

A copy of the application and related exhibits may be examined at the offices of the California Public Utilities Commission, State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco, California 94102; at Pacific Gas and Electric Company, 77 Beale Street (Room 3107), San Francisco, California 94106; and c/o the Division Managers in PG&E's Division Headquarters in Eureka, Red Bluff, Chico, Marysville, Sacramento, Auburn, San Rafael, San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, Salinas, Fresno, and Stockton.

This notice is given in accordance with Rule 24 of the revised Rules of Practice and Procedure of the California Public Utilities Commission.

Sonoma State Cagers In Playoffs Tomorrow Night

By PAUL DWORIN

RIVERSIDE — Sonoma State College, winners of its first Far Western Conference basketball title, will be playing University of California, Riverside at Riverside Junior College tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the preliminary round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association college division Western Regionals.

Saturday night the Cossacks completed regular season play with a last second, 77-76, nonconference victory over Stanislaus State in Rohnert Park to finish with an 18-8 overall mark. Chico State, one of the pre-season favorites, wound up at 9-3 and 18-8, after defeating San Francisco State 100-90 Saturday night.

In the other season ending games, U.C. Davis, another favorite before the year began, finished third with an 8-4 record after whipping Hayward State 83-59 and Sacramento State beat Humboldt State 80-72 to finish with a 6-6 league record.

If Sonoma gets past the Highlanders from Riverside, it will earn the right to meet the University of Puget Sound Friday night in Bakersfield.

Puget Sound, 18-9 for the year, got a bye tomorrow as did Bakersfield State College and University of California, San Diego. The winner of the Bakersfield Tournament will advance to the national finals in Evansville, Indiana March 14-16.

Although the Cossacks will not be playing the awesome Bruins from University of California at Los Angeles, they will be playing a team similar in style, as the Highlanders are coached by former UCLA star Fred Goss.

"They are a pressing team, like UCLA," Sonoma coach Bill Trumbo commented. "They use the press to cap most of their activities on offense and defense. They also have great overall quickness, which forces a lot of turnovers."

One of the quickest of the Highlanders is 6-foot-3 guard Bobby Walters, who is the team's leading scorer. The other Riverside starters are 6-4 freshman guard Reggie Mims, 6-5 center Lee McDougall, 6-5 forward Keith Batiste and 6-4 forward Al Erby. The sixth man is 5-10 guard John Griffin, who was the Mission Valley Conference Player of the Year the year before Sonoma's Bill Belander hit a 25-footer with eight seconds left to beat Stanislaus. The victory raised Sonoma's home record to 11-0 for the year.

Down 41-31 at halftime, the Cossacks caught the Warriors at 69-69 with three minutes to play. Ray Scott hit a basket and then a three-point play to put Stanislaus ahead, 74-70, with 1:42 left in the game, but Steve Tiedeman matched Scott's output to put Sonoma on top 75-74.

After Tersell Estes put in an unmolested lay-up with 20 seconds left to regain the lead for the Warriors, Belander iced the victory for Sonoma with his jumper.

Tiedeman hit 16 of 27 shots from the field and scored a team record 36 points.

Stanislaus	41	35—76
Sonoma	31	46—77

Stanislaus — Estes 6-2-14, Larson 3-1-7, Matthews 6-2-14, Crossen 8-2-18, Scott 11-1-23. Totals: 34-8-76.

Sonoma — Bristol 2-0-4, Martinson 2-0-4, Fitchie 2-0-4, Tiedeman 16-4-36, Belander 6-0-12, Schandelmier 1-1-3, Johnson 2-0-4, O'Connar 0-2-2, Holmes 4-0-8. Totals: 35-7-77.

Golfing Business In Full Blossom

Three Marin County golfers turned an idea into a business and now have one of Northern California's most experienced amateur golfers running the shop.

The golfers with the idea that is paying off are Chet Patterson, Dr. Doug Ramsey and Dr. Marv Gilberg. It's a golf booking business, Pacific Recreation Consultants, Inc., and handles anywhere from two to more than 200 golfers, setting up anything from a single round of golf to a three-day tournament. You can be booked to play anywhere, from California, Nevada and Arizona, to Hawaii or the Caribbean.

PACIFIC RECREATION Consultants grew during its first year to the point that bookings numbered more than 5,000. That's when Paul Spengler Jr., 33-year-old golfer who rose from a Drake High School and Meadow Club start to become one of the better amateurs in the game, came along. He is now manager and principal stockholder in the business, headquartered in San Francisco.

"Last year we only had one complaint from a golfer sent to Reno on a special package," said Patterson. "He and his partner were tied for third place on the first day. That night he tried to drink all the drinks allowed on his package. He not only landed in trouble with his wife, his hangover dropped him from third to last in the tournament."

SPENGLER HAS PLAYED nearly every tournament or course on the west coast, and lived a few years in Hawaii before moving back to the Bay Area. He seems like the logical choice to run a business such as this since he knows the courses first hand.

He realizes many companies have golf groups with tournament arrangements assigned a different person each year. His way cuts out all the bother.

A regular golfing partner of 49er quarterback John Brodie, Spengler wound up in the finals of the Sharron Heights Club championship this year. Since Brodie was being kept busy on Sundays, they were scheduled to play for the club title on Monday, Oct. 16, but the day before Brodie suffered that ankle injury which put him on the shelf.

Paul, being the gentleman that he is, offered to postpone the match until Brodie was physically back to par. When Brodie recovered the match was held and John beat Paul, causing Spengler to sing the 49er theme, "Wait 'til next year!"

SPENGLER, A ROSS resident during his Marin County golfing days, won the Hawaii state amateur golf title while he was a business man of the islands. A graduate of Arizona State University, he has been a regular in the Bing Crosby Pro-Am lineup the past few years.

Patterson, Ramsey and Gilbert got the idea of this golf consulting thing a few years ago when a local radio sportscaster received a number of calls following a radio program from golfers who wanted help in getting starting times for groups of players. The light bulb turned on and now a business has been formed. It should prove most successful.

Warriors' Rookie Center Stands Out

OAKLAND (UPI) — The outcome wasn't pleasing but the Golden State Warriors may have gained something in their last game—a competent substitute for Nate Thurmond. Rookie center George Johnson, inserted Saturday when Thurmond was bounced by referee Bob Rakel late in the third quarter, helped with a rally that just failed to beat the Chicago Bulls.

Johnson, who is 6-foot-11, hit on all three of his floor shots, grabbed five rebounds and looked good on defense.

And he did it while suffering from a sinus infection.

When he took the floor the Warriors were trailing by 12 points in the game they lost to the Bulls 117-116 on two free throws by Chet Walker with 26 seconds remaining.

Johnson graduated from Dillard College in New Orleans in 1970, had an unsuccessful tryout with the Bulls and spent last season with the Martinez Muirs in the semi-pro Western Basketball Association.

Thurmond says that all Johnson needs "is hard work and experience." As a sub, Johnson had been averaging one minute of play in 42 previous appearances. Johnson remarked that "I've always had the ability to attack shots well but now I have to worry about offense. I'm going to do a lot of shooting this summer."

Despite the loss, the Warriors could take heart because Rick Barry snapped a three-game slump, hit 10-of-22 floor shots and ended with 33 points.

In the game's closing moments, the Warriors took a 115-114 lead, saw the score tied on a free throw by Jerry Sloan and then had Clyde Lee regain the lead for them with another free throw.

But then Lee fouled Walker, who won the game.

Detroit, which has a 31-37 record, plays the Warriors Tuesday in Oakland. The Warriors are now 41-28.

Terra Linda Swimmers In Meet Victory

Redwood High School won the glamor event but Terra Linda won the meet Saturday as the Marin County Athletic League swimming relays were held at Redwood.

The Giants' long freestyle team, extended by a furious challenge from San Marin, clipped more than eight seconds off the previous meet record by swimming the 750 yards in 7:08.8.

The event consisted of the 400, 200, 100 and 50-yard freestyles, and was swum by Spencer Eldred, Warren Lager, Troy Dunham and John Redig. San Marin, led by 400 swimmer Art Morrill, was second at 7:15.7 and also eclipsed the old mark of 7:17.1.

Terra Linda and San Rafael each won three of the 10 relay events and Redwood won two, but the Trojans compiled more second and third place finishes. "It was not the big stars, but just the regular boys on the team who did it for us," said coach Bob Pollitt.

The results:

Team Standings

Terra Linda 98, Redwood 76, San Rafael 76, Tamalpais 58, San Marin 52, Novato 34, Drake 10.

Robin Triumphs

Robin Backhaus of San Rafael won the 200-meter butterfly event at a swimming invitational meet yesterday in Bremen, Germany, with a time of 2:4.87. Backhaus, a senior at San Rafael High School, won a bronze medal in that event at the Munich Olympics.

LOSK IS ELIMINATED IN WRESTLING MEET

Ron Losk of Terra Linda High School won his first match Saturday, then lost his second and was eliminated from the consolation bracket in the 194-pound class in the state wrestling tournament at Hayward State University.

Losk's performance placed him in the top eight wrestlers in California at his weight, but not among the top six, to whom awards were given.

Saturday morning, Losk overpowered Joines of Overflet High in San Jose, building up a 12-4 lead and pinning his foe in the second round. Later, he was defeated in overtime by Mahan of Anderson Union High, who scored a reversal and near fall in the extra period for a 7-2 victory.

Losk Friday won his first match and lost his second. His teammate, heavyweight Jon Loberg, lost his first match and was eliminated.

IN CITRUS OPEN

Golfer Allin Isn't Surprised By Win

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Brian Allin probably gave a group of ex-POWs attending their first pro golf tournament a distorted picture of how the game is usually played.

Allin, a Vietnam veteran himself, climaxed a fantastic week of golf in Sunday's final round of the Florida Citrus Open—winding up with a 23-under-par 265 for the lowest score of the past two years, and winning by a runaway eight strokes.

About the only persons not surprised to see the 28-year-old Californian win the $150,000 Citrus was Allin himself.

"I felt all week this was going to be my tournament," said Allin after accepting the $30,000 winner's check. "I had a hunch coming up here and I told my caddy, 'I think it is my week to win.'"

That it was. Allin, who won the 1971 Greater Greensboro Open as a tour rookie but had finished no higher than last year's second at Milwaukee since, put together rounds of 66-65-67-67 — and simply ran away from the field.

His Sunday playing partner, Gibby Gilbert, had insisted before the final round that Allin, then four strokes ahead of the field, could be caught, "because no one shoots four rounds like that in a row."

But when Allin widened that lead to seven strokes even before he reached the Sunday turn, Gilbert told him, "I'm not trying to beat you anymore."

Allin's closest pursuer, and that term is used lightly, was former Masters champion Charles Coody who had a 66 Sunday to move up to second place at 15-under-par 273.

Kermit Zarley, who said, "I was really running out there," had a final 64 to finish in a four-way tie for third at 274 with Homero Blancas, Grier Jones and Chi Chi Rodriguez, who was second at the start of the final round but played even par golf in a tournament where sub par rounds were a dime a dozen.

The previous low score on the tour the past two years was the 267 shot in the Disney World, played a few miles from the site of the Citrus, by Jack Nicklaus who did not play here this past week. Nicklaus also had the previous under-par high, 21, for the two-year period.

Allin, who won more than $100,000 in his first two years on the tour, is now sixth on this year's money list with more than $45,000 — barely $2,000 less than he won all last year.

Gilbert, five strokes back at the start of the round, never made a run at Allin, shooting 72-275.

Seals Host Buffalo Wednesday

OAKLAND (UPI) — California's Golden Seals lost their 40th game Sunday night, largely because of the work of John Stewart of the Atlanta Flames.

Stewart set up the first goal in Flames' 3-2 victory and scored the winner at 14:59 of the second period of the contest at Atlanta.

As the Flames snapped a seven-game losing streak, Stewart uncorked a hard shot from the blue line that bounced off Seals goaltender Gilles Meloche and was knocked into the net by Atlanta's Larry Romanchych.

The other Atlanta score was by Curt Bennett, who tipped in a pass from Bill MacMillan.

California's scores were by Hilliard Graves, who pounded the puck under goalie Phil

REBERGER SHARP

Gallagher Stars In Giants' Game

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — Alan Gallagher is a young man in a hurry.

The San Francisco Giants' regular third baseman two seasons back, Gallagher now is in a five-man fight to regain his job. With that many players battling for one position, Gallagher doesn't figure to get many opportunities.

Sunday he got his first in the Giants' initial intra-squad game of the season, and Gallagher made the most of it with a tworun triple and a single.

At 27, Gallagher figures he has to make his move as a big league player this year or start thinking about another career. That's why he wants the Giants to trade him away if he doesn't win the third base job back.

"I still feel I'm the best player on this team for that job," Gallagher said. "If they don't think I can do it then they should trade me to a club that can use my services. I can't afford to sit on the bench another year as I did in 1972."

There were several other notable performers in Sunday's squad game, won by the Joe Amalfitanos 5-2.

Ace 1972 pinch-hitter Jimmy Howarth slammed three singles, All-Star shortstop Chris Speier figured in five double plays and Frank Reberger of Mill Valley and Jim Barr each pitched two shutout innings.

Meanwhile, there was no break in the holdout department with catcher Fran Healy, pitcher Jerry Johnson and second baseman Tito Fuentes still unsigned.

Jerry Donovan, owner Horace Stoneham's chief aide and the man in charge of signing players, said he thinks Healy, who attends American International College in Massachusetts during the off-season, may have decided to quit the game.

Three Holdouts Wooed By Finley

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Owner Charlie Finley spent weekend with his World Champion Oakland A's but got absolutely nowhere in attempts to sign his last three holdout players—pitchers Vida Blue and Ken Holtzman and catcher Dave Duncan.

Finley huddled with Holtzman, who is here working out with the club, Sunday and reportedly is only $3,500 away from reaching agreement with the 19-game winner of a year ago.

In Duncan's case, Finley probably is $10,000 apart while with Blue, no one knows what the situation is or where Finley stands, except that he is unable to reach Vida.

While Finley watched from the bench Sunday and hoped for the best, Manager Dick Williams hustled the troops through a three-hour drill featured by the line-driving hitting of Joe Rudi, the outfielder who led the A's in batting last year with a .305 average.

Rudi, spare outfielder Angel Mangual and star pinch-hitter Gonzalo Marquez joined the club Sunday for the first time and took part in the long session on a warm day.

Three other players besides Duncan and Blue are not on the scene. They are pitchers Gilberto Marcano and Horacio Pina and infielder Manny Trillo.

Sonoma State Cagers In Playoffs Tomorrow Night

By PAUL DWORIN

RIVERSIDE — Sonoma State College, winners of its first Far Western Conference basketball title, will be playing University of California, Riverside at Riverside Junior College tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the preliminary round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association college division Western Regionals.

Saturday night the Cossacks completed regular season play with a last second, 77-76, nonconference victory over Stanislaus State in Rohnert Park to finish with an 18-8 overall mark. Chico State, one of the pre-season favorites, wound up at 9-3 and 18-8, after defeating San Francisco State 100-90 Saturday night.

In the other season ending games, U.C. Davis, another favorite before the year began, finished third with an 8-4 record after whipping Hayward State 83-59 and Sacramento State beat Humboldt State 80-72 to finish with a 6-6 league record.

Robin Triumphs

Robin Backhaus of San Rafael won the 200-meter butterfly event at a swimming invitational meet yesterday in Bremen, Germany, with a time of 2:4.87. Backhaus, a senior at San Rafael High School, won a bronze medal in that event at the Munich Olympics.

LOSK IS ELIMINATED IN WRESTLING MEET

Ron Losk of Terra Linda High School won his first match Saturday, then lost his second and was eliminated from the consolation bracket in the 194-pound class in the state wrestling tournament at Hayward State University.

Losk's performance placed him in the top eight wrestlers in California at his weight, but not among the top six, to whom awards were given.

Saturday morning, Losk overpowered Joines of Overflet High in San Jose, building up a 12-4 lead and pinning his foe in the second round. Later, he was defeated in overtime by Mahan of Anderson Union High, who scored a reversal and near fall in the extra period for a 7-2 victory.

Losk Friday won his first match and lost his second. His teammate, heavyweight Jon Loberg, lost his first match and was eliminated.

IN CITRUS OPEN

Golfer Allin Isn't Surprised By Win

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Brian Allin probably gave a group of ex-POWs attending their first pro golf tournament a distorted picture of how the game is usually played.

Allin, a Vietnam veteran himself, climaxed a fantastic week of golf in Sunday's final round of the Florida Citrus Open—winding up with a 23-under-par 265 for the lowest score of the past two years, and winning by a runaway eight strokes.

About the only persons not surprised to see the 28-year-old Californian win the $150,000 Citrus was Allin himself.

"I felt all week this was going to be my tournament," said Allin after accepting the $30,000 winner's check. "I had a hunch coming up here and I told my caddy, 'I think it is my week to win.'"

That it was. Allin, who won the 1971 Greater Greensboro Open as a tour rookie but had finished no higher than last year's second at Milwaukee since, put together rounds of 66-65-67-67 — and simply ran away from the field.

His Sunday playing partner, Gibby Gilbert, had insisted before the final round that Allin, then four strokes ahead of the field, could be caught, "because no one shoots four rounds like that in a row."

But when Allin widened that lead to seven strokes even before he reached the Sunday turn, Gilbert told him, "I'm not trying to beat you anymore."

Allin's closest pursuer, and that term is used lightly, was former Masters champion Charles Coody who had a 66 Sunday to move up to second place at 15-under-par 273.

Kermit Zarley, who said, "I was really running out there," had a final 64 to finish in a four-way tie for third at 274 with Homero Blancas, Grier Jones and Chi Chi Rodriguez, who was second at the start of the final round but played even par golf in a tournament where sub par rounds were a dime a dozen.

The previous low score on the tour the past two years was the 267 shot in the Disney World, played a few miles from the site of the Citrus, by Jack Nicklaus who did not play here this past week. Nicklaus also had the previous under-par high, 21, for the two-year period.

Allin, who won more than $100,000 in his first two years on the tour, is now sixth on this year's money list with more than $45,000 — barely $2,000 less than he won all last year.

Gilbert, five strokes back at the start of the round, never made a run at Allin, shooting 72-275.

Seals Host Buffalo Wednesday

OAKLAND (UPI) — California's Golden Seals lost their 40th game Sunday night, largely because of the work of John Stewart of the Atlanta Flames.

Stewart set up the first goal in Flames' 3-2 victory and scored the winner at 14:59 of the second period of the contest at Atlanta.

As the Flames snapped a seven-game losing streak, Stewart uncorked a hard shot from the blue line that bounced off Seals goaltender Gilles Meloche and was knocked into the net by Atlanta's Larry Romanchych.

The other Atlanta score was by Curt Bennett, who tipped in a pass from Bill MacMillan.

California's scores were by Hilliard Graves, who pounded the puck under goalie Phil

REBERGER SHARP

Gallagher Stars In Giants' Game

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — Alan Gallagher is a young man in a hurry.

The San Francisco Giants' regular third baseman two seasons back, Gallagher now is in a five-man fight to regain his job. With that many players battling for one position, Gallagher doesn't figure to get many opportunities.

Sunday he got his first in the Giants' initial intra-squad game of the season, and Gallagher made the most of it with a tworun triple and a single.

At 27, Gallagher figures he has to make his move as a big league player this year or start thinking about another career. That's why he wants the Giants to trade him away if he doesn't win the third base job back.

"I still feel I'm the best player on this team for that job," Gallagher said. "If they don't think I can do it then they should trade me to a club that can use my services. I can't afford to sit on the bench another year as I did in 1972."

There were several other notable performers in Sunday's squad game, won by the Joe Amalfitanos 5-2.

Ace 1972 pinch-hitter Jimmy Howarth slammed three singles, All-Star shortstop Chris Speier figured in five double plays and Frank Reberger of Mill Valley and Jim Barr each pitched two shutout innings.

Meanwhile, there was no break in the holdout department with catcher Fran Healy, pitcher Jerry Johnson and second baseman Tito Fuentes still unsigned.

Jerry Donovan, owner Horace Stoneham's chief aide and the man in charge of signing players, said he thinks Healy, who attends American International College in Massachusetts during the off-season, may have decided to quit the game.

Three Holdouts Wooed By Finley

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Owner Charlie Finley spent weekend with his World Champion Oakland A's but got absolutely nowhere in attempts to sign his last three holdout players—pitchers Vida Blue and Ken Holtzman and catcher Dave Duncan.

Finley huddled with Holtzman, who is here working out with the club, Sunday and reportedly is only $3,500 away from reaching agreement with the 19-game winner of a year ago.

In Duncan's case, Finley probably is $10,000 apart while with Blue, no one knows what the situation is or where Finley stands, except that he is unable to reach Vida.

While Finley watched from the bench Sunday and hoped for the best, Manager Dick Williams hustled the troops through a three-hour drill featured by the line-driving hitting of Joe Rudi, the outfielder who led the A's in batting last year with a .305 average.

Rudi, spare outfielder Angel Mangual and star pinch-hitter Gonzalo Marquez joined the club Sunday for the first time and took part in the long session on a warm day.

Three other players besides Duncan and Blue are not on the scene. They are pitchers Gilberto Marcano and Horacio Pina and infielder Manny Trillo.

Ammunition Ship Vesuvius Returns

CONCORD, Calif. (UPI) — The USS Vesuvius, oldest ammunition ship in the U.S. Navy, has arrived home from Vietnam after the longest foreign tour of any American warship since World War II.

While in the war zone, the "Mighty V" supplied 27,000 tons of ammunition to 383 ships.

The 234 crewmen aboard the 10,000-ton Vesuvius, which was ordered to Vietnam a year ago, got a rousing welcome from families and friends on the pier at the Naval Weapons Station.

Fairground Projects Will Be Considered

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9:45 a.m. at the Civic Center, will consider a recommendation that the county proceed with $426,000 worth of fairgrounds improvements.

The recommendation, from Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Michael Wornum, calls for $150,000 in landscaping around the edge of the Civic Center lagoon; $110,000 for restrooms; $100,000 for a "food dispensing module" and $30,000 for water and sewer lines.

The remainder would go for smaller items such as lighting, drinking fountains, fencing and electrical work.

According to the supervisors, $354,000 in county funds and $72,000 of state funds are available in this year's budget.

The improvements, if approved, would have no effect on the county administrator's recommendation that more than $1 million be pumped into the site over the next five years.

That recommendation is contained in the proposed capital improvement program, to be considered next week by supervisors.

The supervisors' agenda also includes:

HELIPORT — A recommendation from the county aviation commission that the board ask the Golden Gate Bridge District to allow a heliport on its Larkspur ferry terminal site.

DEATH — A recommendation from the county parks and recreation commission for special state legislation making Marin County the beneficiary of the will of the late George J. Charpentier of Black Point, who left the state between $500,000 and $1 million.

SCHENK — Will postpone a hearing on a controversial proposal from landowner Max Schenk to build townhouse dwellings on his property near San Anselmo's Sorich Park. The delay is caused by the lack of an environmental impact report.

APPEALS — A proposal that appeals of some planning matters end at the planning commission level and not be appealable to the board of supervisors.

Wooden Indian Reported Stolen

A 200-pound wooden Indian was stolen Friday from in front of Filipello Antiques, 820 B Street, San Rafael, police reported.

The hand-carved figure, with full headdress, was valued at $240.

Plea Made To Check Forgery

A 43-year-old man, said to have assumed another man's identity, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to writing forged checks under his pseudonuym and to felony grand theft.

Preliminary hearing for Joseph Kaufman of no known address was set for tomorrow.

According to San Rafael police, Kaufman found identification belongong to a Dennis Hoffman, opened an account at a Bank of America branch and cashed $750 to $1,000 in checks against the account.

He is also charged with passing forged checks in San Mateo County and Los Angeles, where he ultimately was arrested, police said.

Redskins' Brown Is NFC Player Of Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Larry Brown, whose rushing heroics led the Washington Redskins' "Over-the-Hill-Gang" to a Super Bowl berth last season, yesterday was selected National Football Conference Player of the Year by the New York Chapter of the Pro Football Writers Association of America.

Brown, who led the NFC in rushing despite a rash of late season injuries, will be honored at the chapter's annual dinner on June 26 at the Americana Hotel in New York.

Brown, a ninth-round draft choice out of Kansas State four years ago, was "discovered" by the late Vince Lombardi when coaches had almost given up on him. Lombardi discovered that Brown was hard of hearing and was not picking up the snap counts and had him fitted with a specially built helmet with a hearing aid enclosed. The rest is history.

Brown became the most feared runner in the NFC and was a workhorse, consistently carrying 35-40 times a game.

Out Of East In Stakes Race Win

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — Out Of The East finally won his first stakes race, and as of the moment looks like the early favorite for next month's $100,000 added California Derby at Golden Gate Fields.

The Cal Derby is the final major prep for western candidates to the Kentucky Derby and off his easy two-length victory in the Contra Costa stakes last Saturday, out of the east looks like a tough colt.

NHL Bruins' Trade Helps Playoff Drive

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

In the true tradition of a defending champion, the Boston Bruins appear willing to trade a piece of their future for another shot at immediate glory.

And the Bruins left no doubt that they had strengthened their chance of making a successful defense of the Stanley Cup when they unveiled Jacques Plante to a national television audience Sunday afternoon.

Plante, a 44-year-old goaltending great of seasons past, stopped all 27 shots sent his way in lifting Boston to a key 4-0 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks. By winning, the Bruins closed to within three points of second place in the National Hockey League's East Division since the New York Rangers blew a 4-3 decision to the Vancouver Canucks at night.

The Montreal Canadiens, meanwhile, moved closer to the East Division title by whipping the Buffalo Sabres 4-2. That gave the Canadiens an even 100 points and a 10-point margin over the Rangers.

"I'm glad to be coming to a contender," said Plante, who joined his new club just two hours before the start of the afternoon game in Boston Garden. "I'm a pure professional. Winning is the name of the game and this team is a winner.

To get Plante from Toronto, the Bruins had to sacrifice their No. 1 pick in next summer's amateur draft as well as a player to be named later. But Boston management also was convinced that the club's hope for another Stanley Cup was dim without goaltending help.

Phil Esposito provided Plante with all the offensive help he needed by scoring his 43rd and 44th goals of the season in the first period. Fred O'Donnell and Ken Hodge added insurance goals in the second period.

The Philadelphia Flyers took advantage of Chicago's loss as they walloped Toronto 10-0 with Rick MacLeish getting four goals, to close within nine points of the first-place Hawks in the West Division. The Minnesota North Stars also kept pace, just one point behind Philadelphia, by beating the Pittsburgh Penguins 5-2.

In other games, the Atlanta Flames created a three-way tie with Pittsburgh and Los Angeles for fifth place in the West by edging the California Golden Seals 3-2 and the Detroit Red Wings defeated the New York Islanders 5-1.

BASKETBALL

St. Vincent Wins Own Tournament

St. Vincent High School of Petaluma took the championship of its own invitational basketball tournament for the first time Saturday night with a 64-47 victory over South Fork.

In other final round games, Tomales beat California School for the Deaf of Berkeley, 66-62, Geyserville took the consolation championship with a 56-51 victory over Willits and Anderson Valley walloped Concordia, 101-84, to take third place.

"I was quite pleased with our play," St. Vincent coach Ed Major commented later.

The Mustangs went ahead early, leading by as much as 15 points to take a 35-24 halftime lead. in the final two periods they extended that margin to the final 17 points, despite playing subs for much of the fourth quarter.

Bob Vyenielo, who was named to the All-Tournament Team, led St. Vincent with 26 points, followed by Dan Tocchini's 16 points. Tocchini was named Most Valuable Player for the Tourney.

Tomales salvaged one victory in the tournament with a strong 24-point effort in the fourth quarter, after falling behind by eight in the first period. The Braves were led by Russ Sartori and Spirito Ballatore, with 26 and 21 points. Both of them were named to the All-Tournament Team.

Joining them on the all-tourney squad were Dave Carey and Lee Thomas of South Fork, Gary Waggoner of Anderson Valley, Eric Norris of Concordia, Junior Franco of Geyserville and Mike6Myers of California School for the Deaf.

USF Five Wins; In Western Regionals

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

San Francisco whipped Pepperdine Sunday 96-71 to win the West Coast Athletic Conference title and complete the lineup for the post-season National Collegiate Athletic Association Western Regional playoffs.

The first round of the playoffs is scheduled for Utah State University at Logan on March 10 with Long Beach State, the Pacific Coast Athletic Association champ, meeting Weber State, the Big Sky champ, and Western Athletic Conference champion Arizona State taking on Oklahoma City University.

Pacific 8 Conference winner UCLA and USF draw a bye for the first round and will meet the survivors at Logan to complete the Regional Playoffs.

UCLA, the nation's top-ranked team heading for another national title, was the first to clinch a league title and is merely playing out the season. During the weekend the Bruins whipped California 90-65 and edged Stanford 51-45 to extend their Pac 8 record to 13-0, their 1972-73 season overall mark to 25-0 and their consecutive record to 70 games.

UCLA finishes out the regular season this Saturday in a meaningless game against cross-town rival Southern California, which is banking on an upset to gain a berth in the National Invitation Tournament at New York. The Trojans hurt their chances somewhat when they bowed to Stanford 50-47 last Friday, then rebounded to rout California 64-53.

Guards Mike Quick and Phil Smith combined for 44 points Sunday in the victory over Pepperdine that gave the Dons their second straight WCAC title. They will play the winner of the Long Beach-Weber State game in the playoffs at Los Angeles on March 15-17.

Sunday's victory gave USF a league record of 12-2 and a one-game edge on Santa Clara, which lost its chance to tie USF and force a playoff for the league title by bowing to Pepperdine on Thursday night 89-85. The Broncos thus were second with a 11-3 record.

In other Pac 8 games of note last weekend, Oregon rallied in the final minutes to beat Washington State 66-65 and moved past Oregon State into third place in the Pac 8. OSU fell to Washington 83-72.

Long Beach State rolled along by beating Marquette 76-66 in a game of NCAA playoff-bound schools while Sonoma State, which clinched the Far Western Conference title on Friday night, finished up the regular season by beating Stanislaus State 77-76. Sonoma State plays UC Riverside Tuesday night for a berth in the NCAA College Division Western Regional tournament.

Marin Swimmer Wins

Bob Placak of the Marin Aquatic Club won the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:31.1 and finished fourth in the 400 individual medley in the boys 13-14 age bracket yesterday in the Flying Fin AA swimming meet at San Lorenzo High School. A teammate, Glenn Fleischer, was second in the 50 back and third in the 100 I.M. and 50 free in the 10-and-under bracket in the same meet.

Rigney Joins A's As A Broadcaster

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — Bill Rigney, a big league manager with the San Francisco Giants, California Angels and Minnesota Twins, will go to work this year as a broadcaster for the world champion Oakland A's.

A's owner Charley Finley announced during the weekend that he has hired Rigney to work with the broadcasting crew of Monte Moore and Jim Woods and serve also in special projects.

"He adds a helluva lot of class to our organization," Finley said.

Basketball

LOS ANGELES — Two UCLA players, Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes, made the National Collegiate Athletic Association District 8 All-Star team selected yesterday by National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Other members chosen were Ed Ratleff of Cal State Long Beach, Mike Stewart of Santa Clara and Louie Nelson of Washington.

The coaches named UCLA's John Wooden District 8 Coach of the Year.

Second team members: Kevin Restani, San Francisco; Jim McCargo, Pacific; Doug Little, Oregon; Bill Averitt, Pepperdine; Raymond Lewis, Cal State Los Angeles.

Third team: Clint Chapman, Southern California; Neil Jurgensen, Oregon State; Ron Lee, Oregon; Steve Smith, Loyola; Phil Smith, San Francisco.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. — Assistant University of North Carolina basketball coach John Lotz was named today as the University of Florida's new head coach succeeding Tommy Bartlett.

Florida athletic director Ray Graves, announcing Lotz' selection, said the Tar heel assistant "has been at the top of our list from the beginning."

LARAMIE, Wyo. — Bill Strannigan, head basketball coach at the University of Wyoming for the past 14 years, yesterday announced his retirement.

Strannigan, an All-America on Wyoming's 1943 National Collegiate Athletic Association championship team, said he would talk with university president William Carlson in the next couple of weeks "and go through the proper channels."

Skiing

BEAR VALLEY, Calif. — Terje Overland of Rjukan, Norway, defeated reigning world champion Spider Sabich of Kyburz, Calif., in the slalom yesterday to win the event at the Benson & Hedges Grand Prix of professional ski racing.

Overland's victory was worth $2,500 but Sabich held onto second place in the overall standings on the pro circuit by winning $1,500 and 20 points.

SPORT SHORTS

Auto Racing

HICKORY, N.C. — Buddy Baker of Charlotte averaged 69.966 miles per hour in a 1973 Dodge yesterday to win the Hickory 276 NASCAR Grand National East Stock Car Race.

Redskins' Brown Is NFC Player Of Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Larry Brown, whose rushing heroics led the Washington Redskins' "Over-the-Hill-Gang" to a Super Bowl berth last season, yesterday was selected National Football Conference Player of the Year by the New York Chapter of the Pro Football Writers Association of America.

Brown, who led the NFC in rushing despite a rash of late season injuries, will be honored at the chapter's annual dinner on June 26 at the Americana Hotel in New York.

Brown, a ninth-round draft choice out of Kansas State four years ago, was "discovered" by the late Vince Lombardi when coaches had almost given up on him. Lombardi discovered that Brown was hard of hearing and was not picking up the snap counts and had him fitted with a specially built helmet with a hearing aid enclosed. The rest is history.

Brown became the most feared runner in the NFC and was a workhorse, consistently carrying 35-40 times a game.

Out Of East In Stakes Race Win

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — Out Of The East finally won his first stakes race, and as of the moment looks like the early favorite for next month's $100,000 added California Derby at Golden Gate Fields.

The Cal Derby is the final major prep for western candidates to the Kentucky Derby and off his easy two-length victory in the Contra Costa stakes last Saturday, out of the east looks like a tough colt.

NHL Bruins' Trade Helps Playoff Drive

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

In the true tradition of a defending champion, the Boston Bruins appear willing to trade a piece of their future for another shot at immediate glory.

And the Bruins left no doubt that they had strengthened their chance of making a successful defense of the Stanley Cup when they unveiled Jacques Plante to a national television audience Sunday afternoon.

Plante, a 44-year-old goaltending great of seasons past, stopped all 27 shots sent his way in lifting Boston to a key 4-0 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks. By winning, the Bruins closed to within three points of second place in the National Hockey League's East Division since the New York Rangers blew a 4-3 decision to the Vancouver Canucks at night.

The Montreal Canadiens, meanwhile, moved closer to the East Division title by whipping the Buffalo Sabres 4-2. That gave the Canadiens an even 100 points and a 10-point margin over the Rangers.

"I'm glad to be coming to a contender," said Plante, who joined his new club just two hours before the start of the afternoon game in Boston Garden. "I'm a pure professional. Winning is the name of the game and this team is a winner.

To get Plante from Toronto, the Bruins had to sacrifice their No. 1 pick in next summer's amateur draft as well as a player to be named later. But Boston management also was convinced that the club's hope for another Stanley Cup was dim without goaltending help.

Phil Esposito provided Plante with all the offensive help he needed by scoring his 43rd and 44th goals of the season in the first period. Fred O'Donnell and Ken Hodge added insurance goals in the second period.

The Philadelphia Flyers took advantage of Chicago's loss as they walloped Toronto 10-0 with Rick MacLeish getting four goals, to close within nine points of the first-place Hawks in the West Division. The Minnesota North Stars also kept pace, just one point behind Philadelphia, by beating the Pittsburgh Penguins 5-2.

In other games, the Atlanta Flames created a three-way tie with Pittsburgh and Los Angeles for fifth place in the West by edging the California Golden Seals 3-2 and the Detroit Red Wings defeated the New York Islanders 5-1.

USF Five Wins; In Western Regionals

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

San Francisco whipped Pepperdine Sunday 96-71 to win the West Coast Athletic Conference title and complete the lineup for the post-season National Collegiate Athletic Association Western Regional playoffs.

The first round of the playoffs is scheduled for Utah State University at Logan on March 10 with Long Beach State, the Pacific Coast Athletic Association champ, meeting Weber State, the Big Sky champ, and Western Athletic Conference champion Arizona State taking on Oklahoma City University.

Pacific 8 Conference winner UCLA and USF draw a bye for the first round and will meet the survivors at Logan to complete the Regional Playoffs.

UCLA, the nation's top-ranked team heading for another national title, was the first to clinch a league title and is merely playing out the season. During the weekend the Bruins whipped California 90-65 and edged Stanford 51-45 to extend their Pac 8 record to 13-0, their 1972-73 season overall mark to 25-0 and their consecutive record to 70 games.

UCLA finishes out the regular season this Saturday in a meaningless game against cross-town rival Southern California, which is banking on an upset to gain a berth in the National Invitation Tournament at New York. The Trojans hurt their chances somewhat when they bowed to Stanford 50-47 last Friday, then rebounded to rout California 64-53.

Guards Mike Quick and Phil Smith combined for 44 points Sunday in the victory over Pepperdine that gave the Dons their second straight WCAC title. They will play the winner of the Long Beach-Weber State game in the playoffs at Los Angeles on March 15-17.

Sunday's victory gave USF a league record of 12-2 and a one-game edge on Santa Clara, which lost its chance to tie USF and force a playoff for the league title by bowing to Pepperdine on Thursday night 89-85. The Broncos thus were second with a 11-3 record.

In other Pac 8 games of note last weekend, Oregon rallied in the final minutes to beat Washington State 66-65 and moved past Oregon State into third place in the Pac 8. OSU fell to Washington 83-72.

Long Beach State rolled along by beating Marquette 76-66 in a game of NCAA playoff-bound schools while Sonoma State, which clinched the Far Western Conference title on Friday night, finished up the regular season by beating Stanislaus State 77-76. Sonoma State plays UC Riverside Tuesday night for a berth in the NCAA College Division Western Regional tournament.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Thanks for the memory. Can you match today's birthday notables with their work?

1. Rex Harrison, long-time English film and stage actor, is 65 today. He was Hollywood's best actor in 1964, winning an Academy Award in "My Fair Lady", after appearing in movies since 1929. Did he star in any of these films: (A) "Robin Hood"; (B) "Anna and the King"; (C) "Glenn Miller Story."

2. Samantha Eggar, 34 today, is a dark-haired daughter of a British army brigadier-general, who opposed her acting career as "unladylike." After 11 years in a convent, she nevertheless got her break on the BBC, appeared with Rex iHarrison in "Dr. Doolittle," and was seen on TV last fall in: (A) "Robin Hood; (B) "Anna and the King"; (C) "Glenn Miller Story."

3. Joe Yukl, jazz musician, played for years with the bands of the Dorsey brothers, Jimmy and Tommy. Now 64, this New Yorker gave up one-night stands for steadier work in Hollywood studios. You heard him playing the trombone for Jimmy Stewart on the sound track for: (A) "Robin Hood"; (B) "Anna and the King"; (C) "Glenn Miller Story".

4. Howard Pyle, leading American book and magazine illustrator in his time, was born on this day in Wilmington, Del. During his 58 years he achieved prominence as the illustrator of books by Woodrow Wilson and Oliver Wendell Holmes. But his most popular work was a book he wrote and illustrated about: (A) "Robin Hood"; (B) "Anna and the King"; (C) "Glenn Miller Story."

ANSWERS

1. B (King); 2. B (Anna); 3. C (Glenn Miller); 4. A (Robin Hood).

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

First Round Play Is Decisive In This Three No-Trump Action

If you have studied anthropology carefully you know that one of the great differences between Western man and the higher apes is that only man chortles at the bridge table. (Man behind the Iron Curtain must be excluded from our little study because the Soviet authorities have officially pronounced bridge "socially harmful.")

A LOW SPADE

West opened the deuce of spades, dummy put up the queen, and East covered with the king. South chortled as he took this trick with the ace of spades, but the opponents laughed last.

South led the king of diamonds at the second trick, but West took the ace of diamonds immediately. South could never get back to his hand for any diamond tricks, and the defenders had no trouble in getting five tricks away from the dummy.

Down one, in spite of the three spade tricks.

KEEP ACE

The correct play is to refuse the first trick. South needs his ace of spades to make sure of getting four diamond tricks.

If East is allowed to win the first spade, he will probably return another spade. Dummy wins the second spade and leads the queen of diamonds. South overtakes with the king of diamonds and is in position to continue the suit until West takes the ace.

REST OF PLAY

After the ace of diamonds has been knocked out, South can get back to his hand with the ace of spades to take the rest of the diamonds. He thus makes four diamonds, two spades, one heart and two clubs — a safe and sane nine tricks.

ANSWER: Double.

This asks partner to bid his longest suit. A take-out double shows a good hand with support for the unbid suits.

Rocket Blows Up For Denver

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Fortunately for Al Smith the Denver Rockets had a little something in reserve Sunday night.

Smith, a 6-foot-1 guard for Denver, came very close to costing the Rockets a victory in the final 22 seconds of play Sunday night, but his teammates bailed him out in overtime and downed the Utah Stars 133-125 in an American Basketball Association game.

Smith, who had 24 points, could have given Denver the victory in regulation time, but after hitting his first nine free throws, he missed three of four charity tosses in the final 22 seconds.

Then, to make matters worse, he got into a fight with Utah's Cincy Powell with only nine seconds to play and the Rockets leading by just one point. The referees ruled that Smith started the fight and ejected him from the game, resulting in an automatic technical foul which Ron Boone made to send the game into overtime tied at 117-117.

Warren Jabali and Willie Long pulled things out for the Rockets in overtime, however, as both scored five points. Denver's John Q. Trapp made the first two goals of the overtime session and the Rockets never were challenged after that. Ralph Simpson ended up as the high scorer for Denver with 30 points while Bob Warren had 27 for Utah.

In other games, Kentucky routed Memphis 121-91, Indiana edged Dallas 121-118, Carolina topped New York 123-111 and San Diego defeated Virginia 115-110.

Artis Gilmore and Mike Issel combined for 48 points and 28 rebounds for Kentucky, which handed Memphis its fifth straight loss. Gilmore had 22 points and 16 rebounds and also handed out nine assists.

George McGinnis tallied 36 points, including a pair of free throws with 40 seconds left, to spark Indiana's triumph over Dallas. McGinnis got scoring help from Freddie Lewis with 24 points, Donnie Freeman with 23 and Darnell Hillman with 20.

Billy Cunningham's 26 points led Carolina over New York and Stew Johnson's 27 points paced San Diego over Virginia.

WHA ROUNDUP

Winnipeg Improves 2 Winning Strings

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Winnipeg Jets improved a couple of winning streaks Sunday night and at the same time pushed themselves just a little closer to clinching the West Division title of the World Hockey Association.

By edging Los Angeles 2-1, the Jets stretched their consecutive game winning skein to 10 and ran up their eighth consecutive success over the Sharks. With second-place Houston dropping a 6-3 decision to the Quebec Nordiques, Winnipeg was able to increase its lead over the Aeros to an imposing 13 points.

Chris Bordeleau scored his 41st goal with the game only 17 seconds old to send the Jets off to a 1-0 lead on their home ice and Larry Hornung added what proved to be the decisive goal during a power play at 11:44 of the second period.

The Minnesota Fighting Saints took over sole possession of third place in the West, two points ahead of Los Angeles, by beating the New England Whalers 4-2. The Whalers thus lost a chance to cut their four-point deficit behind idle Cleveland in the duel for first place in the East Division.

The battle for the final two playoff berths in the East remained tight with only two points separating four clubs. The Philadelphia Blazers jumped into third place by beating the New York Raiders 4-2 and Quebec moved into a tie with New York, one point behind the Blazers, with its victory over Houston. The Ottawa Nationals beat the Chicago Cougars 6-4 and although in last place, they are only two points behind Philadelphia.

Jim Johnson and Wayne Connelly scored goals 14 seconds apart early in the final period to break open a tight game and give Minnesota a 3-0 lead over New England. Mike Byers and Brad Selwood made it close again with goals for the Whalers, but Bob MacMillan then provided the clincher with just under seven minutes left to play.

A power play goal by Bryan Campbell at 2:48 of the first period snapped a 1-1 tie at New York and Philadelphia wrapped it up with two more goals by Don Burgess and John McKenzie.

Alain Caron scored two goals to pace Quebec to its victory at Houston and Wayne Carleton had two goals to help Ottawa stretch its winning streak to four games with the triumph over Chicago.

IN NBA PLAY

Hawks, Bullets Rolling Along

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Atlanta Hawks must feel as if they're treading water.

For the third straight game, the Hawks had their best quarter and highest point total of the year Sunday in a 138-130 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers. But it failed to gain them any ground in the National Basketball Association's Central Division race as the Baltimore Bullets beat the New York Knicks 106-97.

The Hawks remained five games behind the Bullets in the battle for first in the division.

Pete Maravich scored 38 points, including 20 during a devastating 49-point burst in the third quarter, to lead the Hawks and Lou Hudson hit 36. Fred Carter had 29 to lead the 76ers, who suffered their 62nd loss in 71 games.

Guards Archie Clark and Phil Chenier combined for 45 points to lead the Bullets over the Knicks, New York's third straight loss. Clark had 24 points and Chenier hit 21, including the go-ahead basket with three minutes to play. Walt Frazier led the Knicks with 26 and Dave DeBusschere had 12 points for New York in the first quarter before being lost for the game with a hip injury.

In other NBA games, Milwaukee ripped Houston 116-101, Los Angeles destroyed Cleveland 127-84, Chicago edged Phoenix 118-117 in overtime, Detroit downed Portland 113-109 and Boston defeated Buffalo 125-113.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 29 points and Lucius Allen hit 20 as the Bucks beat Houston. Milwaukee held the Rockets to only 19 points in the second quarter and 17 in the third to take a 91-68 lead after three quarters. Jack Marin led Houston with 19.

Jim McMillian's 26 points and Wilt Chamberlain's shot-blocking carried the Lakers over Cleveland. Chamberlain had only four points but blocked six shots in the first 15 minutes and forced the Cavaliers to an outside shooting game. Cleveland could hit only 27 of its first 77 shots.

Jim King, who entered the game with three minutes left in overtime, stole the ball and scored his only two points of the game to give the Bulls a triumph over Phoenix. King stole the ball from Clem Haskins and drove for a layup with 14 seconds left. Dick Van Arsdale's last second shot for Phoenix fell short.

Bob Love had 25 points and Chet Walker 24 for the Bulls while Neal Walk led Phoenix with 30.

Bob Lanier scored 31 points as the Pistons downed the Trail Blazers. Detroit trailed by three points at the half but Lanier and Dave Bing, who finished with 21 points, helped pull the Pistons ahead. Geoff Petrie and Lloyd Neal had 24 points each for Portland.

Dave Cowens scored eight of his 23 points in the third period to help the Celtics pull away from Buffalo. Paul Silas had 26 points for Boston, which just about wrapped up the Eastern Division title.

Drake Sets Basketball Ticket Sale

Tickets for the basketball Tournament of Champions Thursday through Saturday at the Oakland Coliseum Arena will go on sale to the general public tomorrow and Wednesday from 5-7 p.m. at Drake High School in San Anselmo, dean of student activities Tom McEntee announced today.

All seats are reserved, and cost $3.50 for adults and $1 per children under 12 for each game. They will be available at the ticket booth in the boys' gymnasium.

Marin County Athletic League champion Drake will meet Castlemont High of Oakland Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the tournament's opening round. Drake was alloted 1,018 tickets for that game, more than 350 of which have already been sold to students. Student ticket sales began last Monday.

The school was allotted 883 tickets each for Friday and Saturday, of which about 250 for each day already have been sold to students. The Pirates will play on all three days unless they lose the first two games.

Olympic Champ To Box On March 31

SEATTLE (UPI) — Junior welterweight Sugar Ray Seales, the lone U.S. boxing gold medal winner at the 1972 Olympic games in Munich, will make his fourth pro start here on March 15 against an as yet unnamed opponent.

Seales also will fight at Anchorage, Alaska, on March 31. He is unbeaten as a pro.

2 Pitchers Sign Baseball Pacts

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Dave McNally, struggling off one of his worst major league seasons, and Don Sutton, coming off one of his best, reduced the number of baseball's unsigned high-priced pitchers by two Sunday as both agreed to 1973 terms after brief holdouts.

McNally, long the ace of the Baltimore Orioles rich mound staff, took an estimated $7,000 salary cut to $98,000 after posting a disappointing 13-17 record last year. McNally had won 20 or more games in each of his previous four campaigns before running into arm trouble in '72.

Sutton, who emerged as the ace of the Dodgers staff with 19 victories last year, received a hefty increase to $87,500 and will join the team Tuesday. Sutton's 19-win season was his best ever and the Dodgers are hoping that he can combine with newly-acquired Andy Messersmith to give the club the best 1-2 punch of righthanded pitching in the National League this season.

While Sutton and McNally were ending holdouts, quite a few other big name hurlers are still at large. Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has been unable to corral two of his starting pitchers—Vida Blue and Ken Holtzman. Holtzman is believed to be about $3,500 apart with Finley, while Blue is not even reachable.

Blue, who hurt his chances for a good season last year when he held out all through spring training, is still attracting offers from other clubs despite a subpar 6-10 '72 log. Milwaukee Brewer general manager Jim Wilson is reportedly dangling first baseman George Scott, who played for A's manager Dick Williams at Boston, as trade bait for Blue. The A's, it may be remembered, traded last year's first baseman, Mike Epstein to the Texas Rangers during the off-season for reliever Horatio Pina.

The Yankees, meanwhile, while admittedly getting close to signing slugging outfielder Bobby Murcer, have three of their front line pitchers still out of the fold. Holding out are starters Fritz Peterson and Steve Kline and ace reliever Sparky Lyle. The Yankees did, however, announce that newlyacquired Matty Alou's delayed arrival was because of visa difficulties in his native Dominican Republic.

Another celebrated holdout (though not a pitcher), Rusty Staub, appeared to be getting closer in his negotiations with the New York Mets. Staub is expected to come to terms with general manager Bob Scheffing Monday for approximately $330,000 over three years.

Not as close as Staub and Murcer were Pete Rose and the Reds, Dusty Baker and the Atlanta Braves, Alex Johnson and the Cleveland Indians and relief pitching ace Mike Marshall and the Montreal Expos.

Rocket Blows Up For Denver

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Fortunately for Al Smith the Denver Rockets had a little something in reserve Sunday night.

Smith, a 6-foot-1 guard for Denver, came very close to costing the Rockets a victory in the final 22 seconds of play Sunday night, but his teammates bailed him out in overtime and downed the Utah Stars 133-125 in an American Basketball Association game.

Smith, who had 24 points, could have given Denver the victory in regulation time, but after hitting his first nine free throws, he missed three of four charity tosses in the final 22 seconds.

Then, to make matters worse, he got into a fight with Utah's Cincy Powell with only nine seconds to play and the Rockets leading by just one point. The referees ruled that Smith started the fight and ejected him from the game, resulting in an automatic technical foul which Ron Boone made to send the game into overtime tied at 117-117.

Warren Jabali and Willie Long pulled things out for the Rockets in overtime, however, as both scored five points. Denver's John Q. Trapp made the first two goals of the overtime session and the Rockets never were challenged after that. Ralph Simpson ended up as the high scorer for Denver with 30 points while Bob Warren had 27 for Utah.

In other games, Kentucky routed Memphis 121-91, Indiana edged Dallas 121-118, Carolina topped New York 123-111 and San Diego defeated Virginia 115-110.

Artis Gilmore and Mike Issel combined for 48 points and 28 rebounds for Kentucky, which handed Memphis its fifth straight loss. Gilmore had 22 points and 16 rebounds and also handed out nine assists.

George McGinnis tallied 36 points, including a pair of free throws with 40 seconds left, to spark Indiana's triumph over Dallas. McGinnis got scoring help from Freddie Lewis with 24 points, Donnie Freeman with 23 and Darnell Hillman with 20.

Billy Cunningham's 26 points led Carolina over New York and Stew Johnson's 27 points paced San Diego over Virginia.

IN NBA PLAY

Hawks, Bullets Rolling Along

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Atlanta Hawks must feel as if they're treading water.

For the third straight game, the Hawks had their best quarter and highest point total of the year Sunday in a 138-130 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers. But it failed to gain them any ground in the National Basketball Association's Central Division race as the Baltimore Bullets beat the New York Knicks 106-97.

The Hawks remained five games behind the Bullets in the battle for first in the division.

Pete Maravich scored 38 points, including 20 during a devastating 49-point burst in the third quarter, to lead the Hawks and Lou Hudson hit 36. Fred Carter had 29 to lead the 76ers, who suffered their 62nd loss in 71 games.

Guards Archie Clark and Phil Chenier combined for 45 points to lead the Bullets over the Knicks, New York's third straight loss. Clark had 24 points and Chenier hit 21, including the go-ahead basket with three minutes to play. Walt Frazier led the Knicks with 26 and Dave DeBusschere had 12 points for New York in the first quarter before being lost for the game with a hip injury.

In other NBA games, Milwaukee ripped Houston 116-101, Los Angeles destroyed Cleveland 127-84, Chicago edged Phoenix 118-117 in overtime, Detroit downed Portland 113-109 and Boston defeated Buffalo 125-113.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 29 points and Lucius Allen hit 20 as the Bucks beat Houston. Milwaukee held the Rockets to only 19 points in the second quarter and 17 in the third to take a 91-68 lead after three quarters. Jack Marin led Houston with 19.

Jim McMillian's 26 points and Wilt Chamberlain's shot-blocking carried the Lakers over Cleveland. Chamberlain had only four points but blocked six shots in the first 15 minutes and forced the Cavaliers to an outside shooting game. Cleveland could hit only 27 of its first 77 shots.

Jim King, who entered the game with three minutes left in overtime, stole the ball and scored his only two points of the game to give the Bulls a triumph over Phoenix. King stole the ball from Clem Haskins and drove for a layup with 14 seconds left. Dick Van Arsdale's last second shot for Phoenix fell short.

Bob Love had 25 points and Chet Walker 24 for the Bulls while Neal Walk led Phoenix with 30.

Bob Lanier scored 31 points as the Pistons downed the Trail Blazers. Detroit trailed by three points at the half but Lanier and Dave Bing, who finished with 21 points, helped pull the Pistons ahead. Geoff Petrie and Lloyd Neal had 24 points each for Portland.

Dave Cowens scored eight of his 23 points in the third period to help the Celtics pull away from Buffalo. Paul Silas had 26 points for Boston, which just about wrapped up the Eastern Division title.

Winnipeg Improves 2 Winning Strings

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Winnipeg Jets improved a couple of winning streaks Sunday night and at the same time pushed themselves just a little closer to clinching the West Division title of the World Hockey Association.

By edging Los Angeles 2-1, the Jets stretched their consecutive game winning skein to 10 and ran up their eighth consecutive success over the Sharks. With second-place Houston dropping a 6-3 decision to the Quebec Nordiques, Winnipeg was able to increase its lead over the Aeros to an imposing 13 points.

Chris Bordeleau scored his 41st goal with the game only 17 seconds old to send the Jets off to a 1-0 lead on their home ice and Larry Hornung added what proved to be the decisive goal during a power play at 11:44 of the second period.

The Minnesota Fighting Saints took over sole possession of third place in the West, two points ahead of Los Angeles, by beating the New England Whalers 4-2. The Whalers thus lost a chance to cut their four-point deficit behind idle Cleveland in the duel for first place in the East Division.

The battle for the final two playoff berths in the East remained tight with only two points separating four clubs. The Philadelphia Blazers jumped into third place by beating the New York Raiders 4-2 and Quebec moved into a tie with New York, one point behind the Blazers, with its victory over Houston. The Ottawa Nationals beat the Chicago Cougars 6-4 and although in last place, they are only two points behind Philadelphia.

Jim Johnson and Wayne Connelly scored goals 14 seconds apart early in the final period to break open a tight game and give Minnesota a 3-0 lead over New England. Mike Byers and Brad Selwood made it close again with goals for the Whalers, but Bob MacMillan then provided the clincher with just under seven minutes left to play.

A power play goal by Bryan Campbell at 2:48 of the first period snapped a 1-1 tie at New York and Philadelphia wrapped it up with two more goals by Don Burgess and John McKenzie.

Alain Caron scored two goals to pace Quebec to its victory at Houston and Wayne Carleton had two goals to help Ottawa stretch its winning streak to four games with the triumph over Chicago.

Sonoma State Cagers In Playoffs Tomorrow Night

By PAUL DWORIN

RIVERSIDE — Sonoma State College, winners of its first Far Western Conference basketball title, will be playing University of California, Riverside at Riverside Junior College tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the preliminary round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association college division Western Regionals.

Saturday night the Cossacks completed regular season play with a last second, 77-76, nonconference victory over Stanislaus State in Rohnert Park to finish with an 18-8 overall mark. Chico State, one of the pre-season favorites, wound up at 9-3 and 18-8, after defeating San Francisco State 100-90 Saturday night.

In the other season ending games, U.C. Davis, another favorite before the year began, finished third with an 8-4 record after whipping Hayward State 83-59 and Sacramento State beat Humboldt State 80-72 to finish with a 6-6 league record.

If Sonoma gets past the Highlanders from Riverside, it will earn the right to meet the University of Puget Sound Friday night in Bakersfield.

Puget Sound, 18-9 for the year, got a bye tomorrow as did Bakersfield State College and University of California, San Diego. The winner of the Bakersfield Tournament will advance to the national finals in Evansville, Indiana March 14-16.

Although the Cossacks will not be playing the awesome Bruins from University of California at Los Angeles, they will be playing a team similar in style, as the Highlanders are coached by former UCLA star Fred Goss.

"They are a pressing team, like UCLA," Sonoma coach Bill Trumbo commented. "They use the press to cap most of their activities on offense and defense. They also have great overall quickness, which forces a lot of turnovers."

One of the quickest of the Highlanders is 6-foot-3 guard Bobby Walters, who is the team's leading scorer. The other Riverside starters are 6-4 freshman guard Reggie Mims, 6-5 center Lee McDougall, 6-5 forward Keith Batiste and 6-4 forward Al Erby. The sixth man is 5-10 guard John Griffin, who was the Mission Valley Conference Player of the Year the year before Sonoma's Bill Belander hit a 25-footer with eight seconds left to beat Stanislaus. The victory raised Sonoma's home record to 11-0 for the year.

Down 41-31 at halftime, the Cossacks caught the Warriors at 69-69 with three minutes to play. Ray Scott hit a basket and then a three-point play to put Stanislaus ahead, 74-70, with 1:42 left in the game, but Steve Tiedeman matched Scott's output to put Sonoma on top 75-74.

After Tersell Estes put in an unmolested lay-up with 20 seconds left to regain the lead for the Warriors, Belander iced the victory for Sonoma with his jumper.

Tiedeman hit 16 of 27 shots from the field and scored a team record 36 points.

Stanislaus	41	35—76
Sonoma	31	46—77

Stanislaus — Estes 6-2-14, Larson 3-1-7, Matthews 6-2-14, Crossen 8-2-18, Scott 11-1-23. Totals: 34-8-76.

Sonoma — Bristol 2-0-4, Martinson 2-0-4, Fitchie 2-0-4, Tiedeman 16-4-36, Belander 6-0-12, Schandelmier 1-1-3, Johnson 2-0-4, O'Connar 0-2-2, Holmes 4-0-8. Totals: 35-7-77.

Golfing Business In Full Blossom

Three Marin County golfers turned an idea into a business and now have one of Northern California's most experienced amateur golfers running the shop.

The golfers with the idea that is paying off are Chet Patterson, Dr. Doug Ramsey and Dr. Marv Gilberg. It's a golf booking business, Pacific Recreation Consultants, Inc., and handles anywhere from two to more than 200 golfers, setting up anything from a single round of golf to a three-day tournament. You can be booked to play anywhere, from California, Nevada and Arizona, to Hawaii or the Caribbean.

PACIFIC RECREATION Consultants grew during its first year to the point that bookings numbered more than 5,000. That's when Paul Spengler Jr., 33-year-old golfer who rose from a Drake High School and Meadow Club start to become one of the better amateurs in the game, came along. He is now manager and principal stockholder in the business, headquartered in San Francisco.

"Last year we only had one complaint from a golfer sent to Reno on a special package," said Patterson. "He and his partner were tied for third place on the first day. That night he tried to drink all the drinks allowed on his package. He not only landed in trouble with his wife, his hangover dropped him from third to last in the tournament."

SPENGLER HAS PLAYED nearly every tournament or course on the west coast, and lived a few years in Hawaii before moving back to the Bay Area. He seems like the logical choice to run a business such as this since he knows the courses first hand.

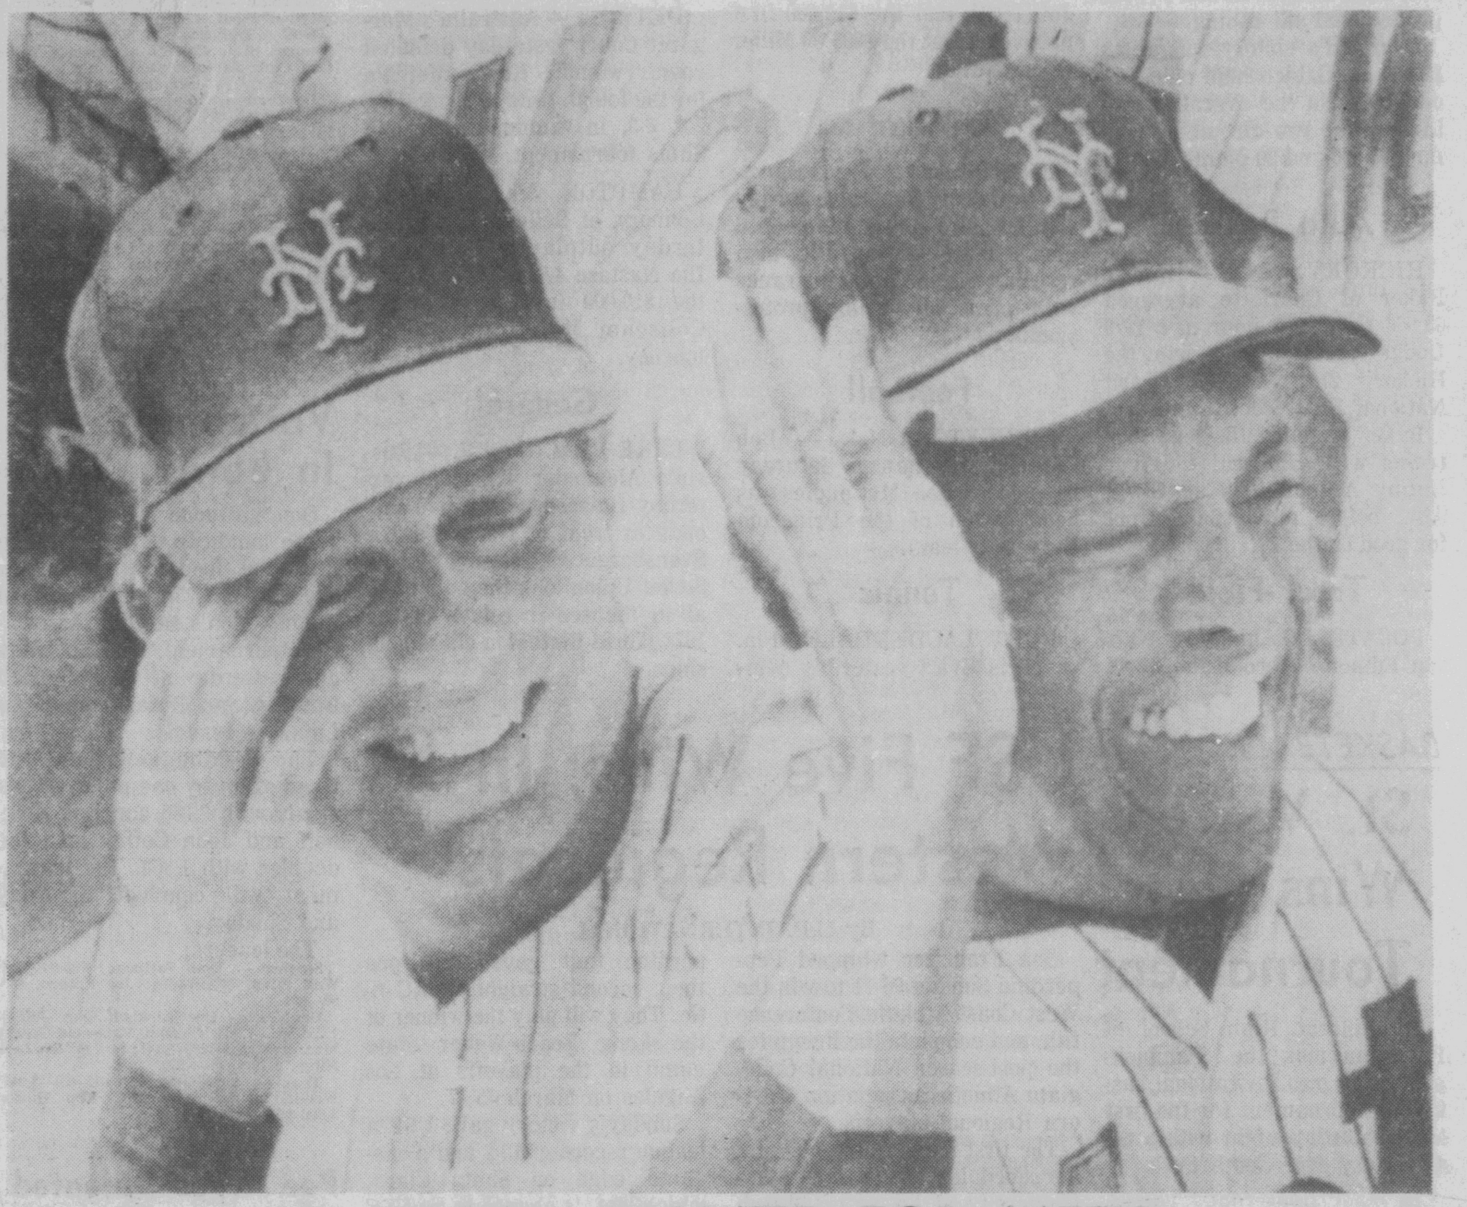
He realizes many companies have golf groups with tournament arrangements assigned a different person each year. His way cuts out all the bother.

A regular golfing partner of 49er quarterback John Brodie, Spengler wound up in the finals of the Sharron Heights Club championship this year. Since Brodie was being kept busy on Sundays, they were scheduled to play for the club title on Monday, Oct. 16, but the day before Brodie suffered that ankle injury which put him on the shelf.

Paul, being the gentleman that he is, offered to postpone the match until Brodie was physically back to par. When Brodie recovered the match was held and John beat Paul, causing Spengler to sing the 49er theme, "Wait 'til next year!"

SPENGLER, A ROSS resident during his Marin County golfing days, won the Hawaii state amateur golf title while he was a business man of the islands. A graduate of Arizona State University, he has been a regular in the Bing Crosby Pro-Am lineup the past few years.

Patterson, Ramsey and Gilbert got the idea of this golf consulting thing a few years ago when a local radio sportscaster received a number of calls following a radio program from golfers who wanted help in getting starting times for groups of players. The light bulb turned on and now a business has been formed. It should prove most successful.



A HAPPY RESPITE FOR METS

Terra Linda Swimmers In Meet Victory

Redwood High School won the glamor event but Terra Linda won the meet Saturday as the Marin County Athletic League swimming relays were held at Redwood.

The Giants' long freestyle team, extended by a furious challenge from San Marin, clipped more than eight seconds off the previous meet record by swimming the 750 yards in 7:08.8.

The event consisted of the 400, 200, 100 and 50-yard freestyles, and was swum by Spencer Eldred, Warren Lager, Troy Dunham and John Redig. San Marin, led by 400 swimmer Art Morrill, was second at 7:15.7 and also eclipsed the old mark of 7:17.1.

Terra Linda and San Rafael each won three of the 10 relay events and Redwood won two, but the Trojans compiled more second and third place finishes. "It was not the big stars, but just the regular boys on the team who did it for us," said coach Bob Pollitt.

The results:

Robin Triumphs

Robin Backhaus of San Rafael won the 200-meter butterfly event at a swimming invitational meet yesterday in Bremen, Germany, with a time of 2:4.87. Backhaus, a senior at San Rafael High School, won a bronze medal in that event at the Munich Olympics.

LOSK IS ELIMINATED IN WRESTLING MEET

Ron Losk of Terra Linda High School won his first match Saturday, then lost his second and was eliminated from the consolation bracket in the 194-pound class in the state wrestling tournament at Hayward State University.

Losk's performance placed him in the top eight wrestlers in California at his weight, but not among the top six, to whom awards were given.

Saturday morning, Losk overpowered Joines of Overflet High in San Jose, building up a 12-4 lead and pinning his foe in the second round. Later, he was defeated in overtime by Mahan of Anderson Union High, who scored a reversal and near fall in the extra period for a 7-2 victory.

Losk Friday won his first match and lost his second. His teammate, heavyweight Jon Loberg, lost his first match and was eliminated.

Seals Host Buffalo Wednesday

OAKLAND (UPI) — California's Golden Seals lost their 40th game Sunday night, largely because of the work of John Stewart of the Atlanta Flames.

Stewart set up the first goal in Flames' 3-2 victory and scored the winner at 14:59 of the second period of the contest at Atlanta.

As the Flames snapped a seven-game losing streak, Stewart uncorked a hard shot from the blue line that bounced off Seals goaltender Gilles Meloche and was knocked into the net by Atlanta's Larry Romanchych.

The other Atlanta score was by Curt Bennett, who tipped in a pass from Bill MacMillan.

California's scores were by Hilliard Graves, who pounded the puck under goalie Phil

IN CITRUS OPEN

Golfer Allin Isn't Surprised By Win

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Brian Allin probably gave a group of ex-POWs attending their first pro golf tournament a distorted picture of how the game is usually played.

Allin, a Vietnam veteran himself, climaxed a fantastic week of golf in Sunday's final round of the Florida Citrus Open—winding up with a 23-under-par 265 for the lowest score of the past two years, and winning by a runaway eight strokes.

About the only persons not surprised to see the 28-year-old Californian win the $150,000 Citrus was Allin himself.

"I felt all week this was going to be my tournament," said Allin after accepting the $30,000 winner's check. "I had a hunch coming up here and I told my caddy, 'I think it is my week to win.'"

That it was. Allin, who won the 1971 Greater Greensboro Open as a tour rookie but had finished no higher than last year's second at Milwaukee since, put together rounds of 66-65-67-67 — and simply ran away from the field.

His Sunday playing partner, Gibby Gilbert, had insisted before the final round that Allin, then four strokes ahead of the field, could be caught, "because no one shoots four rounds like that in a row."

But when Allin widened that lead to seven strokes even before he reached the Sunday turn, Gilbert told him, "I'm not trying to beat you anymore."

Allin's closest pursuer, and that term is used lightly, was former Masters champion Charles Coody who had a 66 Sunday to move up to second place at 15-under-par 273.

Kermit Zarley, who said, "I was really running out there," had a final 64 to finish in a four-way tie for third at 274 with Homero Blancas, Grier Jones and Chi Chi Rodriguez, who was second at the start of the final round but played even par golf in a tournament where sub par rounds were a dime a dozen.

The previous low score on the tour the past two years was the 267 shot in the Disney World, played a few miles from the site of the Citrus, by Jack Nicklaus who did not play here this past week. Nicklaus also had the previous under-par high, 21, for the two-year period.

Allin, who won more than $100,000 in his first two years on the tour, is now sixth on this year's money list with more than $45,000 — barely $2,000 less than he won all last year.

Gilbert, five strokes back at the start of the round, never made a run at Allin, shooting 72-275.

Warriors' Rookie Center Stands Out

OAKLAND (UPI) — The outcome wasn't pleasing but the Golden State Warriors may have gained something in their last game—a competent substitute for Nate Thurmond. Rookie center George Johnson, inserted Saturday when Thurmond was bounced by referee Bob Rakel late in the third quarter, helped with a rally that just failed to beat the Chicago Bulls.

Johnson, who is 6-foot-11, hit on all three of his floor shots, grabbed five rebounds and looked good on defense.

And he did it while suffering from a sinus infection.

When he took the floor the Warriors were trailing by 12 points in the game they lost to the Bulls 117-116 on two free throws by Chet Walker with 26 seconds remaining.

Johnson graduated from Dillard College in New Orleans in 1970, had an unsuccessful tryout with the Bulls and spent last season with the Martinez Muirs in the semi-pro Western Basketball Association.

Thurmond says that all Johnson needs "is hard work and experience." As a sub, Johnson had been averaging one minute of play in 42 previous appearances. Johnson remarked that "I've always had the ability to attack shots well but now I have to worry about offense. I'm going to do a lot of shooting this summer."

Despite the loss, the Warriors could take heart because Rick Barry snapped a three-game slump, hit 10-of-22 floor shots and ended with 33 points.

In the game's closing moments, the Warriors took a 115-114 lead, saw the score tied on a free throw by Jerry Sloan and then had Clyde Lee regain the lead for them with another free throw.

But then Lee fouled Walker, who won the game.

Detroit, which has a 31-37 record, plays the Warriors Tuesday in Oakland. The Warriors are now 41-28.

REBERGER SHARP

Gallagher Stars In Giants' Game

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — Alan Gallagher is a young man in a hurry.

The San Francisco Giants' regular third baseman two seasons back, Gallagher now is in a five-man fight to regain his job. With that many players battling for one position, Gallagher doesn't figure to get many opportunities.

Sunday he got his first in the Giants' initial intra-squad game of the season, and Gallagher made the most of it with a tworun triple and a single.

At 27, Gallagher figures he has to make his move as a big league player this year or start thinking about another career. That's why he wants the Giants to trade him away if he doesn't win the third base job back.

"I still feel I'm the best player on this team for that job," Gallagher said. "If they don't think I can do it then they should trade me to a club that can use my services. I can't afford to sit on the bench another year as I did in 1972."

There were several other notable performers in Sunday's squad game, won by the Joe Amalfitanos 5-2.

Ace 1972 pinch-hitter Jimmy Howarth slammed three singles, All-Star shortstop Chris Speier figured in five double plays and Frank Reberger of Mill Valley and Jim Barr each pitched two shutout innings.

Meanwhile, there was no break in the holdout department with catcher Fran Healy, pitcher Jerry Johnson and second baseman Tito Fuentes still unsigned.

Jerry Donovan, owner Horace Stoneham's chief aide and the man in charge of signing players, said he thinks Healy, who attends American International College in Massachusetts during the off-season, may have decided to quit the game.

Three Holdouts Wooed By Finley

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Owner Charlie Finley spent weekend with his World Champion Oakland A's but got absolutely nowhere in attempts to sign his last three holdout players—pitchers Vida Blue and Ken Holtzman and catcher Dave Duncan.

Finley huddled with Holtzman, who is here working out with the club, Sunday and reportedly is only $3,500 away from reaching agreement with the 19-game winner of a year ago.

In Duncan's case, Finley probably is $10,000 apart while with Blue, no one knows what the situation is or where Finley stands, except that he is unable to reach Vida.

While Finley watched from the bench Sunday and hoped for the best, Manager Dick Williams hustled the troops through a three-hour drill featured by the line-driving hitting of Joe Rudi, the outfielder who led the A's in batting last year with a .305 average.

Rudi, spare outfielder Angel Mangual and star pinch-hitter Gonzalo Marquez joined the club Sunday for the first time and took part in the long session on a warm day.

Three other players besides Duncan and Blue are not on the scene. They are pitchers Gilberto Marcano and Horacio Pina and infielder Manny Trillo.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Sick Pay Is Sometimes Taxed, Partially Taxed, Or Tax Free

Sick pay is sometimes taxed, sometimes partially taxed and sometimes tax free. Here are the rules:

The amount you received because of accident or sickness, if received from an insurance company where you paid the premiums either directly or through payroll deductions is not taxed.

The amount you received because of accident or sickness where your employer paid the premiums to the insurance company, or where your employer himself paid your wages while you were off sick is taxed as follows:

No sick pay exclusion is allowed for wages received for the first 30 days of absence if the wages are over 75 per cent of the regular weekly rate. Sick pay received after the 30-day waiting period is over is excluded, but not more than $100 per week.

If your sick pay is 75 per cent or less of your regular weekly pay and if you are in the hospital at least one day while you are off, you can exclude the payments for the first 30 days up to $75 per week. But, if you are not in the hospital at least overnight, there is no exclusion for the first seven days and the $75 maximum will apply to the balance of the first 30 days you are off.

If you can use the sick pay exclusion, you should get a Form 2400 from your local Internal Revenue Service office and attach it to your tax return. This form will help you compute accurately the amount of sick pay you can exclude.

Early Market Gain Loses Its Momentum

NEW YORK (UPI) — An early gain started to lose strength toward midsession today on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderate.

Analysts attributed the early advance to investor optimism the internationl monetary situation eventually would be resolved. They seemed pleased members of the European economic community did not jointly float their currencies over the weekend as had been rumored.

Analysts said lack of volume helped undercut the firmness of the gain.

Mattel led the actives with a gain of ⅜ to 7 on 91,300 shares.

Prices were lower in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange. Champion Home Builders led the actives, unchanged at 8-⅝ on 42,000 shares.

Big Board glamors were mostly lower as Xerox and Corning Glass each lost 1.

Better Business Bureau Begins New Customer Complaint System

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Better Business Bureau of San Francisco has launched a system of voluntary arbitration to handle customers' complaints against businessmen.

In charge of the program is Alan Waisanen, a staff member of the Better Business Bureau at 414 Mason Street.

"Consumer arbitration would be used only when all informal efforts to resolve disputes have failed," said Waisanen. "And it is strictly voluntary." He said no one can be forced to acceptarbitration, but once he agrees to arbitration, he is bound by the decision. In California, the courts will enforce an arbitration award without rehearing the case.

Waisanen said the consumer arbitration program works like this:

1. The customer takes his complaint to the businessman involved. Only if this fails does he go to the Better Business Bureau.

2. The BBB tries to resolve the case informally. If this fails, arbitration is offered.

3. The parties sign a binding agreement to arbitrate agreed issues in the dispute and submit it to BBB arbitration.

4. Depending on the nature of the dispute, the parties will take one of three steps: (1) Take the case before a panel of respected citizens, (2) select a single arbitrator from the pool of volunteers, or (3) each select a person of his choice and the two so chosen pick a third arbitrator from the pool to serve as panel chairman.

5. If appropriate, an inspection of the product, repair job or construction site is conducted with the BBB furnishing technical expertise as needed.

6. Both parties may be represented, have witnesses and give evidence in informal proceedings before an arbitrator.

7. The decision may resolve all issues in favor of one party, or it may be split between the parties. California courts will enforce an award without rehearing the case.

The BBB already has a pool of about 50 arbitrators, all volunteers who serve without pay. Waisanen said more volunteers are needed for the pool of arbitrators, and anyone interested should contact him at the Better Business Bureau.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

A Possible Kicker At Phelps Dodge

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought 100 shares of Phelps Dodge (NYSE) last year at $36. Should I hold — my goal is income and gradual growth? — P.C.

A. The recent jump in copper prices has upgraded the outlook for Phelps Dodge Earnings for the year just ended were up a satisfactory 11 per cent and a similar gain is a strong possibility this year. Factors which are expected to contribute to a second annual increase in profits are: another one cent to two cent rise in copper price, reduced losses from partly owned Conalco and larger contributions from fabricating operations. The company, which is the lowest cost domestic copper producer, is also the second largest, accounting for about 20 per cent of U.S. production.

A development which could be significant to the company is a discovery on property in South Africa. Wholly owned Black Mountain Mineral Development Co. in preliminary drilling has delineated a mineralized zone 3,000 feet long and 130 feet thick averaging 0.8 per cent copper and 1.5 per cent lead with traces of zinc and silver. While reserves have not yet been proved, up to 70 million tons of ore could be involved. At current prices this would work out to $58 per share in reserves. Regardless of the outcome of this property, shares are worth holding for their generous income and long-term appreciation potential.

Q. You recently discussed the Fund for U.S. Government Securities. I understand that assets are invested in Treasury, Agency and other government instruments. In this case I believe that interest which accrues to fund holders must not be subject to state tax. How can I get a brochure on this fund? — S.J.

A. Although government obligations which are owned directly are not subject to state, city or municipal income tax, income from this fund may be. Since rulings vary from state to state, you should consult your tax adviser or state tax division to get specific information for your domicile. A prospectus may be secured by writing the fund at 421 Seventh Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, 15219.

Tiburon Vintners Negotiates Loan

Tiburon Vintners Inc., producer of premium wines, negotiated a 10-year $4.5 million loan from Bank of America.

Peter S. Friedman, president of Tiburon Vintners, said proceeds from the loan will be used for vineyard development in Sonoma and Mendocino Counties.

Republic Van & Storage To Open Northgate Industrial Park Branch

Republic Van & Storage Co., with its regional office in San Francisco, will open its first Marin County branch at Northgate Industrial Park in San Rafael about April 1.

The company leased 400 square feet of office space at 58 Paul Drive, No. 7, at Northgate through the William Hoey Company.

Frank McMullen, assistant to the president of the firm, announced that Richard L. Daniels of Foster City will manage the Marin office. Daniels plans to move to Marin when he takes over the San Rafael office in April.

Republic Van & Storage, with headquarters in Baltimore, Md., operates worldwide.

ROBERT G. WILHELM of Kentfield, president of the Emporium-Capwell Co., San Francisco, was elected to the board of directors of Di Giorgio Corp. in San Francisco.

Di Giorgio Corporation is a diversified company that produces and markets packaged foods, meat products and shelter products such as building materials, and develops recreational and residential communities.

Mercer

JOHN MERCER of Sausalito has been elected president of the San Francisco Society of Communicating Arts, a group of artists, art directors, designers and writers in the Bay Area.

Mercer is vice president and creative director of Meltzer, Aron & Lemen, Inc., advertising firm in San Francisco.

OPTITEC INC., a subsidiary of Optical Sciences Group Inc. of San Rafael, has just been formed to develop a family of automated health screening devices for doctors and medical institutions.

The new corporation is headquartered at 24 Tiburon Street in San Rafael, the same address as Optical Sciences Group.

Roy Marks of San Francisco, president of the corporation, said the goal of the new firm is to design automated equipment that can quickly pinpoint health problem areas and speed the diagnoses and treatment of illnesses.

Other directors of the corporation include Dr. Arthur Jampolsky of Belvedere, founder of Optical Sciences Group, and Dr. John Thorson of Hillsborough, who is the new corporation's board chairman.

STITCHBIRDS, the needlepoint shop at 21 Poplar Avenue in Ross, moved during the weekend to larger quarters a few doors away.

The expanded Stichbirds shop is now at 7 Poplar Avenue in a building formerly occupied by a bath and shutter store, which closed at the end of January.

The Stitchbirds, specializing in needlepoint supplies, was established in May of last year by Janet McLenegan and Betsy Shuey of Kentfield.

FLOYD BRADLEY & Associates of 707½ Bradley Avenue in Novato, which deals in sprinkling and irrigating supplies, changed hands on March 1 but continues to operate under the same name.

Bradley and his wife Louise had been operating the firm for 19 years until his death last July. Mrs. Bradley sold the business last week to Max R. Banner of Fremont but continues to work for the new owner.

GEORGE DEXTER, owner of Dexter Toyota in San Rafael, won the Toyota National Customer Relations Service Award for the second consecutive year.

Only 71 out of 930 Toyota dealers in the United States received the award. To qualify for the award, the dealership must rank in the upper 10 per cent of their distributor area in after-sale service, dealer-customer relations, and participation in the Toyota service training program.

MACY'S in San Rafael is now open for business three nights a week (Wednesday, Thursday and Friday) until 9 p.m. In the past, it was open only two nights, Wednesday and Friday.

MARY LOU POOLE, a salesman with Kay Noah and Associates, Tiburon Realtor, sold more than a million dollars worth of property in 1972.

FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS and Loan Association gave away four free bicycles in a contest celebrating the opening of its new Fairfax office at 1 Bolinas Road.

Richard Leonard and Mark Spears, both of Fairfax, won 10-speed bikes, and Robert Palmer of San Rafael and C. K. Maule of Lagunitas won five-speed bicycles.

JACK G. NIXON and FRANK A. TALLARIDA of San Rafael, associates of the Robert Maney agency of State Mutual of America, San Francisco, won awards for outstanding performance in 1972.

Nixon qualified for the company's Circle of Honor with total sales over $1 million last year. Tallarida qualified for the Honor Guard for outstanding sales.

MIDWAY DRIVE-IN Theater, located halfway between Novato and Petaluma on Highway 101, is now under new management.

Theatre Management Incorporated of San Francisco leased the theater to George Vogan and Raphael Fleck, both of Santa Rosa. Vogan, associated with Theatre Management Inc. since 1967, managed the Midway Drive-In when it first opened in December of 1967.

Fleck, who managed the Country Club Bowl in San Rafael at one time, is now a Santa Rosa police officer. He will be active in the daily operation of the theater.

Vogan said the Midway Drive-In will continue the present policy of playing first-run pictures and family nights of $2 per car on Mondays and Thursdays.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Sick Pay Is Sometimes Taxed, Partially Taxed, Or Tax Free

Sick pay is sometimes taxed, sometimes partially taxed and sometimes tax free. Here are the rules:

The amount you received because of accident or sickness, if received from an insurance company where you paid the premiums either directly or through payroll deductions is not taxed.

The amount you received because of accident or sickness where your employer paid the premiums to the insurance company, or where your employer himself paid your wages while you were off sick is taxed as follows:

No sick pay exclusion is allowed for wages received for the first 30 days of absence if the wages are over 75 per cent of the regular weekly rate. Sick pay received after the 30-day waiting period is over is excluded, but not more than $100 per week.

If your sick pay is 75 per cent or less of your regular weekly pay and if you are in the hospital at least one day while you are off, you can exclude the payments for the first 30 days up to $75 per week. But, if you are not in the hospital at least overnight, there is no exclusion for the first seven days and the $75 maximum will apply to the balance of the first 30 days you are off.

If you can use the sick pay exclusion, you should get a Form 2400 from your local Internal Revenue Service office and attach it to your tax return. This form will help you compute accurately the amount of sick pay you can exclude.

Early Market Gain Loses Its Momentum

NEW YORK (UPI) — An early gain started to lose strength toward midsession today on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderate.

Analysts attributed the early advance to investor optimism the internationl monetary situation eventually would be resolved. They seemed pleased members of the European economic community did not jointly float their currencies over the weekend as had been rumored.

Analysts said lack of volume helped undercut the firmness of the gain.

Mattel led the actives with a gain of ⅜ to 7 on 91,300 shares.

Prices were lower in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange. Champion Home Builders led the actives, unchanged at 8-⅝ on 42,000 shares.

Big Board glamors were mostly lower as Xerox and Corning Glass each lost 1.

Better Business Bureau Begins New Customer Complaint System

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Better Business Bureau of San Francisco has launched a system of voluntary arbitration to handle customers' complaints against businessmen.

In charge of the program is Alan Waisanen, a staff member of the Better Business Bureau at 414 Mason Street.

"Consumer arbitration would be used only when all informal efforts to resolve disputes have failed," said Waisanen. "And it is strictly voluntary." He said no one can be forced to accep-tarbitration, but once he agrees to arbitration, he is bound by the decision. In California, the courts will enforce an arbitration award without rehearing the case.

Waisanen said the consumer arbitration program works like this:

1. The customer takes his complaint to the businessman involved. Only if this fails does he go to the Better Business Bureau.

2. The BBB tries to resolve the case informally. If this fails, arbitration is offered.

3. The parties sign a binding agreement to arbitrate agreed issues in the dispute and submit it to BBB arbitration.

4. Depending on the nature of the dispute, the parties will take one of three steps: (1) Take the case before a panel of respected citizens, (2) select a single arbitrator from the pool of volunteers, or (3) each select a person of his choice and the two so chosen pick a third arbitrator from the pool to serve as panel chairman.

5. If appropriate, an inspection of the product, repair job or construction site is conducted with the BBB furnishing technical expertise as needed.

6. Both parties may be represented, have witnesses and give evidence in informal proceedings before an arbitrator.

7. The decision may resolve all issues in favor of one party, or it may be split between the parties. California courts will enforce an award without rehearing the case.

The BBB already has a pool of about 50 arbitrators, all volunteers who serve without pay. Waisanen said more volunteers are needed for the pool of arbitrators, and anyone interested should contact him at the Better Business Bureau.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

A Possible Kicker At Phelps Dodge

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought 100 shares of Phelps Dodge (NYSE) last year at $36. Should I hold — my goal is income and gradual growth? — P.C.

A. The recent jump in copper prices has upgraded the outlook for Phelps Dodge Earnings for the year just ended were up a satisfactory 11 per cent and a similar gain is a strong possibility this year. Factors which are expected to contribute to a second annual increase in profits are: another one cent to two cent rise in copper price, reduced losses from partly owned Conalco and larger contributions from fabricating operations. The company, which is the lowest cost domestic copper producer, is also the second largest, accounting for about 20 per cent of U.S. production.

A development which could be significant to the company is a discovery on property in South Africa. Wholly owned Black Mountain Mineral Development Co. in preliminary drilling has delineated a mineralized zone 3,000 feet long and 130 feet thick averaging 0.8 per cent copper and 1.5 per cent lead with traces of zinc and silver. While reserves have not yet been proved, up to 70 million tons of ore could be involved. At current prices this would work out to $58 per share in reserves. Regardless of the outcome of this property, shares are worth holding for their generous income and long-term appreciation potential.

Q. You recently discussed the Fund for U.S. Government Securities. I understand that assets are invested in Treasury, Agency and other government instruments. In this case I believe that interest which accrues to fund holders must not be subject to state tax. How can I get a brochure on this fund? — S.J.

A. Although government obligations which are owned directly are not subject to state, city or municipal income tax, income from this fund may be. Since rulings vary from state to state, you should consult your tax adviser or state tax division to get specific information for your domicile. A prospectus may be secured by writing the fund at 421 Seventh Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, 15219.

Republic Van & Storage To Open Northgate Industrial Park Branch

Republic Van & Storage Co., with its regional office in San Francisco, will open its first Marin County branch at Northgate Industrial Park in San Rafael about April 1.

The company leased 400 square feet of office space at 58 Paul Drive, No. 7, at Northgate through the William Hoey Company.

Frank McMullen, assistant to the president of the firm, announced that Richard L. Daniels of Foster City will manage the Marin office. Daniels plans to move to Marin when he takes over the San Rafael office in April.

Republic Van & Storage, with headquarters in Baltimore, Md., operates worldwide.

ROBERT G. WILHELM of Kentfield, president of the Emporium-Capwell Co., San Francisco, was elected to the board of directors of Di Giorgio Corp. in San Francisco.

Di Giorgio Corporation is a diversified company that produces and markets packaged foods, meat products and shelter products such as building materials, and develops recreational and residential communities.

Mercer

JOHN MERCER of Sausalito has been elected president of the San Francisco Society of Communicating Arts, a group of artists, art directors, designers and writers in the Bay Area.

Mercer is vice president and creative director of Meltzer, Aron & Lemen, Inc., advertising firm in San Francisco.

OPTITEC INC., a subsidiary of Optical Sciences Group Inc. of San Rafael, has just been formed to develop a family of automated health screening devices for doctors and medical institutions.

The new corporation is headquartered at 24 Tiburon Street in San Rafael, the same address as Optical Sciences Group.

Roy Marks of San Francisco, president of the corporation, said the goal of the new firm is to design automated equipment that can quickly pinpoint health problem areas and speed the diagnoses and treatment of illnesses.

Other directors of the corporation include Dr. Arthur Jampolsky of Belvedere, founder of Optical Sciences Group, and Dr. John Thorson of Hillsborough, who is the new corporation's board chairman.

STITCHBIRDS, the needlepoint shop at 21 Poplar Avenue in Ross, moved during the weekend to larger quarters a few doors away.

The expanded Stichbirds shop is now at 7 Poplar Avenue in a building formerly occupied by a bath and shutter store, which closed at the end of January.

The Stitchbirds, specializing in needlepoint supplies, was established in May of last year by Janet McLenegan and Betsy Shuey of Kentfield.

FLOYD BRADLEY & Associates of 707⅛ Bradley Avenue in Novato, which deals in sprinkling and irrigating supplies, changed hands on March 1 but continues to operate under the same name.

Bradley and his wife Louise had been operating the firm for 19 years until his death last July. Mrs. Bradley sold the business last week to Max R. Banner of Fremont but continues to work for the new owner.

GEORGE DEXTER, owner of Dexter Toyota in San Rafael, won the Toyota National Customer Relations Service Award for the second consecutive year.

Only 71 out of 930 Toyota dealers in the United States received the award. To qualify for the award, the dealership must rank in the upper 10 per cent of their distributor area in after-sale service, dealer-customer relations, and participation in the Toyota service training program.

MACY'S in San Rafael is now open for business three nights a week (Wednesday, Thursday and Friday) until 9 p.m. In the past, it was open only two nights, Wednesday and Friday.

MARY LOU POOLE, a salesman with Kay Noah and Associates, Tiburon Realtor, sold more than a million dollars worth of property in 1972.

FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS and Loan Association gave away four free bicycles in a contest celebrating the opening of its new Fairfax office at 1 Bolinas Road.

Richard Leonard and Mark Spears, both of Fairfax, won 10-speed bikes, and Robert Palmer of San Rafael and C. K. Maule of Lagunitas won five-speed bicycles.

JACK G. NIXON and FRANK A. TALLARIDA of San Rafael, associates of the Robert Maney agency of State Mutual of America, San Francisco, won awards for outstanding performance in 1972.

Nixon qualified for the company's Circle of Honor with total sales over $1 million last year. Tallarida qualified for the Honor Guard for outstanding sales.

MIDWAY DRIVE-IN Theater, located halfway between Novato and Petaluma on Highway 101, is now under new management.

Theatre Management Incorporated of San Francisco leased the theater to George Vogan and Raphael Fleck, both of Santa Rosa. Vogan, associated with Theatre Management Inc. since 1967, managed the Midway Drive-In when it first opened in December of 1967.

Fleck; who managed the Country Club Bowl in San Rafael at one time, is now a Santa Rosa police officer. He will be active in the daily operation of the theater.

Vogan said the Midway Drive-In will continue the present policy of playing first-run pictures and family nights of $2 per car on Mondays and Thursdays.

A Volks Record

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. (UPI) — In its biggest January since 1968, Volkswagen sold 43,261 new cars in that month this year, compared with 32,559 cars in January 1972, an increase of 32.8 per cent, the company reports. The January sales were 12.3 per cent higher than December 1972, when 38,539 new cars were sold.

Rigney Joins A's As A Broadcaster

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — Bill Rigney, a big league manager with the San Francisco Giants, California Angels and Minnesota Twins, will go to work this year as a broadcaster for the world champion Oakland A's.

A's owner Charley Finley announced during the weekend that he has hired Rigney to work with the broadcasting crew of Monte Moore and Jim Woods and serve also in special projects.

"He adds a helluva lot of class to our organization," Finley said.

SPORT SHORTS

Basketball

LOS ANGELES — Two UCLA players, Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes, made the National Collegiate Athletic Association District 8 All-Star team selected yesterday by National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Other members chosen were Ed Ratleff of Cal State Long Beach, Mike Stewart of Santa Clara and Louie Nelson of Washington.

The coaches named UCLA's John Wooden District 8 Coach of the Year.

Second team members: Kevin Restani, San Francisco; Jim McCargo, Pacific; Doug Little, Oregon; Bill Averitt, Pepperdine; Raymond Lewis, Cal State Los Angeles.

Third team: Clint Chapman, Southern California; Neil Jurgensen, Oregon State; Ron Lee, Oregon; Steve Smith, Loyola; Phil Smith, San Francisco.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. — Assistant University of North Carolina basketball coach John Lotz was named today as the University of Florida's new head coach succeeding Tommy Bartlett.

Florida athletic director Ray Graves, announcing Lotz' selection, said the Tar heel assistant "has been at the top of our list from the beginning."

LARAMIE, Wyo. — Bill Strannigan, head basketball coach at the University of Wyoming for the past 14 years, yesterday announced his retirement.

Strannigan, an All-America on Wyoming's 1943 National Collegiate Athletic Association championship team, said he would talk with university president William Carlson in the next couple of weeks "and go through the proper channels."

Skiing

BEAR VALLEY, Calif. — Terje Overland of Rjukan, Norway, defeated reigning world champion Spider Sabich of Kyburz, Calif., in the slalom yesterday to win the event at the Benson & Hedges Grand Prix of professional ski racing.

Overland's victory was worth $2,500 but Sabich held onto second place in the overall standings on the pro circuit by winning $1,500 and 20 points.

Auto Racing

HICKORY, N.C. — Buddy Baker of Charlotte averaged 69.966 miles per hour in a 1973 Dodge yesterday to win the Hickory 276 NASCAR Grand National East Stock Car Race.

Baker swapped the lead four times with Chevrolet driver Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., before moving out front for good on the 151st lap.

Track-Field

POCATELLO, Idaho — Warren Edmonsen broke the world indoor record for the 100-meter dash by one-tenth of a second with a 10.2 second clocking in highlighting the record-filled first professional meets.

Bowling

MILWAUKEE — Don McCune, of Munster, Ind. yesterday spaced 32 strikes over four games on his way to a 246-184 victory over Jim Stefanich, Joliet, Ill. and the $12,000 first prize check at the $80,000 Miller Open tourney.

Ice Skating

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia — Ondrey Nepela yesterday won his third consecutive world men's figure skating title, then retired from the amateur ranks with plans of turning professional.

Football

PRINCETON, N.J. — Bob Casciola was named Saturday to succeed Joe McCandless as head coach of the Princeton University team.

Tennis

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Chris Evert yesterday overpowered Great Britain's Virginia Wade 6-1, 6-2 to win her professional debut, the $50,000 S&H Green Stamps Women's Classic.

LA GRANGE, Ill. — Arthur Ashe yesterday came from behind to beat England's Roger Taylor, 3-6, 7-6, 7-6 after capturing two tie-breakers in winning the $50,000 Kemper International Tournament.

DETROIT — Australia's Margaret Court yesterday defeated countrywoman Kerry Melville for the fourth time in six weeks, 7-6, 6-3, in winning a Virginia Slims tournament.

HAMPTON, Va. — Jimmy Connors, of Belleville, Ill., yesterday outplayed Romania's Ilie Nastase 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-3 for the $10,000 first prize at the Coliseum Mall International tourney.

General

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. — Russia's Alexander Tikhonov yesterday finished nearly five seconds in front of Norway's Tor Svensberget in skiing as the Soviet Union took the gold medal in the senior relays of the 1973 World Biathalon championships.

Pee Wees Defeated In Hockey Playoffs

The Marin Amateur Hockey Club Pee Wees, champions of the West Division of the Northern California Amateur Hockey League, were thwarted over the weekend in their bid to win the overall title against East Division champion Eastridge of San Jose.

Eastridge defeated the Marin team Saturday at Raydine's Ice Rink in Corte Madera, 4-2, and added a 4-0 defeat last night in San Jose. The team scoring the greater number of goals in the two games was awarded the championship.

MARIN SCHEDULE

Weather Permitting: Prep Sports Start

Assuming weather ill permit — which may be a rash assumption — Marin County Athletic League Athletes of all descriptions will swarm over the local playing fields this week.

Events are scheduled in all five major boys spring sports, and the league season already has begun in swimming.

The MCAL track relays, scheduled for last Saturday at College of Marin but postponed by rain, will be held this Saturday at the same site, with track events to start at 11 a.m. and field events at noon, according to meet director Clyde Krusinski of host Tamalpais High.

The calendar, which is partial because all schools have not yet published schedules in all sports (asterisks denote league events):

NHL Bruins' Trade Helps Playoff Drive

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

In the true tradition of a defending champion, the Boston Bruins appear willing to trade a piece of their future for another shot at immediate glory.

And the Bruins left no doubt that they had strengthened their chance of making a successful defense of the Stanley Cup when they unveiled Jacques Plante to a national television audience Sunday afternoon.

Plante, a 44-year-old goaltending great of seasons past, stopped all 27 shots sent his way in lifting Boston to a key 4-0 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks. By winning, the Bruins closed to within three points of second place in the National Hockey League's East Division since the New York Rangers blew a 4-3 decision to the Vancouver Canucks at night.

The Montreal Canadiens, meanwhile, moved closer to the East Division title by whipping the Buffalo Sabres 4-2. That gave the Canadiens an even 100 points and a 10-point margin over the Rangers.

"I'm glad to be coming to a contender," said Plante, who joined his new club just two hours before the start of the afternoon game in Boston Garden. "I'm a pure professional. Winning is the name of the game and this team is a winner.

To get Plante from Toronto, the Bruins had to sacrifice their No. 1 pick in next summer's amateur draft as well as a player to be named later. But Boston management also was convinced that the club's hope for another Stanley Cup was dim without goaltending help.

Phil Esposito provided Plante with all the offensive help he needed by scoring his 43rd and 44th goals of the season in the first period. Fred O'Donnell and Ken Hodge added insurance goals in the second period.

The Philadelphia Flyers took advantage of Chicago's loss as they walloped Toronto 10-0 with Rick MacLeish getting four goals, to close within nine points of the first-place Hawks in the West Division. The Minnesota North Stars also kept pace, just one point behind Philadelphia, by beating the Pittsburgh Penguins 5-2.

In other games, the Atlanta Flames created a three-way tie with Pittsburgh and Los Angeles for fifth place in the West by edging the California Golden Seals 3-2 and the Detroit Red Wings defeated the New York Islanders 5-1.

Late Tryouts Set For Little League

Late tryouts for the San Rafael National Lttle League will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at San Rafael High School "rain or shine," league officials announced today.

Tryouts are for athletes who were unable to make the previous tryouts, held last week. Persons who have not signed up and wish to attend the tryouts should contact league secretary Sandra Graddy at 4 Riviera Place, San Rafael.

BASKETBALL

St. Vincent Wins Own Tournament

St. Vincent High School of Petaluma took the championship of its own invitational basketball tournament for the first time Saturday night with a 64-47 victory over South Fork.

In other final round games, Tomales beat California School for the Deaf of Berkeley, 66-62, Geyserville took the consolation championship with a 56-51 victory over Willits and Anderson Valley walloped Concordia, 101-84, to take third place.

"I was quite pleased with our play," St. Vincent coach Ed Major commented later.

The Mustangs went ahead early, leading by as much as 15 points to take a 35-24 halftime lead. in the final two periods they extended that margin to the final 17 points, despite playing subs for much of the fourth quarter.

Bob Vyenielo, who was named to the All-Tournament Team, led St. Vincent with 26 points, followed by Dan Tocchini's 16 points. Tocchini was named Most Valuable Player for the Tourney.

Tomales salvaged one victory in the tournament with a strong 24-point effort in the fourth quarter, after falling behind by eight in the first period. The Braves were led by Russ Sartori and Spirito Ballatore, with 26 and 21 points. Both of them were named to the All-Tournament Team.

Joining them on the all-tourney squad were Dave Carey and Lee Thomas of South Fork, Gary Waggoner of Anderson Valley, Eric Norris of Concordia, Junior Franco of Geyserville and Mike6Myers of California School for the Deaf.

USF Five Wins; In Western Regionals

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

San Francisco whipped Pepperdine Sunday 96-71 to win the West Coast Athletic Conference title and complete the lineup for the post-season National Collegiate Athletic Association Western Regional playoffs.

The first round of the playoffs is scheduled for Utah State University at Logan on March 10 with Long Beach State, the Pacific Coast Athletic Association champ, meeting Weber State, the Big Sky champ, and Western Athletic Conference champion Arizona State taking on Oklahoma City University.

Pacific 8 Conference winner UCLA and USF draw a bye for the first round and will meet the survivors at Logan to complete the Regional Playoffs.

UCLA, the nation's top-ranked team heading for another national title, was the first to clinch a league title and is merely playing out the season. During the weekend the Bruins whipped California 90-65 and edged Stanford 51-45 to extend their Pac 8 record to 13-0, their 1972-73 season overall mark to 25-0 and their consecutive record to 70 games.

UCLA finishes out the regular season this Saturday in a meaningless game against crosstown rival Southern California, which is banking on an upset to gain a berth in the National Invitation Tournament at New York. The Trojans hurt their chances somewhat when they bowed to Stanford 50-47 last Friday, then rebounded to rout California 64-53.

Guards Mike Quick and Phil Smith combined for 44 points Sunday in the victory over Pepperdine that gave the Dons their second straight WCAC title. They will play the winner of the Long Beach-Weber State game in the playoffs at Los Angeles on March 15-17.

Sunday's victory gave USF a league record of 12-2 and a one-game edge on Santa Clara, which lost its chance to tie USF and force a playoff for the league title by bowing to Pepperdine on Thursday night 89-85. The Broncos thus were second with a 11-3 record.

In other Pac 8 games of note last weekend, Oregon rallied in the final minutes to beat Washington State 66-65 and moved past Oregon State into third place in the Pac 8. OSU fell to Washington 83-72.

Long Beach State rolled along by beating Marquette 76-66 in a game of NCAA playoff-bound schools while Sonoma State, which clinched the Far Western Conference title on Friday night, finished up the regular season by beating Stanislaus State 77-76. Sonoma State plays UC Riverside Tuesday night for a berth in the NCAA College Division Western Regional tournament.

Marin Swimmer Wins

Bob Placak of the Marin Aquatic Club won the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:31.1 and finished fourth in the 400 individual medley in the boys 13-14 age bracket yesterday in the Flying Fin AA swimming meet at San Lorenzo High School. A teammate, Glenn Fleischer, was second in the 50 back and third in the 100 I.M. and 50 free in the 10-and-under bracket in the same meet.

Redskins' Brown Is NFC Player Of Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Larry Brown, whose rushing heroics led the Washington Redskins' "Over-the-Hill-Gang" to a Super Bowl berth last season, yesterday was selected National Football Conference Player of the Year by the New York Chapter of the Pro Football Writers Association of America.

Brown, who led the NFC in rushing despite a rash of late season injuries, will be honored at the chapter's annual dinner on June 26 at the Americana Hotel in New York.

Brown, a ninth-round draft choice out of Kansas State four years ago, was "discovered" by the late Vince Lombardi when coaches had almost given up on him. Lombardi discovered that Brown was hard of hearing and was not picking up the snap counts and had him fitted with a specially built helmet with a hearing aid enclosed. The rest is history.

Brown became the most feared runner in the NFC and was a workhorse, consistently carrying 35-40 times a game.

Out Of East In Stakes Race Win

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — Out Of The East finally won his first stakes race, and as of the moment looks like the early favorite for next month's $100,000 added California Derby at Golden Gate Fields.

The Cal Derby is the final major prep for western candidates to the Kentucky Derby and off his easy two-length victory in the Contra Costa stakes last Saturday, out of the east looks like a tough colt.

Airbag Safety Devices Still Not Proven

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — Smashing cars into walls at 25 miles per hour is one way of trying to show that air bags work. Putting a man and woman in the front seat is even more dramatic.

It's doubtful many Americans will be in that same position before 1977. Unless the safety device can prove its effectiveness, it's doubtful the air bag will be used in American-built cars in this decade.

The government has retreated three times on the effective date for a passive restraint system in cars to replace the "active" system in which the driver must fasten a belt or perform some other task.

Air bags have been considered the best bet to meet the government's requirement that death or serious injury be prevented in a head-on crash at 30 miles per hour. But there's been much unfavorable publicity surrounding the air bag.

In two public tests, one in Phoenix and the other in Detroit, air bags failed and test dummies were either "killed" or severely injured.

Ford Motor Co., has equipped more than 500 cars for on-the-road "live" tests by Allstate Insurance Co., and Eaton Corp. employes. General Motors plans to equip a fleet of cars with the device and the General Services Administration also is testing the air bag.

Few motorists have seen the air bag. Installed on a car, it remains in a compartment until it's needed.

The air bag is a balloon device that is either stored in the steering wheel for the driver or in the instrument panel to protect the front seat passenger. In prototype safety cars designed by Ford and GM, air bags also have bee installed in the back of the front seat, leaving the rear seat compartment cramped.

Those extra-large glove boxes Ford has been advertising on its 1973 models are a result of the now-delayed requirement for air bags on 1973 cars. When Ford designed the cars two years ago, it had to plan for the possibility that air bags would be in the glove compartment.

That's where the air bag is in the cars being driven by 325 employes of Eaton Corp., a manufacturer of air bags. The company also installed bags in the steering columns of several cars.

Then, one day late last December, professional stunt driver Hal Needham, 41, and Lada Edmunds, a 23-year-old Hollywood actress and dancer, climbed into a 1972 Mercury owned by Eaton to prove the air bags worked.

In one test, they drove the car into a 90-ton concrete barrier at 24.5 m.p.h. The next day, they slammed another similarly equipped Mercury into the barrier at 24 m.p.h.

"I've been slapped harder than that," Miss Edmunds commented without elaborating.

In both cases, the bags inflated to cushion the couple in the front seat. The crash was equivalent to a 50 m.p.h. car-to-car impact.

"It felt pretty good. It's getting so it isn't even much of an experience anymore," Needham said after his second crash.

The first time I did it, I anticipated some pain and so forth, but this time, it was just a 'here we go again' feeling."

Their tests represented the fastest known barrier crashes of a passenger car using human occupants. Like dummies used in other tests, they pitched forward as the bags inflated and then rearward, their heads settling against head restraints.

Eaton officials admitted that the test to show the system works also was designed to counter much of the unfavorable publicity.

Much of that criticism has come from the American Automobile Association (AAA) which last year urged the government to drop the requirement for an air bag completely. A report issued by AAA claimed the air bag was being "irresponsibly and prematurely" sold to the public and hadn't been adequately tested.

AAA said the claim by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) that air bags in all cars could cut the 55,000-a-year traffic fatality toll in half was exaggerated. AAA pushed for continued use of lap belts and shoulder harnesses as a more effective deterrent to highway deaths and injuries.

When the Transportation Department in late 1971 extended the 1973-model deadline to 1976 models, it ordered the installation of a system for 1974-model cars in which the lap belts and shoulder harnesses will have to be buckled before the car can be started.

For motorists who now feel inconvenienced by the buzzer warning system for belts on all cars built after Jan. 1, 1972, the standard for 1974-model cars ought to prove a headache. But it should increase the use of the belts dramatically — the shoulder harness is now used by less than 4 per cent of all drivers and passengers.

Even the buzzer system remains suspect.

Dr. William Haddon Jr., president of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety and former chief of the NHTSA, said late last year that a survey showed the buzzer-light system "had no statistically significant effect on the rate of seat belt use by driver."

But a survey by the Fisher Body division of GM, which backs compulsory use of seat belts, indicated that twice as many drivers use lap belts in cars equipped with the warning device than do those who drive cars without the buzzer-light warning system.

The 1974-model requirement for a belt-interlock system also is going to stop the practice of bypassing the system. No longer will you be able to buckle your belt behind you or defy the system in some other way. Either the belt and harness are buckled, or the car won't go.

While the compulsory use of the air bag —or some other "passive" restraint —remains snagged in court rulings, some safety experts see other ways to meet government standards without using the controversial bag.

One is inflatable lap belts and shoulder harnesses, under development by Alied Chemical Corp. But using a semi--passive system, a lap belt with a built-in pillow that pops up under crash conditions, would need a revision of the safety standards.

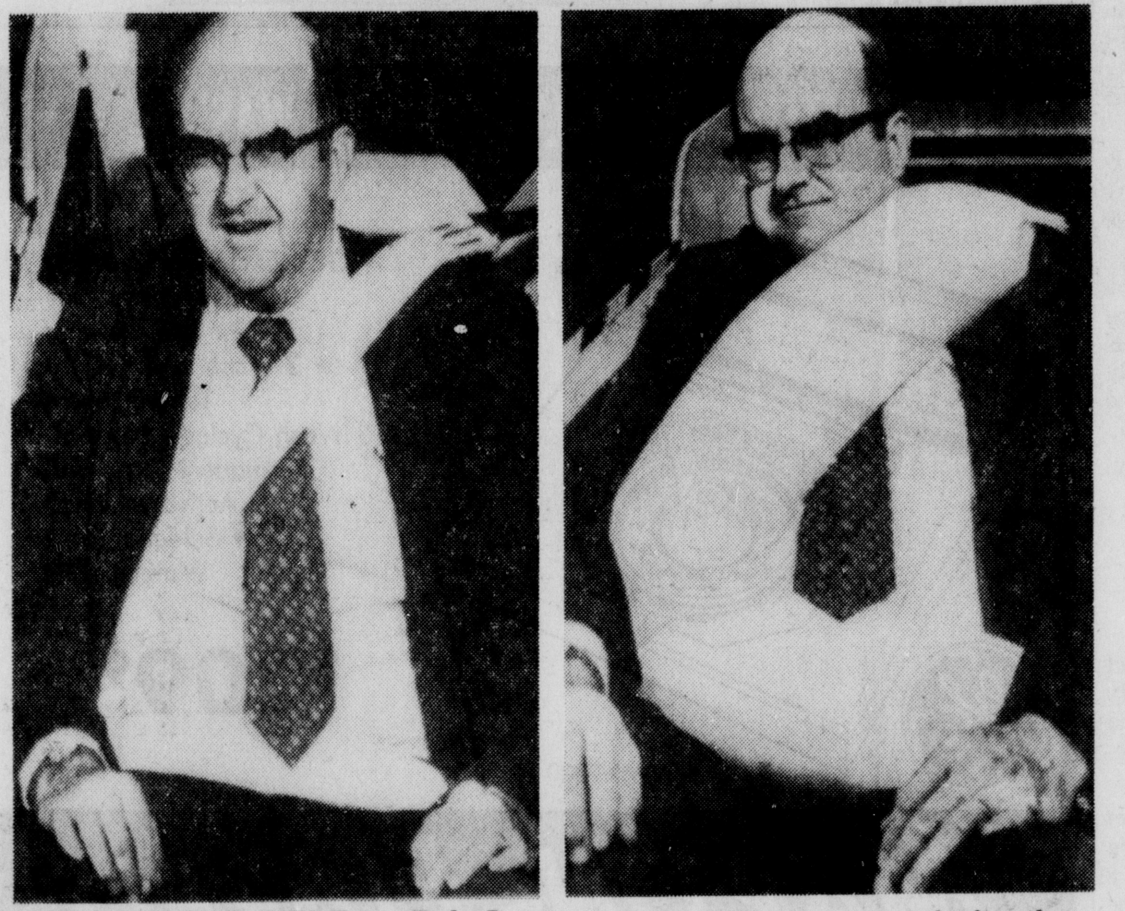
The three government delays, along with the court order halting the implementation of the passive restraint standard on Aug. 15, 1975, may force a revision in those standards. That court-ordered delay last December was the first significant legal setback suffered by the U.S. Government in the area of automotive safety.

The court agreed with Ford, Chrysler and American Motors that tests used to determine whether the restraint device is acceptable "will not produce consistent, reliable or repeatable test results." According to the court, there was not much sense in making the automakers meet test standards which are not reliable.

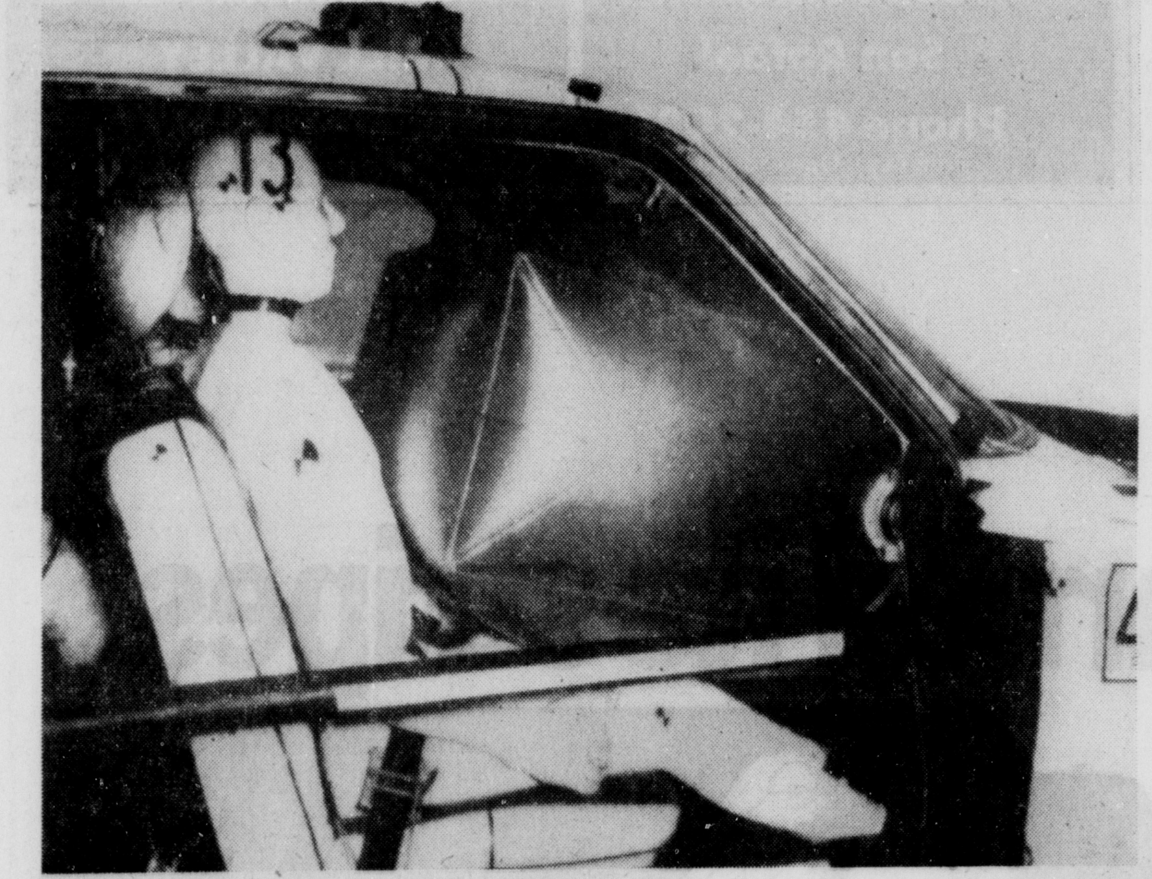
Where does that leave the air bag? No one is quite sure because the 58-page opinion says the August, 1975 date should be postponed for "a reasonable period of time" after better test procedures are issued.

Those new test procedures still haven't been issued. And lead time — the amount of time automakers need to bring a new design into production — remains a critical factor.

AAA termed the court's decision "a return to sanity and logic in making decisions about safety." The dissenting judge said the decision probably would delay development of a useful safety device "indefinitely."



INFLATABLE BELT — Bob Irwin tried out an inflatable seat belt, shown in normal position (left) and inflated position, during a recent safety demonstration. The American Automobile Association continues to push for the use of lap belts and shoulder harnesses, claiming they are more effective deterrents to death and injury than air bag systems.



AIR BAG TEST — A dummy served as the subject in a demonstration of an inflatable bag restraint system for protecting automobile occupants during a collision. The plastic bag, in which a capsule of nitrogen gas under high pressure is contained, is designed to balloon to full size in 40 thousandths of a second upon the signal of an impact sensor.

Apartments Rents Ceiling Is Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who says he has received hundreds of complaints from constituents, wants the Cost of Living Council to place a flat percentage ceiling on apartment rent increases.

"Until federal action is taken, many thousands of tenants face high rent increases and active tenant leaders face additional harassment and possible eviction," Case said in a weekend statement. He said he had received many complaints of "exhorbitant" rent increases.

Plea Made To Theft Of Auto

William Koviealoha Papke, 20, of San Francisco, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a felony car theft charge. Preliminary hearing was scheduled for tomorrow.

Sausalito police made a routine traffic stop on a car driven by Papke Feb. 23, and found that the man had neither an auto registration nor a driver's license.

Police said the car was stolen the day before from a San Francisco couple who gave Papke a ride, then left him alone in the vehicle while they shopped.

A rider with Papke, Richard Philip Licata, 20, of San Francisco, also was arrested on suspicion of auto theft, but was released the next day for lack of evidence.

Clark Can Select Swearing-In Date

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Chief Justice Donald R. Wright says William P. Clark, Jr. a college dropout named to the State Supreme Court by Gov. Ronald Reagan, can be sworn in any time he wants.

Wright said Sunday confirmation papers should reach the secretary of state Tuesday and then Clark may select a date for the ceremony.

Clark's appointment was approved Saturday by the State Commission on Judicial Appointments. The vote was 2-1 with Wright casting the lone "no" vote.

Clark's critics complained he dropped out of college, never obtained a law degree and had to take the bar examination twice.

During the two-day commission hearing, Clark was backed by a parade of judges and other witnesses who testified in his behalf. They said he had proven himself during his time as a superior court and appeals court judge.

Wright said he planned to call Clark, 41, formerly of the superior court in San Luis Obispo and currently on the appeals court in Los Angeles, and "discuss his desires."

AAA pushed for continued use of lap belts and shoulder harnesses as a more effective deterrent to highway deaths and injuries.

When the Transportation Department in late 1971 extended the 1973-model deadline to 1976 models, it ordered the installation of a system for 1974-model cars in which the lap belts and shoulder harnesses will have to be buckled before the car can be started.

For motorists who now feel inconvenienced by the buzzer warning system for belts on all cars built after Jan. 1, 1972, the standard for 1974-model cars ought to prove a headache. But it should increase the use of the belts dramatically — the shoulder harness is now used by less than 4 per cent of all drivers and passengers.

Even the buzzer system remains suspect.

Dr. William Haddon Jr., president of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety and former chief of the NHTSA, said late last year that a survey showed the buzzer-light system "had no statistically significant effect on the rate of seat belt use by driver."

But a survey by the Fisher Body division of GM, which backs compulsory use of seat belts, indicated that twice as many drivers use lap belts in cars equipped with the warning device than do those who drive cars without the buzzer-light warning system.

The 1974-model requirement for a belt-interlock system also is going to stop the practice of bypassing the system. No longer will you be able to buckle your belt behind you or defy the system in some other way. Either the belt and harness are buckled, or the car won't go.

While the compulsory use of the air bag —or some other "passive" restraint —remains snagged in court rulings, some safety experts see other ways to meet government standards without using the controversial bag.

One is inflatable lap belts and shoulder harnesses, under development by Alied Chemical Corp. But using a semi--passive system, a lap belt with a built-in pillow that pops up under crash conditions, would need a revision of the safety standards.

The three government delays, along with the court order halting the implementation of the passive restraint standard on Aug. 15, 1975, may force a revision in those standards. That court-ordered delay last December was the first significant legal setback suffered by the U.S. Government in the area of automotive safety.

The court agreed with Ford, Chrysler and American Motors that tests used to determine whether the restraint device is acceptable "will not produce consistent, reliable or repeatable test results." According to the court, there was not much sense in making the automakers meet test standards which are not reliable.

Where does that leave the air bag? No one is quite sure because the 58-page opinion says the August, 1975 date should be postponed for "a reasonable period of time" after better test procedures are issued.

Those new test procedures still haven't been issued. And lead time — the amount of time automakers need to bring a new design into production — remains a critical factor.

AAA termed the court's decision "a return to sanity and logic in making decisions about safety." The dissenting judge said the decision probably would delay development of a useful safety device "indefineitely."

INFLATABLE BELT — Bob Irwin tried out an inflatable seat belt, shown in normal position (left) and inflated position, during a recent safety demonstration. The American Automobile Association continues to push for the use of lap belts and shoulder harnesses, claiming they are more effective deterrents to death and injury than air bag systems.

AIR BAG TEST — A dummy served as the subject in a demonstration of an inflatable bag restraint system for protecting automobile occupants during a collision. The plastic bag, in which a capsule of nitrogen gas under high pressure is contained, is designed to balloon to full size in 40 thousandths of a second upon the signal of an impact sensor. Apartments Rents Ceiling Is Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who says he has received hundreds of complaints from constituents, wants the Cost of Living Council to place a flat percentage ceiling on apartment rent increases.

"Until federal action is taken, many thousands of tenants face high rent increases and active tenant leaders face additional harassment and possible eviction," Case said in a weekend statement. He said he had received many complaints of "exhorbitant" rent increases.

Plea Made To Theft Of Auto

William Koviealoha Papke, 20, of San Francisco, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a felony car theft charge. Preliminary hearing was scheduled for tomorrow.

Sausalito police made a routine traffic stop on a car driven by Papke Feb. 23, and found that the man had neither an auto registration nor a driver's license.

Police said the car was stolen the day before from a San Francisco couple who gave Papke a ride, then left him alone in the vehicle while they shopped.

A rider with Papke, Richard Philip Licata, 20, of San Francisco, also was arrested on suspicion of auto theft, but was released the next day for lack of evidence.

Clark Can Select Swearing-In Date

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Chief Justice Donald R. Wright says William P. Clark, Jr. a college dropout named to the State Supreme Court by Gov. Ronald Reagan, can be sworn in any time he wants.

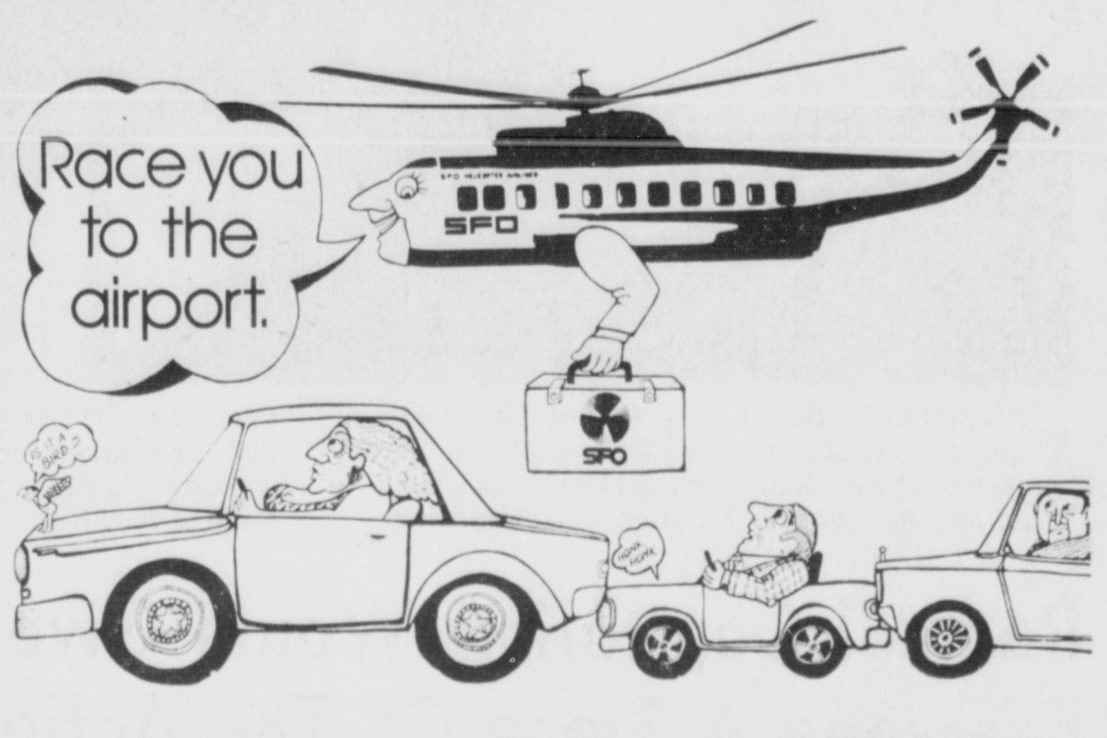
Wright said Sunday confirmation papers should reach the secretary of state Tuesday and then Clark may select a date for the ceremony.

Clark's appointment was approved Saturday by the State Commission on Judicial Appointments. The vote was 2-1 with Wright casting the lone "no" vote.

Clark's critics complained he dropped out of college, never obtained a law degree and had to take the bar examination twice.

During the two-day commission hearing, Clark was backed by a parade of judges and other witnesses who testified in his behalf. They said he had proven himself during his time as a superior court and appeals court judge.

Wright said he planned to call Clark, 41, formerly of the superior court in San Luis Obispo and currently on the appeals court in Los Angeles, and "discuss his desires."



It's an uneven race, we'll admit. If you drive to San Francisco Airport from the Marin heliport, it'll take you at least 45 minutes. On a direct flight, it takes us 11. No traffic hassle and no luggage problem. We check the luggage through to your destination.

The price? As little as $8.37 depending on your destination and connecting carrier. Free parking at the heliport.
So race with us. Not against us.

Rocket Blows Up For Denver

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Fortunately for Al Smith the Denver Rockets had a little something in reserve Sunday night.

Smith, a 6-foot-1 guard for Denver, came very close to costing the Rockets a victory in the final 22 seconds of play Sunday night, but his teammates bailed him out in overtime and downed the Utah Stars 133-125 in an American Basketball Association game.

Smith, who had 24 points, could have given Denver the victory in regulation time, but after hitting his first nine free throws, he missed three of four charity tosses in the final 22 seconds.

Then, to make matters worse, he got into a fight with Utah's Cincy Powell with only nine seconds to play and the Rockets leading by just one point. The referees ruled that Smith started the fight and ejected him from the game, resulting in an automatic technical foul which Ron Boone made to send the game into overtime tied at 117-117.

Warren Jabali and Willie Long pulled things out for the Rockets in overtime, however, as both scored five points. Denver's John Q. Trapp made the first two goals of the overtime session and the Rockets never were challenged after that. Ralph Simpson ended up as the high scorer for Denver with 30 points while Bob Warren had 27 for Utah.

In other games, Kentucky routed Memphis 121-91, Indiana edged Dallas 121-118, Carolina topped New York 123-111 and San Diego defeated Virginia 115-110.

Artis Gilmore and Mike Issel combined for 48 points and 28 rebounds for Kentucky, which handed Memphis its fifth straight loss. Gilmore had 22 points and 16 rebounds and also handed out nine assists.

George McGinnis tallied 36 points, including a pair of free throws with 40 seconds left, to spark Indiana's triumph over Dallas. McGinnis got scoring help from Freddie Lewis with 24 points, Donnie Freeman with 23 and Darnell Hillman with 20.

Billy Cunningham's 26 points led Carolina over New York and Stew Johnson's 27 points paced San Diego over Virginia.

WHA ROUNDUP

Winnipeg Improves 2 Winning Strings

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Winnipeg Jets improved a couple of winning streaks Sunday night and at the same time pushed themselves just a little closer to clinching the West Division title of the World Hockey Association.

By edging Los Angeles 2-1, the Jets stretched their consecutive game winning skein to 10 and ran up their eighth consecutive success over the Sharks. With second-place Houston dropping a 6-3 decision to the Quebec Nordiques, Winnipeg was able to increase its lead over the Aeros to an imposing 13 points.

Chris Bordeleau scored his 41st goal with the game only 17 seconds old to send the Jets off to a 1-0 lead on their home ice and Larry Hornung added what proved to be the decisive goal during a power play at 11:44 of the second period.

The Minnesota Fighting Saints took over sole possession of third place in the West, two points ahead of Los Angeles, by beating the New England Whalers 4-2. The Whalers thus lost a chance to cut their four-point deficit behind idle Cleveland in the duel for first place in the East Division.

The battle for the final two playoff berths in the East remained tight with only two points separating four clubs. The Philadelphia Blazers jumped into third place by beating the New York Raiders 4-2 and Quebec moved into a tie with New York, one point behind the Blazers, with its victory over Houston. The Ottawa Nationals beat the Chicago Cougars 6-4 and although in last place, they are only two points behind Philadelphia.

Jim Johnson and Wayne Connelly scored goals 14 seconds apart early in the final period to break open a tight game and give Minnesota a 3-0 lead over New England. Mike Byers and Brad Selwood made it close again with goals for the Whalers, but Bob MacMillan then provided the clincher with just under seven minutes left to play.

A power play goal by Bryan Campbell at 2:48 of the first period snapped a 1-1 tie at New York and Philadelphia wrapped it up with two more goals by Don Burgess and John McKenzie.

Alain Caron scored two goals to pace Quebec to its victory at Houston and Wayne Carleton had two goals to help Ottawa stretch its winning streak to four games with the triumph over Chicago.

Hawks, Bullets Rolling Along

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Atlanta Hawks must feel as if they're treading water.

For the third straight game, the Hawks had their best quarter and highest point total of the year Sunday in a 138-130 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers. But it failed to gain them any ground in the National Basketball Association's Central Division race as the Baltimore Bullets beat the New York Knicks 106-97.

The Hawks remained five games behind the Bullets in the battle for first in the division.

Pete Maravich scored 38 points, including 20 during a devastating 49-point burst in the third quarter, to lead the Hawks and Lou Hudson hit 36. Fred Carter had 29 to lead the 76ers, who suffered their 62nd loss in 71 games.

Guards Archie Clark and Phil Chenier combined for 45 points to lead the Bullets over the Knicks, New York's third straight loss. Clark had 24 points and Chenier hit 21, including the go-ahead basket with three minutes to play. Walt Frazier led the Knicks with 26 and Dave DeBusschere had 12 points for New York in the first quarter before being lost for the game with a hip injury.

In other NBA games, Milwaukee ripped Houston 116-101, Los Angeles destroyed Cleveland 127-84, Chicago edged Phoenix 118-117 in overtime, Detroit downed Portland 113-109 and Boston defeated Buffalo 125-113.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 29 points and Lucius Allen hit 20 as the Bucks beat Houston. Milwaukee held the Rockets to only 19 points in the second quarter and 17 in the third to take a 91-68 lead after three quarters. Jack Marin led Houston with 19.

Jim McMillian's 26 points and Wilt Chamberlain's shot-blocking carried the Lakers over Cleveland. Chamberlain had only four points but blocked six shots in the first 15 minutes and forced the Cavaliers to an outside shooting game. Cleveland could hit only 27 of its first 77 shots.

Jim King, who entered the game with three minutes left in overtime, stole the ball and scored his only two points of the game to give the Bulls a triumph over Phoenix. King stole the ball from Clem Haskins and drove for a layup with 14 seconds left. Dick Van Arsdale's last second shot for Phoenix fell short.

Bob Love had 25 points and Chet Walker 24 for the Bulls while Neal Walk led Phoenix with 30.

Bob Lanier scored 31 points as the Pistons downed the Trail Blazers. Detroit trailed by three points at the half but Lanier and Dave Bing, who finished with 21 points, helped pull the Pistons ahead. Geoff Petrie and Lloyd Neal had 24 points each for Portland.

Dave Cowens scored eight of his 23 points in the third period to help the Celtics pull away from Buffalo. Paul Silas had 26 points for Boston, which just about wrapped up the Eastern Division title.

Drake Sets Basketball Ticket Sale

Tickets for the basketball Tournament of Champions Thursday through Saturday at the Oakland Coliseum Arena will go on sale to the general public tomorrow and Wednesday from 5-7 p.m. at Drake High School in San Anselmo, dean of student activities Tom McEntee announced today.

All seats are reserved, and cost $3.50 for adults and $1 per children under 12 for each game. They will be available at the ticket booth in the boys' gymnasium.

Marin County Athletic League champion Drake will meet Castlemont High of Oakland Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the tournament's opening round. Drake was alloted 1,018 tickets for that game, more than 350 of which have already been sold to students. Student ticket sales began last Monday.

The school was allotted 883 tickets each for Friday and Saturday, of which about 250 for each day already have been sold to students. The Pirates will play on all three days unless they lose the first two games.

Olympic Champ To Box On March 31

SEATTLE (UPI) — Junior welterweight Sugar Ray Seales, the lone U.S. boxing gold medal winner at the 1972 Olympic games in Munich, will make his fourth pro start here on March 15 against an as yet unnamed opponent.

Seales also will fight at Anchorage, Alaska, on March 31. He is unbeaten as a pro.

2 Pitchers Sign Baseball Pacts

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Dave McNally, struggling off one of his worst major league seasons, and Don Sutton, coming off one of his best, reduced the number of baseball's unsigned high-priced pitchers by two Sunday as both agreed to 1973 terms after brief holdouts.

McNally, long the ace of the Baltimore Orioles rich mound staff, took an estimated $7,000 salary cut to $98,000 after posting a disappointing 13-17 record last year. McNally had won 20 or more games in each of his previous four campaigns before running into arm trouble in '72.

Sutton, who emerged as the ace of the Dodgers staff with 19 victories last year, received a hefty increase to $87,500 and will join the team Tuesday. Sutton's 19-win season was his best ever and the Dodgers are hoping that he can combine with newly-acquired Andy Messersmith to give the club the best 1-2 punch of righthanded pitching in the National League this season.

While Sutton and McNally were ending holdouts, quite a few other big name hurlers are still at large. Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has been unable to corral two of his starting pitchers—Vida Blue and Ken Holtzman. Holtzman is believed to be about $3,500 apart with Finley, while Blue is not even reachable.

Blue, who hurt his chances for a good season last year when he held out all through spring training, is still attracting offers from other clubs despite a subpar 6-10 '72 log. Milwaukee Brewer general manager Jim Wilson is reportedly dangling first baseman George Scott, who played for A's manager Dick Williams at Boston, as trade bait for Blue. The A's, it may be remembered, traded last year's first baseman, Mike Epstein to the Texas Rangers during the off-season for reliever Horatio Pina.

The Yankees, meanwhile, while admittedly getting close to signing slugging outfielder Bobby Murcer, have three of their front line pitchers still out of the fold. Holding out are starters Fritz Peterson and Steve Kline and ace reliever Sparky Lyle. The Yankees did, however, announce that newlyacquired Matty Alou's delayed arrival was because of visa difficulties in his native Dominican Republic.

Another celebrated holdout (though not a pitcher), Rusty Staub, appeared to be getting closer in his negotiations with the New York Mets. Staub is expected to come to terms with general manager Bob Scheffing Monday for approximately $330,000 over three years.

Not as close as Staub and Murcer were Pete Rose and the Reds, Dusty Baker and the Atlanta Braves, Alex Johnson and the Cleveland Indians and relief pitching ace Mike Marshall and the Montreal Expos.

Museum Of Rosicrucians Draws Thousands Yearly

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Each year 350,000 persons visit one of the world's finest Egyptian museums on a tour that includes walking through a full sized replica of a tomb of 2000 B.C.

The museum is housed in one of nine buildings making up the headquarters of the international fraternal organization called the Rosicrucians, located in this Santa Clara County city since 1927.

"We have as large a mummy collection as anywhere in the United States," says Arthur Piepenbrink, the group's secretary.

The fraternal order traces its origins back to the ancients of Egypt and all its impressive buildings are in Egyptian architecture.

"We feel Western civilization stems from Egypt and fashion our buildings after ancient Egypt in the same way many public buildings use Greek architecture," Piepenbrink said.

A stately row of ram sphynxes leads up to the golden doors and papyrus-type columns of the museum, built in 1966.

In one museum gallery is a full-sized reproduction of the mummy case of the famous King Tutankhamen, the only reproduction in the world of the costly original located in Cairo.

Standing before the mummy, one can appreciate the words of British archeologist Howard Carter when he discovered it in 1922.

"For a moment, time as a factor in human life has lost its meaning," he said. "The very air you breathe, unchanged through the centuries, you share with those who laid the mummy to its rest."

A few yards from Tutankhamen's mummy is the highlight of the tour: a full-sized reproduction of a noble's tomb of the 12th Dynasty.

The tomb, the only one of its kind in North America, is fashioned after those found near the Arab village of Beni Hasan.

The initial chamber of the tomb has massive columns, a false door, a recessed alcove and sculptured walls.

The guide says the false door was for the soul which was often depicted as a humanheaded bird.

The Egyptians believed that the soul flew about by day and returned to the body at night. It entered the outer coffin through another false door and identified the mummy by its facial mask.

No matter how impressive one feels the outer chamber is, nothing prepares him for the stunning inner chamber, reached via a descending corridor.

The brilliantly-colored walls show everyday scenes of Egyptian life: farmers herding cows to market, butchers slaughtering cattle, hunters going after prey.

The Egyptians were fearful of grave robbers and buried their bejewelled mummies in a shaft in the center of the chamber.

The outer coffin, however, is damaged — showing that the thieves were even more clever.

Radical Capitalists Would Give Everyone A Piece Of The Action

BERKELEY (UPI) — This country operates under "a system of hoggism" in which most people are "job serfs."

This is the thinking of a radical capitalist, Gary A. Reber, 29, and a new group of Berkeley social critics.

Reber is backed by an unlikely combination of people such as Mike Culbert, editor-in-chief of the conservative, Independent —Berkeley Daily Gazette, and Black Panther Bobby Seale, who is running for mayor of Oakland.

They are giving their theory a practical application in a current controversy over Oakland's $150 million urban renewal project.

The theory was developed by Louis O. Kelso, a San Francisco corporation lawyer, economist and author. Kelso has counseled 25 companies in plans to turn ownership over to their employes.

With Kelso in the background, Reber and Dr. John W. Dyckman, a University of California professor of planning, have founded a fledgling Institute for the Pursuit of Economic Justice.

For the moment the institute operates in a walkup art gallery, but Reber hopes it will blossom into a national movement.

"We are living under a system of hoggism, a system in which the nation's corporate base is owned for practical purposes by less than 5 per cent of the people," he says.

"We can't let a small group of people continue to concentrate more and more economic power. There is no law against hoggism, and the rich are getting richer."

As technology eliminates jobs, Reber foresees a concentration of power leading to a totalitarian state with more welfare "whatever you call it," and less economic growth.

"We are all job serfs, totally dependent on jobs for our livelihoods," he says. "We serve at the pleasure of magnanimous job donors."

Yet, an American dream is that each citizen can be independent by owning a part of the productive base. Settlers came from Europe in search of land, and the dream was expressed by the Homestaead Act.

The solution, for Reber, must be a shift of ownership of capital producing instruments from the few to the many.

"If we start now, in 50 years every family can be receiving at least 50 per cent of its income from dividends," he says.

Reber's institute thinks this "quiet revolution" can be achieved by a number of devices, working in concert.

The main device would be the financing of a new capital investment with employes' money obtained from bank loans. The employes would wind up with stock.

Under present law this method has an advantage for the company: It does not pay corporate taxes on earnings used to pay employes' loan. Another advantage might be better labor relations.

Amont other devices, the inheritances of the Rockefellers would be taxed down to modest sums. A national insurance agency would insure investments by ordinary citizens in viable corporations. Capital gains would be taxed progressively.

In the belief that a capital gain, rather than being something earned, is generated from the total growth of the society, he says, "A substantial share should be recaptured for reinvestment in the works of civilization."

Application of this kind of thinking to a $150 million project in Oakland has thrown the city into a growing controversy in the middle of the spring election campaign.

The project is a 15-block urban renewal center, probably the largest such retail and service complex of a city core area planned in the nation.

Reber calls it "welfare for the rich," arguing that the first phase of six blocks will wind up in the ownership of four individuals.

Project property is eing acquired by the city for $55 a square foot, cleared and improved, and sold to a developer for $10 a square foot. It is an example of use of taxpayers' money to enrich the few, Reber argues, and some mayoralty candidates like Bobby Seale agree.

They propose that the project be developed by a real estate investment trust owned by a broadly diffused group of the city's citizens.

But Mayor John H. Reading, running for re-election, dismisses this plan as "unadulterated hogwash." He says the Reber group would seek capital from those who can least afford it, and that the "high-risk factor" is overlooked.

Meanwhile, Reber girds for other political battles. Next year, he plans to run for the congressional seat being vacated by Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif.

Impact Report Due Discussion

The Larkspur School District board which could be doubly penalized if both Larkspur and Corte Madera proceed with redevelopment projects, will discuss the environmental impact report on the Corte Madera Redevelopment Project at its 8 p.m. meeting Thursday in the district office.

The Larkspur district embraces territory in both cities, and under redevelopment, which would siphon off increases in property tax accruing from rising assessed valuation to redeem bonds, would lose income from both areas.

Trustees will consider a preliminary 1973-74 budget and set a special board meeting later in the month for a work session on the budget.

Bond Supporters To Hold Canvass

A group of Fairfax citizens, urging passage of the town's $300,000 bond election April 17 for a public safety building, has decided to canvass the community door-to-door.

"We have to get a good nose count since the bond requires a two-thirds favorable vote," said Priscilla Gray, committee co-chairman.

The committee is currently seeking a secretary, she said, adding citizens interested in working for passage of the bond issue may contact her at 126 Ridge Road.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Sick Pay Is Sometimes Taxed, Partially Taxed, Or Tax Free

Sick pay is sometimes taxed, sometimes partially taxed and sometimes tax free. Here are the rules:

The amount you received because of accident or sickness, if received from an insurance company where you paid the premiums either directly or through payroll deductions is not taxed.

The amount you received because of accident or sickness where your employer paid the premiums to the insurance company, or where your employer himself paid your wages while you were off sick is taxed as follows:

No sick pay exclusion is allowed for wages received for the first 30 days of absence if the wages are over 75 per cent of the regular weekly rate. Sick pay received after the 30-day waiting period is over is excluded, but not more than $100 per week.

If your sick pay is 75 per cent or less of your regular weekly pay and if you are in the hospital at least one day while you are off, you can exclude the payments for the first 30 days up to $75 per week. But, if you are not in the hospital at least overnight, there is no exclusion for the first seven days and the $75 maximum will apply to the balance of the first 30 days you are off.

If you can use the sick pay exclusion, you should get a Form 2400 from your local Internal Revenue Service office and attach it to your tax return. This form will help you compute accurately the amount of sick pay you can exclude.

Early Market Gain Loses Its Momentum

NEW YORK (UPI) — An early gain started to lose strength toward midsession today on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderate.

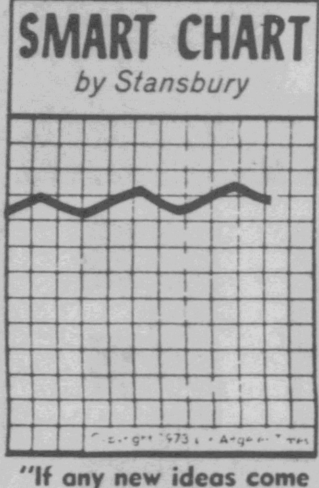
Analysts attributed the early advance to investor optimism the internationl monetary situation eventually would be resolved. They seemed pleased members of the European economic community did not jointly float their currencies over the weekend as had been rumored.

Analysts said lack of volume helped undercut the firmness of the gain.

Mattel led the actives with a gain of ⅜ to 7 on 91,300 shares.

Prices were lower in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange. Champion Home Builders led the actives, unchanged at 8-⅝ on 42,000 shares.

Big Board glamors were mostly lower as Xerox and Corning Glass each lost 1.



"If any new ideas come up at the board meeting while he's on vacation, the Chief says his vote is NO."

Better Business Bureau Begins New Customer Complaint System

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Better Business Bureau of San Francisco has launched a system of voluntary arbitration to handle customers' complaints against businessmen.

In charge of the program is Alan Waisanen, a staff member of the Better Business Bureau at 414 Mason Street.

"Consumer arbitration would be used only when all informal efforts to resolve disputes have failed," said Waisanen. "And it is strictly voluntary." He said no one can be forced to accept arbitration, but once he agrees to arbitration, he is bound by the decision. In California, the courts will enforce an arbitration award without rehearing the case.

Waisanen said the consumer arbitration program works like this:

1. The customer takes his complaint to the businessman involved. Only if this fails does he go to the Better Business Bureau.

2. The BBB tries to resolve the case informally. If this fails, arbitration is offered.

3. The parties sign a binding agreement to arbitrate agreed issues in the dispute and submit it to BBB arbitration.

4. Depending on the nature of the dispute, the parties will take one of three steps: (1) Take the case before a panel of respected citizens, (2) select a single arbitrator from the pool of volunteers, or (3) each select a person of his choice and the two so chosen pick a third arbitrator from the pool to serve as panel chairman.

5. If appropriate, an inspection of the product, repair job or construction site is conducted with the BBB furnishing technical expertise as needed.

6. Both parties may be represented, have witnesses and give evidence in informal proceedings before an arbitrator.

7. The decision may resolve all issues in favor of one party, or it may be split between the parties. California courts will enforce an award without rehearing the case.

The BBB already has a pool of about 50 arbitrators, all volunteers who serve without pay. Waisanen said more volunteers are needed for the pool of arbitrators, and anyone interested should contact him at the Better Business Bureau.

A Possible Kicker At Phelps Dodge

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought 100 shares of Phelps Dodge (NYSE) last year at $36. Should I hold — my goal is income and gradual growth? — P.C.

A. The recent jump in copper prices has upgraded the outlook for Phelps Dodge Earnings for the year just ended were up a satisfactory 11 per cent and a similar gain is a strong possibility this year. Factors which are expected to contribute to a second annual increase in profits are: another one cent to two cent rise in copper price, reduced losses from partly owned Conalco and larger contributions from fabricating operations. The company, which is the lowest cost domestic copper producer, is also the second largest, accounting for about 20 per cent of U.S. production.

A development which could be significant to the company is a discovery on property in South Africa. Wholly owned Black Mountain Mineral Development Co. in preliminary drilling has delineated a mineralized zone 3,000 feet long and 130 feet thick averaging 0.8 per cent copper and 1.5 per cent lead with traces of zinc and silver. While reserves have not yet been proved, up to 70 million tons of ore could be involved. At current prices this would work out to $58 per share in reserves. Regardless of the outcome of this property, shares are worth holding for their generous income and long-term appreciation potential.

Q. You recently discussed the Fund for U.S. Government Securities. I understand that assets are invested in Treasury, Agency and other government instruments. In this case I believe that interest which accrues to fund holders must not be subject to state tax. How can I get a brochure on this fund? — S.J.

A. Although government obligations which are owned directly are not subject to state, city or municipal income tax, income from this fund may be. Since rulings vary from state to state, you should consult your tax adviser or state tax division to get specific information for your domicile. A prospectus may be secured by writing the fund at 421 Seventh Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, 15219.

Tiburon Vintners Negotiates Loan

Tiburon Vintners Inc., producer of premium wines, negotiated a 10-year $4.5 million loan from Bank of America.

Peter S. Friedman, president of Tiburon Vintners, said proceeds from the loan will be used for vineyard development in Sonoma and Mendocino Counties.

Cigarette Taxes Shares Distributed

Republic Van & Storage To Open Northgate Industrial Park Branch

Republic Van & Storage Co., with its regional office in San Francisco, will open its first Marin County branch at Northgate Industrial Park in San Rafael about April 1.

The company leased 400 square feet of office space at 58 Paul Drive, No. 7, at Northgate through the William Hoey Company.

Frank McMullen, assistant to the president of the firm, announced that Richard L. Daniels of Foster City will manage the Marin office. Daniels plans to move to Marin when he takes over the San Rafael office in April.

Republic Van & Storage, with headquarters in Baltimore, Md., operates worldwide.

ROBERT G. WILHELM of Kentfield, president of the Emporium-Capwell Co., San Francisco, was elected to the board of directors of Di Giorgio Corp. in San Francisco.

Di Giorgio Corporation is a diversified company that produces and markets packaged foods, meat products and shelter products such as building materials, and develops recreational and residential communities.

Mercer

JOHN MERCER of Sausalito has been elected president of the San Francisco Society of Communicating Arts, a group of artists, art directors, designers and writers in the Bay Area.

Mercer is vice president and creative director of Meltzer, Aron & Lemen, Inc., advertising firm in San Francisco.

OPTITEC INC., a subsidiary of Optical Sciences Group Inc. of San Rafael, has just been formed to develop a family of automated health screening devices for doctors and medical institutions.

The new corporation is headquartered at 24 Tiburon Street in San Rafael, the same address as Optical Sciences Group.

Roy Marks of San Francisco, president of the corporation, said the goal of the new firm is to design automated equipment that can quickly pinpoint health problem areas and speed the diagnoses and treatment of illnesses.

Other directors of the corporation include Dr. Arthur Jampolsky of Belvedere, founder of Optical Sciences Group, and Dr. John Thorson of Hillsborough, who is the new corporation's board chairman.

STITCHBIRDS, the needlepoint shop at 21 Poplar Avenue in Ross, moved during the weekend to larger quarters a few doors away.

The expanded Stichbirds shop is now at 7 Poplar Avenue in a building formerly occupied by a bath and shutter store, which closed at the end of January.

The Stitchbirds, specializing in needlepoint supplies, was established in May of last year by Janet McLenegan and Betsy Shuey of Kentfield.

FLOYD BRADLEY & Associates of 707½ Bradley Avenue in Novato, which deals in sprinkling and irrigating supplies, changed hands on March 1 but continues to operate under the same name.

Bradley and his wife Louise had been operating the firm for 19 years until his death last July. Mrs. Bradley sold the business last week to Max R. Banner of Fremont but continues to work for the new owner.

GEORGE DEXTER, owner of Dexter Toyota in San Rafael, won the Toyota National Customer Relations Service Award for the second consecutive year.

Only 71 out of 930 Toyota dealers in the United States received the award. To qualify for the award, the dealership must rank in the upper 10 per cent of their distributor area in after-sale service, dealer-customer relations, and participation in the Toyota service training program.

MACY'S in San Rafael is now open for business three nights a week (Wednesday, Thursday and Friday) until 9 p.m. In the past, it was open only two nights, Wednesday and Friday.

MARY LOU POOLE, a salesman with Kay Noah and Associates, Tiburon Realtor, sold more than a million dollars worth of property in 1972.

FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS and Loan Association gave away four free bicycles in a contest celebrating the opening of its new Fairfax office at 1 Bolinas Road.

Richard Leonard and Mark Spears, both of Fairfax, won 10-speed bikes, and Robert Palmer of San Rafael and C. K. Maule of Lagunitas won five-speed bicycles.

JACK G. NIXON and FRANK A. TALLARIDA of San Rafael, associates of the Robert Maney agency of State Mutual of America, San Francisco, won awards for outstanding performance in 1972.

Nixon qualified for the company's Circle of Honor with total sales over $1 million last year. Tallarida qualified for the Honor Guard for outstanding sales.

MIDWAY DRIVE-IN Theater, located halfway between Novato and Petaluma on Highway 101, is now under new management.

Theatre Management Incorporated of San Francisco leased the theater to George Vogan and Raphael Fleck, both of Santa Rosa. Vogan, associated with Theatre Management Inc. since 1967, managed the Midway Drive-In when it first opened in December of 1967.

Fleck, who managed the Country Club Bowl in San Rafael at one time, is now a Santa Rosa police officer. He will be active in the daily operation of the theater.

Vogan said the Midway Drive-In will continue the present policy of playing first-run pictures and family nights of $2 per car on Mondays and Thursdays.

A Volks Record

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. (UPI) — In its biggest January since 1968, Volkswagen sold 43,261 new cars in that month this year, compared with 32,559 cars in January 1972, an increase of 32.8 per cent, the company reports. The January sales were 12.3 per cent higher than December 1972, when 38,539 new cars were sold.

Airbag Safety Devices Still Not Proven

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — Smashing cars into walls at 25 miles per hour is one way of trying to show that air bags work. Putting a man and woman in the front seat is even more dramatic.

It's doubtful many Americans will be in that same position before 1977. Unless the safety device can prove its effectiveness, it's doubtful the air bag will be used in American-built cars in this decade.

The government has retreated three times on the effective date for a passive restraint system in cars to replace the "active" system in which the driver must fasten a belt or perform some other task.

Air bags have been considered the best bet to meet the government's requirement that death or serious injury be prevented in a head-on crash at 30 miles per hour. But there's been much unfavorable publicity surrounding the air bag.

In two public tests, one in Phoenix and the other in Detroit, air bags failed and test dummies were either "killed" or severely injured.

Ford Motor Co., has equipped more than 500 cars for on-the-road "live" tests by Allstate Insurance Co., and Eaton Corp. employes. General Motors plans to equip a fleet of cars with the device and the General Services Administration also is testing the air bag.

Few motorists have seen the air bag. Installed on a car, it remains in a compartment until it's needed.

The air bag is a balloon device that is either stored in the steering wheel for the driver or in the instrument panel to protect the front seat passenger. In prototype safety cars designed by Ford and GM, air bags also have bee installed in the back of the front seat, leaving the rear seat compartment cramped.

Those extra-large glove boxes Ford has been advertising on its 1973 models are a result of the now-delayed requirement for air bags on 1973 cars. When Ford designed the cars two years ago, it had to plan for the possibility that air bags would be in the glove compartment.

That's where the air bag is in the cars being driven by 325 employes of Eaton Corp., a manufacturer of air bags. The company also installed bags in the steering columns of several cars.

Then, one day late last December, professional stunt driver Hal Needham, 41, and Lada Edmunds, a 23-year-old Hollywood actress and dancer, climbed into a 1972 Mercury owned by Eaton to prove the air bags worked.

In one test, they drove the car into a 90-ton concrete barrier at 24.5 m.p.h. The next day, they slammed another similarly equipped Mercury into the barrier at 24 m.p.h.

"I've been slapped harder than that," Miss Edmunds commented without elaborating.

In both cases, the bags inflated to cushion the couple in the front seat. The crash was equivalent to a 50 m.p.h. car-to-car impact.

"It felt pretty good. It's getting so it isn't even much of an experience anymore," Needham said after his second crash.

The first time I did it, I anticipated some pain and so forth, but this time, it was just a 'here we go again' feeling."

Their tests represented the fastest known barrier crashes of a passenger car using human occupants. Like dummies used in other tests, they pitched forward as the bags inflated and then rearward, their heads settling against head restraints.

Eaton officials admitted that the test to show the system works also was designed to counter much of the unfavorable publicity.

Much of that criticism has come from the American Automobile Association (AAA) which last year urged the government to drop the requirement for an air bag completely. A report issued by AAA claimed the air bag was being "irresponsibly and prematurely" sold to the public and hadn't been adequately tested.

AAA said the claim by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) that air bags in all cars could cut the 55,000-a-year traffic fatality toll in half was exaggerated. AAA pushed for continued use of lap belts and shoulder harnesses as a more effective deterrent to highway deaths and injuries.

When the Transportation Department in late 1971 extended the 1973-model deadline to 1976 models, it ordered the installation of a system for 1974-model cars in which the lap belts and shoulder harnesses will have to be buckled before the car can be started.

For motorists who now feel inconvenienced by the buzzer warning system for belts on all cars built after Jan. 1, 1972, the standard for 1974-model cars ought to prove a headache. But it should increase the use of the belts dramatically — the shoulder harness is now used by less than 4 per cent of all drivers and passengers.

Even the buzzer system remains suspect.

Dr. William Haddon Jr., president of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety and former chief of the NHTSA, said late last year that a survey showed the buzzer-light system "had no statistically significant effect on the rate of seat belt use by driver."

But a survey by the Fisher Body division of GM, which backs compulsory use of seat belts, indicated that twice as many drivers use lap belts in cars equipped with the warning device than do those who drive cars without the buzzer-light warning system.

The 1974-model requirement for a belt-interlock system also is going to stop the practice of bypassing the system. No longer will you be able to buckle your belt behind you or defy the system in some other way. Either the belt and harness are buckled, or the car won't go.

While the compulsory use of the air bag —or some other "passive" restraint —remains snagged in court rulings, some safety experts see other ways to meet government standards without using the controversial bag.

One is inflatable lap belts and shoulder harnesses, under development by Alied Chemical Corp. But using a semi--passive system, a lap belt with a built-in pillow that pops up under crash conditions, would need a revision of the safety standards.

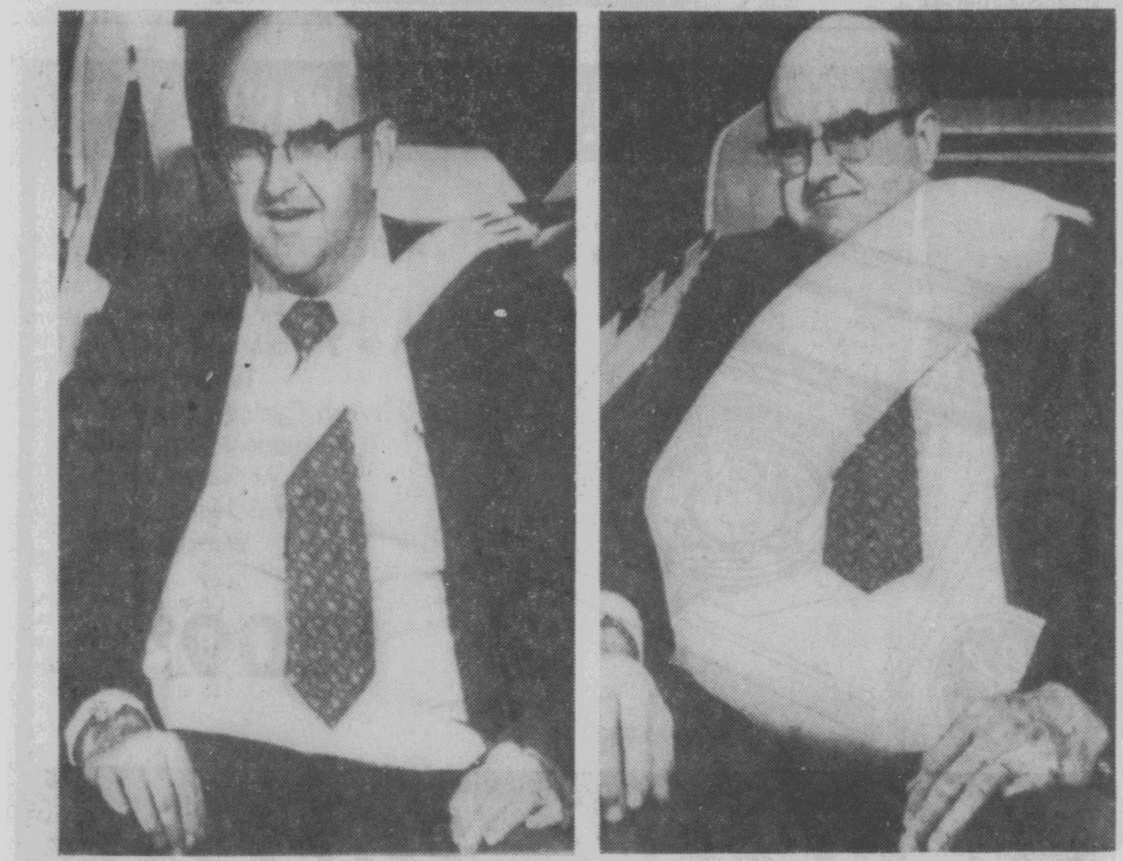
The three government delays, along with the court order halting the implementation of the passive restraint standard on Aug. 15, 1975, may force a revision in those standards. That court-ordered delay last December was the first significant legal setback suffered by the U.S. Government in the area of automotive safety.

The court agreed with Ford, Chrysler and American Motors that tests used to determine whether the restraint device is acceptable "will not produce consistent, reliable or repeatable test results." According to the court, there was not much sense in making the automakers meet test standards which are not reliable.

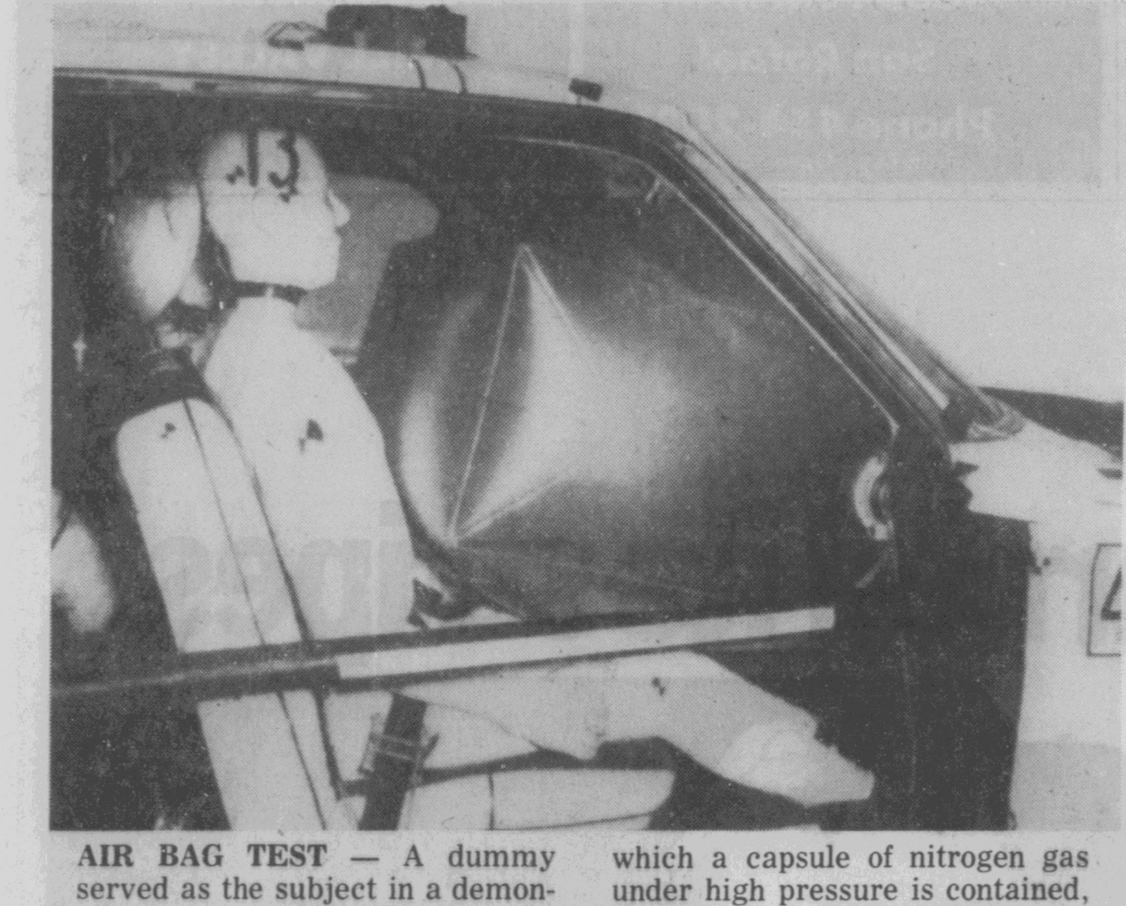
Where does that leave the air bag? No one is quite sure because the 58-page opinion says the August, 1975 date should be postponed for "a reasonable period of time" after better test procedures are issued.

Those new test procedures still haven't been issued. And lead time — the amount of time automakers need to bring a new design into production — remains a critical factor.

AAA termed the court's decision "a return to sanity and logic in making decisions about safety." The dissenting judge said the decision probably would delay development of a useful safety device "indefinitely."



INFLATABLE BELT — Bob Irwin tried out an inflatable seat belt, shown in normal position (left) and inflated position, during a recent safety demonstration. The American Automobile Association continues to push for the use of lap belts and shoulder harnesses, claiming they are more effective deterrents to death and injury than air bag systems.



AIR BAG TEST — A dummy served as the subject in a demonstration of an inflatable bag restraint system for protecting automobile occupants during a collision. The plastic bag, in which a capsule of nitrogen gas under high pressure is contained, is designed to balloon to full size in 40 thousandths of a second upon the signal of an impact sensor.

Clark Can Select Swearing-In Date

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Chief Justice Donald R. Wright says William P. Clark, Jr. a college dropout named to the State Supreme Court by Gov. Ronald Reagan, can be sworn in any time he wants.

Wright said Sunday confirmation papers should reach the secretary of state Tuesday and then Clark may select a date for the ceremony.

Clark's appointment was approved Saturday by the State Commission on Judicial Appointments. The vote was 2-1 with Wright casting the lone "no" vote.

Clark's critics complained he dropped out of college, never obtained a law degree and had to take the bar examination twice.

During the two-day commission hearing, Clark was backed by a parade of judges and other witnesses who testified in his behalf. They said he had proven himself during his time as a superior court and appeals court judge.

Wright said he planned to call Clark, 41, formerly of the superior court in San Luis Obispo and currently on the appeals court in Los Angeles, and "discuss his desires."

Apartments Rents Ceiling Is Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who says he has received hundreds of complaints from constituents, wants the Cost of Living Council to place a flat percentage ceiling on apartment rent increases.

"Until federal action is taken, many thousands of tenants face high rent increases and active tenant leaders face additional harassment and possible eviction," Case said in a weekend statement. He said he had received many complaints of "exhorbitant" rent increases.

Plea Made To Theft Of Auto

William Koviealoha Papke, 20, of San Francisco, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a felony car theft charge. Preliminary hearing was scheduled for tomorrow.

Sausalito police made a routine traffic stop on a car driven by Papke Feb. 23, and found that the man had neither an auto registration nor a driver's license.

Police said the car was stolen the day before from a San Francisco couple who gave Papke a ride, then left him alone in the vehicle while they shopped.

A rider with Papke, Richard Philip Licata, 20, of San Francisco, also was arrested on suspicion of auto theft, but was released the next day for lack of evidence.

Museum Of Rosicrucians Draws Thousands Yearly

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Each year 350,000 persons visit one of the world's finest Egyptian museums on a tour that includes walking through a full sized replica of a tomb of 2000 B.C.

The museum is housed in one of nine buildings making up the headquarters of the international fraternal organization called the Rosicrucians, located in this Santa Clara County city since 1927.

"We have as large a mummy collection as anywhere in the United States," says Arthur Piepenbrink, the group's secretary.

The fraternal order traces its origins back to the ancients of Egypt and all its impressive buildings are in Egyptian architecture.

"We feel Western civilization stems from Egypt and fashion our buildings after ancient Egypt in the same way many public buildings use Greek architecture," Piepenbrink said.

A stately row of ram sphynxes leads up to the golden doors and papyrus-type columns of the museum, built in 1966.

In one museum gallery is a full-sized reproduction of the mummy case of the famous King Tutankhamen, the only reproduction in the world of the costly original located in Cairo.

Standing before the mummy, one can appreciate the words of British archeologist Howard Carter when he discovered it in 1922.

"For a moment, time as a factor in human life has lost its meaning," he said. "The very air you breathe, unchanged through the centuries, you share with those who laid the mummy to its rest."

A few yards from Tutankhamen's mummy is the highlight of the tour: a full-sized reproduction of a noble's tomb of the 12th Dynasty.

The tomb, the only one of its kind in North America, is fashioned after those found near the Arab village of Beni Hasan.

The initial chamber of the tomb has massive columns, a false door, a recessed alcove and sculptured walls.

The guide says the false door was for the soul which was often depicted as a humanheaded bird.

The Egyptians believed that the soul flew about by day and returned to the body at night. It entered the outer coffin through another false door and identified the mummy by its facial mask.

No matter how impressive one feels the outer chamber is, nothing prepares him for the stunning inner chamber, reached via a descending corridor.

The brilliantly-colored walls show everyday scenes of Egyptian life: farmers herding cows to market, butchers slaughtering cattle, hunters going after prey.

The Egyptians were fearful of grave robbers and buried their bejewelled mummies in a shaft in the center of the chamber.

The outer coffin, however, is damaged — showing that the thieves were even more clever.

Radical Capitalists Would Give Everyone A Piece Of The Action

BERKELEY (UPI) — This country operates under "a system of hoggism" in which most people are "job serfs."

This is the thinking of a radical capitalist, Gary A. Reber, 29, and a new group of Berkeley social critics.

Reber is backed by an unlikely combination of people such as Mike Culbert, editor-in-chief of the conservative, Independent —Berkeley Daily Gazette, and Black Panther Bobby Seale, who is running for mayor of Oakland.

They are giving their theory a practical application in a current controversy over Oakland's $150 million urban renewal project.

The theory was developed by Louis O. Kelso, a San Francisco corporation lawyer, economist and author. Kelso has counseled 25 companies in plans to turn ownership over to their employes.

With Kelso in the background, Reber and Dr. John W. Dyckman, a University of California professor of planning, have founded a fledgling Institute for the Pursuit of Economic Justice.

For the moment the institute operates in a walkup art gallery, but Reber hopes it will blossom into a national movement.

"We are living under a system of hoggism, a system in which the nation's corporate base is owned for practical purposes by less than 5 per cent of the people," he says.

"We can't let a small group of people continue to concentrate more and more economic power. There is no law against hoggism, and the rich are getting richer."

As technology eliminates jobs, Reber foresees a concentration of power leading to a totalitarian state with more welfare "whatever you call it," and less economic growth.

"We are all job serfs, totally dependent on jobs for our livelihoods," he says. "We serve at the pleasure of magnanimous job donors."

Yet, an American dream is that each citizen can be independent by owning a part of the productive base. Settlers came from Europe in search of land, and the dream was expressed by the Homestaead Act.

The solution, for Reber, must be a shift of ownership of capital producing instruments from the few to the many.

"If we start now, in 50 years every family can be receiving at least 50 per cent of its income from dividends," he says.

Reber's institute thinks this "quiet revolution" can be achieved by a number of devices, working in concert.

The main device would be the financing of a new capital investment with employes' money obtained from bank loans. The employes would wind up with stock.

Under present law this method has an advantage for the company: It does not pay corporate taxes on earnings used to pay employes' loan. Another advantage might be better labor relations.

Amont other devices, the inheritances of the Rockefellers would be taxed down to modest sums. A national insurance agency would insure investments by ordinary citizens in viable corporations. Capital gains would be taxed progressively.

In the belief that a capital gain, rather than being something earned, is generated from the total growth of the society, he says, "A substantial share should be recaptured for reinvestment in the works of civilization."

Application of this kind of thinking to a $150 million project in Oakland has thrown the city into a growing controversy in the middle of the spring election campaign.

The project is a 15-block urban renewal center, probably the largest such retail and service complex of a city core area planned in the nation.

Reber calls it "welfare for the rich," arguing that the first phase of six blocks will wind up in the ownership of four individuals.

Project property is eing acquired by the city for $55 a square foot, cleared and improved, and sold to a developer for $10 a square foot. It is an example of use of taxpayers' money to enrich the few, Reber argues, and some mayoralty candidates like Bobby Seale agree.

They propose that the project be developed by a real estate investment trust owned by a broadly diffused group of the city's citizens.

But Mayor John H. Reading, running for re-election, dismisses this plan as "unadulterated hogwash." He says the Reber group would seek capital from those who can least afford it, and that the "high-risk factor" is overlooked.

Meanwhile, Reber girds for other political battles. Next year, he plans to run for the congressional seat being vacated by Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif.

Bond Supporters To Hold Canvass

A group of Fairfax citizens, urging passage of the town's $300,000 bond election April 17 for a public safety building, has decided to canvass the community door-to-door.

"We have to get a good nose count since the bond requires a two-thirds favorable vote," said Priscilla Gray, committee co-chairman.

The committee is currently seeking a secretary, she said, adding citizens interested in working for passage of the bond issue may contact her at 126 Ridge Road.

Impact Report Due Discussion

The Larkspur School District board which could be doubly penalized if both Larkspur and Corte Madera proceed with redevelopment projects, will discuss the environmental impact report on the Corte Madera Redevelopment Project at its 8 p.m. meeting Thursday in the district office.

The Larkspur district embraces territory in both cities, and under redevelopment, which would siphon off increases in property tax accruing from rising assessed valuation to redeem bonds, would lose income from both areas.

Trustees will consider a preliminary 1973-74 budget and set a special board meeting later in the month for a work session on the budget.
